Calling The True Israel Peoples

Editorial

Dear Reader,

The Hand of Yahweh in The Current Crisis

As we witness the crumbling of Babylon, it is possible to see the hand of Yahweh punishing His people for going after strange gods and worshipping the “Image of the Beast”. The church talks of a great revival prior to Christ’s second coming, However the Scriptures state otherwise:

Will there be a great Christian revival coming from the churches? God answers in Ezekiel 34:10, “Behold, I am against the shepherds (that’s funny, Jesus said the same thing!) and I will require my flock at their hand, and cause them to cease from feeding the flock (end their ministries, empty their churches), neither shall the shepherds feed themselves anymore; for I will deliver my flock from their mouth (Israelites will stop hanging on to their every word) that they may not be meat for them.” Sounds like the end of the churches to me, all praise be to God. For He is emptying out the churches to restore His folk!! Quote from Adam De Witt’s book, The Fall and Rise of Abraham’s Kin.

Those who engross themselves in the mass media, TV, Smart Phones, etc., which emit subliminal scalar wave mind control signals will readily be conditioned to receive the vaccines designed to turn them into compliant slaves of the state and much worse. Already reports are coming in of people dying after receiving the shot or succumbing to disabling ailments.

However, on a brighter note, it states in Obidiah 8: “Jacob will be a fire and Joseph a flame; Esau will be stubble, and they will set him on fire and destroy him. There will be no survivors from Esau. The Lord has spoken”.

While there have been previously perilous times and great tribulation here on Earth affecting large areas of the planet, such as Noah’s flood, this is the first time a crisis has encompassed the whole world since the creation of Adam! The sad fact is, that many of our kith and kin will fall to the whiles of the enemy because of their fixation on a false reality created on their media - But praise Yahweh the darkest hour is before the dawn of a new era!!

Part 1: 666: Coronavirus and the Mark of the Beast

The Great Apostasy Predicted by Paul

2 Thess 2:1 Now we beseech you, brethren, by the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, and by our gathering together unto him,

2 Thess 2:2 That ye be not soon shaken in mind, or be troubled, neither by spirit, nor by word, nor by letter as from us, as that the day of Christ is at hand.

2 Thess 2:3 Let no man deceive you by any means: for that day shall not come, except there come a falling away first, (apostasia, a defection from the true faith, modernism, antinomianism, ecumenism, materialism, etc.) and that man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition;

2 Thess 2:4 Who opposeth and exalteth himself above all that is called God, or that is worshipped; so that he as God sitteth in the temple of God, shewing himself that he is God.

This is what the 700 Club calls “encouraging content”? First minute:

The Mark of the Beast Is Introduced

Rev 13:16 And he causeth all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to receive a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads:

Rev 13:17 And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name.

Rev 13:18 Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is Six hundred threescore and six.

To Whom or What Does the Number 666 Apply?

AS YOU CAN PROBABLY GUESS, the number 666 has appeared in the alternative media with great frequency in the early 21st Century because of technological and legal developments regarding vaccines and globalism. However, both mass media and mainstream churchianity have ignored this subject with embarrassing aplomb. This is because MSM, news and entertainment, collectively, are the “image of the Beast.” And churchianity, ie, the Great Apostasy predicted by Paul in II Thess. 2, is the “False Prophet.” (These two subjects to be covered in greater detail in later instalments.)

Revelation 14 gives us a bit more information about this mark:

Rev 14:8 And there followed another angel, saying, Babylon is fallen, is fallen, that great city, because she made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication.

Rev 14:9 And the third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand,

Rev 14:10 The same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation; and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels, and in the presence of the Lamb:

Rev 14:11 And the smoke of their torment ascendeth up for ever and ever: and they have no rest day nor night, who worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his name.

What is The Mark?

A doctor implants an RFID chip in a patient's hand. Paul Hughes / Wikimedia Commons, CC BY-SA

Many domestic pets are micro-chipped with RFID, encoding information that helps them reunite with their owners if they get lost. Some humans have also chosen to microchip themselves so their bodies can wirelessly communicate with identification systems – and that's where the evangelicals get upset.

What does a chip implant have to do with the Bible? Believers see echoes of RFID chips in a short passage in the Book of Revelation

My research has found that they made the connection for two main reasons. First, when bio-hackers chip themselves, they typically put the RFID chip into the palm of one hand because it's easy to wave that at sensors to open doors or process payments, and the scripture specifically mentions the mark on a person's hand. In addition, some people have injected RFID chips containing credit card payment information, (into their hands).

The authors of a best-selling book about RFID and surveillance – “Spy-chips” – published an alternative version targeted at evangelical Christians... The main RFID industry publication even published a refutation of those claims. Of course, the secular world and MSM are not going publicize information that provides any warning whatsoever.

In the years since, the connection between RFID and the mark has remained prominent. In 2017, a Wisconsin company offered to pay for its employees to get RFID implants – if they voluntarily chose to. The company’s Google business listing was flooded with more than 100 one-star reviews, many of which said it was a sin to use RFID as a form of identification or payment. Some of them were specific about what was wrong, saying the company was “doing the dirty work for Satan himself” and urging employees to “read your Bible. This is the first sign of the mark of the beast.”

Charles Walton, the Inventor of the RFID Chip:

The first of Walton's RFID-related creations, a portable radio frequency emitting identifier uses an electrical current from a radio transceiver, or reader, to activate a key card when the two are within six inches of each other. This invention served as the basis for his first successful product, a type of sensor-based, electronic door key.

Walton developed the product with the Schlage lock company. The system went into production in the late 1970's, and Walton licensed the technology to other companies as well. Many of today's popular key-card/sensor lock systems are based on his original design.

Walton's other RFID devices include two different types of RFID tags and a digital version of RFID that made it possible to change data on key cards, a technology now owned by Westinghouse. He also developed a system for handling automated toll collection. He sold other technologies to companies such as Checkpoint and the Hughes Identification Company. In 2004, he patented a "Proximity card with incorporated PIN code protection."

Though in the 1970's and 1980's, the bar code was the preferred solution for identifying products in stores and warehouses, mostly because it was much less expensive than an RFID card or tag was then. Today, RFID technology is commonly used everywhere from warehouses to retail stores. Walton's original patents, however, have since expired, and many more RFID device companies have appeared on the playing field.

Walton died in 2011 at the age of 89.

Mr. Walton, who later became a Christian, began to realize that his invention presaged the Mark of the Beast: Video on how the RFID chip was invented: Here.

5G and the Mark

In the past, many Christians thought the mark of the beast was the social security system, but buying and selling doesn't require a social security number, although it's impossible to get a job without one. And many Christians in the 1930's thought the reason Roosevelt and his progressive Democrats outlawed gold coins was because of their trade value and the fact that they had no serial number and couldn't be tracked. They argued that paper money has a serial number that can be recorded and tracked.

Our primary source of income, our employers, will be tied to the 5G wireless banking system. The banning of private ownership of gold and the creation of the social security system may have been an attempt to establish the mark of the beast, but it couldn't work because the technology wasn't available to monitor every personal transaction of every person on the planet.

Besides that, cash cannot be tracked or monitored because it's physical currency and could change hands numerous times before it gets back to a bank. The technology just wasn't available to monitor every transaction at the time. However, intelligent connectivity, artificial intelligence, can be used to monitor every individual transaction world wide.

Once 5G technology is fully implemented, it will allow banksters to eliminate cash entirely, and it will give them and the government total control over everyone's assets and transactions. Banksters will be able to monitor every transaction by everyone on the planet. Our primary source of income, our employers, will be tied to the 5G wireless banking system. We will not be able to buy, sell or profit without using the system, unless we barter or create our own silver and gold coins - that without a doubt will be criminalized by Congress again.

Without a doubt, 5G is the technology that will usher in the Mark of the Beast.

What You Need to Know: COVID-19-vaccine

From the mouth of the Bill Gates itself: that you need to know about the COVID-19 vaccine
By Bill Gates - April 30, 2020 10 minute read.

One of the questions I get asked the most these days is when the world will be able to go back to the way things were in December before the coronavirus pandemic. My answer is always the same: when we have an almost perfect drug to treat COVID-19, or when almost every person on the planet has been vaccinated against coronavirus.

Humankind has never had a more urgent task than creating broad immunity for coronavirus. Realistically, if we're going to return to normal, we need to develop a safe, effective vaccine. We need to make billions of doses, we need to get them out to every part of the world, and we need all of this to happen as quickly as possible.

That sounds daunting, because it is. Our foundation is the biggest funder of vaccines in the world, and this effort dwarfs anything we've ever worked on before. It's going to require a global cooperative effort like the world has never seen. But I know it'll get done. There's simply no alternative.

Here's what you need to know about the race to create a COVID-19 vaccine. The world is creating this vaccine on a historically fast timeline.

Dr. Anthony Fauci has said he thinks it'll take around eighteen months to develop a coronavirus vaccine. I agree with him, though it could be as little as 9 months or as long as two years.

Although eighteen months might sound like a long time, this would be the fastest scientists have created a new vaccine. Development usually takes around five years. Once you pick a disease to target, you have to create the vaccine and test it on animals. Then you begin testing for safety and efficacy in humans.

This process works well for most vaccines, but the normal development timeline isn't good enough right now. Every day we can cut from this process will make a huge difference to the world in terms of saving lives and reducing trillions of dollars in economic damage.

So, to speed up the process, vaccine developers are compressing the timeline. This graphic shows how: Imprintable Tattoos:

Scientists at Penn State University have now developed one they say can be safely printed directly onto the skin, where it can track things like body temperature and blood oxygen levels, before being washed off once the job is done.

Charagma

Microchip implants, 666, Chi-Xi-Stigma, Charagma, Epi Author is "Riding the Beast"

Charagma - The Mark in Mark of the Beast

The Greek word for mark is charagma. Strong's Concordance defines charagma as "a scratch or etching", "a badge of servitude", "graven", and finally "mark" [5]. Strong's also notes that charagma is directly related to the Greek word charax, which means "to sharpen to a point" and also describes "a stake" [6].

As noted above, one of the definitions of Charagma is graven. The American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language defines graven as follows:

1. To sculpt or carve; engrave.
2. To stamp or impress deeply; fix permanently.

Liddell and Scott's An Intermediate Greek-English Lexicon defines charagma as "the mark of a pointed instrument, a tattoo-mark, brand" [7].

From these definitions we get a clear picture of a surface being pierced by a sharp point, or the act of using a tool to engrave. The relationship between the Mark of the Beast (charagma) and a syringe that pierces the skin is obvious. It's also been noted that a microchip is etched or engraved during its production [8].

The definitions of charagma — coupled with the fact that sub-dermal microchips are injected using a specialized syringe — make it clear that the Mark of the Beast could very well be a microchip implanted into the hand.

