Dear Reader,

White Genocide

Spotted on a roundabout in Southend on Sea, England.

Evermore people are coming to an understanding that it is the white Caucasian peoples who are being targeted for destruction by stealth, through such means as abortion, euthanasia of the elderly, toxic food additives, medical drugs, vaccines, chem-trails and weather modification to name just a few.

We are grateful to a reader in the Southend area for spotting the white genocide notice which was erected near a main road and would have been visible to many hundreds of motorists and passers by as it was several hours before the authorities became alerted and had it removed. The one in Southend was not the only notice, they have been popping up all over the UK as well as in continental Europe and America - if white genocide were to have been mentioned just a few years ago, one would be regarded as deranged and labelled a Nazi right-wing extremist.

Not only that more and more websites devoted to the plight of the white Caucasian are popping up everyday.

We are pleased to announce that just as we go to press a new Internet radio station known as Eurofolk Radio will be broadcasting 24 hrs a day of prerecorded messages, talks and other items of interest, including live broadcasts to the indigenous people of Europe and elsewhere on matters of identity and race. There will be a number of speakers and hosts including Pastor Eli James who is well known to our readers.

In the next issue of this magazine, a schedule of some of the live programs will be published, but in the meantime readers can tune into the test broadcasts on <http://www.eurofolkradio.tk/wp-content/uploads/rplayer/player.html>

We praise Yahweh for this opportunity. Our gratitude also to Paul for his hard work setting up this station.

NEW TESTAMENT FORNICAT ION

sort of teaching

about "fornication" today, it is true, but there are various interpretations. The matter of concern is, with whom is the fornication committed? It has been shown that Jesus referred the matter back to Balaam and the Old Testament, and we can do no better. The Apostles Peter and Jude did the same. The Apostle Paul is bold in his connecting of fornication in the New Testament with fornication in the Old Testament.

1 Cor 10:8 Neither let us commit fornication, as some of them committed, and fell in one day three and twenty thousand.

This is about the worship of Baal-Peor. This refers us once again to Balaam's advice, although Paul does not use Balaam's name. The judgement against Israel for "fornication" is given here as an example confirming God's judgement against this.

1 Cor 10:11 Now all these things happened unto them for ensamples: and they are written for our admonition.

Are we to accept admonishment and this example, or not? Paul shows that this is a common temptation for all the Israelite males. At this point it is necessary to remind readers of the foundation that was laid in, "That Unfortunate Word "Gentile" a chapter the writer's book entitled, "The Exclusiveness of Israel". The importance of 1 Corinthians 10:1 cannot be escaped where the fathers of these "Gentile" Israelites had been under Moses and went through the Red Sea. These so-called Gentiles being addressed could only be Israelites! Look at it; they were Israelites! What happened to Israel was that they were led into idolatry through sexual intercourse with foreign women. This is New Testament doctrine! The realisation of the importance of this aspect of "fornication" will add to the appreciation of a number of other Scriptures. Let us consider some of these.

In response to a question about whether it was appropriate for a man to divorce his wife, Jesus answered:

Matt 19:9 And I say unto you, who-so-ever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery, and whosoever marrieth her which is put away doth commit adultery.

Here "fornication" is not porneuo, it is porneia (dative). This passage then is not referring especially to marriage to foreign women. Jesus made it clear that all men could not receive this saying, save they to whom it is given [verse 11]. It is not given to everyone of every race; Jesus says so. Much has been written about what porneia [fornication] applies to and it is now usually generalised to include all illicit sexual intercourse. This generalisation is not valid since "adultery" = moichao, for instance, is a different word completely.

"Porneia" has also become inclusive of all pornography as this is known today. This is appropriate because pornography is lust of the mind and it is, in the words of Jesus, equivalent to the physical act. Hence pornography is simply the application of modern technology to implement Balaam's doctrine. Perhaps if we called it Moabiteography fewer Israelites would be seduced by it – but Ahab's counsellors would never accept such a move. It would be discrimination against Moabites and hence illegal!

Look further into this in the book of Jude, who mentions Cain.

Jude v 11 Woe unto them! for they have gone in the way of Cain, and ran greedily after the error of Balaam for reward.

Jude links the New Testament with Genesis. What did Cain do? He bedded pre-Adamites thinking it would be to his advantage (reward)! Jude links false teachers with Cain and with Balaam. They had the same error. There was an anticipated reward through the error of Balaam. This is nothing new; preachers still want to keep their jobs and be rewarded by the mixed multitude in their churches.

Paul shows that the pagan practise of mixed racial marriage is not to be indulged in by Israelite Christians.

2 Cor 6:17 Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate  $\frac{1}{4}$  and touch not the unclean thing ...

Paul is talking about people coming out from amongst people, not "things". The "them" are people. Can any deny this? ["Thing" in the KJV and other translations is not in the Greek text]. In this verse, "touch" = haptomai, is a word used of carnal intercourse with a woman, like it or not [confirm this in 1 Cor 7:1-3]. The "them" in this verse are "unclean" people that are not to be "touched". "Unclean" = akathartou shows that there is a difference between 'clean' and 'unclean' people, with the clean not to 'touch' the unclean (people). The "yoke" in 2 Cor 6:14 is with "heterozugeo" which means a different sort [Vine], or one who is not an equal [Thayer]. This again presents the racial separation of Israel from other nations. God also made clean and unclean animals and fish; each were born that way, so it is a matter of race rather than a matter of belief. Throughout the entire Bible, we have a consistent theme; we find God always keeping a portion of His Order pure, separate and undefiled.

1 Cor. 6: 9-10 Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with mankind, nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God.

No "fornicator" will inherit the Kingdom of God. Here the word is pornos, a word that is popularly taken to be about sodomy, but this must be questioned. Note that these verses link fornicators, idolaters and adulterers together with thieves, covetous people, drunkards, revilers and extortioners, as having the same destiny. Thus those who claim that idolatry alone is the issue, rather than including all the other things, are wrong.

There are frequent biblical references to show that God's judgement is upon those of Israel who transgress by having this common carnal intercourse with other races and going after "strange flesh". This is not about sodomy as is often claimed, because "strange" = "hetros" which Strong gives as "one who is NOT of the same nature". Homosexuals are of the same nature. This shows up also throughout the New Testament. Jesus says in Revelation He holds it against the churches which hold the Doctrine of Balaam-[Rev 2:14]. From the 60 mentions of "Balaam", it is possible to determine the nature of this doctrine. Because almost all denominations hold the doctrine of Balaam without knowing it, we can understand just why it is never properly taught. Probably few "preachers" know what this doctrine is, but all should if Jesus holds it against them! 2 Peter 2:15 indicates that people with this doctrine have "gone astray"; they are off the track! Jude v11 calls holding Balaam's doctrine an "error".

New Testament "fornication" has not changed from what Old Testament fornication was, even if most like to try to say that porneuo has no racial connection today. In 1 Corinthians 10:8 we are told that everything that is mentioned in this passage are for examples to us. When we read what one example is, we find, "neither let us commit fornication as some of them committed, and fell in one day three and twenty thousand". We can look back to the Old Testament and find that what caused three and twenty thousand to die started with Israelites having sexual relationships with non-Israelites [Numbers 25:1]. Moses previously had demanded that all Israelites who did this should be slain because of the idolatry that would follow. King Solomon got caught this way and it led to idolatry on his part. We read of plagues in Israel because of this-[Numbers 25:6-8]. We have seen how these things are written for our admonition (verse 11), but because of the popular, but wrong, doctrine to the contrary, this necessity for admonition is not accepted today. Jezebel [the foreign wife of Ahab] is permitted in the churches today even if Jesus says He holds this also against the churches [Rev 2:20]. What this means is that the New Testament doctrine about racial intermarriage is the same as that in the Old Testament.

When we look further at "fornication" as starting with sexual activity, we find the Jewish leaders raised the matter of fornication with Jesus, saying:

John 8:41 - We be not born (gennaō) of fornication (porneia); we have one father, even God.

Jesus laid it on the line to them replying that they were not Abraham's children through Isaac, although they were Abraham's seed. These Edomites (above) knew that Israelites were the children of God, and hence tried to claim descent from Abraham as entitlement to be included with Israel as children of God. They also knew that the pursuit of other gods was classed as fornication and it is by their actions that they show from which side of the line they came. Jesus said to them, "I know that you are Abraham's seed, but you seek to kill me ... because my word has no place in you". They could not "hear" what Jesus was saying. Then Jesus goes on to speak about observing deeds done as a means of determining who are begotten of God and who are not. Jesus said to them, "If God were your Father, you would love me". Their actions showed they did not love Jesus. Jesus told them, "The lusts of your father you will do". This indicates the 100% orientation of the minds of the Edomite Pharisees against Jesus, even if they said, "we have one Father, even God", in the same way church people do today. Although they were Abraham's seed, their seed had "gone astray" when Esau polluted the line by marriage outside of his race. Esau thus despised his birthright. This is what led to his idolatry. Esau tried to find repentance with tears, but could not find it. This is true of Esau's mixed race descendants for all generations [Mal 1:3-5]. The whole subject of divorce on grounds of "except for fornication" would be hammered home if the churches were prepared to give a balanced account of the Bible's teachings.

Nothing has changed in the New Testament from that in the Old Testament in regard to "fornication", a word that has differing forms. We will not go into parts of speech here, but note this for those who can follow it through themselves:

Acts 15:29 That ye abstain ... from fornication ... (Genitive)

1 Cor 6:13 The body is not for fornication ... (Dative)

1 Cor 6:18 Flee fornication ... (Accusative)

Eph 5:3 But fornication ... let it not be once be named among you ... (Nominative)

Col 3:5 Mortify therefore ... fornication ... (Nominative)

1 Thes 4:3 For this is the will of God, even your sanctification, that ye should abstain from fornication. (Genitive)

The "not be once named among you" is absolutely strict. The essence and consequence of "fornication" is corruption of the truth; a leaven that has to be purged. In the book of Revelation, there is much reference to fornication in connection with Babylon and the Harlot of Rome. Rome is described as The Great Whore. This is the whore above all whores [Rev 19:2] "which corrupts the earth with her fornication".

Ask these questions about the Roman Catholic Church: Who is the great advocate of racial intermarriage? Who always has been?

Who does not believe that God set boundaries for the races [Deut 32:8 and Acts 17:26] and seeks for a world without national borders?

Who advocates a one world church of all races?

Whom can we blame for the problems relating to multiculturalism, particularly in the Western world?

Whose religion blends in with any culture?

Who originated much of what is taught today in Protestant churches on the subject of the Universal Church from all races?

Ask similar questions from those who believe that the Talmud is their heartbeat. Are they not promoting so-called Human Rights and are they not those who call racial separation "racial hatred"?

Corruption in doctrine has led to the many denominations that ignore what "fornication" really is. Jesus said, "Never-the-less, when the Son of Man comes, shall he find THE faith (belief) on the earth"- [Luke 17:8]? The doctrine of Balaam is accepted almost universally and it is one of the objectives of the United Nations. World Government is working to promote the fusion of all races by inter-racial marriage. The object is the corruption of the Anglo-Saxon / Israel bloodline through inter-racial marriage.

Evangelist Billy Graham is reported in the Charlotte Observer as saying, "I don't see anything wrong with inter-racial marriage – there is nothing in the Bible to forbid it. It all comes down to a practical matter in today's culture and, integration is the only solution. We've got to be totally integrated - in our homes, in our worship services, even in marriage". The Apostle Peter would call Billy Graham a heretic, and we must do the same.

Jezebel is alive and well!

Rev 2:20 Notwithstanding, I have a few things against thee, because thou sufferest that woman Jezebel, which calleth herself a prophetess, to teach and to seduce my servants to commit fornication ...

What is the effect of Jezebel's teaching? It is "to teach and seduce my servants to commit fornication and to eat things sacrificed to idols". Here we see the two factors linked together – sex and idolatry! Who does Jezebel seduce? It is "my servants", Jesus says. It is God's servant race that is seduced. The seduction is to commit fornication with other races, as Balaam advised Balak. Note well, Jezebel herself was not an Israelite by race. She wrought havoc within the nation. But, Jezebel is teaching within the assemblies! Can we afford to continue to suffer her teachings any longer?

The Sacred Names: Yahweh and Yahshua (3)

by

Pastor Eli James

If it is within us, then we have the power to manifest it in the physical world. This is our challenge.

THE Old Testament, in the book of Jeremiah, puts it rhetorically: "Am I a God at hand, saith Yahweh, and not a God afar off? Can any hide himself in secret places that I shall not see him? saith Yahweh. Do not I fill heaven and earth? saith Yahweh. (Chapter 23: 23 & 24.)

Indeed, Yahweh exists within our very souls, yet we perceive Him not – or better, we choose to ignore Him in favour of our earthly desires. But just as His Spirit indwells our being, His omnipresence indwells the universe itself. He is the author of all, within and without. Since He is everywhere and every time, there is nothing that can be hidden from Him.

It is ironic that so many sincere Christians are searching for something OUT THERE (such as dynamic preaching) that instead needs to be brought into existence from IN HERE! Studies and questionnaires have shown that most people go to church in order to get something from the church experience. Of course, True Christianity is the opposite of this spirit of Churchianity. That's why Jesus told us that It is better to give than to receive. Charity helps us to overcome our selfishness and narrow-mindedness because it allows us to share in Yahweh's Universal Mind. All the self-help programs in the world cannot compare to the personal power which is expressed by the simple phrase, I AM. This is an affirmation of Life, an affirmation of Power, and an affirmation of fearlessness in the face of overwhelming odds. Far too many Christians go to church hoping to get something out of the church experience but they have nothing to give! The ideals of service, charity, and self-sacrifice for the benefit of one's fellow citizens are far from their minds. Rather, they look to Churchianity for validation of their self-centred lifestyles...and most of their preachers are happy to oblige with their gospel of personal gratification! -- Oh, sorry, the gospel of personal salvation.

