Expanded History of The Flu and Other Important Health Matters Rob USA

H EALTH IS ALL ABOUT THE STATE OF THE WATER IN OUR BODIES. One of the most profound influences on the water in our bodies is the electro-magnetic environment and the introduction of man-made electrical devices. There is no clearer place to see these effects than in a thorough investigation of the history of influenza in the past 150 years.

The word “influenza” originated in Italy. The first record of this strange and inexplicable illness occurred around the year 1580. As the phenomenon recurred, acute observers recognized that it tended to ‘pop up’ simultaneously in multiple locations, sometimes on multiple continents. In an effort to explain this cognitively dissonant fact, Italian ‘scientists’ examined sun-spot records and noticed that outbreaks always seemed to coincide with peaks of sun-spot activity.

They understood that when the sun’s surface (or corona) was most active, there were mass ejections from the sun that manifested as spectacular displays of the Aurora Borealis in northern climes and that there were also magnetic effects (or magnetic ‘waves’) from the sun that struck the earth with uncommon intensity at these times.

Thus the word “Influenza became the name of this illness. “Influenza” being short for “Influenza delle stelle”—Influence of the Stars.

“Anxiety disorder,” afflicting one-sixth of humanity, did not exist before the 1860’s, when telegraph wires first encircled the earth.

Influenza, in its present form, was invented in 1889, along with alternating current.

Prior to the 1860’s, diabetes was so rare that few doctors saw more than one or two cases during their lifetime.

Heart disease at that time was the twenty-fifth most common illness, behind accidental drowning.

Cancer was also exceedingly rare.

The systematic electrification of Europe had begun in 1839 with the opening of the magnetic telegraph. The electrification of America began a few years later in 1844.

By 1850, telegraph lines were under construction on every continent except Antarctica.

1859 The City of London installed electric wires to the streets, shops, and residential rooftops.

By 1860, Australia, Java, Singapore, and India were being joined undersea.

By 1875, thirty thousand miles of submarine cable had demolished oceanic barriers to communication, and the tireless weavers had electrified seven hundred thousand miles of copper web over the surface of the earth—enough wire to encircle the globe almost thirty times.

In the midst of this transformation Dr. George Miller Beard wrote of a previously unknown disease that he was observing in his neurology practice in NYC.

Dr. Beard named this 'mystery disease' "neurasthenia", which means "weak nerves".

Beard and Thomas Edison collaborated in 1875 investigating an "etheric force", which was able to travel through the air. Beard correctly surmised that this was high frequency electricity.

When he died in 1883, the cause of neurasthenia, to everyone's frustration, had still not been identified. But in a large portion of the world where the term "neurasthenia" is still in everyday use among doctors—and the term is used in most of the world outside of the United States —electricity is recognized today as one of its causes. And the electrification of the world was undoubtedly responsible for its appearance out of nowhere during the 1860's, to become a pandemic during the following decades.

Other related illnesses were described in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, occupational diseases suffered by those who worked in proximity to electricity.

For example, Telegraphers were afflicted with "Telegrapher's cramp" (or, "telegraphic sickness").

These patients suffered from heart palpitations, dizziness, insomnia, weakened eyesight, and a feeling "as though a vice were gripping the back of their head." They suffered from exhaustion, depression, and memory loss, and after some years of work a few descended into insanity.

Telephone operators, too, often suffered permanent injury to their health. By 1862, every rail line was sandwiched between one or more telegraph wires running overhead and the return currents from those lines coursing beneath, a portion of which flowed along the metal rails themselves, upon which the passenger cars rode.

Passengers and train personnel commonly suffered from the same complaints later reported by telegraph and telephone operators: fatigue, irritability, headaches, chronic dizziness and nausea, insomnia, tinnitus, weakness, and numbness. They had rapid heart beat, bounding pulse, facial flushing, chest pains, depression, and sexual dysfunction. Some became grossly overweight.

Some bled from the nose, or spat blood. Their eyes hurt, with a “dragging” sensation, as if they were being pulled into their sockets. Their vision and their hearing deteriorated, and a few became gradually paralysed. A decade later they would have been diagnosed with neurasthenia—as many railroad employees later were.