The earliest use of the word Charagma outside of the Bible describes the piercing bite of a snake. There's a disturbing connection between the piercing serpent Satan (Isaiah 27:1), the "bite of the serpent" (charagma), and syringe-injectable microchips. This verse brings to mind the serpent in Revelation 20:2 which gives power to the Beast (Revelation 13:4).

"[Charagma] is an engraved, etched, branded or inscribed 'mark' or 'sign'. Closest to the original sense [...] is the earliest example in Soph. Phil., 267, where [charagma] denotes the bite of a snake."

Theological Dictionary of the New Testament (vol 9, page 416): "any mark engraved, imprinted, or branded, ch. echidnes the serpent's mark, i.e. its bite, sting"Charagma - Henry George Liddell, Robert Scott, A Greek-English Lexicon

RidingTheBeast.com

I challenge you to think of something in the natural world that resembles a syringe more closely than the fang of a snake!

The book of Amos mentions the day of the Lord and a serpent bite to the hand in consecutive verses. The lion and bear mentioned in the same passage also bring to mind the beast in Revelation 13:2. This may foreshadow the Mark of the Beast in the last days.

Amos 5:18. Woe unto you that desire the day of the Lord! to what end is it for you? the day of the Lord is darkness, and not light.

19. As if a man did flee from a lion, and a bear met him; or went into the house, and leaned his hand on the wall, and a serpent bit him.

He that diggeth a pit shall fall into it; and whoso breaketh an hedge, a serpent shall bite him.
Ecclesiastes 10:8

A hedge symbolizes protection, so let God take care of you! It may prove to be a blessing to give your life rather than accept the bite of the serpent, the charagma, the Mark of the Beast.

And I saw thrones, and they sat upon them, and judgment was given unto them: and I saw the souls of them that were beheaded for the witness of Jesus, and for the word of God, and which had not worshipped the beast, neither his image, neither had received his mark upon their foreheads, or in their hands; and they lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years. Revelation 20:4

Chi-Xi-Stigma - Six Hundred Threescore and Six - 666.

Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is Six hundred threescore and six. Revelation 13:18.

Early Biblical translators chose to spell out the number 666 - Six hundred threescore and six. This is one of the rare exceptions in the English Bible where a number is spelled out instead of using a numeric representation. This treatment of 666 brings focus to the individual characters which allow us to gain a further understanding of the Mark of the Beast.

If we look at the Greek we see that 666 is presented with three letters: Chi - Xi - Stigma. The numeric values of these three Greek letters add up to 666.

Token of Perdition

Another intriguing definition of stigma in its English usage is "token". Anyone familiar with digital security will recognize a token as a physical device that's used to gain various levels of access [11]. That's exactly what a microchip implant is – a security token.

Ultimately, the ideal solution for merchants will be a reader that is based on an open standard and capable of accepting each card's contactless token. The convergence of contactless payment "I wanted to get chipped," he says. "It's entirely up to me what I put on my chip, I've been involved with authentication for 20 years, working with biometrics, and I was promoting the token. Now I am the token." RFID is literally getting under people's skin.

That was well over a decade ago and now these contactless tokens come standard in most credit cards and phones. Stores are readily able to accept such tokens regardless of whether they're embedded in plastic or flesh. The buying and selling is in place. How much longer until implanted security tokens become mainstream?

The definition of "token" for stigma provides a hint that the mark will be readily adopted due its close relationship to money, identification, and commerce. And where any of these are found, security is close by. Security will play a significant role in selling the Mark of the Beast (1 Thessalonians 5:3).

Many Eastern traditions also hold that Chi is an internal energy flow. While traditionally a spiritual belief, it's still an interesting fact that future versions of these microchips could be powered by an internal energy source like Thermo Life.

The shape of Xi as written in Greek shares a close likeness to a curled up snake ready to strike. Stigma also resembles a serpent that is coiled and ready to strike. This is another hint to Charagma as the bite of a serpent. And as noted by one of our readers, the antenna located in a microchip is a coil of wire.

Old Testament

“Word for Word” Deuteronomy Part 16

Translation by Stephen Howard Anderson

Chapter 22

1. You shall not see your kinsman's 251 ox 7794 or his sheep 7716 go astray 5080, and hide yourself 5956 from them: you shall surely return 7725/7725 them to your kinsman.

2. And if he is not a near 7138 kinsman to you, or if you do not know who he is, then you shall gather 622 it to the midst 8432 of your house, and it shall be with you until that kinsman seeks after 1875 it, and you shall return it to him.

3. In a like manner 3651 you shall do with his ass 2543; and you shall do with his his mantle 8071; and with all lost things 9 of your kinsman's, which he lost 6, and you have found 4672, and you shall do likewise: you may not hide yourself.

4. You shall not see your kinsman's ass, or his ox fall down by the wayside, and hide yourself from them: you shall surely raise them up 6965 together 5973.

5. A woman 802 shall not wear garments 3627 of a man 1397, neither shall a man put on 3847 a woman's garment 8071; because all that do so are abomination 8441 to Yahweh Eloheycha.

6. If you come across 7122 a bird's 6833 nest 7064 before you in the way, in any tree, or on the ground, with young ones 667 or eggs 1000, and the mother 517 is laying 7257 upon the young, or upon the eggs, you shall not take the mother with the young:

7. but you shall surely let go 7971/7971 the mother, and take the young to you; that it may be well with you, and you may lengthen 748 your days.

8. When you build a new house, you shall make a parapet 4624 for your roof, so that you do not bring blood guilt upon your house, if anyone falls from there.

9. You shall not sow 2232 your vineyard 3754 with mixed seed 3610, lest be made unholy 6942 the harvest 3754 of the seed 2233 which you have sown, and the harvest of your vineyard.

10. You shall not plough 2790 with an ox and an ass together 3162.

11. You shall not wear 3827 mixed materials 8162 of wool 6785 and linen 6593 together.

12. Tassels 1434 you shall make upon the four 702 corners 3671 of your covering 3682 with which you cover yourself 3680.

13. If any man takes a wife, and goes in to her, and hates 8130 her,

14. and charges 7760 wanton 5949 matters 1697 against her, and brings forth upon her a name that is evil 7451, and says, "I took this woman, and when I approached 7126 her, I found 4672 no 3808 virginity 1331."

15. Then shall take the father of the damsel 5291, and her mother, and shall come forth with the virginity token 1331 of the damsel to the elders of the city in the gate;

16. and shall say the father of the damsel to the elders, "My daughter 1323 I gave to this man as a wife, and he hates her;

17. and behold, he places 7760 in effect 5949, words 1697 against her, saying, "I did not find in your daughter virginity 1331!" but this 428 is the virginity token of my daughter." And they shall spread 6566 the bed covering 8071 before the elders of the city.

18. And the elders of the city shall take the man and chastise 3256 him:

19. and they shall fine 6064 him a hundred shekels of silver, and give them to the father of the damsel, because the man has brought forth an evil name upon a virgin 1330 of Yisrael: and she shall be his wife; he may 3201 not 3808 send her away 7971 all his days.

20. But, if this thing is true 571, and the tokens of virginity are not found for the damsel;

21. then they shall bring forth the damsel to the door of her father's house, and the men of the city shall stone 5619 her with stones 68 so that she dies. Because she has done folly 5039 in Yisrael, to act as a harlot 2181 in her father's house. So you shall remove 1197 wickedness 7451 from among you.

22. If a man is found lying 7901 with a woman married 1166 to a husband 1167, then they shall both 8147 die, the man that lay with the woman, and the woman. So you shall remove wickedness from Yisrael.

23. If a damsel, a virgin, is betrothed 781 to a man, and another man finds her in the city, and lies with her;

24. then you shall bring them both to the gate of that city, and you shall stone them with stones so that they die; the damsel because she did not cry out 6817 in the city, and the man, because he has humbled 6031 another man's wife. So you shall remove wickedness from among you.

25. But if a man finds a betrothed damsel in the field, and the man seizes 2388 her, and lies with her: then only the man that lay with her shall die:

26. but to the damsel you shall do nothing; in the damsel is no sin 2399 to death 4194: because as when a man rises up against another, and murders 7523 him, even so is this matter:

27. because he found her in the field, and the betrothed damsel cried, and there was none to save 3467 her.

28. If a man finds a virgin damsel, that is not betrothed, and seizes her, and lies with her, and they are found;

29. then that man that lay with her shall give to the damsel's father fifty shekels of silver, and she shall be his wife, because he has humbled her, and he shall not send her away all his days.

CHAPTER 22 NOTES

Chapter 22 is loaded with serious rules for behaviour.

Verses 1-4 - It starts off with helping your racial kinsman with straying livestock, overburdened animals falling down, and in general "helping your neighbour".

Verse 5 prohibits "cross-dressing", and in today's permissive society, full of sodomites, this is a major infraction.

Verses 6 and 7 deal with birds' eggs, and chicks. If you take a mother bird, you wipe out a breeder. Soon you will have fewer birds. Also, not letting the mother see her young taken is merciful. Even a bird receives compassion from Yahweh. How much more so an adam?

Verse 8 is about a safety rail for your flat roof, which they used as an open-air room in Yisrael. Common sense and consideration for others is what is stressed here.

Verses 9-11 prohibit the "mixing" of things, which goes back to Genesis 1:11,12; and Lev. 19:19.

Verse 12 refers to a four cornered garment with tsitsith (tassels) on its corners. This is not a fashion suggestion, but a direct commandment to Yisrael. The four cornered garment and tsitsith are a reminder of Yahweh's commandments to Yisrael, as stated in Numbers 15:3 7-41. This commandment still applies to Yisrael today. Just because the "jews" try to steal our birthright does not mean we should allow it.

All true male Yis'raelites should wear this type of garment , and not only as a "prayer shawl". Every day wear.

Verses 13-19 speaks of a man lying about his bride's virginity, and the penalty for those lies. He was stuck with her forever, with no divorce allowed. It was a standard custom, especially among European royalty, to present the wedding sheet to the bride's father. Kings even hung it out of their window for all to see, and to show consummation, which sealed the marriage. Morality was a major factor then, but not now. Virgins are somewhat hard to find these days. We are suffering consequences for this, as our family structure is disintegrating nationwide, as our children are taught unscriptural behaviour in our "schools", and through TV and movies.

Verses 20 and 21 gives the penalty death by stoning) if what the husband says is true. This would cut back on promiscuity if this were enforced today, wouldn't it?

The Church Must Bust The COVID Tyranny By John Rapport

COVID: WHERE ARE THE COURAGEOUS RELIGIOUS LEADERS? (Here's one below. Facing great threats but still opening his church) When are religious leaders going to issue demands to their members? Demands to express a duty to God first; above and beyond the restrictions of the State. Religious leaders must order their flocks to rebel. Every early story about every religion shows how the State power of the day had to be overcome.