In Matthew 22:37-40, Yahshua summarizes His instructions to those who would follow Him: Thou shalt love the LORD thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets.

But how many of these Churchians practice these two Commandments? They hear lukewarm preaching, scoff down their pancake breakfast, and go home to their soap operas and secular, personal enrichment routines. Kingdom-building is the furthest thing from their minds, and, not surprisingly, some of them are pretty lousy neighbours!

This situation reminds me of another forgotten appellation for Yahweh, namely, PROVIDENCE. This attribute recognizes Yahweh as our PROVIDER: He who provides us with everything we need, not to mention all that we are, including our very consciousness and self-awareness. All of these basic necessities of life and experience are provided by the Most High God, Yahweh; yet, so often we ignore Him or merely pay Him lip service! When we act out of selfless charity, we partake of His nature, which is constantly giving of Himself to all of His creation. When we give of ourselves we invite the divine essence to act through us and empower us. We grow in stature because we imitate Him. Contrast this philosophy with that of the so-called Gospel of Personal Salvation, which, in practice, is really the Gospel of Personal Gratification because it is not based on His Law. Under this "dispensation," Christians do little more than beg for personal blessings so as to be saved. Can you say looking for love in all the wrong places? Instead of looking for it and asking for it, we should be giving it and doing it! Perhaps this concept is too simple to understand?

The world at large is stuck in a pitiful Woe is me attitude. They say to themselves, over and over, I am poor, I am sick, I am helpless. It's no wonder they are sick, poor and helpless! We are looking to be loved BY others instead of bringing the Kingdom into being through our own love! Perhaps, at this point, the problem is best stated in the form of a question: If the Kingdom of Heaven is within you, then what is preventing you from bringing it forth? With so little faith in the personal presence of Yahweh, even sincere Christians are no better than hedonistic atheists! Try affirming to yourself: I AM a constant blessing to all those around me. See if this prayer produces a welcome attitude change. Or, try this one: "I AM a child of Yahweh and a friend of Yahshua." The Sacred Name is our direct connection to Him. The Sacred Name is the means by which God enables us to share in His power, BUT ONLY AS LONG AS WE OBEY HIS LAW. We have to be of ONE MIND with the Father, otherwise we contradict His Will and His natural order of the Universe.

Holy Father, keep through thine own name those whom thou hast given me, that they may be one, as we are one. John 17:11. (Put yourself in the place of Jesus Christ, who is the reciter of this prayer, and see what a powerful prayer this is!)

Jesus also said “No one comes to the Father but through me.” (John 14:6.) Yahshua (Yahweh Saves) came in the flesh to redeem us for our past sins. No greater act of unselfish Love has ever been manifest under heaven. The lesson is that we must become for our brethren what we expect them to be for us, by giving of ourselves. This is a complete reversal of worldly logic. Worldly logic demands that we, as individuals, compete with each other for slices of a limited pie. Divine logic tells us that through brotherly love we create unparalleled abundance! – “on earth, as it is in heaven.” History has proven that there is no higher civilization than Christian civilization. When we obey His Law and are conversant with Him, we prosper nationally and individually.

There is no oneness outside of Yahweh’s Law. Combining obedience to Yahweh’s Law with this constant awareness of His presence is what Brother Lawrence called The Practice of the Presence of God. This is the True Faith! Modern Christians have such a distorted idea of faith that they substitute their own ideas for faith. Today, it has become such a diluted idea that it means little more than I believe in Jesus, therefore I’m saved. Talk about ignorance combined with self-flattery and self-deception! They neither obey His Law nor are they aware of His presence! It is a faith without practice! Actually, from these faithless, His Spirit has willingly departed!

“Thou believest that there is one God; thou doest well: the devils also believe, and tremble. But wilt thou know, O vain man, that faith without works is dead!” -- James 2:19,20.

Vanity indeed! We are witness to a form of Christianity which touts that salvation comes by faith only – a “faith” that works no charity! We pat ourselves on the back because we “believe in Jesus” and do absolutely nothing to follow His example... and some of us even mock His commandments.

Ernest L. Martin, in his booklet entitled, The Divine Titles, has this to say:

It is important to recognize the Name by which the Father of the universe is denominated. There is really nothing mysterious about His identity from the point of view of Scripture because his Name is used about 7000 times in the Old Testament alone. It is not God or Lord alone (elohim, theos or kyrios which can refer to many lesser and even evil beings), but His actual Name is revealed in Scripture by four Hebrew letters which transliterates into English as YHWH, whom theologians today recognize as Yahweh. He is the Supreme Elohim over all other elohim (gods), theoi (gods) or kyrioi (lords). This name is of far more esteem than Christ (Anointed One) because even human beings who were anointed priests in the Old Testament were called Messiahs or Christs (e.g. Num. 35:25). But in the Scripture there is only one Yahweh who is the Supreme God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ. He is also the head over all things and is the one and only true Deity from whom all things exist and consist. p. 9.

On page 13: The Name of the Father was so important to the apostle Paul (and the other apostles) because within its definition is found all the dimensions of authority and influence, whether these attributes are human or spiritual, visible or invisible (Col. 1:16). That is why Paul could say in Ephesians 3:14-19: For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father, of whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named... that ye being grounded in love, may be able to comprehend with all the saints what is the breadth, and length, and depth and height... which passeth knowledge. In other words, the Father’s love in breadth is boundless, in length endless, in depth fathomless, in height measureless. These unlimited dimensional expressions that Paul was using... represent the exact definition of the name Yahweh when one considers all its ramifications.

Or, as I interpret these things: Wisdom is transmitted to us when we requite His Love back to Him. Once we Israelites recognize the spark of Divinity within each other and LOVE ONE ANOTHER accordingly – and this necessarily means in terms of actions, not just words and beliefs -- then and only then will the Kingdom manifest itself in our midst. And full comprehension of the meaning of His Name infuses us with the requisite awe and gratitude that our lowly human status require if we are to appreciate His grandeur and His Love. That is why we must approach Him in all humility, for we are mere specks on a planet, or, as the song by Kansas says, dust in the wind. For me, using the I AM is a constant reminder to me of the actual Presence of God in my being: that I AM made of His Substance and that I live in Him and breathe in Him. When we forget this intimate connection with Him, we get lost in our own self-importance and we sink into materialism.

What's in a name, you ask?

Jesus' or Yahshua'?

One of the most important treatises on the subject of the Sacred Names is a booklet entitled The Mistaken J. It is the story of how the letter J entered into the English language. The opening paragraphs say this:

Often heard in the churches of our land is the refrain sung about the Saviour, There's something about that name... In our English-speaking world we have been taught that the saving name of the Redeemer of Israel is Jesus. So accepted is this name that few stop to consider its authenticity.

But the truth is, there is indeed something about that Name. That something' is the inescapable fact that the Saviour's name is not Jesus, and never was. What's more, the Name of the heavenly Father is not Jehovah, a designation that is only five centuries old.

Churchianity has so thoroughly immersed the world in the error of this tradition for the past 500 years that few even think to research the matter or to consider the consequences of calling on the wrong name. As a result, most continue believing that the Hebrew Savior is called by a Latinized Greek name that could not possibly have existed at the time He walked the earth. It's a name that would have been completely foreign to Him.

The story of the Mistaken J goes on to explain how the letter J was incorporated into the English language around 1500 AD. Before then, English employed the same sound for J as other languages do, namely, the y sound. Up until then, even the English people referred to Jesus as Iesus (pronounced Yay-Soos). If you look at the earliest copies of the King James Bible, you will see His name spelled I-e-s-u-s. (The complete text of "The Mistaken J" can be accessed on The Assemblies of Yahweh Website.

But even Iesus is, as the authors point out, a Latinized version of a Greek transliteration of a Hebrew name. The name, Jesus, therefore, is thrice removed from the original, which is Yahshua.

Now, the name Yahshua has a very specific meaning. It means YAHWEH SAVES. Does the word Jesus' mean that to you? If not, then I suggest getting familiar with His REAL NAME, Yahshua, because His real name is intimately tied to the Father, Yahweh, in His aspect as THE MESSIAH, the saving presence of God.

There is indeed something about the name Jesus. But for many people who call themselves Christians, it is just an emotional experience: a giddy high that may last a few years. But when the importance of obedience to Yah's Law and the full impact of Yahshua's supreme sacrifice are realized, that giddy high is seen to be an illusion. Christianity, first and foremost, is RESPONSIBILITY to one's brethren. Do all of the Churchians sitting in the twenty-thousand seat auditoriums, listening to the "Gospel of Self-Help, Self-Aggrandizement and Personal Gratification" through milquetoast preachers, come away with a sense of greater responsibility to love and respect their brethren? True Christianity is the Gospel of TOUGH LOVE. We must demand that we love each other by OBEYING YAHWEH'S LAW. We cannot hold each other to any lower standard. Anything short of this is mediocre religion...and backsliding towards another fall.

It has been objected that Yahshua Himself never used the name of Yahweh. This is not exactly true. There are a few instances in which He did. We have to remember that when the Father divorced us, He temporarily departed from us; and we henceforth forgot His Name. We also have to bear in mind that the Masorettes and other translators have done their level best to obscure the Sacred Names. So, before I quote the relevant New Testament passages, I would like to quote from the Introduction of Joseph Rotherham's translation of the Bible. Under the heading of The Name Suppressed, he tells us:

...the Tetragrammaton is nearly hidden in our public English versions. Not quite. To those who can note the difference between LORD and Lord and between GOD and God, and can remember that the former (printed with SMALL CAPITALS) do while the latter do not stand for The Name to such [people] an intimation of the difference is conveyed. But although the READER who looks carefully at his book can see the distinction, yet the mere HEARER remains completely in the dark respecting it, inasmuch as there is no difference whatever in sound between LORD and Lord or GOD and God. It hence follows that in nearly all the occurrences of The Name (some 7,000 throughout the Old Testament) the especial Name of God is absolutely withheld from all who simply hear the bible read. Nearly all, for there are about half a dozen instances in the A.V., and a few more in the R.V., in which this concealment does not take place. In other words there are these very few places in which the Tetragrammaton appears as Jehovah; and although it may be asked, What are they among so many? still their presence has an argumentative value. If it was wrong to unveil the Tetragrammaton at all, then why do it in these instances? If, on the other hand, it was right to let it be seen in these cases, then why not in all? With the exceptions explained, however, it remains true to say, that in our public versions the one especial Name of God is suppressed, wholly concealed from the listening ear, almost as completely hidden from the hastening or uncritical eye.

So, my answer to the question Why is the Tetragrammaton not found in the New Testament? is this: The question is naive. It is asked by someone who is unaware of the historical tampering that has occurred in the Scriptures with the deliberate intent to obscure the Sacred Names, Yahweh and Yahshua. Those who have deleted them from the Old Testament would surely work feverishly to delete them from the New Testament; and they have succeeded. Nevertheless, let us look at a couple of instances in which the I AM occurs in the New Testament:

In the eighth Chapter of John, the Jews accuse Jesus of having a devil after He tells them that they are not of God.

Now we know thou hast a devil. Abraham is dead, and the prophets; and thou sayest, If a man keep my saying, he shall never taste of death. Art thou greater than our father Abraham, which is dead? [These comments prove that the Pharisees do not believe in Eternal Life.] And the prophets are dead: whom makest thou thyself? Jesus answered, If I honour myself, my honour is nothing: it is my Father that honoureth me; of whom ye say, that he is your god; Yet ye have not known Him; but I know Him: and if I should say I know Him not, I shall be a liar like unto you: but I know Him and keep His saying. Your father Abraham rejoiced to see my day: and he saw it, and was glad. Then said the Jews to Him, Thou art not yet fifty years old, and hast thou seen Abraham? [These Jews here display an utter lack of spiritual consciousness, implying that the only way He could possibly have known Abraham is to have been in the flesh for hundreds of years!] Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Before Abraham was, I AM. John 8:52-58.

Here, with the expression, I AM, Yahshua is declaring His eternity. Since He is one with the Father, He is life everlasting. That quality is, of course, part of the meaning of I AM THAT I AM. I AM the eternally self-creating Being. Or, as Jesus puts it in the book of Revelation: I AM Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end.

At Matthew, Chapter 22, Yahshua asks, Have you not read that...

I AM [capitalization in the text] the god of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? God is not the god of the dead, but of the living. Verse 32.

Again, Yahshua is quite literally expressing His Oneness with the Father, Yahweh, and His own eternity. This eternal life, by the way, is available to all of us who keep His sayings. Most others don't take His sayings very seriously.

Of the numerous instances in which the word Lord' is used in the New Testament, you will note that many of them are written in ALL CAPS: LORD. Examples are Matt. 3:4; 3:10 and 23:39. This is the Tetragrammaton staring you right in the face, if you have eyes to see, but well disguised, as Joseph Rotherham so eloquently expressed above. Because of the failure of both the House of Judah and the House of Israel to obey Yah's Law, the use of His Name gradually fell into disuse because of their reprobate status. This means that they were ashamed to use the Sacred Name because they had used it so often in vain, not that the Sacred Name was too holy to be pronounced!

Not for your sakes do I this, saith Yahweh God, be it known unto you; be ashamed and confounded for your own ways, O house of Israel. Ezek. 36:32.

If thou wilt not hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God, to observe to do all His commandments and His statutes which I command thee this day, that all these curses shall come upon thee and overtake thee. Deut. 28:15. Indeed, our world is coming apart at the seams. Paris, its suburbs, and other towns in France and Europe are burning as I write (November 6, 2005) because we have refused to obey His Commandment not to mix our seed with other races! Now, we are reaping the result. Tsunamis, hurricanes, earthquakes, and plagues are all around us and we do not see the connection between these judgments and our rebellion against His Law.