1889

In 1889, power line harmonic radiation began. From that year forward the earth’s magnetic field bore the imprint of power line frequencies and their harmonics. In that year, exactly, the natural magnetic activity of the earth began to be suppressed. This has affected all life on earth. The power line age was ushered in by the 1889 pandemic of influenza.

1889

1st Global Electrical System = Russian Flu Epidemic Also called the “Russian Flu Epidemic of 1889”.

In 1889, most historians agree, the modern electrical era opened. And in 1889, as if the heavens had suddenly opened as well, doctors in the Americas, Europe, Asia, Africa, and Australia were overwhelmed by a flood of critically ill patients suffering from a strange disease that seemed to have come like a thunderbolt from nowhere, a disease that many of these doctors had never seen before. That disease was influenza, and that pandemic lasted four continuous years and killed at least one million people.

1889: First appearance of a global electrical system, thousands of miles of electrical tracks laid down, first appearance of alternating-current generating stations. Then, the first modern global influenza pandemic started in the fall of 1889, killing more than 1 million people and appearing simultaneously all over the globe, faster than any transportation at the time, suggesting contagion played no role in the outbreak.

Influenza Is an Electrical Disease.

Monument to Marconi on The Site of His Original Wireless Transmitting Tower

In 1897, Guglielmo Marconi erected the world's first permanent radio station tower on the Isle of Wight a large island off the South coast of England.

Jacques Arsène d'Arsonval, a distinguished physicist and medic, is remembered today for his many contributions in both fields. He devised ultra-sensitive meters to measure magnetic fields, and equipment to measure heat production and respiration in animals.

D'Arsonval measured the same changes in oxygen consumption and carbon dioxide production as with low frequency currents. These facts proved, he wrote, "that the currents of high frequency penetrate deeply into the organism."

These early results should have made anyone experimenting with radio waves think twice before exposing the whole world to them indiscriminately. Marconi, however, was unfamiliar with d'Arsonval's work. Largely self-educated, the inventor had no inkling of radio's potential dangers and no fear of it.

Therefore when he powered up his new transmitter on the island he had no suspicion that he might be doing himself or anyone else any harm.

Marconi started experiencing health issues. By 1904, he was occupied with building a permanent super-high-power radio link across the Atlantic Ocean, his bouts of chills and fevers had become so severe that it was thought they were recurrences of malaria.

1904 Bees began to die.

1905 Marconi married Beatrice O'Brien, who lived in the station house surrounded by twenty-eight huge radio towers. Her ears began to ring. Three months later she was severely ill. She spent most of her 9 month pregnancy on the island being bombarded with powerful radio waves and the baby died a few weeks after birth of "unknown causes."

1906 ninety percent of the honey bees had disappeared from the entire island for no apparent reason. The bees left could not fly, were very weak and dying.

During 1915 and 1916, the United Kingdom made progress in installing thirteen long-range stations in various parts of the world in order to keep in contact with its navy.

Then, in 1917, an event occurred that changed the electrical environment of the rest of the world. Millions of dollars of United States government money were suddenly mobilized in a crash program to equip the Army, Navy, and Air Force with the most modern communication capability possible.

Bee Keepers Reported a Great Loss of Bees.

In 1917, working under the British Board of Invention and Research, Canadian physicists Robert William Boyle and Albert B. Wood, produced a prototype active sound detection system.

SONAR 1918

In 1918, the radio era began. It began with the building of hundreds of powerful radio stations at LF and VLF frequencies, the frequencies guaranteed to most alter the magnetosphere. The radio era was ushered in by the Spanish influenza pandemic of 1918.

LINK - Did Rockefeller Create the Spanish Flu Pandemic?

1918: 1st Radio Transmissions go live world-wide in 1917 = Spanish Flu Pandemic of 1918.

A puzzling observation was that so few patients in 1918 had sore throats, runny noses, or other initial respiratory symptoms. But neurological symptoms, just as in the pandemic of 1889, were rampant, even in mild cases.