Verse 22 deals with an unfaithful wife, and the man she is caught with. Imagine if we enforced this one today? Society would be a lot different, would it not?

Verses 23 and 24 deal with promiscuity again. There were serious penalties back then.

Verse 25 deals death for a rapist, and innocence is declared for the victim in verses 26 and 27.

Verses 28 and 29 force a man to marry, and forbids divorce from the maid he violates. Back then, when you took a virgin, you were instantly married, or had some stiff penalty levied upon you. No "fooling around" was allowed.

Verse 30 in the KJV is actually verse 1 of Chapter 23.

"The people never give up their liberties but under some delusion." Edmund Burke, 1784

When are religious leaders going to issue demands to their members? Demands to express a duty to God first; above and beyond the restrictions of the State.

These leaders certainly believe God created humans with the quality of freedom. The Bible irrevocably states it. Therefore, under the cover of COVID, the State cannot remove that freedom.

The religious leaders must order their flocks to rebel.

Not just in order to attend church services; but to live without fear, out in the open, without hiding behind masks, without keeping their distance, without lock-downs, without sacrificing their right to earn a living.

Several Catholic prelates have declared the COVID fraud is being used as a rationale for creating an anti-spiritual new world order. The next step is telling their Church members and believers to rebel, to choose The Good and God. Every early story about every religion shows how the State power of the day had to be overcome. Is it now time to develop terminal amnesia about these origins?

Are those stories buried because they are inconvenient?

Quoting from an anonymously written article, “Ancient Christian Martyrdom: A Brief Overview”:

“By 200 AD, the Christian faith had permeated most regions of the Roman Empire, though Christians were mostly in the larger urban areas (Gaul, Lyons, Carthage, Rome). By 325, an estimated 7 million were Christians with as many as 2 million killed for the faith.”

Among the reasons for this vast persecution: “Christian refusal to worship or honour other gods was a source of great contention.”

“Christians were accused of being atheists because of their denial of the other gods and refusal of emperor worship. Thus, they were accused of treason to the state.”

“For many provincial governors, Christians were considered social radicals, rather than being persecuted specifically for their faith only.”

And now, in 2020, the major religious objection to COVID restrictions concerns the number of worshipers allowed inside a church during services?

Is this the evolution of faith, or its destruction, at the hands of the faithful themselves?

Is Conscience “Outmoded”?

Is civilization now so “advanced” that suffering and even dying for one’s faith is considered absurd?

Is bargaining with the State over whether 10 or 50 members can enter a house of worship the cutting edge of rebellion?

It seems to me people should renounce their religion, if they’re unwilling to go to the wall for it.

Just admit that what true faith requires is too much.

Jesus endured pain and torture, and surrendered his human form, in order to save humanity, but now faithful followers can declare their loyalty during online virtual services. Or from their cars, in a parking lot. Without feeling a tremor of conscience.

Over the years, I’ve heard many claims that America (and other Western nations) were created on the basis of Christian values. Putting aside counter-arguments, if that is the assertion, then where is the courage to back it up?

What good are these claims, if in a great crisis, there is no mass rebellion, out in the open, against the tyrannical State, on behalf of God? Again, mass rebellion means the refusal to wear masks, the refusal to maintain distancing, the refusal to obey lock-downs or close businesses. It means reclaiming freedom.

But perhaps some people believe God wants obedience to the State. He wants his loyal followers to submit to the lock-downs. He wants worshipers to surrender to an all-encompassing secular new world order, in which citizens will function as pawns in a Brave New World technocracy. He wants the faithful to be stripped of their humanity. If so, let’s hear THAT argument.

Months ago, I said pastors and priests and other religious leaders should stand up in their houses of worship and confess their lack of courage and resign their positions. Confess they are unworthy to lead congregations. Ask for the most brave to step forward and take over.

That’s a Correct Course of Action.

Why should these religious leaders make superficial distinctions about the limits of rebellion?

In order to maintain their non-profit status with the State? In order to keep their flock comfortable?

Jesus: "Blessed are those who are persecuted because of righteousness, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven."

But perhaps, in these enlightened times, people should worship a purported virus, and desert God.

God's Plan For Germany (Part 3)

Adam De Witt

The Proto-Celts

THE PROTO-CELTIC CAME IN A NUMBER OF WAVES, one of the earliest being the Akkadians. Nearby in Kurdistan lived the Semitic Gutis. About 2800 BC there arose in Akkad a Semitic chieftain named Shargani-shar-ali, better known as Sargon I, who some believe to be Nimrod of Scripture. (Nimrod's death and rebirth festival is marked by felling and decorating trees at the shortest day in December.

Sargon formed a central government and administration, complete with record keeping. It was during his reign that the Semitic tongue was first written (using Sumerian characters; see above). Soon thereafter the land fell prey to roving tribes, both Semitic and non-Semitic.

Twelve days ahead of Ontario's full Boxing Day lock-down, Windsor-Essex went into a grey zone on December 12 and restricted non-essential places, like Pastor Aaron Rock's Harvest Bible Church Windsor. Disregarding the new measure, he steadfastly opened his church for services on Sunday, December 20, 2020 and now faces a fine ranging from $10,000 to $100,000 and up to one year in prison for violating the Reopening Ontario Act (Picture at beginning of this article.

Under Semitic law, mixed marriages were forbidden, yet despite this, many Chaldeans wed with Sumerians and with other non-Semitic new-comers. The culture and laws of the region began to shift. During this period of change the Biblical Abram (later Abraham) and other proto-Celts set off on migratory treks presumably to be able to worship and live as they had before the changes.

Certainly, the scriptural account tells how Abram set off on a divine mission to be the patriarch of many nations. In time, some of Abraham's descendants formed the bedrock of the tribes of Israel. All the while power struggles in the land of Chaldea spawned a number of empires, most notably those of Assyria and later, Babylon. Every spring, the kings of Assyria gathered troops and moved against a neighbouring area. Often they were held at bay; other times they'd overrun their neighbours.

The dead were beheaded and prisoners chained as slaves. Towns would be looted, then set ablaze. A policy to deport a rebellious overrun nation and resettling the vacated area with more yielding foreign underlings in their stead, was brought in by the Assyrian king Tiglath-Pileser III.

It was during his reign that large numbers of the Israelites were taken deep into Assyrian territory. When he died in 725 BC his son Ulula took over as 'Shalmaneser V, who in turn died during the siege of Samaria. His successor, Sargon II, relates in his writings that he took the northern Israelite capital of Samaria. "I surrounded and deported as prisoners 27,290 of its inhabitants—"

In time, the social standing of the Israelites within Assyria (providing they paid their taxes) was reasonable and they enjoyed a degree of freedom to travel. Nevertheless, they were captives and according to the account of Josephus, the overthrow "proved wholly destructive of the kingdom of Israel, Hoshea being made prisoner and his subjects being transported to Media in Persia..." (Antiquities IX. 13, 14)

the Taylor Prism (British Museum)

After Sargon II's assassination, Sennacherib took the throne. His campaigns against the Israelite southern kingdom ensured that the bulk of the Israelites were thence 'lost' to the eyes of orthodox historians and theologians. Sennacherib's account, recorded on the Taylor Prism (British Museum), is that of a boastful over-runner, referring to the Israelite king Hezekiah "—Like a caged bird"

In time, Assyria would fall to the Babylonians. It was during the reign of the Babylonian king Nebuchadnezzar that those remnant Israelites, not taken by the Assyrians, were deported to Babylon. When Babylon was overthrown by Cyrus king of Persia, the exiled remnant was allowed to return to Palestine, yet only 50,000 accepted the invitation.

In order to find out what became of all the Israelites (who were not part of the remnant) we must seek them under other names. One of the earliest Assyrian references to Israel is found on a monolith of Shalmaneser III, uncovered in 1861 at Kurkh, southwestern Turkey. It tells of the defeat over armies of 2,000 chariots and 10,000 foot soldiers from Ahab the Israelite, "Ahabbu-mat Sir'ilaiia". It is also the last time the Assyrians referred to Israelites by that name. Ahab's successor, Jehu, is shown yielding to Shalmaneser upon the "Jehu Stele" or the "Black Obelisk". In the text, Jehu is called "Son of Omri" (Note 'son' here means lineage, for Jehu was Omri's grandson). During this time, the Assyrians referred to the northern Israelite Kingdom as the "House of Omri".

The Hebrew name "Omri" begins with the letter "Y" which is spoken as a guttural "H", translated into Assyrian with "Gh," "Kh" or "Ch". Thus, even before the various captivities, the Assyrians called the Israelites "Beth-Khumri" (House of Omri). Sargon II called himself the over-thower of "Bit-Khumri". The clay tablets or "letters" covering the sweep of the Assyrian Empire in the 7th year hundred BC, held many references to the captive Israelites. Most of these letters were border reports made by spies sent by the Assyrian rulers to oversee movements of nations within and without their empire. Variations of the name "Ghumri" used by the Assyrians are Khumri, Khomri, Gimiri, Gimira, Gamera and Gimir.

Letter 197-Sennacherib to king Sargon states: "...When the king of the people of Urartu went to the land of Gimir, his army met with a debacle..." The battle between the Urartians and the Gimir took place south of Lake Urmia next to Media. Assyrian policy of using relocated captured peoples as buffer zones paid off. The 'Gimir' had withstood the Urartians out of self-preservation. The location ties in with the Biblical identification which places the captured tribes being placed near Habor and Halah between Lake Urmia and the Caspian Sea, as well as with the writings of Josephus.

From the tablets it becomes clear that the Gimir or Captive Israelites were kept as a homogenous enclave. This is backed by a series of tables in which the king of Assyria Esarhaddon (681-669 BC) is asking divine guidance about the operation of his troops sent to gather taxes from territory of the Medes (British Museum KK195, 83-1-28; 697, 82-5-22,175). The tablets show that the Gimirian warriors were teaming up with those of the Medes and the Mannai to revolt. Of Esarhaddon's battle with the Gimiri (697 BC), he wrote "Teushpa [Tushpa, east of Lake Van], the Gimira, a barbarian whose home was afar off, I cut down with the sword... together with all his troops." We see here that the captive Israelites had chieftains: and troops with their original home stated to be afar off. This confirms them to be a folk in exile. Indeed letter 1237 refers to the Gimira as exiles.

"Let the Cavalry and the Dakku invade the Gimmerians. They are the offspring of outcasts, they recognise neither the oath of a god (Assyrian God) nor an agreement."

We stated earlier, like the American pioneers, the earlier Europeans came from far off lands in search of religious freedom. The Apocryphal book of 2 Esdras in 13:40 tells of the Israelite tribes surviving in captivity but planning to leave the land of their "heathen" captives and to "go forth into a farther land, where never mankind dwelt,—" "That they may keep their laws (of God) which they never kept in their own land".