We have to remember that in biblical times, people of all races had a much stronger racial and tribal awareness and loyalty. Even as late as the 1950's, race-mixing was still taboo even here in America. The Judahites of the land of Judah were keenly aware of the racial differences between themselves and the non-Israelite Edomites who had taken over their nation when the Roman Empire placed the Idumean Jew, Herod, over the nation of Judea and the House of Judah. Since these Judahites of the House of Judah knew that they were surrounded by Edomite Jews of either half-breed (like many of the Pharisees) or non-Judahite stock (such as Herod and his allies), they were careful not to use the Sacred Name in front of these heathen.

Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine. Lest they trample them under their feet, and turn again and rend you." (Matt. 7:6.)

This is also why Yahshua spoke in parables, so that the Jews would not be able to understand what He was saying to True Israel. The Jews, as allies of the Romans against the Judahites, were seeking every opportunity to condemn Jesus for His speech. The language of the day was Aramaic; and Aramaic was a dialect of Hebrew. So, when Jesus said "Lord, Lord," He wasn't saying "Baal, Baal." You can bet He was saying "Yahweh, Yahweh."

Understand that the Jews have been working for the last 2,000 years to keep us from reuniting with our Father, Yahweh. They have also been working feverishly to separate us from Jesus Christ through their diabolical religion called "Judeo-Christianity," which is nothing more than an attempt to substitute Judaism for Christianity. They have reinstated this Pharisaic tyranny today, for you cannot criticize their breed or their religion, or their hoaxacaust, without being threatened with imprisonment. When it comes to "freedom of speech," the Jews are consummate hypocrites. They can criticize and malign Christians and Germans with impunity, but no one can criticize them, "for fear of the Jews." During Christmastime, you can say "Happy Holidays," but it is becoming more and more "incorrect" to say "Merry Christmas"!

There is only one solution to this crisis: White Christendom must return to their God, Yahweh.

Conclusion

In spite of all the evidence presented here, I do not demand that you all start chanting Yahshua, Yahshua, Yahshua instead of JAYSUS, JAYSUS, JAYSUS, as some of the priests of Preachianity like to pronounce it. This is an extremely personal decision. It requires a great amount of introspection and humility to overcome one's upbringing and make a fundamental change in one's thinking.

If, for you, the name Jesus conveys the idea Yahweh is Salvation, then who am I to say that you should make such a change? The fact is that I routinely still use the name Jesus affectionately. But at the same time I understand the value and meaning of the name Yahshua. Given the multitude of meanings and the nuances of God's personality, only the name Yahweh is meaningful to me where the Father is concerned. I only use the word God' when I am talking about the office that He holds. In my prayers to Him and in my communications with Identity believers, only Yahweh' means anything to me. When I communicate with those who are not familiar with Yahweh' and Yahshua,' I do not press the issue. I humble myself and speak their language so that I can be understood by them.

As I have tried to show, our use of Lord' and Jesus' are conventions that require deeper scrutiny. We should not reject the original Hebrew names merely because we have been brought up in a different tradition. The fact is that the Hebrew language is part of our heritage. That does not mean that we all have to start learning Hebrew again. It does mean that we should be aware of the deeper significance of certain Hebrew words which have been inadequately translated into English.

We have fallen victim to the false prophets of Judaism and Judeo-Christianity. Jeremiah 23:25-27 gives us this meaningful prophecy:

"I have heard what the prophets said, that prophesy lies in my name, saying, I have dreamed, I have dreamed. How long shall this be in the heart of the prophets that prophesy lies? Yea, they are the prophets of the deceit of their own heart: Which think to cause my people to forget my name by their dreams which they tell every man to his neighbour, as their fathers have forgotten my name for Baal." -- just as the Masorettes did by substituting 'Yahweh' with 'Lord' (Baal).

As reported above, the Book of Revelation tells us this about those servants who are given admission to the Wedding Feast of the Lamb and to the New Jerusalem:

And they shall see His face; and His Name shall be in their foreheads. (Rev. 22:4.)

There is also this remarkable prophecy contained the Book of Zechariah (13:6):

They shall call upon my name, and I will hear them. I will say it is my people, and they shall say Yahweh is my God.

The Christian Identity Movement is fulfilling this prophecy at this very moment.

We have been brainwashed and conditioned by Jews and Judeo-Christians to reject the Sacred Name. This is all the more reason to accept it. Do not be ashamed to use it.

Harold Stough Notes City of London's Lord Mayor as Monarch (Cutting From: the Illustrated London News for 9 November 1844)

ON the 8th of November, the multitudinous members and representatives of these venerable fraternities, each one arrayed in the garments of his tribe, assemble at a "court of hustings" to receive from the old Lord Mayor a resignation of his office, and to tender the oaths to the new one, on his acceptance of the vacant chair. The scene presents us with a model of the entire frame work of the British empire, as represented by Sovereign, Lords, Commons, and all classes of people. The wards of London send their twenty-six Aldermen and 240 Common Councilmen to gaze on the transmigration of the Lord Major. The state that surrounds the Corporation is a type of the state that surrounds the Monarchy. In the annual election of the "King of the City," we have a memorial of the time when the king of the land was elective. In the meeting of the Corporation within Guild hall, we see a shadow — and a magnificent shadow — of the time when the entire commonalty [sic] met and acted together; yes, we have a memorial of the time when the Lords occupied the upper end of the chamber of Parliament, and the Commons humbly stood below. The Aldermen are types of the Barons; the Common Council of the Commons; while in the livery-men of the companies, who have the privilege. Above their brother freemen, of electing the civic functionaries, we have a type of the constituencies of Britain. We may see, too, a miniature of the judges of the land, in the attendant Recorder and Common Sergeant; while the Sheriffs, Under-Sheriffs, Town Clerk, Remembrancer, Pleaders, Secondaries, Attornies, Auditors, Wardens Clerks, Officers of the Lord Mayor's Household, City Marshals, and the host of minor functionaries, who pour in among the crowd, give the ceremony an imposing air of grandeur.

The Right Hon. the Lord Mayor's Banquet

The last hour of the Lord Mayor's reign approaches; but the Lord Mayor never dies — his spirit is immortal. Two chairs — a small and a large one — are therefore placed (see our engraving), that, in the presence of the representatives of the eighty-one existing guilds of London, the transformation may be seen, and the Corporation be proved to live for ever. But, before this important act takes place, a more important one is transacted — the Lord Mayor elect is sworn. This is a ceremony of high religious import. Low, on his knees, before a table covered with the City Charters, and other formal documents, his hands placed on the Gospels, he is devoutly pledged to "keep faith and a good conscience" in the maintenance of his state and dignity.

Ceremony of Inducting the New Lord Mayor into His Office. 1844

This done, the departing Mayor exchanges seats with him; and, lo! the power of the Lord Mayor has passed from one body to another! Sword-bearer, Mace-bearer, Purse-bearer, advance with threefold obeisance, and lay their emblems of office on the table. They retire, and stand among the crowd, sunk to the level of common humanity. But the new Lord Mayor speak; it is the voice of law — it is the command of authority. Sword-bearer, Mace-bearer, Purse-bearer, advance once more; they resume their insignia of office, and start up official beings. Such is the initial act of the new Lord Mayor; "now is Mortimer lord of the city." The Ex-Lord Mayor, seated on a low chair, denuded of the collar of S, the jewels, and all the outward and visible signs of supreme power, then receives the congratulations of the company, and, after him, the new Lord Mayor, in like manner, the same.

II. — The Show — Men in Armour

The show, as arranged by the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs' Committee, is a poor one. A different result might have been expected, as the Lord Mayor belongs to the wealthy Fishmongers, and is reputed to have made a great deal of money by his civic connections. Be that as it may, the men in armour are always interesting, and they are to ride in the show. We have, therefore, by permission of the Board of Ordnance, had a series of careful sketches made of the steel suits, shields, swords, &c., which are kept in the Tower; and these we have grouped together in the way in which they are exhibited to the public in the procession. For the Man in Brass we are indebted to Mr. Marriott, of Fleet Street, in whose custody as the head and representative of the Braziers of London, he is ordinarily kept.

Discernment

John Trotter - Winmalee Australia

FOLLOWING are some verses that reflect the theme of this article: 1 Kings 3:1-14 ; Jeremiah 4:22; Amos 5:14-15; Malachi 3:16-18; I Corinthians 2:14-16 , 12:10; 2 Timothy 3:15-17; Hebrews 4:12, 5:13-14.

One of my dictionaries defines the word "discern" as, "to perceive, detect, discriminate, to perceive differences, make distinctions, from Latin "discernere" that is: to separate by sifting". The above definition is very interesting as the opposite is happening today. We are urged to come together, be more ecumenical, to unify, we are not to discriminate, we are expected to see the world as one and the authorities through the education system are teaching the children to see ourselves as part of the human race and that there are no great differences. The definition of discernment is being discouraged and yet we are being told that by being free with our thoughts we can steer our own destiny. It is no wonder that the youth of today are turning to the gods of man's imagination.

The socialist/humanist does not accept the words of Jeremiah 17:9 which says: "The heart is deceitful, above all things and desperately wicked: who can know it?" The result of the evil heart is expressed in Genesis 6:5 which says: "And God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only, evil continually". The Septuagint says: "everyone in his heart was intently brooding over evil continually".

Despite the humanist viewpoint it is true that much generosity and kindness is done for mankind, even by many who are not followers of Christ. It is my view that the majority of goodness in the world has got to be expressed within the context of taking the fruit from the “tree of knowledge of GOOD AND EVIL”. This was the tree that Adam and Eve were not to eat from (Genesis 3:2-3) but there was the tree of Life from which they could partake.

Understanding the meaning of these 2 trees would help us to discern the difference between good and evil. Satan has duplicated God’s plan so well that good and evil can appear the same. He has his ministers of righteousness who can appear as angels of light (2 Corinthians 11:13-15). Strong meat is required to discern between good and evil (Hebrews 5:14).

For those in their 60’s or more can see that a deterioration in society has resulted in a world where the sowing of our seed is leaving bad fruit. In so many areas of daily life we can see changes; once you could leave your back door open and not be concerned and generally there was respect for those in authority. Children were raised in families where the boundaries were set by responsible parents. The courts today are full of cases where people have neither respect for themselves or for others. Nevertheless our leaders are telling us that the future is looking good and that any concern for the future is only a false perception that has no grounds. There is nothing new under the sun as shown in 2 Timothy 3:1-7. To understand why change has occurred you need discernment.

Because the tendency is to fuse ideas and beliefs we have confused the masses. It is interesting that the word Babylon means confusion but one day it will fall (Revelation 14:8 ). This confusion is going to get worse as the nations of the world try to achieve the impossible, namely order out of planned chaos. The differences between right and wrong has become clouded (Isaiah 5:20 - 21). There are many reasons given for the many issues that are confronting society, with the expectation that governments will fix the problems. We are clutching at straws when we blame socio-economic surroundings, body genes, race, cultural upbringing, religious beliefs and lack of education. Even though the above might have some impact on how we turn out we are missing one vital explanation and that is the definition of sin which is the “transgression of the law” (1 John 3:4). Jeremiah 4:22 says “For my people is foolish, they have not known me; they are sottish (stupid) children and they have no understanding: they are wise to do evil, but to do good they have no knowledge”.

As the leaders of the world redefine the Ten Commandments the great sin today has become that of separation out of the world. The discerning mind will result in some taking deliberate steps to remove themselves from the world that hated Christ and His followers (John 15:19). As time goes on there will be great pressure to conform even from within the family. It is by stepping out and seeing the forest instead of the trees that will allow you to discern with more understanding, the error of man’s ways.

The reference to sifting in the above definition is most interesting. Over many years I have used the sieve in my garden to remove small rocks. The smaller the sieve holes the more refined is the separation process. Separation is a theme that stretches from Genesis to Revelation. It is only by separating the tin from the dross that we will be purged. (Isaiah 1:25). The dross is the rubbish or refuse. Once we have been separated we can discern more clearly. It is interesting that the feet of Daniel’s image is a mixture of clay and iron. The makeup of the feet is weak in comparison to the other metals in the image. It is at the feet, that the Kingdom, that is made without hands, strikes and destroys the whole image (Daniel 2:34).

It is my view that the image from head to toes is represented in today’s Western Society. Having read a number of books on the subject of ancient religions I have come to the conclusion, that the basis of these religions are reflected in some form in today’s Western Society. Rather than living in an atheistic society we are living in the most religious period of human history. Rather than worshipping the one true God we like the Greeks have put in His place countless gods that reflect the imagination of man. The occult or pagan religions are very attractive to a world that cannot separate good from evil.

Unless you come out of this confusion of beliefs you will be unable to discern. “Come out from amongst them and be ye separate, Saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing and I will receive you”( 2 Corinthians 6:17). The context of this verse is better understood if you refer back to verse 15 where it says, “What concord hath Christ with Belial?”. The battle is truly spiritual. The economic, financial and political features of Western Society, are merely the walkways of spiritual evil.

It is by separating, that you can clearly judge. The line has been drawn in the sand. Luke 11:23 says, “He that is not with me is against me and he that gathered not with me, scattereth”. The first few verses of Jeremiah 23 is worthy to read. Read the previous verses to show the context of Luke 11:23. It is similar to 2 Corinthians 6:17. Luke 11:17-18 refers to Beelzebub and the kingdom divided against itself.

Discernment is a gift like that of faith. It does not come easy, for we have to study the word of God (2 Timothy 3:15-17). Studying history is essential, for then we will understand not only how and why the tares entered the Kingdom (Matthew 13) but why we have not sought first the Kingdom of God and His Righteousness (Matthew 6:33). May we ask God for courage to discern between GOOD AND EVIL and to be in the world but not of it. By following the words of Amos 5:14, 15 God will be gracious unto the remnant of Joseph.