Many attempts to demonstrate contagion had met resounding failure.

1918: The great flu pandemic. At that time, the U.S. installed 13 giant radio and communications transmitters throughout the world. They all went live in late 1917 through the end of 1918. For the first time, radio signals could be heard in every part of the globe.

At that time, the “Spanish flu” affected one-third of the world’s population, killing tens of millions of people. It occurred in places like the Antarctica, which had no contact with the outside world. The first known cases were 1,127 radio operators at Camp Funston, Kansas. They were the first to use wireless transmitters. Patients mostly died because of changes in coagulation of the blood, a known and recognized effect at that time of “electricity sickness.”

The other interesting point is that the most affected were the young and healthy, not the old and infirm. Attempts to prove contagion of the illness were uniformly unsuccessful.

The 1918 Spanish flu pandemic (H1N1 Virus) was caused by the sudden influx of radio waves all over the planet. During World War II the invention of radar triggered a similar death toll.

Radio Waves + Invention of SONAR = H1N1 Spanish Flu Pandemic 1946

1G = 1st Zika Virus.

Mobile Telephone Service, Motorola company launched the first commercial MTS in US in 1946, likewise a number of companies in different countries emerged. Before the evolution of the first Generation wireless network or 1G there was a pre cellular technology, countries like US started using it in the year 1946.

Zika virus first isolated in 1947 in the Ziika Forest of Uganda.

Radar, first used extensively during World War II, was deployed on a spectacular scale by the United States during the mid-1950's.

The Mid-Canada Line, extending 2,700 miles from Hopedale, Labrador to Dawson Creek, British Columbia, consisted of 98 powerful Doppler radars 30 miles apart and roughly 300 miles north of the Pinetree Line. Construction of the first station began on October 1, 1956.

58 stations of DEW Line along the 69th parallel north of the Arctic Circle installed.

Towers equipped with long-range radars went up along the Atlantic coast, Cape Cod, NY Harbour, activated in early summer 1957.

In 1957, the radar era began. It began with the building of hundreds of powerful early warning radar stations that littered the high latitudes of the northern hemisphere, hurling millions of watts of microwave energy skyward.

Low-frequency components of these waves rode on magnetic field lines to the southern hemisphere, polluting it as well. The radar era was ushered in by the Asian flu pandemic of 1957.

1957

White Alice Comm System goes live November 1956 = Asian Flu Pandemic of 1957

1957: Asian flu pandemic. This outbreak coincided with the installation of the White Alice Communication systems installed throughout Alaska with signals powerful enough to cover the globe. It went live in November 1956; the flu pandemic started in the fall of 1957.

First reported in Singapore in February 1957, a new influenza A (H2N2) virus emerged and became known as the “Asian flu.” It spread throughout China and its surrounding regions first, and it arrived in the US by that summer.

HFMD (Hand Foot and Mouth Disease) cases were first described clinically in Canada and New Zealand in 1957

A decade later the United States launched the world’s first constellation of military satellites into orbit at an altitude of about 18,000 nautical miles, right in the heart of the outer Van Allen radiation belt. Called the Initial Defence Communication Satellite Program (IDCSP), its 28 satellites became operational after the last eight were launched on June 13, 1968.

In each case—in 1889, 1918, 1957, and 1968—the electrical envelope of the earth and to which we are all attached by invisible strings, was suddenly and profoundly disturbed.

In 1968, the satellite era began. It began with the launch of dozens of satellites whose broadcast power was relatively weak. But since they were already in the magnetosphere, they had as big an effect on it as the small amount of radiation that managed to enter it from sources on the ground. The satellite era was ushered in by the Hong Kong flu pandemic of 1968.

1968

IDCSP becomes operational 1966 = Hong Kong Flu H3N2

1968: Hong Kong flu.

On June 12, 1968, the U.S. went live with the first global military satellites called the Initial Defence Communication Satellite Program. It was the first time a global communication system was inserted directly into the earth's outer radiation belt, called the Van Allen belt. This disrupted the magnetic field globally in an unprecedented way. The Hong Kong flu, which killed millions, began in July 1968.