The Israelites called themselves the Nation; Folk; Sons, and/or House of Isaac; Beth-Isaac or Beth-Sak, Gamira was not a name the Israelites chose for themselves; it was strictly an Assyrian application. The Persians, however, who had closer social contact with the Israelites, called them by the name Sakka or Saka from Isaac. Because of this, later tablets began to use the term Iskuza.

Again, one of Esarhaddon's prayers (keep the above text from 2 Esdras in mind where Israelites go into new lands), "Will the I-sk-u-za warriors who live in the district of the Mannai, and have moved to the frontiers of the Mannai, succeed in their plan? Will they march out from the pass of Hubushkia —and take much booty, and heavy spoil from the borders of Assyria?" The Isaac or Iskuza began to overrun lands belonging to the Medes, competing with Assyrian troops to gather tribute as they went.

Referring to his tax gatherers, Esarhaddon (centre of page), king of Assyria, asks "—and which have gone into the land of the Medes in order to collect the tribute of horses, (will they be attacked) by the hand of the Iskuza warriors?" These are clear archaeological references back to the Apocryphal account that the Israelite tribes were not only leaving the Middle East, but they were a homogeneous force to be reckoned with. At this point it is also crucial to note that Strabo identifies part of Armenia having been named Sak-sina. The term is a variation of Saakai-suna, it literally means, "sons of the Sakai", or "Beth-sak". That the Assyrians turned Isaac into Iskuza must be understood in the way the name must have sounded to their ears, for in Hebrew, Isaac sounds as yits-khawk(a). In time Sakaisuna became Sachsen, Sac-son or Saxon.

Sacson literally means Beth-Sak. According to Herodotus, the Isaac, (Iskuza, Sakka, Saka) were also called the "Scythians" by the Persians. Ptolemy states that a Scythian folk sprung from the Sakai, by the name of Saxons. The Jewish Encyclopaedia Vol. 12 page 250, "—the Sacae, or Scythians who again, were the Lost Ten Tribes..." So, the Jews knew all along that we are Semitic!

For those who have a problem linking Gimiri with Sakka, the Behistun Rock is proof positive. The old caravan road from Babylon to Ecbatana (old capital of Median) runs by a limestone mountain rising out of the plain to 1,700 feet. About 300 feet above the base is a rock face holding inscriptions made by the order of Darius the Great, about 515 BC. The memorial is 150 feet long by 100 feet high. The inscriptions are in 3 tongues, Babylonian (Accadian), Elamite (Susian) and Persian. The inscriptions refer to Kana, or Canaanland from whence the lost tribes came, and Armenia, the area of captivity.

Of the 23 nations over whom Darius ruled and named, among these is the Sakka. In both the Persian and Elamite accounts, the name is Sakka, but in the Babylonian version the same people are called "Gimri". What is more, the monument shows a branch of the Gimiri or Sakka had by this time (517 BC) trekked a long way beyond Bactria (north of Afghanistan). Many of the lost tribes of Israel had made their way to the steppes of Russia, never to return.

From this point orthodox history takes over telling how these tribes trekked into Europe. Of the Cimmeri (Gimir) the Encyclopaedia Britannica states "An ancient people, one body of whom is called in Assyrian sources Gimirrai and is represented as coming through the Caucasus—later writers identify them with the Cimbri of Jutland who were probably The Saxons or Sachsen are Isaac's Sons, therefore they are Israelites. The corrupted forms of the term Isaacs sons such as Saxons is found in England as Wessex (Western Saxony), Sussex (South Saxony), Essex (East Saxony), Middlesex (Middle Saxony).

To establish a fact, the Law of God needs a double witness. And the Second witness is in our Germany. Just as in England four areas are named after Isaac, so too four are named after Isaac in Germany and Holland (three in Germany, one in Holland, once part of Germania). The areas stretch from the north east of our land to the south west in an unbroken land, they are Niedersachsen (Lower Saxony), Sachsen-Anhalt, Sachsen (Saxony) and Saksenheim (Isaacson-home in Holland). As the Isaac-Sons migrated from the middle East into Europe they took names as cultural memory with them and gave these places, towns, regions, and rivers where they dwelt.

The Israelite tribe of Dan gave its name to many rivers in Europe such as the Danube (Donau) or Dniester, Dnieper and Don. Also, to town names such as Danzig but most notable to DANMARK.

One of the most notable of Germanic tribes were the Jutes, whose name is still found in Jutland, literally Juda and Judaland!

The very name 'Deutsch' for Deutschland comes from 'Deut-ish. 'Ish' in Hebrew means Man or Folk, i.e., the folk of the 'Deut' (Teut, Teutonic). Ish in Germanic means the same. The 'sch' is the modern German version of the old 'iysh', another Hebrew (not Jewish link).

'Deut' or 'Diut' comes from the Saxon 'theod' which in turn comes from the Gothic, 'thiuda' which means a 'nation' or 'troop of one ethnic make-up'. The word 'Goth' comes from 'Guda' or 'Gutthiuda' meaning the 'troops' (or folk) of the 'Gud'. 'Gud' in turn comes from the name of the Israelite tribe of 'Gad'. Goth literally means "Gad's folk".

Many towns today still bare Gad's name, such as Gades in Spain but closer to home, (i.e. Germany and nearby) Göta, Göteborg, Gotha, Gotland and so forth.

Whereas England is mostly the tribe of Manasseh and Ephraim and Southern Holland mostly of Zebulun; Northern Holland and Germany are mostly Issachar. The tribe of Judah and Dan are mostly in Northern Germany and Denmark whereas the Hinterland or Heartland of Germany is mostly the tribe of Gad. And with that in mind, let us look at the Biblical blessings, prophesies and idiosyncrasies of 'Gad'.

In Deuteronomy, Chapter 33:21 we read that Moses blessed Gad (as he did all the tribes) before taking their share in the promised land. But because the Bible teaches the Israelites will inherit new promised lands much later (2 Samuel 7:10; 1 Chron. 17:9) the blessings would have repeat performance.

And he (Gad - later Goth) provided (chose) the first (or prime i.e., the finest) part (of land) for himself (i.e., his folk)". Just as in Canaanland, the Gadites chose the finest land, a hinterland; the Goths (their offspring) settled in a European hinterland, a choice land in Europe.

After having been to 26 countries and lived in 4 of them, I am, (as are many tourists), struck by the sheer beauty of Germany. Of all the lands in Europe, Germany and their German speaking areas of Austria and Switzerland are without doubt the most beautiful in the World. This is not chauvinism. This is an honest observation of prime, choice land.

Indeed, the last two wars have been fought over control of Europe's finest 'Real Estate', Germany.

East Germany (Middle Germany) was the Jewel in the crown of the Soviet block, and true East Germany (occupied now by Poland) is to this day occupied (by Poland) with no hint of giving it back.

The prophecy of choice land is indeed true, but what of our future and current lot. What plan has God in store for us?

Genesis 49:19, “Gad, a troop shall overcome him; but he shall overcome at the last.” This shows a relationship with a troop or a people. Although most of the other tribes remained relatively distinct throughout history, they tended to separate themselves from the Goths, often banding together against them. The tribe of Judah settled largely north of the Goths. Traditional tribal jealousy between Ephraim and Judah to this day never died and reached its peak at the turn of this century. It took very little to ignite a war in 1914, just as it did many times between 930 BC to 730 BC. In Europe, Judah is strongly allied with its nearest tribe, a tribe that has the distinctive trait of being seen as a people in their own sight, a troop.

The world views the Germans (those of Gad and Judah) as a distinct group, yet in reality they are Israelites as part of the larger family of Israelites found elsewhere in the world. The Germans therefore fit this prophetic character trait perfectly. The main thrust of the prophecy is being carried out right now and the last part has yet to be fulfilled. It states that Gad will be overcome.

This century is the only century in which Germany as a unified state has been overcome. Up until the last years of the 18-hundreds, there was no German state. There were many German lands, all with their own Kings and Princes, but a united states of Germany is very recent. Since the end of WWI, the German state has been overcome in some form or another. Even today, Germany is occupied by winners of the 2nd World War (and no peace treaty exists to this day between her and her over runners). Germany also has the unique and sad distinction of being the only land on the earth (to this day) that has lost much of its territory and any talk of wanting these back can lead to criminal proceedings.

Germany is the only land to lose more civilians after the surrender to its over runners (conquerors) than during the war. At least 9.3 million Germans died in the first 5 years after the war due to deliberate policy of starvation. Eisenhower stated in 1944 that he would like to “see things made good and hard for them” (the Germans).

The Morgenthau plan was to systematically starve the Germans, and although officially dropped by the American, Roosevelt said in secret “that the plan would be ‘implemented’” The allies slowed oil production to a trickle, closed what factories were left, kept the work force imprisoned and confiscated or destroyed factories and machinery.

In Berlin September 1945, an official estimated that half the children aged three and under would not survive the next year, with a baby death rate of 100%! In February 1946 US senator Kenneth Wherry stated, “the American people should know once and for all that as a result of this Government’s policy they are being made accomplices of mass starvation. Germany is the only nation subjected to Deliberate starvation policy”.

Red Cross food trains were sent back to Switzerland, foreign governments were denied permission to send food to German civilians, the fishing fleet was kept in port and one fishing boat was blown up by the British soldiers to make the point. The official ration in the French zone in January 1947 was 450 calories per day. Ethnic cleansing of Germans from Eastern Europe, tepidly called “Expulsion” was authorised under the Potsdam agreement signed by Stalin, Churchill and Truman. More than 16 million Germans were uprooted from ancestral lands after a string of gruesome events.

In a Sudetenland thorp, all the German women were seized and their Achilles tendons cut. As they lay screaming, the Czech men raped them repeatedly, Hermine Muckusch, a grandmother from Jagerndorf in Sudetenland was force marched out of her homeland with 27 children. Within 14 days, all but one were dead. Her story was a typical act of genocide of the time, during peace time!

German Mennonites

Thousands of German Mennonites were beaten and shot at by British troops who, tried to force them into cattle wagons bound for the Soviet Gulag such as Liezein in Austria, June 1945.

Bones discovered in mass graves in 1976 and 1981 at Kaltwasser / Bromberg were returned to the ground without marker when it was discovered they were Germans. The Genocide against the Germans goes on today. Although now well fed, the folk are morally starving, having no love for themselves. Hybridisation of species is simply genocide by way of destroying the original stocks.