The Mistaken J Yahwey’s Assembly In Yahsuha

OFTEN at the time He walked the earth. It’s a name that heard in would have been completely foreign to Him. t h e churches of our Eminent French historian, scholar, and land is the refrain archaeologist Ernest Renan acknowledges that sung about the the Savior was never in His lifetime called Saviour, “There’s “Jesus.” In his book, The Life of Jesus, Renan something about doubts that the Savior even spoke Greek (p.90). that name...” In Greek was mostly the language of business and our English- commerce in cosmopolitan circles. speaking world we have been taught As for the Father’s Name, the hybrid “Jehovah” that the saving came into existence through the ignorance of name of the Christian writers who did not understand the Old Redeemer of Israel Testament Hebrew. Credit for the error is given is “Jesus.” So to Petrus Galatinus, confessor to Pope Leo X in the 16th century. accepted is this name that few stop to consider its authenticity.

But the truth is, there is indeed “something about that Name.” That “something” is the inescapable fact that the Savior’s name is not Jesus, and never was. What’s more, the Name of the Heavenly Father is not Jehovah, a designation that is only five centuries old.

Churchianity has so thoroughly immersed the world in the error of this tradition for the past 500 years that few even think to research the matter or to consider the consequences of calling on the wrong name. As a result, most continue believing that the Hebrew Savior is called by a Latinized Greek name that could not possibly have existed

Modern scholarship recognizes “Yahshua” as the best rendition for the Name of the Savior, while “Yahweh” is the closest transliteration for the Name of the Creator as found in ancient Scriptural manuscripts. In returning as nearly as we can to the Bibles’ original language and meaning, we come to a deeper and more accurate understanding of the truths contained within it. As we will learn, the Father and Son’s revealed, personal Names are the foundation on which other vital, salvation truths rest. It was not without reason that Yahweh established the foundation of the Ten Commandments with the clear declaration of His sacred Name: “I, Yahweh, am your Elohim...” Exodus 20:2. Our

Savior, as well, opened His Model Prayer with the words, “hallowed be Thy Name.”

Yahweh devoted the Third Commandment to warn of the sin of taking His Name in vain (a meaning that includes bringing His Name to uselessness, as has been done for centuries), Exodus 20:2, 7. Our Redeemer’s Name is critically important as well, or else our Creator would not have inspired the writer of Acts to proclaim, “Neither is there salvation in any other. For there is none other name under heaven, given among men whereby we must be saved,” Acts 4:12.

Back to the Basic Truths of the Bible

It should be evident to anyone that through time and tradition, observances change, are added to, and also lose some of what they first had. This is especially true of the worship originally practiced in the Bible. Our primary goal as True Worshipers should be to return to fundamental truths, like His true Name, once known and taught by the early Assembly but that have been neglected or ignored through the centuries. Shouldn’t this be the desire of every sincere Bible believer—to worship in ALL truth? Why go only halfway, or put another way, why continue worshiping partly in error?

Jude 3 speaks directly to us: “Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of the common salvation, it was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort you that you should earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints.” This original faith as practiced in the early New Testament Assembly is being restored now, just before the Savior Yahshua returns to earth. Acts 3:21 say the heaven must receive the Savior until the time of restitution of all things. “Restitution” is the Greek apokatastasis and means re-establish from a state of ruin (Write for the explanatory ministudy, This Is the EliYah Message.)

Foundational to this original truth being restored by Yahweh’s Assembly in Yahshua is the identity of the One we worship. Nothing in existence is more holy than the Father and His personal, revealed Name Yahweh. Paul wrote that Yahweh has given His Son a Name that is above every name, Philippians 2:9. The prophet Malachi tells us that if we will not give glory unto Yahweh’s Name that He would send a curse upon us (2:2).

With a sense of gravity of the sacred Name, let’s examine why any substitute name employing the letter J is erroneous on its face. We will look at the facts and the overwhelming evidence and carefully evaluate our findings, using numerous sources revealing the truth. Much of the information we cite here is readily available in your public library, or found in references you may even have at home. We urge you to look into this important issue and prove it for yourself.

The ‘J’: A Letter Come Lately

Among the many reasons that both “Jesus” and “Jehovah” are erroneous is the simple fact that they begin with the letter J, the most recent letter added to our English alphabet. The Savior’s name could not begin with the letter J because it did not exist when He was born—not even a thousand years later! All good dictionaries and encyclopaedias show that the letter J and its sound are of late origin.

A chart on both the Hebrew and Greek alphabet is found on page 48 in this booklet. Take special note that there is no letter equivalent to J in either Hebrew or Greek even today. Here are what major references tell us about the J and its development:

The Encyclopaedia Americana contains the following on the J:

“The form of J was unknown in any alphabet until the 14th century. Either symbol (J, I) used initially generally had the consonantal sound of Y as in year. Gradually, the two symbols (J, I) were differentiated, the J usually acquiring consonantal force and thus becoming regarded as a consonant, and the I becoming a vowel. It was not until 1630 that the differentiation became general in England.”

The New Book of Knowledge reads:

“J, the tenth letter of the English alphabet, is the youngest of the 26 letters. It is a descendant of the letter I and was not generally considered a separate letter until the 17th century. The early history of the letter J is the same as the history of the letter I. I is a descendant of the ancient Phoenician and Hebrew letter yod and the Greek letter iota” (Vol. 10, 1992 ed.).

The Random House Dictionary of the English Language says about the J:

“The tenth letter of the English alphabet developed as a variant form of I in Medieval Latin, and except for the preference for the J as an initial letter, the two were used interchangeably, both serving to represent the vowel (i) and the consonant (y). Later, through specialization, it came to be distinguished as a separate sign, acquiring its present phonetic value under the influence of the French.”

The Encyclopaedia Britannica, 11th Edition, under “J,” offers additional information:

“J, a letter of the alphabet which, as far as form is concerned, is only a modification of the Latin I and dates back with a separate value only to the 15th century. It was first used as a special form of initial I, the ordinary form being kept for use in other positions. As, however, in many cases initial i had the consonantal value of the English y in iugum (yoke), &c., the symbol came to be used for the value of y, a value which it still retains in German: Ja! Jung, & c. Initially it is pronounced in English as an affricate dzh. The great majority of English words beginning with j are of foreign (mostly French) origin, as ‘jaundice,’ ‘judge’”... (p.103).

Funk and Wagnall’s Encyclopaedia (1979 edition), volume 14, page 94 under “J,” states:

“J, the tenth letter and seventh consonant in the English alphabet. It is the latest addition to the English script and has been inserted in the alphabet after I, from which it was developed, just as V and W follow U, the letter from which they arose. In form, J was originally merely a variation of I; J appeared first in Roman times, when it was used sometimes to indicate the long i vowel sound, but was often used interchangeably with I. The Romans pronounced I as a vowel in some words, such as iter, and as a semi-vowel in others, for example, iuvenis, spelled presently juvenis. The only difference in spelling, however, was the occasional use of double i for the y sound for example, in maiior, spelled presently major. In the Middle Ages the elongated form (j) was used as an ornamental device, most often initially and in numeral series; many old French manuscripts indicate the numeral 4 by the letter sequence iiiij. The use of j as an initial led ultimately to its specialized use to indicate both the old semi-vowel sound y, found in German, and the new palatal consonant sounds (z) and (dz), found in French, Spanish and English. Not until the middle of the 17th century did this usage become universal in English books; in the King James Bible of 1611, for example, the words Jesus and judge are invariably Iesus and iudge. Long after the invention of printing, j thus became more than a mere calligraphic variation of i (which in Latin could be either vowel or semi-vowel), and, j became restricted to a consonantal function.

“In English, j has the composite sound of d + zh, as in journal. In French, on the other hand, the zh sound alone is given the letter, as in jour; German has retained the original y sound of the Latin i consonant, as in jahr; and Spanish has introduced a new sound resembling a guttural ch, as in Jerez. In Middle English, before the differentiation of i and j, the combination gi was sometimes used to represent the dzh sounds, such as in Giew for Jew, and in modern times the soft g is used for the same sound, as in general...”

Webster’s New Universal Unabridged Dictionary confirms how the J developed from the I and became a consonant only a few centuries ago:

“J, j (ja), n. 1. The tenth letter of the English alphabet: formerly a variant of I, i, in the seventeenth century it became established as a consonant only, as in Julius, originally spelled Iulius.”

The letter J was often used instead of the letter I, especially at the beginning of a word. This became common in the 1600's (World Book Encyclopaedia, Vol. 2, 1995 ed). Medieval scribes added a tail to the second I when two I's appeared together. Because a beginning I almost always has a consonant sound, the long form, J, came to be used generally for the consonant sound of the letter (New Book of Knowledge).

It became necessary to distinguish between the J and the I when the dictionary came into being. In the seventeenth century, the dictionary's appearance forced a consistent spelling. Using either I or J became mandatory to ensure proper alphabetical positioning. Owing to this close kinship with I, J was inserted immediately following I in our English alphabet.

Note the substantiating comments on the J from the Encyclopaedia Americana:

"It is one of the few permanent additions to those alphabets, made in medieval or modern times. More exactly, it was not an addition, but a differentiation from an existing letter, I, which in Latin, besides being a vowel (as in index), had also the consonantal value of 'Y' (as in maior, pronounced 'mayor')."

"At a later state, the symbol 'J' was used for the distinctive purposes, particularly when the 'I' had to be written initially (or in conjunction with another 'I'). Either symbol used initially generally had the consonantal sound of 'Y' (as in Year) so that the Latin pronunciation of either Ianuarius or Januarius was as though the spelling was 'Yanuarius.' While in some words of Hebrew and other origin (such as Hallelujah or Junker), 'J' has the phonetic value of 'Y.'"

We discover, then, that the letter J derived from the vowel letter I and originally had the same sound as the vowel I. That is why the lower case j still has a dot over it. The letter I represents the Greek iota (I), which usually corresponds to the Hebrew yothe (Y as in yes). The letter J has a Y sound (as in "hallelujah") in Latin, German, and Scandinavian languages. In Spanish, J is an aspirate, having the sound of H.

The J was first pronounced as the I at the time of the introduction of the printing press. Dutch printers fostered utilizing the J, especially at the beginning of a word. The letter J eventually acquired its own sound. It was the French who gave the letter J the present sound of the soft letter g as in "large" or "purge." In Latin, German, and other languages the J is pronounced more like Y with an "ee" sound. The Spanish J is more like an aspirant as in San Jose. Some old European maps still show the spelling of countries like Jugoslavia (Yugoslavia) or Sowjet (Soviet) Russia. It is only in the last century that the letter J has firmly taken on the French pronunciation as in joy or journal.

Webster's Universal Dictionary (1936) reinforces the fact of the early relationship of the letter J to I:

"As a character it was formerly used interchangeably with 'I,' both letters having originally the same sound and after the 'J' sound came to be common in English, it was often written where this sound must have been pronounced. The separation of these two letters is of comparatively recent date, being brought about through the influence of the Dutch printers."

First Letter of the Sacred Name is Y

As we have shown, the J came from the letter I.

The New Book of Knowledge shows the letter I (hence the J as well) derived from the Hebrew yothe (y), which is the first letter of Yahweh's Name (hwhy, YHWH, known as the Tetragrammaton or "four letters"; Hebrew is read from right to left). It is also the first letter of Yahshua's Name. The letter I (yothe or yod) in Hebrew carries the sound of "ee" as in "police."

The King James Version and other Bibles employ the Latinized-Greek "Jesus." But the facts of etymology prove that this cannot be His true name. If the King James and other Bibles are in error in calling the Savior "Jesus," how did the error come about? And how can we determine exactly what that precious Name is?

The fact is, the first copies of the 1611 King James Bible did not use the letter J (see production at top). And no evidence is found to show that the letter I had the consonantal sound of J. This has been shown in the New Funk and Wagnall's Encyclopaedia:

“Not until the middle of the 17th century did this usage become universal in English books; in the King James Bible of 1611 for example, the words Jesus and judge are invariably Iesus and iudge.”

Oscar Ogg's books, The 26 Letters, which gives a history of each letter of the English alphabet, explains how the J, along with the U and W, were the last to be added to the alphabet:

“The three missing letters, J, U and W, were not used by the Romans at all. U and W developed from V about a thousand years ago, and J developed from the letter I about five hundred years ago,” p. 106.

As already confirmed, most of our American vocabulary employing the letter J stems from the French. Nearly all words containing the letter J in English are pronounced as in French, such as journal or major, although French has a considerably softer pronunciation of J than English. In Spanish the J is more of an h aspirate as in “San Jose.”

After development of the letter J, the Saviour's Name was changed by the translators to Jesus, but continued to be pronounced much like the letter Y. However, the pronunciation of the J soon changed completely from its former “yee” sound to our present “juh” through French influence.

In Latin the J was pronounced as a Y. Even today, the German tongue, among others, pronounces the J like a Y (July – Yulee; Ja = Ya; Major in German is pronounced as “mayor;” June is “Yunee”). Note the comments of author F.F. Bruce in his The Books and the Parchments: “In the English Bible, Hebrew proper names with yod are represented with j, which in modern English has quite a different sound from y. Thus ‘Jehovah-jireh’ would have been pronounced in Hebrew something like Yahweh yeereh” (footnote, p. 40).

In his book, Story of the Letters and Figures, Hubert M. Skinner provides an excellent summation of the discordant transformation inflicted on the Saviour's Name:

“In some way, various modern peoples who received the J from the Romans have lost the original sound, and have substituted something very different. We retain the former sound in our word ‘hallelujah,’ but we generally give the letter the disagreeable soft sound of G. Yod is the initial of the name Jesus. It is unfortunate that a name so dear and so sacred is pronounced in a manner so different from that of the original word. The latter sounded very much as if it were Yashoo-ah, and was agreeable to the ear. Our sounds of J and hard S are the most disagreeable in our language, and they are both found in our pronunciation of this short name, although they did not exist in its original,” pp. 122-123.