Every pandemic is linked to “a quantum leap in the electrification the earth,” to the introduction of radio waves around the earth. In 1968 the sudden infusion of satellites into the Van Allen belt around the Earth created yet another increase in unexplained deaths. Since 1968, two landmarks events in the history of EMFs occurred: the introduction of the wireless cellular technology, followed by the High Frequency Active Auroral Research Program (HAARP).

The dates and the flu pandemics associated with these events are not as clear as in the previous four, and it’s also possible that these were not marked by a flu pandemic as much as the dramatic increases in diabetes, heart disease, and neuro-degenerative diseases. It seems that humans (actually all living things) have adapted to a new but lower level of health.

After the Hong Kong flu epidemic, doctors and scientists, not suspecting a link between the electro-magnetic environment and these pandemics, investigated whether influenza was caused by a contagious agent, such as a virus.

However, the flu broke out in many places at once around the globe, spreading faster than any living thing could travel. Finally, the Public Health Department in Boston decided to investigate just how contagious influenza was. Here is what they found:–

In a further experiment with new volunteers and donors, the salt solution was eliminated and with cotton swabs, the material was transferred directly from nose to nose, and from throat to throat, using donors in the first, second and third day of the disease. NONE of these volunteers who received the material thus directly transferred from cases took sick in any way—All of the volunteers received at least two and some of them three ‘shots’ as they expressed it.”

Simply put, these and many other studies failed to provide any support that influenza was a contagious, microbial disease.

Rudolf Steiner, when commenting about the 1918 pandemic, apparently said the “virus” they were finding was just a mineralised excretion of the cells. In other words, the cells were poisoned (he thought by some part of “sub-nature”), which caused changes in the crystalline water of the cell, thereby producing illness. The body tries to detoxify itself by ridding itself of toxins, which we have been led to believe are contagious viruses.

Dr. Thomas Cowan perfectly explained the irradiation of the earth by gradually increasing amounts of electricity in the air throughout the course of the 20th century.

Viruses, Cowan explained, are the excretions of a toxic cell which happens when the cell is poisoned. Viruses are not the actual cause of anything.

How does the whole world get the same symptoms at the same time?
Better check your Smart Phone?

There has been a dramatic and quantum leap in the past six months with the electrification of the earth, Begich explained. It’s called 5G.

The 20,000 satellites now circling the Earth are not compatible with health. we are electric beings. The first completely blanketed 5G city in the world is Wuhan, China.

Susceptibility depends on how much metal you have in your body, which is increased by simply breathing in air which has been polluted by metals you see in the sky (chemtrails-atmospheric aerosol injection) and adjuvants used in the vaccines you accept.

When you start injecting aluminium in people, they become receptors of radio waves for absorbing EMFs. The deterioration of species’ which is what we’re now experiencing. - John Kaminski 23 March 2020.

1976

1976 Remote control devices = EBOLA

The first known Ebola outbreaks in humans struck simultaneously in the Republic of the Sudan and the Democratic Republic of Congo in 1976. Most remote control devices—the gadgets that open garages and car doors, and operate television sets—communicate using infrared radiation.

The problem with computers In 1977, Apple gave the world a revolutionary new device. The personal computer, as it came to be known, was powered by a new type of gadget called a switch mode power supply. If you have a laptop, it's the little transformer/charger that you plug into the wall.

This gift from Apple was much lighter in weight, more efficient, and more versatile than previous methods of supplying low-voltage DC power to electrical equipment. It had only one glaring fault: instead of delivering only pure DC, it also polluted the electric power grid, the earth, the atmosphere, and even outer space with a broad range of frequencies. But its usefulness made it rapidly indispensable to the mushrooming electronics industry.

Today computers, televisions, fax machines, cell phone chargers, and most other electronic equipment used in home and industry depend on it.

Computers, and all other electronic equipment that contains digital circuitry, also emit ultrasonic radiation from other components.

Dimmer switches. Another device that chops up 50- or 60-cycle current is the ubiquitous dimmer switch. Here, too, the traditional variable resistor has been replaced with something else.