Germans are brainwashed daily by the media and schools (controlled by the occupying forces) to accept, love, help and wed the non-Israelites flooding into the land. This time the aliens overcome the land by sheer numbers with Germany taking in more than all of Europe. Germans have no homeland and her culture is being replaced by an alien culture of recreational sex, recreational drugs and brain destroying rock'n'roll. Even the pro-German skinheads partake in anti-German behaviour, sex before marriage, listening to music with rock'n'roll beat and drink too much. Neither the far right, the far left, nor the churchgoers, ever obey God's Saxon Laws.

How far can people go if they have 1, 2 children (how many of these are hybrids)? Germany has been well and truly overcome. Any wealth Germans enjoy is for selfish gain so as to not see or feel what is happening. But even that wealth cannot stand.

What, then, my beloved Kin, my brothers and sisters of true Israel? The last part of the prophecy gives hope "but he shall overcome at the last."

This century was the one that all Western lands looked forward to with great hope. Technology would save the poor and relieve drudgery (normally reserved for the masses). Sadly, technology was not seen as a blessing from God. Instead of bringing the individual nations of the true Israelites together, each instead boasted of their technological gifts in mad rivalry aimed against their Saxon Kin in other Saxon lands reaching unprecedented rivalry. Jealousy soared between the two greatest Celtic-Saxon-Israelite nations: Great Britain and Germany.

Canaanite Jews saw an opening that would allow themselves to rule over the two rivals, reversing the curse of a long-lost birthright that dates back to the time of Jacob. For now, space does not allow us to go into this in great detail, but, in short, the Biblical patriarch of the Jews, Esau, lost his birthright that could otherwise have seen his people become leaders of nations. The Canaanite (Ashkenazim - Shephardic) Jews recognise an ancestral link to Esau. The Saxons and Celts are from Jacob.

Because Jacob instead took the birthright, his descendants in the 18-hundreds, (Saxon-Israelites) were at the point of leading the Earth. One third was in British hands, not much less was in French hands, large parts in Dutch hands, middle Europe and parts of Africa in German hands and from middle Europe to the far side of Asia was in Russian hands. The world was 90% controlled by Saxon-Israelites, descendants from Jacob.

The 20th Century saw an end to that because of petty infighting. We preferred to love non-Israelites instead of Israelites, our own Kin folk.

A house (or a people) divided against itself cannot stand, and indeed, the Israelite-Saxons were divided and fell. After the two Saxon-Israelite World Wars, Britain lost its empire and was drained of all its wealth. America's debt increased from 1940 to 1945 by 500%. Russians of (Scandinavian) Israelite stock were subjected to systematic starvation since 1917 and by 1945

Germany lay in ruins. After the "Wars between the Saxon-Israelites" our rivalry carried on.

Instead of coming together, Saxons preferred to make treaties, pacts and friendships with non-Israelites and even passed laws to punish Israelites who did not want to join with non-Israelites. Israelites that want to unite Israelites are branded racists while it perfectly OK. for Israelites of Britain to hate South African Israelites, or Australian Israelites to hate English Israelites or Dutch Israelites to hate German Israelites and so forth.

And, so, the Bible tells us that after all the curses God brings against us to make us obey, we still refuse to love our own and serve Christ; more will befall us. God says that if you love non-Israelites so much, he will give them to you until you are sick of them.

Speaking of the latter days, Ezekiel chapter 7 (Verse 15) tells us of famines for our people.

Harold Stough Notes Comments On The Wise King Solomon

AND GOD GAVE TO SOLOMON VERY GREAT WISDOM and understanding, and wide intelligence, like the sand on the seashore.

For Solomon's scientific knowledge was more extensive than the science of all the Beni-Kedem, and than all the science of the Mitzeraim. He knew more than all men of the orbits of the planets, of the origination of light, and fixed sustaining systems, and the results of the revolving spheres, and his fame spread among all the nations around.

He also wrote three thousand proverbs, and his songs were one thousand and five. And he wrote about botany as well, from the Cedar of Lebanon to the mosses that

(The great depression in the Americas killed many. 7 million starved to death in the Ukraine and millions in middle Europe after 1945). Those that overcome shall be weakened as the West was. We lost our culture and the World was de-colonised from the 1950's onwards; Indonesia, Vietnam, Kenya, India, Malaysia, Ceylon, Rhodesia, Southwest Africa, Congo, Algeria, French West Africa, Southwest Africa, The Sudan and many more. And still our folk did not repent.

Verse 21 tells us that strangers (non-Israelites) will take much of our inheritance and pollute it. All the beauty of our colonial times has been burnt, pulled down, bombed, stripped and left to fall to ruin. We have been ethnically cleansed from all these lands and no one cared.

grow upon walls; and studied the zoology of beasts, and birds, and reptiles, and fish, so that persons came from all the nation to listen to the sciences of Solomon, from all the kingdoms of the earth who heard of his scientific knowledge." (I Kings 4:29-34)

Compare with the King James version. The above is from the Ferrar Fenton Bible, and Fenton's footnote explains why his translation differs from the King James version: "I believe that above to be the real purport of this passage which the medieval translators not understanding, as it contain the technology of cosmatical sciences of which they had lost all knowledge, transformed it into proper names. I am also satisfied the same blunder has been made in similar cases in many other passages of Scripture. I have, therefore, rejected the old versions entirely, and give the real purport of the Hebrew text as arrived at by philological analysis.

Solomon, in fact, understood what we now call the Copernican and Newtonian principles of Astronomy and Cosmogony". (Rest of this paper missing).

Article With These Notes

King Solomon was the wisest man who ever lived and also one of the most foolish. God gifted him with unsurpassed wisdom, which Solomon squandered by disobeying God's commandments. Some of Solomon's most famous achievements were his building projects, particularly the temple in Jerusalem.

Solomon was the third king over Israel.

Solomon ruled with wisdom over Israel for 40 years, securing stability through treaties with foreign powers.

He is celebrated for his wisdom and for building the temple of the Lord in Jerusalem.

Solomon wrote much of the book of Proverbs, the Song of Solomon, the book of Ecclesiastes, and two psalms.

Solomon was the second son of King David and Bathsheba. His name means "peaceable." His alternative name was Jedidiah, meaning "beloved of the Lord." Even as a baby, Solomon was loved by God.

A conspiracy by Solomon's half-brother Adonijah tried to rob Solomon of the throne. To take the kingship, Solomon had to kill Adonijah and Joab, David's general.

Once Solomon's kingship was firmly established, God appeared to Solomon in a dream and promised him anything he asked. Solomon chose understanding and discernment, asking God to help him govern his people well and wisely. God was so pleased with the request that he granted it, along with great riches, honour, and longevity (1 Kings 3:11-15, NIV).

Solomon's downfall began when he married the daughter of the Egyptian Pharaoh to seal a political alliance. He could not control his lust. Among Solomon's 700 wives and 300 concubines were many foreigners, which angered God. The inevitable happened: They lured King Solomon away from Yahweh into the worship of false gods and idols.

Over his 40-year reign, Solomon did many great things, but he succumbed to the temptations of lesser men. The peace a united Israel enjoyed, the massive building projects he headed, and the successful commerce he developed became meaningless when Solomon stopped pursuing God.

King Solomon's Accomplishments

Solomon set up an organized state in Israel, with many officials to assist him. The country was divided into 12 major districts, with each district providing for the king's court during one month each year. The system was fair and just, distributing the tax burden evenly over the entire country.

Solomon built the first temple on Mount Moriah in Jerusalem, a seven-year task that became one of the wonders of the ancient world. He also built a majestic palace, gardens, roads, and government buildings.

He accumulated thousands of horses and chariots. After securing peace with his neighbours, he built up trade and became the wealthiest king of his time.

The Queen of Sheba heard of Solomon's fame and visited him to test his wisdom with hard questions. After seeing with her own eyes all that Solomon had built in Jerusalem, and hearing his wisdom, the queen blessed the God of Israel, saying:

"The report was true that I heard in my own land of your words and of your wisdom, but I did not believe the reports until I came and my own eyes had seen it. And behold, the half was not told me. Your wisdom and prosperity surpass the report that I heard." (1 Kings 10:6-7, ESV)

Solomon, a prolific writer, poet, and scientist, is credited with writing much of the book of Proverbs, the Song of Solomon, the book of Ecclesiastes, and two psalms. First Kings 4:32 tells us he wrote 3,000 proverbs and 1,005 songs.

Strengths

King Solomon's greatest strength was his unsurpassed wisdom, granted to him by God. In one biblical episode, two women came to him with a dispute. Both lived in the same house and had recently delivered newborns, but one of the infants had died. The mother of the dead baby tried to take the living child from the other mother. Because no other witnesses lived in the house, the women were left to dispute who the living child belonged to and who was the true mother. Both claimed to have given birth to the baby.

They asked Solomon to determine which of the two of them should keep the newborn. With astonishing wisdom, Solomon suggested that the boy be cut in half with a sword and split between the two women. Deeply moved by love for her son, the first woman whose baby was alive said to the king, "Please, my lord, give her the living baby! Don't kill him!"

But the other woman said, "Neither I nor you shall have him. Cut him in two!" Solomon ruled that the first woman was the real mother because she preferred giving up her child to seeing him harmed.

King Solomon's skills in architecture and management turned Israel into the showplace of the Middle East. As a diplomat, he made treaties and alliances that brought peace to his kingdom.

Weaknesses

To satisfy his curious mind, Solomon turned to worldly pleasures instead of the pursuit of God. He collected all sorts of treasures and surrounded himself with luxury.

In the case of his non-Jewish wives and concubines, Solomon allowed lust to rule his heart instead of obedience to God. Apparently, he let his foreign wives worship their native gods and even had altars to those gods built in Jerusalem (1 Kings 11:7-8).

Solomon taxed his subjects heavily, conscripted them into his army and into slave-like labor for his building projects.

Life Lessons

King Solomon's sins speak loudly to us in our current day materialistic culture. When we worship possessions and fame over God, we are headed for a fall. When Christians marry an unbeliever, they can also expect trouble. God ought to be our first love, and we should let nothing come before him.

The Bait & Switch of Vaccine Deaths With COVID-19 Mortalities

Sir ___, Here is an important item post from the Bernecian Blog:-

In perhaps the most controversial post I've ever made on this blog, I can now confirm that official data shows that the first and second waves of alleged Covid deaths correspond with the roll out of this year's WHO-approved flu vaccines.

Evidence from the WHO's own records shows that the shots are known to kill 5 out of every 1,324 healthy adults, as well as causing 344 to have medically attended adverse events.

(The prescient David Dees, 1958-2020)

It therefore appears obvious that the manufacturers of the scamdemic played a classic bait and switch move, in order to create plausible deniability for this year's deaths from flu vaccines and to guarantee a whole lot more fatalities from the Covid jabs, which they intend to inject us all with in 2021.

The Genocidal Switcheroo

Damning evidence from the WHO in my possession implicitly states that the current batch of UK flu shots is expected to kill 377 of every 100,000 healthy adults, between 18 and 65.