‘Jesus’: A Word Out of Place and Time

The Bible clearly reveals that salvation is available in only one name: “Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other Name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved” (Acts 4:12). The name the angel gave to Hebrew-speaking Mary and Joseph was Yahshua, meaning “Salvation of Yah.”

This original Name has been made a hybrid by translators and changed to the Latinised, Grecianized name Jesus – a name that came into our language about the time of Christopher Columbus. (For a detailed explanation, request the revealing mini study, How the Savior's Name Was Changed.)

The following Biblical study references clearly explain that “Jesus,” used in place of the Savior's true Name Yahshua, is erroneous. (Some of these references correctly show the Y or I superior to the Mistaken J.)

Cyclopedia of Biblical, Theological, and Ecclesiastical Literature: “Import of the Name. –There can be no doubt that Jesus is the Greek form of a Hebrew name...Its original and full form is Jehoshua (Num. 13:16). By contraction it became Joshua, or Jeshua; and when transferred into Greek, by taking the termination characteristics of that language, it assumed the form Jesus” (vol. 4, pp. 873-874).

The Anchor Bible Dictionary: “Jesus [Gk. Iesous]. Several persons mentioned in the Bible bear this name, which is a Greek form of Joshua (Heb. Yehosua; cf. the Gk of Luke 3:29; Acts 7:45; Heb. 4:8)...’Jesus Christ’ is a composite name made up of the personal name ‘Jesus’ (from the Gk Iesous, which transliterates Heb/Aram yesu(a), a late form of Hebrew yehosua, the meaning of which is ‘YHWH is salvation’ or ‘YHWH saves/has saved’)...” (III, p. 773).

The Anchor Bible (note on Matthew 1:1): “Jesus. The word is the Greek rendering of a well-known Hebrew name. It was Yahoshu first, then by inner Hebrew phonetic change it became Yoshua, and by a still northern dialectal shift, Yeshua. The first element, Yahu (=Yahweh) means ‘the Lord,’ while the second comes from shua ‘To help, save.’ The most probable meaning is ‘O Lord, save.’” (Vol. 26, p.2)

The New International Dictionary of The Christian Church: “Jesus Christ, The Founder of Christianity bore ‘Jesus’ (the Greek form of Joshua or Jeshua) as His personal name; ‘Christ’ (Gk. Christos, ‘anointed’) is the title given Him by His followers...” (p.531).

Mercer Dictionary of the Bible: “Jeshua: An Aramaic form of the name Joshua, meaning ‘Yahweh is salvation.’ It occurs only in postexilic biblical literature, which supports the later origin of the name. Joshua, the son of Nun, is referred to in one passage as Jeshua (Neh. 8:17)” (p.444).

Newberry Reference Bible (on Matt. 1:24): “Jesus, Heb. Joshua, or Jehoshua. Compare Num. 13:8, 16, where ‘Oshea,’ verse 8, signifying ‘Salvation,’ is altered in v.16 to ‘Jehoshua,’ ‘the Salvation of Jehovah,’ or ‘Jehovah the Saviour.’”

The International Standard Bible Encyclopaedia: “Jesus (Iesous) is the Greek equivalent of the Hebrew ‘Joshua’ (ucwhy, Yehoshua) meaning ‘Jehovah is salvation.’ It stands therefore in the LXX and Apoc for ‘Joshua,’ and in Acts 7:45 and Heb. 4:8 likewise represents the OT ‘Joshua.’ In Mt. 1:21 the name is commanded by the angel to be given to the son of Mary, ‘for it is he that shall save his people from their sins...It is the personal name of the L-rd in the Gospels and in the Acts...’” (Vol. 3, p.1626).

The Eerdmans Bible Dictionary: “The given name Jesus means ‘saviour,’ it is the Greek equivalent of Jeshua (Heb. Yesua, from yehosua ‘Yahweh saves’ [=Joshua]. Christ is the title, indicating that he is the ‘anointed one,’ the Messiah from Hebrew masiah.” ...”Jeshua (Heb. Yesua ‘Yahweh is salvation’)” (p.573).

The Bible Almanac: “The name Jesus (which is identical with Joshua and means ‘God is Savior’) emphasizes His role as the Savior of His people (Mat. 1:21). Christ is the New Testament equivalent of Messiah, a Hebrew word meaning ‘anointed one’...” (p.522).

Holman Bible Dictionary: “Jesus Christ: Greek form of Joshua and of title meaning ‘Yahweh is salvation’ and ‘the anointed one’ or ‘Messiah.’” (p.775).

New International Dictionary of the New Testament Theology, “OT Iesous is the Gk. Form of the OT Hebrew name Yesua, arrived at by transcribing the Heb. And adding an –s to the nominative to facilitate declension. Yesua (Joshua) seems to have come into general use about the time of the Babylonian exile in place of the older Yehosua. The LXX rendered both the ancient and more recent forms of the name uniformly as Iesous. Joshua the son of Nun, who according to the tradition was Moses’ successor and completed his work in the occupation of the promised land by the tribes of Israel, appears under this name...It is the oldest name containing the divine name Yahweh, and means ‘Yahweh is help’ or ‘Yahweh is salvation’ (cf. the verb yasa, help save). Joshua also appears in one post-exilic passage in the Heb. OT (Neh. 8:17) as Yesua the son of Nun, and not as in the older texts, Yehosua” (Vol. 2, pp.330-331).

The Classic Bible Dictionary (Jay P. Green), page 633, under Jesus: “Jesus is the Greek equivalent of the Hebrew ‘Joshua,’ meaning ‘Jehovah is salvation.’ It stands therefore in the LXX and Apocrypha for ‘Joshua,’ and in Acts 7:45 and Heb. 4:8 likewise represents the OT Joshua.”

Author Green also comments on the Greek word “Christ:” “Christ (Christos) is the Greek equivalent of the Hebrew Messiah, meaning anointed.”

Thus we see that the Savior’s name as well as the descriptive title “Messiah” have been undermined and appear in Greek in changed form. Our Savior has been stripped of His Israelite roots.

The SDA Bible Dictionary, page 565: “Jesus Christ [Gr. Iesus] (a transliteration of the Aramaic Yeshua, from the Heb. Yehoshua, ‘Joshua,’ meaning ‘Yahweh is Salvation’), Christos (a translation of the Heb. Mashiach, ‘Messiah,’ meaning anointed or anointed One).] The English form ‘Jesus’ comes from the Latin.”

In Strange Facts About the Bible, author Garrison notes on page 81: “In its English form, ‘Jesus’ goes back to church Latin Iesus which is a transliteration of the Greek Iesus. But in its original Hebrew form it was Y’hoshua (‘Yahweh saves’), frequently abbreviated to Joshua...”

Ian Wilson’s Jesus: The Evidence, says on page 66; “‘Yeshua’, as Jesus would actually have been addressed, means ‘God saves’, and is merely a shortened form of the more old fashioned ‘Yehoshua (‘Joshua’ of the Old Testament).”

New Bible Dictionary (edited by J.D. Douglas) reads under Jesus: “The name Jesus is not strictly a title for the person who bore it. It is, however, a name with a meaning, being a Greek form of ‘Joshua’, i.e. ‘Yahweh is salvation’. The NT writers were well aware of this meaning (Mt.

1:21). The name thus indicated the function which was ascribed to Jesus, and this later found expression in the title Saviour...” (p.584).

Alford’s Greek Testament, An Exegetical and Critical Commentary: “Jesus –The same name as Joshua, the former deliverer of Israel.”

Encyclopedic Dictionary of Religion: “Jesus (The Name) –Matthew’s Gospel explains it as symbolic of His mission, ‘For He will save His people from their sins.’ This agrees with its popular meaning as ‘Yahweh saves...’” p. 1886.

A Dictionary of the Bible, by James Hastings: “Jesus –the Greek form (Ihsous) of the name Joshua (ucwhy) or Jeshua. Jeshua – Yahweh is salvation or Yahweh is opulence” (pp.603-602). New International Dictionary of the Christian Church: “Jesus Christ, The Founder of Christianity bore ‘Jesus’ (the Greek form of Joshua or Jeshua) as His personal name; ‘Christ’ (Gk. christos, ‘anointed’) is the title given Him by His followers...” (p. 531).

All of these authorities and scholars agree. His name is not the Latinized Grecianized name “Jesus,” but reflects His Hebrew heritage and the mission He was given to save His people through the Name of the Heavenly Father Yahweh.

So how did He end up with the name so many erroneously call on today?

The Murder Of Edith Cavell From Our Louisiana Correspondent

EDITH CAVELL was a British nurse in World War I who wrote in the April 15th issue of the Nursing Mirror of her plan to bring the Great War to a speedy conclusion. She was executed under orders from William Wiseman the head of MI6 for North America.

She had discovered that the British relief program to feed the Belgian widows and orphans was a fraud used by the Rothschild interests to prolong the war. They did not feed the Belgians. The food was put on rail cars and sent across the lines to feed the German soldiers. The relief efforts were headed by the exceedingly despic ble Herbert Hoover who profited from this enterprise. He was a Rothschild business partner in Rio Tinto Zinc. Hoover also organized the relief program to save the Russians from starvation under a fellow Rothschild associate, Joe Stalin.

Ferdinand Lundberg in America's Sixty Families told us that an associate of JP Morgan went around America in 1915 telling businessmen that America could prolong the war in Europe by promising to enter the war after the elections of 1916. This would be wonderful thing to do because it would bankrupt England and France making America the world financial capital.

That the prolongation of the Great War killed millions, made the Soviet revolution possible which killed more than sixty million and set the horrors of WW II in motion is of no consequence to men who think like bankers in terms of human life.

World War II was unavoidable. Admiral Canaris and General Beck sent two officers to London in March of 1939 to negotiate a surrender which included an arrest of Hitler. This was refused. The Rothschilds said No to peace according to Ambassador Joseph Kennedy. The bankers needed Hitler to play the bad guy. Stalin would have attacked Germany with 20 or 30 thousand tanks even if Hitler had never been born. What would the Germans have done if the Russians had a line of 18,000 artillery firing rounds every few seconds with 20,000 tanks in front and 10,000 planes overhead?

The final secret of WW II might have been that the Allies killed more people after WW II was over than Hitler ever did during the war in those concentration camps. General Eisenhower who was Jewish killed about one million Germans in 200 camps that were nothing more than open fields with no shelter, no food, no latrines and no medicine. Many of these prisoners were civilians ranging in age from 13 to 80.

General Eisenhower also participated in the forced repatriation of up to 5 million Russian POWs in what was known as Operation Keelhaul. Many of these people were killed the instant American soldiers turned them over to the Russians.

After the war there were claims made of a Holocaust. A Red Cross official wrote a letter in 1944 to the US State Department saying that the International Red Cross had access to all of Hitler's camps. They had informants on the inside and were allowed to interview prisoners freely. The Red Cross stated flatly there were no gas chambers.

I regret to inform you that there was no Holocaust.

Do you now understand what America has been doing since WW I? Are you prepared to accept what fate the Rothschild banking network has planned for you?

A quick review of modern history.

The US government which had resisted evil from time to time was taken over by a coup with the assassination of President Kennedy in 1963. He was assassinated on the anniversary of the first meeting to create the privately owned Federal Reserve bank on November 22, 1910. It was a clear message that America was not allowed to replace Federal Reserve Note with US Treasury Banknotes as JFK had done with Executive Order 11110. This would have saved U.S. taxpayers trillions of dollars in fraudulent payments to the bankers. Israel also told the U.S. that their nuclear weapons program was not subject to American objections. And of course there was the desire to get the United States into the the Vietnam war so it would be lost thus hastening the destruction of America. Hint: That is why North Korea was given to Stalin after the war. The bankers wanted to kill Americans in the Korean War and run the country into the ground.

As I previously said, the Rothschild banking network passed NAFTA (North American Free Trade Act) in 1994 so they could de-industrialize America and send 50,000 manufacturing plants overseas. The plan was to force the American military to have supply lines 8,000 miles long on a dodgy credit card to China so the United States would lose World War III.

On September 11, 2001 World Trade Centre Towers 1, 2 and 7. fell down at nearly free fall speed. The North and South Towers were 110 stories tall. There were 283 steel girder columns in each tower. That means there were 110 X 2 X 283 or 62,260 points of contact between the steel columns and the floors. All of these 62,260 points of contact melted in less than 2 seconds. But none of the windows melted. Steel melts at 2,200 degrees Fahrenheit (1,204.44 Celsius) and glass melts at 800 degrees Fahrenheit (426.67 Celsius.) This is a controlled demolition by definition.

The purpose of the 911 hoax was to benefit Israel as did the Holofoax of a previous era.

The Israel Rothschild Banking Crime family wants to destroy the Christians and Muslims with a fratricidal war so they will rule the world. Of course they will have to exterminate a few billion people so it is easier for them to maintain control. A very tight and ruthless control to far exceed Stalin's brutalities.

It is no accident that George H. W. Bush made his first public declaration of the New World Order on 9-11-1990 11 years before his son presided over the 911 betrayal of America.

The symbolism of 9-11 lies in the Jewish mysticism of the Kaballah. There are 10 levels and 22 paths connecting the ten levels which makes for the 32 steps of Freemasonry to reach the 33rd or highest level which is the Light Without Limit. To go from level 9 to the 11th or God level on purely human effort signifies an act of blasphemy to the religiously minded and extreme egotism to the atheist. In either event no one of sound mind would follow men so insane because we clearly understand that theirs is a path to certain destruction.

My Spanish speaking friends might note that the coup against Salvador Allende occurred on 9-11-1973.