Instead of a smooth flow of 50 or 60-cycle electricity, you get a tumultuous mixture of higher harmonics that flows through the light bulb, pollutes house wiring, and irritates the nervous system.

A large portion of these unwanted frequencies are in the ultrasonic range.

Power lines. As early as the 1970's, Hiroshi Kikuchi, at Nihon University in Tokyo, reported that significant amounts of high frequency currents were occurring on the power grid due to transformers, motors, generators, and electronic equipment. And some of it was radiating into space.

On the ground, radiation in a continuous spectrum from 50 Hz to as high as 100 MHz was being measured. In 1978, small devices appeared in Radio Shack stores that transmitted at 120 kHz. Consumers could plug them in and use the wiring in their walls to carry signals that enabled them to control lamps and other appliances remotely from command consoles.

Smart Meter Smart Grid, presently under construction all over the world. See links at bottom of page.

1G = Influenza A(H3N2), HIV/AIDS

The first analog cellular system widely deployed in North America was the Advanced Mobile Phone System (AMPS). It was commercially introduced in the Americas in 1978, Israel in 1986, and Australia in 1987.

1G is the first generation wireless mobile communication technology, 1G or first generation of wireless network was introduced in the year 1980, the technology used in the 1G Mobile phones was analogue telecommunications and the radio signal used in the 1G network was analogue.

In the year 1981, the first ever international roaming featured mobile network was launched in Denmark, Finland, Sweden, and Norway.

2G = Continuation of Influenza A, HIV/AIDS

In the 1990's, the 'second generation' mobile phone systems emerged. It differed from the previous generation by using digital instead of analog transmission. The rise in mobile phone usage as a result of 2G was explosive and this era also saw the advent of prepaid mobile phones.

2G is the second generation wireless mobile communication technology, the 2G commercial services were launched in Finland in the year 1991.

In 1993, IBM Simon was introduced. This was possibly the world's first smart-phone. It was a mobile phone, pager, fax machine, and PDA all rolled into one. It included a calendar, address book, clock, calculator, notepad, email, and a touch screen with a QWERTY keyboard. Surprisingly, it also had apps.

A sudden spike in diabetes cases occurred nationwide in 1997—a 31 percent increase in a single year. No one was able to explain why.

But that was the year the telecommunications industry introduced digital cell phones en masse to the United States. The first such phones went on sale in dozens of American cities during the Christmas season of 1996.

Construction of cell towers began in those cities during 1996, but 1997 was the year that battalions of towers, previously confined to metropolises, marched out over the rural landscapes to occupy previously virgin territory. That was the year cell phones were transformed from a rich person's luxury to the common person's soon-to-be necessity—the year microwave radiation from towers and antennas became inescapable over large parts of the United States.

Diabetes, obesity, and cancer are diseases related to electrification.

About eighty million Americans today have “ringing in the ears” to some degree. Tinnitus rates have been rising for at least the last thirty years, and dramatically so for the last twenty.

Most of these people do not have tinnitus, which is an internally generated sound, often in one ear, usually accompanied by some degree of hearing loss. Most people today who have “ringing in the ears” hear it equally in both ears, have perfect hearing, and are hearing a pitch at the very top of their hearing range.

They are hearing the electricity around them, and it is getting louder all the time. The clues to what is happening were planted over two centuries ago. French electrotherapist Jean Baptiste Le Roy, in 1755, was apparently the first to elicit an auditory response to static electricity.

1997-98 3G =H3N2 and SARS

The first 3G services was launched commercially in the year 1998 by NTT Docomo in Japan.

In 1998, the launch of the 66-satellite constellation called Iridium brought cell phone service for the first time to the vast un-served regions of the earth, previously owned by penguins and whales.

The commencement of service by the second satellite cell phone company, Globalstar, was again accompanied by widespread sudden illness. Globalstar announced the beginning of full commercial service in the United States and Canada from its 48 satellites on Monday, February 28, 2000.

Widespread reports of nausea, headaches, leg pain, respiratory problems, depression, and lack of energy began.