However, that mortality rate would obviously increase substantially for the elderly and sick, who were the largest UK demographic to receive it by 26/03/2020 [8.5 m of the 14 m vaccinated by that date].

In such circumstances, out of the 14 million vaccinated with the flu shot during the first 12 weeks of 2020, at least 52,780 would have been expected to suffer fatal adverse events from the vaccines administered.

That being the case, the government needed the Coronavirus Act 2020 to suspend autopsies, which obviously could have established the predominant cause of death was the flu vaccines rather than the government lurgy that has never even been proven to exist.

Grim Mortality Prediction

If this incredibly serious allegation of bait and switch has substance, I can now predict with relative and grim certainty, that in the event 30 million healthy adults receive one of the WHO-approved flu vaccines in the UK, 113,100 would be expected to die within 22 days of the injection.

Which the government would obviously claim is merely the latest surge of lurgy deaths, as the second flu shot season draws to an end, along with the worst year in living memory, during which no vaccine deaths have been recorded, to the very best of my knowledge.

Whilst only time will tell whether that grim prediction comes true [and I sincerely hope that it doesn't], the best way to unequivocally prove that COVID deaths are in fact vaccine mortalities is to perform autopsies on the bodies of the dead.

Fatal Coincidence

Nevertheless, we already know that the end of the first flu shot season this year was 26/03 – the day they passed the Coronavirus Act 2020. A fatal coincidence, if ever there was one.

The mortality spike that followed the initial lockdown from 23/03/2020, was, it logically follows, due to the surge of adverse events from 14 million vaccinations, over the first 12 weeks of the year.

Quite simply, the more people who took the vaccine each week, the more people died and were falsely recorded as Covid deaths, which actually began in January and not March, according to official data.

In other words, they started falsifying the cause of death as being Covid in the same month this year's first round of flu shots began.

Which is why the suspension of autopsies prescribed by the 2020 Act was integral to the perpetuation of the scamdemic and the creation of the genocidal government policy which continues unabated.

Mass Sterilisation Agenda

We don't know for sure if the mortality rate will be the same, similar, more or less, but all the evidence we have strongly suggests that the primary purpose of the Covid vaccines is to switch off our reproductive systems, whilst permanently altering our DNA.

Nanobots

Provided, of course, that we manage to survive being poisoned with all manner of Big Pharma toxins and having nanobots let loose on our central nervous system.

However, we will know the answer soon enough, as the government are effectively continuing the testing stage right now, using the public as guinea pigs, in a ‘live’ experiment of genuinely Malthusian proportions.

They already appear to be covering up the mortality rate and other adverse effects from the vaccine, while ramping up the scam of the second strain of the government lurgy, which has never been and never will be either isolated or purified.

Judgment Day Draws Ever Closer

It goes without saying that as soon as we have enough prima facie evidence to nail these charges and more, in the Private Criminal Prosecution of those who stand accused of fraud, treason and mass murder, we will proceed without hesitation. Nevertheless, it is also worthy of note that the bait and switch described above is exactly the same kind of fraud the banksters love to play, which confirms who our real adversaries are in this mortal war of attrition, for those who still require confirmation of that fact.

Since the Rothschild cartel sits behind the curtain and pull the strings of their academic, scientific, media and political puppets, who will all no doubt sing like canaries when they appear before their juries, to defend their indefensible crimes against the people.

My instinct tells me that the exposure of this genocidal bait and switch has the potential to blow the lid off the whole scam a mile high, once we have all the prima facie evidence required to sustain the most serious allegations ever made in a Common Law court.. Posted by AH, NE, England.

West faces Moment of Truth as Khazarian Mafia Surrenders to the Chinese

The Western world is facing its greatest crisis, possibly ever, as its ruling elite has surrendered to China. Either the West removes this elite from power and creates a united front or Westerners will become Chinese slaves working under Khazarian Mafia sub-contractors. It is this battle involving the Chinese and the West that is the real reason why the U.S. Presidential election result remains in limbo.

U.S. Moving Self-Propelled Artillery To Border with Quebec; Reports of Uniformed Chinese Troops in Canada

Before we dig further into this it's important to point out that given the current circumstances it's looking like a mathematical certainty Donald Trump will be the last President of the United States Corporation in its present form, multiple sources agree. They also indicate he may have a plan up his sleeve to resolve the situation favourably, only time will tell.

To better understand the current situation let's take a look at the numbers published by the U.S. Treasury Department on December 10th.

They show the U.S. spent $6.5 trillion in the fiscal year ending on September 30th, but could only do this by borrowing $3.1 trillion. The deficit for October, the first month of fiscal 2021, was up 111% year on year to $284 billion.

Overall, counting decades of fiscal and trade deficits as well as un-financed pension obligations, the U.S. has debt well over $200 trillion or well over 20 times GDP if you do not count debt-financed GDP. So if you earn $10,000 a year, but spend $20,000 a year thanks to your credit card, and have over $200,000 in debt, you would have to spend your entire real income for over 20 years (and starve to death in the meantime) in order to pay your debt.

Neither Donald Trump nor anyone else can fix that using conventional means, which supports the concept of a reset to resolve the financial problems of numerous nations whose debt burden was created under the central bank fiat currency system.

That is why the current owners of the U.S. Corporation (mostly European aristocrats based in Switzerland) offered a Joe Biden, Kamala Harris slave presidency to the Chinese in exchange for a roll-over of their debt. Even that was not enough, so they offered Australia, New Zealand, Japan, the Korean Peninsula, and ASEAN to the Chinese as well.

If you don't think the mostly Swiss-based owners of the U.S. Corporation have surrendered to the Chinese, take a look at this news item (and please support the Guardian while you are at it) that reads in part: "a secret deal between Switzerland and China that allowed Chinese security officials access to the country at Swiss taxpayers' expense has been revealed."

Basically, it says the Swiss have given Chinese agents a carte blanche to do whatever they want in Switzerland. This means they can kill any of the Davos elite there who do not do their bidding. Remember, these are the elite who control 90% of the transnational corporations.

Now you can understand why the current owners of the bankrupt United States Corporation have sold the American people down the river. They have offered Chinese troops the right to occupy Canada and Mexico to help break the U.S. into a small rump with Canadian and Mexican vassal states each getting a huge chunk of the former United States.

The Chinese are now furious because the American people and the U.S. and Canadian militaries are rejecting this deal. That is why, for example, the Canadian military told Justin Castro to go take a hike (and maybe never come back like his brother) when he ordered them to let the Chinese military in and train them in winter warfare tactics. Yours truly, K H, West Midlands, UK.

A Letter Re Robin Tillbrook

Note: UNN stands for UK Unity News. An organisation that does report important news that the MSM ignore or censor. John's opinion is that just like many others who build a following by reporting events not covered by the MSM,

David Clews will not explain how individuals who are prosecuted or given fixed penalties could stop the unlawful process by serving sworn affidavits on the courts stating that the so called lockdown laws are against common law and therefore null and void.

Dear David, I have written to you before criticising you for not giving out information that would support your supposed aims.

I have also written to Desmond Swayne several times. Both of you for some reason, be it genuine fear or some ulterior motive, will not explain our real law that should guarantee our God given freedoms.

One recent re-statement of one of those freedoms could be used to drive a coach and horses through the unlawful lockdown laws.

I refer to the Supreme court case decided as recently as 12th February last in the Jalloh case. There they quoted our common law and declared that ordering someone to stay in their home is unlawful imprisonment. I know that Desmond Swayne, being an MP, probably toes the parliamentary line by stating that parliament is sovereign.

They know that it is not. It is the people who have sovereignty. Many stated cases prove that any law that parliament makes that is contrary to common law is null and void. Betty Boothroyd, when she was Speaker stopped a parliamentary committee discussing a proposed law which if passed would be contrary to common law.

We now have a parliament which passes laws which are against our common law rights. Desmond Swayne and my MP Mark Harper and others who speak against the lockdown laws will not use their power to make the speaker rule on the unlawful laws that are against our common law. Many in the Judiciary are now just as controlled as our MPs are by outside forces. They block legal challenges by such as Simon Dolan and Robin Tilbrook.

What puzzles me, and in fact leads me to consider that you might also be controlled, is that you will not publish the Jalloh case.

You have your chance to prove me wrong when you interview Desmond Swayne. Have you the courage to really publish our real law to those who watch you? I pray that you have such courage. Yours truly, JohnT, Sincerely John Timbrell. Forest of Dean, UK.

Coca Cola Tests Positive for Covid-19 in Austrian Parliament

Sir __, December 14, 2020 — An Austrian parliamentary member exposed the defectiveness of the government's COVID-19 tests by demonstrating in the parliament how a glass of Coca Cola tested positive for COVID-19.

In footage from the meeting in Vienna Friday, FPO General Secretary Michael Schneidltz brings a glass of Coca Cola to the podium, from which he proceeds to collect drops to use on an antigen rapid test being used on a mass scale. After starting his speech, the politician sprinkled few drops of cola on corona rapid test. Three minutes later the test showed a result: Coca Cola was COVID-19 positive Full story.

A Previous Treaty of Rome Long Forgotten

Sir __, The invasions (of Europe) found new fervour under Ögedei Khan, who approved a renewed invasion in 1242, which would spread into much of the Holy Roman Empire and beyond, causing great financial and infrastructural damage to European cities and societies.

During this time the Mongol Empire would siege and successfully occupy for a time the city of Constantinople, collapsing the fledgling Latin Empire after a seven month long siege, albeit with significant Venetian aid. The conflict was not settled until the Treaty of Rome, an all encompassing treaty signed between a coalition of western nations, spearheaded by the Pope in Rome, and the Mongol Empire, which formally recognized the Mongol annexations of parts of the Holy Roman Empire and Eastern Europe, in exchange for a lasting peace.

Following the conclusion of this treaty much of the remaining sections of central Europe were placed nominally in a state of tribute to the Mongol Empire, lasting for many years after the war. Yours truly, K H, West Midlands, UK.

MAKING THE MOST OF LIFE IN 1997 ONE TICK AT A TIME

Sir ___, I came across, this interesting snippet in an old church magazine.

"Therefore do not worry about to-morrow, for tomorrow will worry about its own things"
(Matthew Ch. 6 v. 34)

ONE OF THE BEST THINGS ABOUT THE FUTURE IS THAT IT COMES ONE DAY AT A TIME

Did you hear about the clock that had a nervous breakdown? One day it began thinking about how often it would have to tick during the coming year. Figuring two ticks a second, 120 a minute, 7,200 each hour, 172,800 a day, and 1,209,600 ticks every week, the clock suddenly realised it would have to tick nearly 63 million times during the next 12 months. The more it thought about this, the more anxious it became. Finally, the clock became so distraught that it suffered a nervous collapse.