Now that you understand real history you know what the men who think they own both you and your government will do to you after they have squeezed the last penny out of you and have no further use for you, your friends and your family.

Resonance In The Bosnian Valley Of The Pyramids

Alex Putney

Archaeological and geophysical research on monumental pyramids all over the globe have informed a significant turning point in our collective understanding of the great antiquity of human civilization on this planet. Among the many recent discoveries of buried pyramids in several regions of the world, a few densely populated European countries have yielded an array of spectacular surprises.

Entire complexes of ancient Palaeolithic monuments have been uncovered by recognition of their highly geometric characteristics. A trio of low angle synthetic sandstone pyramids have been identified in Montevicchia, Italy in the foothills of the Alps, while a larger complex of six monumental stone structures with interlinking tunnels was discovered by Dr. S. Osmanagic in Bosnia's Visoko Valley in 2005. International recognition of the many archaeological and geophysical studies conducted in the Bosnian Valley of the Pyramids has inspired hundreds of thousands of visitors to tour the location, which has since become the world's largest concerted archaeological excavation project. After initial denials by archaeological authorities in government and Egyptology circles, Dr. Osmanagic has very convincingly uncovered and presented a remarkable complex of artificial architectural structures.

The most notable geometric features of the Visoko Valley sacred site can be easily appreciated from aerial surveys of the ancient complex of resonant stone structures, each having been shaped, façaded and terraced according to a clear design plan that accommodated the natural landscape. Previously named Visocica Hill, it is now recognized as the world's largest pyramid, rising to 220m in height at an angle of 45°. The site was immediately recognized by Osmanagic for the exact orientation of the three planar faces of the pyramid to the cardinal directions. Designated as the Pyramid of the Sun, subsequent discoveries have revealed a large complex of monuments now known to including the Pyramid of the Moon, Temple of the Earth, Pyramid of Love, Pyramid of the Dragon and the Vratnica Tumulus.

These massive ancient stone buildings functioned collectively with each other and with every other megalithic monumental site in the world, precisely geo-positioned in alignment with a distribution pattern defined by this author during the same time period of the discovery of the Visoko Valley complex. The Sanskrit mandala represents this global resonance pattern to which all sacred sites conform, identified in previous research as the quadratic function  $[ z_{n+1} = z_n^2 ]$  corresponding to the spherical projection of infrasound standing waves transduced by the piezoelectric stones of the Great Pyramid of Giza, Egypt.

The Bosnian Pyramid of the Sun (43.977°N 18.176°E) is 1,199 miles from the Great Pyramid, comprising 4.82% or approximately 1/21 of the Earth's mean circumference of 24,892 miles. This sacred distance interval also corresponds to 1/4 of the 19.1% Fibonacci distance from the Great Pyramid to the temples of Angkor Wat (19.1 / 4 = 4.775). This geospacial relationship enables acoustic resonance between these giant monuments, designed to transduce planetary infrasound at 33 discrete frequencies well below the audible range of human perception. Infrasound recordings were obtained by Professor P. Debortolis (>10 Hz limit), showing highest intensity in the ultra-low frequencies. These imperceptible frequencies proceed in a slightly fluctuating structure at harmonic intervals of 5.6 Hz above and below 7.83 Hz.

This special frequency threshold of 7.8 Hz corresponds to alpha brainwave patterns measurable by EEG and associated with relaxation, healing, lucid visualization and the threshold of dream states. The fundamental infrasonic resonance of the world's pyramid network is presently anchored at 1.45 Hz, in the range of the human heartbeat at the 233m wavelength to which the Great Pyramid's base length was calibrated. A water cavitation pump system, now inoperable, once drove the Great Pyramid at 1.45 Hz.

Infrasound-induced ground fires ravaged the town of Peschici, on Italy's Gargano Peninsula in July, 2007 (circled, above), having been spontaneously ignited by standing waves focused by the Great Pyramid:

The thing that surprised him, was to acknowledge that... the flames seemed to gush from the earth itself. Without warning, while walking, you could see the smoke and immediately after that, flames arising from the ground. That's it, out of nowhere. They managed to fix the situation by running back and forth for hours, with water buckets at hand, in order to put out the mysterious fires that seemed to escape from under the ground.

Peschici, Italy (41.95°N 16.01°E) is 1,182 miles from the Great Pyramid, comprising 4.74% of Earth's mean circumference distance. Ultra-low frequency observations can be easily made to verify this conclusion, yet those scientific authorities charged with investigating these piezoelectric fires have not been able to resolve the cause, totally unaware of imperceptible dangers threatening many communities in similar circumstances in Italy, especially Sicily, and at hundreds of other locations worldwide.

Another set of clear patterns in the local distribution of the various megalithic monuments of the Bosnian Valley of the Pyramids also confirms their calibration for efficient acoustic energy storing in the ultra-low frequency range of the human heartbeat. The 440m base length of the Sun Pyramid and its 220m height endow the monument with a fundamental resonant frequency of 1.5 Hz, matching the resting heartbeat frequency for the induction of tri-thalamic entrainment and collective telepathic consciousness.

The distances between construction sites selected for these psychoacoustic monuments conform to integer multiples of this crucial 220m heartbeat wavelength. For example, the Vratnica Tumulus is 3,960m directly northeast of the Sun Pyramid (above), a distance that is 18 times the height of the Sun Pyramid ( $220 \times 18 = 3,960$ ). In turn, the apex of the Sun Pyramid is 2,200m from the apex of the Pyramid of the Dragon (below), or 10 times the chosen resonant wavelength ( $220 \times 10 = 2,200$ ).

Continuing this distinct heartbeat wavelength dispersal pattern, the apex of the Pyramid of Love was constructed 440m from the apex of the Pyramid of the Sun, or twice the chosen 220m wavelength. The apex of the Pyramid of Love is 1,320m from the apex of the Temple of the Earth, a distance that comprises 6 times the chosen wavelength ( $220 \times 6 = 1,320$ ). In addition, the central axis of all three of these monumental structures, devoted to the Sun, Love and the Earth, conform to a perfect linear alignment. An underlying geometric plan for the entire complex has been exquisitely laid out.

The apex of the Pyramid of the Dragon is situated precisely 2,200m from the apex of the Pyramid of the Moon. Constructed exactly along this alignment is the Temple of the Earth at a distance of 880m from the Pyramid of the Dragon ( $220 \times 4 = 880$ ) and 1,320m from the Pyramid of the Moon ( $220 \times 6 = 1,320$ ). These alignments and repeating proportional relationships apply to all of the valley's major structures.

Two low-angle tumuli recently discovered near the village of Ginje form a southeastern extension of the valley complex. The distance from the Pyramid of the Dragon to the first Ginje Tumulus is 1,760m, or 8 times the chosen wavelength ( $220 \times 8 = 1760$ ). Continuing along the same axis, the second Ginje Tumulus is located 440m from the first, and 2,200m from the Pyramid of the Dragon (above).

Visoko Sites	Distance	x 220m
Sun - Love	440m	2
Ginje 1 - Ginje 2	440m	2
Dragon - Earth	880m	4
Earth - Moon	1,320m	6
Earth - Love	1,320m	6
Dragon - Ginje 1	1,760m	8
Dragon - Ginje 2	2,200m	10
Dragon - Sun	2,200m	10
Dragon - Moon	2,200m	10
Sun - Vratnica	3,960m	18

These remarkably consistent patterns underlying the distribution of the Bosnian pyramids were not set in stone for the beauty of mathematical symmetry, but served a much more practical function involving ULF wave focusing for the synchronization of human consciousness. Atop the Bosnian Pyramid of the Sun, this focused energy field has been measured by various research teams as a 4.5m-wide energy beam emanating a strong 28 kHz signal from the apex. Transduction of infrasound intensifies ionization within the temples, enhancing bioelectrical conditions for cellular regeneration. Geopolymer experts have identified the many blocks of the Bosnian pyramid as an advanced type of ancient concrete (below), akin to Roman concrete and the synthetic limestones of the Great Pyramid at Giza.

The great majority of the irregularly shaped casing blocks and multi-layered artificial concrete slabs effectively replicate the natural volcanic formation of breccia conglomerate comprising the bedrock below the Valley of the Pyramids. The many miles of rounded river stones and clay layers that line the valley were excavated from a complex system of tunnels below the pyramids, which are expected to link each of the five refaçaded mountain pyramids to one another, as is the case with many such complexes.

During construction of the many monumental temples, thousands of tons of rounded river stones were excavated to create the tunnels and transported above ground for use as piezoelectric filler material in the hundreds of thousands of tons of high-grade 'breccia' cement slabs encasing the mountains. Layers of fine sand below the valley floor contributed piezoelectric quartz crystals that were mixed with various reactants and poured as fine-grained synthetic sandstones to form extensive multi-layered terraces.

Several lengthy cement-covered platforms have been excavated on the four pyramids as well as on the conical earthen pyramid structure named the Tumulus of Vratnica (below). Analyses conducted on these stones in 2009 by the University of Zenica, Bosnia-Herzegovina determined that the massive blocks are synthetic in origin, being composed of gravel, poorly baked clay and dolomite/calcite carbonate that is mixed with water to form the active chemical component lime hydrate.

The extreme hardness of these high-quality cements has been measured between 100-140 Mpa, exhibiting nearly twice the strength of industrial cement mixtures produced today. These findings parallel the prior research of Dr. J. Davidovits concerning the artificial stone geopolymers of the Great Pyramid at Giza, which present N-S magnetic polarization fixed during the setting process in situ.

As the cement slurry was thoroughly mixed, chemical reactions take place between the caustic lime and water that generate heat, driving the process of evaporation and rapid setting. After being poured into a thick, damp clay-lined mould of the desired shape and allowed dry to hardness, particular colour changes appear due to the absorption of water and iron. Along the cement-mould interface, an even band has been tinted brown-orange by iron that migrated into the liquid slurry with water that was absorbed from the iron-rich clays used to seal the inner surfaces of the reinforced moulds.

Extensive excavations and photographic documentation of the artificially produced concrete slabs of all sizes, from a few pounds to several tons, have yielded samples of organic material that can be readily dated by conventional RC-14 measurements. An approximate timeframe for the construction of the Pyramid of the Sun has been established by initial radiocarbon tests of organic samples embedded in the concrete during its deposition by the ancient Atlantean pyramid builders. Deep within the excavation of Trench 4A on the Pyramid of the Sun, the lower face of a large stone block preserved a partially fossilized leaf that yielded an approximate age of 24,800 years ( $\pm 200$  years).

This astonishingly far-removed Paleolithic age determination has confirmed the conclusions of Dr. Osmanagic based on the significant depth of soil that has accumulated on top of these structures over the millennia since their disoccupation. Excavators working under the collective research efforts have removed small sections of the cement platforms to reveal the ancient construction techniques. Each level layer of cement was separated by a thin layer of clay, extending to 3m in depth (above).

Theft By The English Parliament - From a Member of The Clan Gunn

Sir—,My clan was not involved in the rebellions of 1715 and 1745 against the Hanoverian dynasty. Yet despite this, the English Parliament's stole our clan law (common law) in 1747. I cannot forgive them, for it caused very serious consequences, still prevailing.

Before proceeding will every English reader please note that politicians are not normal Englishmen. The only thing I can say is that the best of them appear to be innocent victims of a Satanic system.

I knew nothing of my clan law 50 years ago when a friend, Mr Penter, loaned me a National Geographic magazine. Therein was an article about Arabia. Two tribal chiefs had a common border and they never knew quite where it was. This mattered not, until some fool put a drill down and discovered liquid gold – OIL. When the Border changed one inch £6 million changed hands, then a considerable sum of money.

To fix the borders between them they went to court. This was a classic black tent of Kedar. Within was the judge, seated on a very fine Persian carpet. Beside him was his grandson about 12, not so comfortably seated, he had obviously just been circumcised.

This unusual charge/fine - symbolically a goat. How wonderful if such a result applied in British courts, the solicitors and barristers would have wanted several inches for themselves, like the best politicians. These professions become wealthy by becoming innocent victims of the satanic system.

Years later I was seated at a table for two in an English pub. With me was a "common" Irish labourer. Somehow our conversation led round to the Arab law story. "Quotes isn't it wonderful," I exclaimed, "they did not have to give several inches to lawyers!" He shook his head, "no" justice should be free.

Then I learnt later about my clan law, for my father had passed to a better place when I was 13 days old.

All the Gunn chiefs had a peculiar notion; the thought that a Christian should never take another Christian to court! When two men were in dispute one or the other would see the chief, who then summoned the other party in order to hear his side of the story. Then he saw them both together and the matter was usually resolved. But, if it came to court –

When court is held, the chief is not the only clan officer present. Others such as the clan commander and the taxman are there. The commander's duty is to lead his men in defensive war, if the chief is ancient, or a boy or a woman. We had no problem with sex discrimination which comes from Roman "law," upon which the "law" of the EU is based. And the taxman is nothing like an English taxman.

Say two sovrens were in dispute, for this is before Dr Johnston corrected the spelling when he wrote in his dictionary (sovereign therefore...)

Movable property has to come to court, so the winning litigants will leave court, cash in hand. But had he had a bad year 10 years ago – a poor harvest and his fishing boat was wrecked. His contribution to clan funds was therefore deferred. The sum of £2 2s. 6d. was owed. When he leaves the court a clan officer will remind him that he can now afford to pay his contribution. So he returns home empty-handed. The pair would have been better off if they had shared the money and court was told that no cost to them.

Gunn law was free.

Nowadays, the mountains of Caledon are infested with solicitors and barristers surrounding law and making it very expensive.

English "government." All true Brits are suffering and I extend my sympathies to the English.