Iridium, which had gone bankrupt in the summer of 1999, was resurrected on December 5, 2000, when it signed a contract to provide satellite phones to the United States Armed Forces. On March 30, 2001, commercial service was resumed, and on June 5, Iridium added mobile satellite data services, including the ability to connect to the Internet. Nausea, flu-like symptoms, and feelings of oppression accompanied both events. Hoarseness was a prominent complaint.

2002 3G cell towers on Mount Nardi, Australia installed, immediate decline in insect population.

2.75G EDGE was launched in 2003 by AT&T in the US

2002-2004 SARS outbreak was an epidemic involving severe acute respiratory syndrome (SARS) caused by SARS-CoV. The outbreak was first identified in Foshan, Guangdong, China, in November 2002.

3G coverage in the mid-2000's

2009 “enhanced 3G” added to Mount Nardi communications tower, 27 bird species left the mountain.

4G = Swine Flu

2009 H1N1 'Swine Flu' Pandemic.

The first 4G services was launched commercially in the year 2009 by Norway, Oslo, Stockholm, and Sweden in the name of 4G LTE.

In early 2013, when 4G was installed on Mount Nardi, a further 49 bird species left, all bat species became scarce, four common species of cicada almost disappeared, frog populations were drastically reduced, and the massive and diverse populations of moths, butterflies, and ants became uncommon to rare.

MERS outbreak in 2015 in South Korea

Ebola outbreak in 2014-2016

Zika Virus outbreak in 2015-2016. 2019-2020 and beyond.....

5G = CORONA VIRUS (COVID-19)

This is going to get worse in the '2nd wave', which the 'officials and CV task force' are telling us will come in the fall. Your children are at great risk when they go back to school where they are installing the 5G systems. There will be a 'mystery illness' that 'THEY' will blame on a 'virus' and the plan is to VACCINATE everybody on earth. It's all about depopulation and total control.

What we are witnessing (collectively as earthlings) is the roll-out of AGENDA 2030.

If you still have not realized what is going on, then you have been heavily programmed and brainwashed into believing you can 'catch' viruses.

Viruses are when our own cells are poisoned and the secretion from our cells is the 'virus'. It is dead, it is not living. It is basically a solvent, or (detergent), which cleans out the toxicity in our bodies.

This occurs two times a year, in the spring and in the fall. Those of us who are healthy will only get sniffles or a mild cold. Those of you who are unhealthy and full of toxins will become more seriously ill, produce phlegm, stuffy, and, well, sick. DO NOT GET ANY VACCINATIONS, EVER!

There are healthy and natural ways to beat sicknesses.

The powers that be are using these 'outbreaks' to cause fear and panic and to persuade you to get vaccinated.

The only way you can 'catch' COVID-19 is if you get the Vaccine, which has the Bill Gates patented CV-19 virus in it. All other 'cases' are simply misdiagnosis and being labelled as COVID-19.

Why? It's all about the money. A hospital gets $13K for 'COVID' patients, and if they are put on a respirator the hospital gets $39K. About 80% of those put on respirators die because when the body cannot absorb oxygen via the haemoglobin, a respirator forcing oxygen into you will only kill you.

Haemoglobin in blood carries oxygen from the lungs to the rest of the body.

Radio frequency WiFi radiation causes the oxygen molecules to spin and the haemoglobin cannot transport oxygen to your body. This is what RF millimetre waves do to oxygen molecules.

Just think of what a microwave does to your food inside the microwave. It does it to you, but you don't need to be in the microwave.

If you own an RF meter, you can see for yourself how high our devices are in radiation.

Joe Imbriano is the best at explaining the dangers of 5G millimeter waves. See link below.

It's time to get educated people! STOP believing the liars of the Mainstream Media, the doctors that follow satanic-medical-protocol that NEVER heals or treats the cause, and the governments that claim they are “here to help”!

It should be obvious by now that the NEWS, the Medical Mafia, and BIG GOVERNMENT is NOT HERE TO HELP. They are here to oppress and enslave.

Find out more about COVID-19 and the TRUTH HERE: This is not a virus, it is an AGENDA!!!