Confiding in a psychiatrist, the clock complained that it didn't have the strength to tick that often. The doctor responded, 'But how many ticks must you tick at a time?' The clock answered, "Only one." "Well, simply tick one tick at a time and don't worry about the next one," advised the doctor. "You'll get along fine, I'm sure." That's exactly what the clock did. And, as all good stories end, it ticked happily ever after.

Child of God, does some problem look unsolvable? Does some long-term burden appear too heavy for you to bear? Does the future appear foreboding? Cast your burden on the Lord. Ask Him to help you just today.

As Jesus said, "Do not worry about tomorrow". "Take just one tick at a time." RWD

'When every worry, every care
To God in faith, is brought,
We have no ground Whereon to found
One single anxious thought. - Anon.

Sir ___, Regarding EMF. You might be interested in what I posted on a site called Inkcap, concerning the natural world.

I hesitate to offer my comment after such a wonderful piece which taught me a lot. (78 and still learning). I echo the sentiment or ethos behind Sophie's Inkcap. but there is an elephant in the room.

Anyone interested in nature, soon becomes aware that our natural world has generally been degraded over the last 40 years. A simple demonstration of that is the older people recounting how in summer, if they drove a long distance, they had to stop every 50 miles or so to clear the screens of the insects. Not any more.

Multiple Studies Strongly Suggest Wireless Radiation Is Harming Our Bees and Other Insects

OK! There is a good side to this because we can now walk in the country without being pestered by irritating flies. But the downside is the huge reduction in the bird population and other insect eating dependent animals. The environmental organisations and governments try to correct this loss by looking for the causes of this loss, and so they try to reverse damage done to the environment by such as banning neonicotinoids etc.

What they refuse to investigate, is what I believe is the most serious cause of the harm that we are causing to our environment. I can't prove what I allege because I do not have the expertise or financial ability. What I am able to do is understand the research of such as Olle Johannsson who has demonstrated beyond doubt that EMF transmissions as used in mobile 'phones do cause negative changes in human brains.

There is also proof that bees flying close to high voltage power lines lose their memory and cannot find their way back to their hive. What is also clear to me, is that the increase in the 'generations' of the mobile 'phone transmissions from the relatively harmless 2G to the far more dangerous 4G correlates to the decrease of the insect population.

The problem is, that because there are huge financial and technological advantages of using these EMF transmissions, governments and environmental organisations cannot 'grasp the nettle'

to even admit that there might be a problem. There are 'chinks in their armour' that expose their fears. Why would our government pass a law that stops the Health and Safety Executive from being sued if someone alleges they have been damaged by EMF transmission?

Answer me this: What harm could be done by any or all of the organisations who exist to protect our environment researching this subject? OK! Even if I am wrong in my thinking then, apart from the cost of the research very little would be lost. I have written to many such organisations such as the RSPB pointing out my fears.

The responses that I receive from all of them are 'weasel words' that to me show that they either fear upsetting their commercial sponsors or are too frightened to address the problem because if my fears were proved to be correct then a complete re-think of our communications industry would need to happen. The financial cost would be enormous. That's the bottom line folks.

It's you as individuals that can force change by putting pressure on those organisations that you financially support. I have changed my will where I left my estate to the National Trust because they use feeble excuses for not addressing the problem. You individuals do have the power to force change. You might see it as a difficult decision to make. I did not because I think humanity will be seriously affected if we destroy nature. I am not being alarmist. 5G transmissions can change the DNA in all carbon based life.

Go on; try to prove me wrong. You will not be able to. The loss of insects is your alarm call to take action. Yours Truly, John T. Forest of Dean, UK.

The Political Influence of the British-Israel Movement in the Nineteenth Century

Richard Simpson

Introduction

ON 9TH DECEMBER 1917, JERUSALEM FELL TO THE BRITISH AND IN AN INTERVIEW WITH THE EVENING STANDARD, IN 1920, Max Nordau, cofounder of the Zionist Movement, in 1897, held ‘we thought that the Messiah would be an individual, but I feel now as if it were a collective entity, and that its name might be the British Nation[1]’.

This one statement vindicated just under 80 years of campaigning for the British-Israel movement, not an Anglo-Jewish organisation as one might expect but a movement that believed the British were the “chosen race”, not the Jews and believed the return to Palestine of the British and Jews together would bring about the Second Coming. Despite the plethora of primary documentation, very little has been written on the role of this movement in the nineteenth century.

Throughout Anglo-Zionist literature and biographies of great Victorian statesmen there is little or no mention of this movement, which according to the Jewish Encyclopaedia (1901) had over 2 million adherents.

Despite an extensive press and books, they didn’t quite make it into mainstream politics as an organisation. However, some of their members were very influential and included some of the Royal Family.

From their literal interpretation of Hebrew scripture within an predominantly Anglican umbrella, they certainly thought they knew where the country was going so perhaps that took away their incentive for power. What I have tried to do in this long essay is to assess from a snapshot of 19th century British-Israel publications how they reacted to and tried to influence the political world. How they manipulated biblical prophecy into a “we told you so” result, how British-Israel attempted to show that the writings and addresses of public men bore undersigned testimony to the contentions of their movement offering ‘blind’ evidence and how, strangely, after 80 years of campaigning they were very nearly proved right.

Altholz defines British-Israel as a variety of British nationalism buttressed by biblical references with all the attributes of a religious movement except religion[2].

The predominate idea of the British-Israel movement was that Great Britain was the home of one or all lost tribes of Israel implying that the inhabitants were God’s Chosen People. It’s prime source of appeal, to advocates, was that it sought to affirm biblical prophecy directed specifically to the Anglo-Saxon race and a unique covenant, with God, marking out the elite nature of that race.

Against a background of British ascendancy, over the course of the nineteenth century, into the largest empire in recorded history, the concept of being a ‘chosen people’ was attractive. This was fuelled by new ideas of evolution and racial superiority imbuing British society with a duty to spread a superior culture, system and way of life to less developed societies epitomized in Rudyard Kipling’s White Man’s Burden. The Royal Geographical Society had claimed, in 1891, that ‘On the topmost round of the ladder stands the Anglo-Saxon’ an opinion supported by Gladstone’s assertion that ‘Our race constitutes a kind of universal church in Politics’[3].

Rooting British-Israel in the Christian concept and placing monarchic authority in the House of David, the movement became attractive and a cause of concern to the ecclesiastical authorities. The Church Quarterly noted ‘it remains absolutely unintelligible to outsiders, who regard wonder mixed with disdain its arguments and its conclusions alike yet it seems to exercise over a continually widening circle of adherents a considerable attraction[4].’ and John Henry Newman, cited ‘fear that the Church of England stood in danger of being taken over by the Christian Israel Identity movement’ as one of his reasons for leaving the Anglican Church[5].

British-Israelism provided the theological justification for the British Empire through the concept of ‘birthright’. This was established through the prophecy that Abraham’s descendants would be an invincible great nation, numerous as the dust of the earth, including multiple nations based in a isle of land that would control the earth. The descent of the ten tribes of Israel into idolatry and banishment into the wilderness, as God’s punishment, provided the impetus for British-Israel to follow them to the British Isles.

A combination of literal interpretation of Old Testament Scriptures and legendary history underpinned belief that the British were the spiritual and biological heirs of Abraham and the Royal family was directly descended from the David line of the tribe of Judah. This implied both the British Empire and Church of England were modern manifestations of the Kingdom of God justifying the British, as God’s chosen people, rule of the earth.

The popularity of the British-Israel movement is very difficult to enumerate with he late 1890’s membership of the Anglo-Israel Association, in Britain, hovering around only 300 contrasting with the estimate of 2 million worldwide adherents in The Jewish Encyclopaedia (1901)[6].

The composition of the Anglo-Israel Association was described as clergy of diverse ranks and shades of opinion - high, low, broad, and nonconformists, soldiers, doctors, lawyers, magistrates, company-directors, missionaries and connecting history to the Scriptures drew British-Israel a large audience from the respectable and influential Victorian middle classes.

Amongst them the eminent Sharon Turner author of History of England from the earliest period to the Norman Conquest (1799 - 1805) and Charles Piazzi Smyth, Royal Astronomer of Scotland, who in Our Inheritance in the Great Pyramid (1865) asserted that the Great Pyramid was constructed in British Imperial measures later disproved by his disciple Sir Flinders Petrie[7].

Follower Rev. FRA. Glover compiled the genealogical chart of Queen Victoria, Colonel John Cox Gawler the Keeper of the Crown Jewels wrote for Life From The Dead at its inception, in 1873 and Dr. George Moore, author of The Lost Tribes, or Saxons of the East and West went on to found the Anglo-Israel Association, in 1879, with Viscount Folkestone MP and Grand Master of the Wiltshire Freemasons, as president. Senior military followers included First Sea Lord Admiral Jacky Fisher, the architect of many 20th century naval principles.

John Wilson

The father of the Victorian British-Israel movement was John Wilson author of Our Israelitish Origin (1840) based on Sharon Turner’s influential work A History of the Anglo-Saxon Peoples (1799-1805), which traced the Anglo-Saxon tribes back through Europe to the Balkans, Crimea and Caucasus[8].

A phrenologist and evangelist, Wilson’s combination of these chronicles with Hebrew Scriptures was a remarkable and unique feature of his British-Israel theory. Wilson’s first British-Israel London meeting, in 1841, was presided over by the newly enthroned Bishop Alexander of Jerusalem and he went on to publish:-

The Millennium and Phrenology Consistent with Reason and Revelation (1842), Book of Inheritance (1846), Tracts on Israel (1847), Questions On Our Israelitish Origin (1847), Forty Reasons for Resisting the Removal of the Jewish Disabilities (1848), Treasury Harmony (1849), A Vindication of Christ’s Character as a Prophet (1851), an Index to the Treasury Harmony (1855), Apocalypse (1855), Mission of Elijah (1861)[9].

Between 1863 and 1864, he continued his studies in Scriptural phrenology, giving lessons and characters (genetic origins) and writing on the subject in the Brighton Gazette culminating with his last work, in 1870, The Migrations of the English People, which, like his first, was upon the subject of Israel.

Edward Hine

Wilson was succeeded by banker Edward Hine (left) who lectured for several years in the British Isles, later touring America for about three years. His first book to be published was Seventeen Positive Identifications of the English Nation with the Lost House of Israel (1870) dedicated to W. E. Gladstone (by permission), a touch of irony as Hine was an opponent of Gladstone's policies[10].

This was swiftly followed by The English Nation Identified with the Lost House of Israel by Twenty-seven Identifications (1871) (100,000 copies sold)[11]. These were soon increased to Forty-seven Identifications (1874) selling 177,000 copies[12].