Scottish "law" has some very bad features – serfdom is allowed and still flourished in living memory. With the imposition of this on the Highlands, the old way of life became impossible and this was noticed by Dr Johnston during his Highland tour and he predicted the clearances.

Not all clan chiefs were decent men – I can mention three friends who detest the chief of their clan and it was those who took the opportunity to clear the clan lands of people to make more money with sheep.

The Black Watch regiment amaze me – a certain battle honour is lacking on their banner. The Highland clearances. These armed thugs, only obeying orders, would go to a village burn the thatched roofs when the brigs were in the Bay, waiting to take the victims to Canada. This compulsory colonisation has never been forgotten by their descendants.

The Scottish National party have the same policy as the IRA – the splitting up of the United Kingdom of Great Britain (the Irish are far more senior Brits than us latecomers, Viking Gunns – Gani in the sagas) and now they have a Scottish parliament they will have no intention of restoring common law to the Highlands. Yours truly, An Ancient Mariner.

My UK School Almost Destroyed Me

Sir __, I was born in 1991, to a happy family. I had a sister 6-years-older than me, and two loving parents. My father was the breadwinner of the family and my mother was a housewife.

My early school years were great, my education was great, I had maximum grades. I played for my school football team and did some boxing. (My dad and his dad were both boxers. It was a great bonding time for me and my dad in the gym.) Life couldn't have been better.

As I got towards the end of my primary school years, I started to notice that most of my friends came from broken marriages. I never paid it much attention however as I was just 6-11 years old but I always wondered "where's your dad?"

Anyways, things changed for the worse at age 11 when I entered secondary school. This was 4-5 years after Labour had taken power in 1997. I can honestly say now, that's exactly the reason why things were so bad.

Immediately it began. We were taught, at such a young age, about all of the atrocities western men had committed against everyone else. We were literally (I'm not exaggerating here) taught to be ashamed of ourselves and of our culture.

Girls, on the other hand, were taught how great the suffragettes were and that without them they'd still be under the tyranny of the evil men. I remember a particular class where the female teachers and female students were all laughing at the stupidity of boys and men. I remember the female teacher pointing out "all the men had to fight wars, while women didn't, but it was always men that started the wars!" while the girls all laughed. I remember looking around at all the boys in my class just sitting there, quietly, blank stares on their faces, saying nothing. Then it hit me like a silver bullet, I was doing the same as them: nothing.

However after having years of political correctness and self-shame pumped into me by this so called education system, I had no knowledge of how to even discredit them. Everything they said seemed true. If it weren't for my father teaching me about the great men of our past at a young age, I actually think I'd be another sad fool indoctrinated into feminist ideology.

ANTI-WHITE RACISM

Not only were we taught to be ashamed of our gender, they went so far as to blatantly make us ashamed of our race. Yes, if you were white and male, oh boy, you were in for a treat.

Hours upon hours of all the horrendous crimes our ancestors did to the Africans, the native Americans, the Jewish people and of course, women.

Not one, not a SINGLE mention of all the good we did, only the bad (and if they did happen to mention anything good a white man did they never pointed out it was a white man who did it. Only when they shame do they like to point the traits of the people/person they're shaming, out).

Meanwhile they had black history month celebrating the accomplishments of black culture and black people in general, which I had/have no problem with. I think it's great that people can celebrate their culture but then I brought up the question, when will I be allowed to celebrate and be proud of my culture? The answer? Never, that's racist and not politically correct, you see. That line of thinking leads to a nation of Nazis, apparently.

DEMORALIZATION

Now, after all this, I noticed something change in me. I became apathetic, lazy, unmotivated and my grades went from the top 5% in my country at age 11, to pretty much, rock bottom.

I remember at age 11 I was predicted straight A* and As for my GCSEs. I didn't leave that school with a single GCSE, not one. Why? I stopped caring about school; some days I just didn't turn up, I couldn't take it anymore, it was actually horrendous to be discriminated against like that by people who are supposed to be objectively teaching me.

By the time my dad noticed what was going on (the school never notified him of my drastic drop in grades and lack of attendance) it was too late to do anything. I was in the last 6 months of school.

These feelings weren't just felt by me either. I can tell you now that 90% of the boys in my year didn't leave with more than 1-2 GCSEs either. The majority of girls left with amazing grades.

To any of the older generation out there, I'd just like to tell you, this is what it was like to grow up in an education system from 1997-2006 for young British men.

If my experience was typical, we're in big trouble. I read recently, young men get paid less than young women now from ages 20-29.

GOING DOWN THE TUBES?

My big question is, what is going to happen when my generation has to step up to run Britain? From my experience and the facts around me at the time (the majority of boys in my year are either unemployed or doing basic jobs like stacking shelves, digging, cleaning toilets) we've literally created a generation of boys who are useless, self-hating, apathetic, lazy idiots without any father figures in their lives and even the ones who had father figures (like me) got shafted hard by the education system we had to endure.

Honestly, I'm actually really interested in seeing what happens in the next 20 years. Women are either going to have to step up and take all the load men have carried on their shoulders for generations and do everything or society is honestly going to collapse in on itself, as this generation of men have been destroyed and ostracized by their own government.

I was one of the few people who wasn't surprised when the UK Riots came about. It was just waiting to happen. This is the generation of young men who are supposed to be the backbone to our culture. Hah! well done feminism, well done Labour, you managed to systematically destroy a whole country in just one decade, far more damaging than the "Nazis", "racists", "bigots" and "sexists" ever could of done.

Personally, I can't wait to sit back and watch the mess unfold as the country frantically tries to stay above the water.

I am very interested in what the older generation of men think about this state of affairs and how their sons have been treated by the education system and society in general.

PS. Oh and before anyone accuses me of blaming my failings on the Education system, my father paid for me to go to an all-male school, where I got 7 As in GCSEs on my first year there directly after mandatory school ended, then two years of A levels in which I got all 5 of them. This isn't some blame, pity me game. I'm just generally very interested in what you all think is going to happen if my scenario holds true? Yours truly, Robbie

How The Racial Hoax Of The Jews Was Finally Exposed

Sir,—The newest DNA scientific studies, showing that the people known as the Jews of Israel—and, indeed Jews all over the world—are, in fact, of Khazar, not Israelite origins, is backed by the earlier work of historians. These historians found that their scholarly books and reports were immediately attacked by Zionists desperate to maintain the fiction that the Jews could trace their heritage all the way back to Abraham.

The Zionists knew the truth—that they are not a race but a composite of many races. They had to keep up the myth that they were a homogenous race kept together by religion and community interests for 5,000 years. Only in this way could the Zionist Jews claim to be the seed of Abraham. Only as 'Israelites' could the Jews claim possession to land where they and their ancestors had never been.

The Zionists knew, too, that their genocide and ethnic cleansing against the Palestinians was not justified unless they, the Jews, had claim to the land. How else could they get the millions of evangelical Christians to support their horrible behaviour?

If they were suspected of being converts to Judaism and not actually the tribes mentioned in the Bible, it was all over for them. Their Lie would be out—they would be seen for what they are—imposters . . . the vast majority of the Jews were not of Israel; some of the Palestinians were. Some of the Palestinians even had a DNA chromosome which established that they were "Cohens"—workers at the ancient Temple and synagogues . . . DNA science has proven that the findings of many historians and anthropologists is correct. Yours truly, J. S. Somerset, UK

Multi-Culture

Sir__, I recently received a very interesting email which I find believable. I also have received information on local government plans under Blair to socially engineer society to break up and destroy the traditional historical British structure and to introduce tension through enforced multi-culturism. Dispersal of asylum seekers was part of this plan to 'nudge' people into accepting and becoming used to newcomers in their local communities.

The first target areas were London boroughs such as Haringey, Hackney, Islington etc. Whilst this occurred under labour administration the agenda has continued through the Lib-Cons and through UK.

At this point I emphasise that the people creating and implementing such policy were our own so called government. Those encouraged into the country did so because they were invited - they did not fight their way ashore.

We begin to see the real enemy - treasonous MPs and their politicised Civil servants who as knowing or useful idiots implemented such policy.

The ultimate aim of the policy is to create tension, division and violence, because this will allow a vicious state clamp down under the Civil Contingency Act. Divide and rule to be precise.

Those invited and living in Britain now are not the main or most dangerous enemy. Yes there are newcomers hostile to our society, but the fact remains that the most migrants are perfectly ordinary and innocent people being used as pawns in the game - the dangerous people are our own politicians who speak of our welfare and betray us behind our backs.

In the camps which will surely follow if these traitors get their way we will not be worried if our fellow prisoner is black white Asian or Chinese or other. These will be our fellows of suffering.

If we are to remain out of the camps it is vital that attention and effort is focused on appropriately rooting out the real danger - look first to Westminster and the myriad of think tanks NGOs and quasi political bodies, all funded by international banks, that quietly and deceptively create such policy for Blair, Brown, Cameron and the real hidden mastermind Clegg. Common Purpose has been key to much of the implementation of this policy, training the top 200 civil servants amongst other actions. However the common purpose ideology is the real threat and this is implemented via the myriad of organisations I have mentioned.

All could be stopped overnight by banning contact of Westminster MPs and Civil Servants with any of these policy forming groups and agencies, and of course cutting their funding supply by taking control of our money back into the legitimate government by re-issuing the Bradbury pound as credit to meet the needs of the nation, rather continuing to permit the private banking fraudulent debt based currency.

If any are not yet aware - the Remembrancer sits in Westminster at all debates at all times to ensure the needs of the City are not compromised by decisions made in the house.

Please check this yourselves.

The enemy is not humanity drawn to this country by a desire for a better life or even an easy life on benefits - the enemy is a dangerous political mafia and judiciary. It is their 'common purpose' that must be exposed as the first step to regaining sanity in this island. Yours truly. Brian G.

Lee Rigby.

Sir ____, I have written this letter to Simon Heffer of the Daily Mail in response to his article about Lee Rigby.

Dear Mr. Heffer,

We last exchanged correspondence on the 28 May 2013 regarding the treason committed by past and present Government Ministers. I provided you with two sets of allegations against Cameron, Clegg, Blair, Major, Maude and Hurd. At the time you expressed some sympathy with the anti-EU stance of one of the allegations. These allegations were sent to all 43 police forces, 12 of which accepted and recorded them before passing to the MET. That means 12 Chief Constables accepted them as worthy of further investigation. However the Commissioner for the MET refuses to act on them saying that he considers them 'vexatious'. What does this say for the integrity and professionalism of the 12 Chief Constables? We have asked the Commissioner, time and time again, to give us a reason why he considers them vexatious? This he has refused to do. If the Commissioner will not respond who then can we appeal to?

Today you have written in the Daily Mail what we have been saying about people, who are nearly all Muslims and claim to being 'British', carrying out or plotting acts of terrorism should be tried as traitors. You say that the 1351 Treason Act is there to protect the integrity of the country. You continue to say, in your article, everything that we have ever said about this issue. What you and the media are overlooking is that there are other people who are also doing great damage to the country. These people have handed our sovereignty over to a foreign power – the EU and as a result nearly all our laws are created in Brussels. It has allowed us to be 'invaded' by an overwhelming number of foreigners and causing great harm to the culture and traditions of this country. For our leaders to allow this to happen and to continue with it, was and is, a direct violation of our Constitutional and Common Laws. These are the highest laws in the land and trump any other law.

When I pressed you to write an article on this issue you retreated behind the libel laws. What do your own newspaper lawyers say about our contention? Surely they can read the same law books as us! You don't need to be a barrister to see what has been happening. If you really believe that we have a case but are worried about committing libel, then why not write about the deceased Edward Heath, since it was he who committed the treason in the first place? The evidence against Heath is official, from the FCO and irrefutable. See the link below.

Mr Heffer I call upon you to do your duty as a patriotic Englishman to help us in our campaign to take our country back from the current set of traitors and restore law and order to this land. You can view the background to this at our website with particular reference to a damning letter from Lord Kilmuir to Ted Heath. Yours truly. Jack Lewis.

Lord Kilmuir's letter to Ted Heath is reproduced below.

Damning letter from Lord Kilmuir, the Lord Chancellor to Edward Heath

My Dear Ted,

You wrote to me on the 30th November about the constitutional implications of our becoming a party to the Treaty of Rome. I have now had an opportunity of considering what you say in your letter and have studied the memoranda you sent me. I agree with you that there are important constitutional issues involved.

I have no doubt that if we do sign the Treaty, we shall suffer some loss of sovereignty, but before attempting to define or evaluate the loss I wish to make one general observation. At the end of the day, the issue whether or not to join the European Economic Community must be decided on broad political grounds and if it appears from what follows in this letter that I find the constitutional objections serious that does not mean that I consider them conclusive. I do, however, think it important that we should appreciate clearly from the outset exactly what, from the constitutional point of view, is involved if we sign the treaty, and it is with that consideration in mind that I have addressed myself to the questions you have raised.

He is clear that if we do sign the agreement with the EEC we will suffer some loss of Sovereignty. This is clearly an act of Treason because our Constitution allows no surrender of any part of our Constitution to a foreign power beyond the control of the Queen in parliament. This is evidenced by the convention which says:

(Parliament may do many things but what it may not do is surrender any of its rights to govern unless we have been defeated in war).

And the ruling given to King Edward 3rd in 1366 in which he was told that King John's action in surrendering England to the Pope, and ruling England as a Vassal King to Rome was illegal because England did not belong to John he only held it in trust for those who followed on. The Money the Pope was demanding as tribute was not to be paid. Because England's Kings were not vassal Kings to the Pope and the money was not owed.

Adherence to the Treaty of Rome would, in my opinion, affect our sovereignty in three ways:-

Parliament would be required to surrender some of its functions to the organs of the community;

Answer as above.

The Crown would be called on to transfer part of its treaty-making power to those organs of the community;

The Constitution confers treaty making powers only on the Sovereign and the Sovereign cannot transfer those powers to a foreign power or even our own parliament because they are not the incumbent Sovereigns to give away as they only hold those powers in trust for those who follow on.

Our courts of law would sacrifice some degree of independence by becoming subordinate in certain respects to the European Court of Justice.

It is a Praemunire to allow any case to be taken to a foreign court not under the control of the Sovereign. The European Court Justice or the European court of Human rights are foreign courts not under the control of our Sovereign. Praemunire is a crime akin to Treason.

The position of Parliament

It is clear that the memorandum prepared by your Legal Advisers that the Council of Europe could eventually (after the system of qualified majority voting had come into force) make regulations which would be binding on us even against our wishes, and which would in fact become for us part of the law of the land.

There are two ways in which this requirement of the Treaty could in practice be implemented:-

It is a Praemunire to allow any laws or regulations not made by the Sovereign in parliament to take effect as law in England. This is illegal under the Acts of Treason 1351, the Act of Praemunire 1392, The Act of Supremacy 1559, and the Declaration and Bill of Rights 1688/9.

Parliament could legislate ad hoc on each occasion that the Council make regulations requiring action by us. The difficulty would be that, since Parliament can bind neither itself nor its successors, we could only comply with our obligations under the Treaty if Parliament abandoned its right of passing independent judgement on the legislative proposals put before it. A parallel is the constitutional convention whereby Parliament passes British North American Bills without question at the request of the Parliament of Canada, in this respect Parliament here has substance, if not in form, abdicated its sovereign position, and it would have pro tanto, to do the same for the Community.

No such power exists for parliament to do this. This would be an Act of Treason under the 1351 Treason Act, A Praemunire under the 1392 Act of Praemunire, an Act of Treason under the 1559 Act of Supremacy, and the 1688/9 Declaration and Bill of Rights.

It would in theory be possible for parliament to enact at the outset legislation which would give automatic force of law to any existing or future regulations made by the appropriate organs of the Community. For Parliament to do this would go far beyond the most extensive delegation of powers even in wartime that we have ever experienced and I do not think there is any likelihood of this being acceptable to the House of Commons. Whichever course were adopted, Parliament would retain in theory the liberty to repeal the relevant Act or Acts, but I would agree with you that we must act on the assumption that entry into the Community would be irrevocable, we should therefore to accept a position where Parliament had no more power to repeal its own enactments than it has in practice to abrogate the statute of Westminster. In short. Parliament would have to transfer to the Council, or other appropriate organ of the Community, its substantive powers of legislating over the whole of a very important field.

There is no constitutionally acceptable method of doing this because it would be tantamount to a total abrogation of their duty to govern us according to our laws and customs. And it would be an Act of Treason under the 1351 Treason Act, A Praemunire under the 1392 Act of Praemunire, and Treason under the 1559 Act of Supremacy, and the Declaration and Bill of Rights 1688/9.

Treaty-making Powers

British Prime Minister Edward Heath signs the Treaty of Accession, 1973 bringing Britain into Europe

The proposition that every treaty entered into by the United Kingdom does to some extent fetter our freedom of action is plainly true. Some treaties such as GATT and O.E.E.C. restrict severely our liberty to make agreements with third parties and I should not regard it as detrimental to our sovereign that, by signing the Treaty of Rome, we undertook not to make tariff or trade agreements without the Council's approval. But to transfer to the council or the Commission the power to make such treaties on our behalf, and even against our will, is an entirely different proposition. There seems to me to be a clear distinction between the exercise of sovereignty involved in the conscious acceptance by us of obligations under treaty-making powers and the total or partial surrender of sovereignty involved in our cession of these powers to some other body. To confer a sovereign state's treaty-making powers on an international organisation is the first step on the road which leads by way of confederation to the fully federal state. I do not suggest that what is involved would necessarily carry us very far in this direction, but it would be a most significant step and one for which there is no precedent in our case. Moreover, a further surrender of sovereignty of parliamentary supremacy would necessarily be involved: as you know although the treaty-making power is vested in the Crown. Parliamentary sanction is required for any treaty which involves a change in the law or the imposition of taxation to take two examples and we cannot ratify such a treaty unless Parliament consents. But if binding treaties are to be entered into on our behalf, Parliament must surrender this function and either resign itself to becoming a rubber stamp or give the Community, in effect, the power to amend our domestic laws.

This is a surrender of our Sovereignty a clear Act of Treason under the 1351 Treason Act and a Praemunire, under the 1392 Act of Praemunire, it is Treason under the 1559 Act of Supremacy and the 1688/9 Declaration and Bill of Rights.

Independence of the Courts

There is no precedent for our final appellate tribunal being required to refer questions of law (even in a limited field) to another court and as I assume to be the implication of 'refer'- to accept that court's decision. You will remember that when a similar proposal was considered in connection with the Council of Europe we felt strong objection to it. I have no doubt that the whole of the legal profession in this country would share my dislike for such a proposal which must inevitably detract from the independence and authority of our courts.

Of those three objections, the first two are by far the more important. I must emphasise that in my view the surrenders of sovereignty involved are serious ones and I think that as a matter of practical politics, it will not be easy to persuade Parliament or the public to accept them. I am sure that it would be a great mistake to underestimate the force of objections to them. But these objections ought to be brought out into the open now because, if we attempt to gloss over them at this stage those who are opposed to the whole idea of our joining the Community will certainly seize on them with more damaging effect later on. Having said this, I would emphasise once again that, although those constitutional considerations must be given their full weight when we come to balance the arguments on either side, I do not for one moment wish to convey the impression that they must necessarily tip the scale. In the long run we shall have to decide whether economic factors require us to make some sacrifices of sovereignty: my concern is to ensure that we should see exactly what it is that we are being called on to sacrifice, and how serious our loss would be.

It is a Praemunire to subject Her Majesty's Courts of law to the domination of a foreign court outside of Her Majesty's control.

Churchill And The Jews

By Martin Gilbert

Book Review

"The Jews are very powerful in England." -- Winston Churchill in a letter to General Holman, 1919.

A C C O R D I N G to Martin Gilbert, the "great statesman" Winston Churchill was a brown-noser and errand boy for Illuminati Jewish bankers. This is the NWO which most politicians secretly serve.

In "Churchill and the Jews" (2007), Martin Gilbert portrays Churchill as a kind of "Johnny-on-the-spot" whenever Zionist interests required defense or promotion. His professed motivation was his conviction that advantaging "a superior people," the Jews, must benefit not the world as a whole, not to mention the little weasel himself.

His father, Randolph Churchill, (left) was known for his connections to powerful bankers such as Nathan Rothschild and Sir Ernest Cassel. He introduced his son to these Jewish power-brokers with a view to finding him a good career. They took young Winston under their wing.

When Winston was 20, Sir Ernest Cassel offered to "manage the young man's finances" (i.e. put him on a retainer.) For example, Cassel secured a £10,000 (today about £500,000) share of a lucrative Japanese government loan for him, and bestowed a £25,000 (today's money) wedding present on him.

In 1904, Churchill was elected as a Liberal in the riding of Manchester North-West, one-third of whose voters were Jewish, and promptly became an ardent opponent of the Aliens Bill, the purpose of which was to curb Jewish immigration from Russia. When he was accused in the press of acting under orders from Lord Rothschild, he characterized the charge as a "foul slander". Whatever the case, Churchill and a few allies stonewalled the bill until the government dropped it.

When Churchill holidayed on the continent in the summer of 1906, he had three prominent Jewish hosts: Ernest Cassel in Switzerland, Lionel Rothschild in Italy and Baron de Forest in Moravia.

In 1910, as Home Secretary, Churchill sent the army to arrest people rioting against Jews in South Wales, in Gilbert's words, "Britain's only pogrom". Jewish landlords were evicting impoverished miners from their homes. Ignoring both Conservative and Labour critics, Churchill subsequently had the rioters arrested and sentenced to hard labour.

As the First Lord of the Admiralty, Churchill pushed for an attack on the Ottoman Empire (which encompassed Palestine), leading to the unsuccessful naval attack on the Dardanelles that caused him to resign. Coincidentally, the Jewish Cabinet member Sir Herbert Samuel opined that once the Turks were beaten, Britain should acquire Palestine so it could become a centre of Jewish self-government.

Gilbert says that the Balfour Declaration was calculated to prompt American Jewry to "accelerate the military participation of the United States" in the First World War. Fulfilling the "pledge" (as Churchill insistently termed this nebulous document) became one of Churchill's constant crusades.

After the end of the "Great War" Zionist leader Chaim Weizmann suggested to Churchill, then Secretary of State for War, to appoint General Wyndham Deedes, a proven Zionist sympathizer, to the post of chief administrator of the British military administration of Palestine.

RUSSIAN REVOLUTION AND CIVIL WAR

During the civil war in Russia following the Bolshevik Revolution, Churchill reported to Prime Minister Lloyd George that a very bitter feeling existed throughout Russia "against the Jews, who are regarded as being the main instigators of the ruin of the Empire, and who, certainly, have played a leading part in Bolshevik atrocities."

While repeatedly expressing concern that efforts should be made to protect innocent Jews, Churchill did not downplay the barbarity of those participating in the Bolshevik Terror. "A few Jews had become political commissars", Martin writes dismissively here, although later he more dramatically states that "Lenin was almost the only member of the Central Committee [of the Bolshevik government] who was not of Jewish origin," adding that few knew at the time that "Lenin's mother's grandfather was a Jew."

As Colonial Secretary he facilitated a Rothschild-sponsored hydroelectric project in Palestine. The 1922 White Paper that set out the governing principles of Britain's mandate in Palestine, known as the Churchill White Paper, strongly supported Zionism, affirming "that the existence of a Jewish National Home in Palestine should be internationally guaranteed, and that it should be formally recognized to rest upon ancient historical connection."

In the 1922 general elections, Churchill came fourth in polling in the riding Dundee which he had held for 14 years. He then lost a by-election in West Leicester in 1923, accused of having participated with Lord Balfour in a financial scam organized by Sir Ernest Cassel and other rich Jews in 1916.

Poet Alfred Douglas alleged that Churchill had falsely reported that the sea battle of Jutland had been lost in order to depress the value of stocks, which were bought up at low prices by the cabal. They immediately shooting up when Churchill issued a second report contradicting the first. For his services Churchill was alleged to have received £40,000 (£1 million in today's money). The British Government brought a criminal libel case against Douglas, the result of which he served six months in jail

While Churchill was out of Parliament, he lobbied the government for prominent Jewish leader, and Shell Oil Director, Robert Waley Cohen (left), for which, Gilbert reports, he received a payment, in today's money, of £125,000.

After his reelection in 1924, as Chancellor of the Exchequer, Churchill, along with Balfour, unsuccessfully supported Weizmann's request for the British Government's guarantee of a Zionist economic development loan.

Thanks to the Nazi Nuremberg Law in September 1935. 66,476 German Jews left for Palestine. This was roughly ten percent of all German Jews. Churchill delivered speeches advocating allowing more immigration for these victims of "every form of concentrated human wickedness cast upon [them] by overwhelming power, by vile tyranny."

In March 1937, Churchill gave secret evidence to the Peel Commission. He said Jews should be encouraged to become the majority in Palestine: "...it was.. intended that they might in the course of time become an overwhelmingly Jewish state."

In 1937, Churchill became the leading international Nazi critic when the Hungarian Jew Imre Revesz contracted to publish his articles in 17 capital cities, three main Yiddish newspapers in Eastern Europe and two mostly-Jewish-read newspapers in Palestine.

Francisco, Los Angeles, Chicago, and Washington, DC

WORLD WAR TWO

Churchill opposed the 1939 White Paper that would prevent the Palestine population from ever becoming predominantly Jewish.

A joint Allied Declaration by the British, the Americans and the Soviet Union in December 1942 condemned the "bestial policy of cold-blooded extermination" of Jews. Churchill defeated the American proposal to describe the crimes as "alleged" and inserted a warning, that those committing the crimes would be punished after the war.

How many times Churchill volunteered the statement "I am a Zionist" during his career of course cannot be known, but the occasions noted by Gilbert imply that the tally would be considerable.

The financial support of the Government of Canada and the Government of Ontario through a variety of their agencies, is acknowledged on the copyright page. This is one deal Churchill, who died in 1965, could not take credit for.

First Comment from Dan:

Churchill was a stock market gambler, as has been mentioned on this site before. He was wiped out by the stock market crash of 1929, because he over-leveraged "on the margin" - meaning he borrowed big money from his banker pals to buy shares, counting on a higher return.

He was actually partying with them in New York on night of "Black Tuesday". The party was at the 5th Avenue mansion of Bernard Baruch, attended by 40 major bankers and players. Churchill had arrived in America "quite by chance" two weeks earlier. He stopped in San Wall Street had made Churchill a millionaire during the 'Roaring Twentys' margin stocks bubble.

He lost it all the stock market crash of 1929. What made the 29 Crash so devastating was that losers didn't just end up with zero balance - they owed the margin lenders millions, with no way to recover. They were truly 'ruined'.

However, Churchill's debts were immediately bought off by Sir Henry Strakosch, a London Jewish banker who was instrumental in setting up the Central Bank of India. Additionally, Churchill's publisher Simon & Schuster covered his ass with just enough advance money for him to hang onto to Chartwell - his beloved country mansion in Kent.

There is so much more to these years of Churchill's double-dealings to even begin to get into here.

IF THE TRUTH BE KNOWN

CD 127 minutes [\[Listen to audio clip\]](#) $16.00

Here you will find the ignored story of the massive deportations of the German peoples from Eastern Germany, Poland, the Baltic States, and the Sudetenland and its attendant horrors.

The entire library of many more audio programs is available as a bundle. All told, this is nearly 14 hours of great historical commentary! Plus, you realize a savings of $20 dollars. For full details and to purchase go to the website:—