It is probably no coincidence that Hine (left) published his first pamphlet in the year of John Wilson's death, 1870, as he fundamentally disagreed with Wilson in that: 'He seeks to identify England with the tribe of Ephraim only, believing the modern nations, North-West of Europe, to be the other tribes; a view in which I perceive some little difficulty, but really so far as our nation is concerned, it makes not the slightest difference, for whether we are only a part, and that part the most favoured tribe, or whether we compose the whole of the tribes, it is equally vital to us[13].'

Unfortunately, Hine appears to have got carried away with his own success, discarded Wilson and proclaimed 'The world-wide renowned Forty-seven Identifications. The vastly popular work gave the inspiration to all identity writers of the present day. There is scarcely a trustworthy identity-thought put forward by others, but what has been borrowed from this book[14].'

George Gawler

George Gawler (above) and later his son John Cox Gawler, were both prominent members of the British-Israel movement and George was the influential link to the Jewish restorationists movement and senior Anglo-Jewry. George Gawler was a Colonel at Waterloo, governor of Australia, Keeper of the Crown Jewels, advocate of restoring Jews to their homeland and prolific author in the British-Israel press writing for Life From The Dead from its' birth in 1873[15].

Author of Tranquillisation of Syria and the East (1845) he asserted that encouraging a loyal Jewish population in Palestine the communications and trade, in the East, would be protected. He accompanied Montefiore on his trip to Palestine in 1849 and in 1852 helped form the Association for Promoting Jewish settlement in Palestine. His son John Cox Gawler published a blueprint for settlement in 1874 and in 1878, which Jewish settlers used, with funds from Edmund Rothschild, to establish a successful colony in Palestine.

The Royal Family

It is difficult to discern the involvement in British-Israel of the Royal Family. Certainly Queen Victoria was aware of it's existence, Queen Mary's mother was an acolyte and Princess Alice of Athlone (left next page) was a patron until her death in 1983[16].

In Victoria's reign, contact between the two spheres appears to have only incidental with no sustained communication between the two. A petition to Queen Victoria dated 4th April 1844 for payment of a debt to Mr John Finlayson consistently dishonoured by three Lord Chancellors included 'we entreat Your Majesty—to command immediate measures be taken, to restore your bretheren the Hebrews— the descendants of the Ten Tribes of Israel, as detailed in the Seven Trumpets and seven Vials— herewith sent your Majesty— The present administration, as descendants, ought to be the first to promote to the utmost of their power the restoration of their bretheren, God's people - the invisible as well the visible Hebrews - to land of their forefathers in Syria.[17]'

Princess Alice of Athlone

In 1876, The Banner of Israel proudly announced that both Queen Victoria and HRH Princess Louise had both accepted copies of Our Israelitish Origin, by John Wilson[18]. On the occasion of Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee, in 1897, the British-Israel Association presented an illuminated parchment stating 'It is the profound belief of your Memorialists that the high and pre-eminent position allowed by the British Nation and Empire under Your Majesty's long and prosperous reign will ever continue and increase by virtue of our Abrahamic Descent, we being the chosen people of God, as daily proclaimed in our National Church Service' and further referred to the Queen as 'The Royal Lion of Judah'. Coronation congratulations to Edward VII included the hope 'that your Reign may witness the Federation of the Anglo-Saxon Race by consolidating the ties which unite the Colonies with the Mother Country'.

British Israel Organisations and Press

The British-Israel movement only achieved organisational status from the 1870's onwards in a melee of rival groups and amalgamations. In 1875, the British-Israel Association and the Anglo - Israel Association were formed followed by the British-Israel Conference Association, in 1876, the Metropolitan Anglo-Israel

Association, in 1879, and The British-Israel Identity Corporation, in 1880. Amalgamation under The Earl of Dysart led to The British-Israel Association in 1886, which mutated to the Imperial British-Israel Association, in 1908 and finally the British Israel World Federation, in 1922[19].

The British-Israel press followed a similar evolutionary pattern. The first periodical The Time of the End started in 1843 but ceased publication after a couple of years and after a gap of some twenty years in 1866 the monthly magazine The Watchmen of Ephraim appeared until 1868.

Another short gap was followed by monthly publication, Life from the Dead (1873); Leading the Nation to Glory (1875), which was afterward renamed The Glory Leader (1875). The periodical Israel's Identity Standard commenced publication in 1876 followed by a weekly publication named The British-Israel and Judah Prophetic Messenger and Universal News, 1880, which later was renamed The Messenger, and later still changed its name once more to The Covenant People.

The principle, The Banner of Israel (1877) became the weekly journal of Anglo-Israelites throughout the world supporting the worldwide propagation of the British-Israel message with the Anglo -Israel Distribution Fund founded in 1881[20].

This journal, together with The Covenant People, was incorporated in The National Message, which came into circulation two years after the inauguration of the British-Israel World Federation (1921).

The Name Above All Names From The New Ensign

Chat Posted By Pastor Eli James

WHEN YAHWEH GAVE HIS 613 LAWS TO MOSHEH to teach to the Children of Israyl, He vowed an oath saying that those who would truly obey His voice and walk in all his ways would be a "special treasure" to Him. He also promised that He would establish these Law-abiding people as his holy people.

Exodus 19:5-6— 5 Now therefore, if you will truly obey My voice, by keeping My covenant, then you shall be a special treasure to Me above all people; for all the earth is Mine.

6 And you shall be to Me a kingdom of priests, and a holy nation...

Deuteronomy 28:9-10— 9 Yahweh will establish you as His Holy People unto Himself, as He promised you on oath, if you will keep the Laws of Yahweh your Father, and walk in all His ways.

10 Then all the people on the earth will see that you are called by the Name of Yahweh, and they will fear you.

I Kepha 2:9—But you are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a peculiar people; that you would show forth the praises of Him Who has called you out of darkness into His marvellous light.

These Scriptures show that all the people of the earth will see that Yahweh's holy people (those who walk in all of Yahweh's Ways) are known by the name of Yahweh. There has never been an inspired Scripture written in the Torah or by the prophets telling us that Yahweh's holy people would ever be called (known) by any other name.

In fact, the Prophet Yahyl was inspired to write a wonderful prophecy concerning everyone who calls with the name of Yahweh.

Yahyl 2:32—And whoever will call with the Name of Yahweh will be delivered; for in Mount Zion in Jerusalem there will be deliverance, as Yahweh has said, among the remnant who has escaped of those whom Yahweh calls.

Acts 2:21— And it will come to pass that whoever calls on the Name of Yahweh will be delivered.

Romans 10:13— For Whoever calls with the Name of Yahweh will be saved.

Why is it that we do not call with the Name Yahweh? Do we not desire blessings? Do we not desire acceptance from our Father? Holiness? Salvation? Could it be that we've accepted traditions that our teachers have inherited from their teachers, and then taught to us as doctrine—doctrine that cannot be supported by the inspired Scriptures?

The Name Above All Names:

The Name Our Teachers Have Taught Us To Forget

We are not called by the Name of Yahweh, in fact Yahweh's Name is not even uttered, because we have been taught that it is not acceptable to do so. We are taught that we must not pronounce the Holy Name of our Creator and Father, Yahweh, the Name the chosen of Yahweh will be known by, the Name those who are delivered will call upon! We are instructed by our teachers that Yahweh's Name is too holy to pronounce; therefore, we are to call Him "Adonai" and "Elohim".

This teaching has been fully ingrained in the minds of nearly all Israylites to the point that extreme hatred is shown toward anyone who openly speaks or writes the one and only true Name of the Creator. Remember this, because the holy prophets both spoke and wrote the true

Name. As a result, the Name of Yahweh has almost been forgotten (in effect, profaned or brought to nothing), and Baal's name is remembered and proclaimed worldwide.

A Name Remembered In Times Past But Unspoken Today

As we will read from authoritative sources, there was a time when the Name Yahweh was pronounced by all of Yahweh's people, in prayers, in blessings, and in greetings. However, by the third century BC., our teachers began teaching that Yahweh, the true Name of our Creator, was too holy to pronounce. This teaching is a practice that was not inspired by our Father, but one that gradually came about due to pagan influence.

Left: The Name of Yahweh Engraved on an Ivory Pomegranate Decoration

At first, the practice was to just pronounce the name Adonai instead of the Name Yahweh, wherever Yahweh's Name was written in the Holy Scriptures. However, as time went on, changes were made to the original writings.

Vowel points (which were not originally part of the text) were added to Yahweh's Name, causing the reader to pronounce the names Adonai and Elohim instead, and in many places these alternate names were actually written in place of Yahweh's Name altogether. We'll show you the many sources verifying these facts, but The Encyclopaedia Judaica, Volume 7, pages 680-682, sums it all up rather well, as you can see for yourself.

YHWH. The personal name of the God of Israel is written in the Hebrew Bible with the four consonants yhwh and is referred to as the "Tetragrammaton".

At least until the destructions of the First Temple in 586 BC, this name was regularly pronounced with its proper vowels, as is clear from the *Lachish Letters, written shortly before that date.

But at least by the third century BC, the pronunciation of the name yhwh was avoided, and Adonai, "the Lord", was substituted for it, as evidenced by the use of the Greek word Kyrios, "Lord", for yhwh in the Septuagint, the translation of the Hebrew Scriptures that was begun by Greek-speaking Jews in that century.

Where the combined form *Adonai yhwh occurs in the Bible, this was read as *Adonai *Elohim, "Lord God". In the early Middle Ages, when the consonantal text of the Bible was supplied with vowel points to facilitate its correct traditional reading, the vowel points for 'Adonai with one variation - a sheva with the first yod of YHWH instead of the hataf-patah under the aleph of 'Adonai⁷ were used for YHWH, thus producing the form Yehowah.

When Christian scholars of Europe first began to study Hebrew, they did not understand what this really meant, and they introduced the hybrid name "Jehovah". In order to avoid pronouncing even the sacred name *Adonai for YHWH, the custom was later introduced of saying simply in Hebrew ha-Shem (or Aramaic Shemc, "the Name") even in such an expression as "Blessed be he that cometh in the name of YHWH" (Ps. 118:26).

THE PROHIBITION OF USE OF THE NAMES OF GOD.

The prohibition applies both to the pronunciation of the name of God and its committal to writing, apart from its use in sacred writings.

The prohibition against the pronunciation of the name of God applies only to the Tetragrammaton, which could be pronounced by the high priest only once a year on the Day of Atonement in the Holy of Holies (cf. Mishnah Yoma 6:2), and in the Temple by the priests when they recited the Priestly Blessings (Sot. 7:6; see also Ch. Albeck (ed.), Seder Nashim (1954), 387).

As the Talmud expresses it: "Not as I am written am I pronounced. I am written yod he vav he, and I am pronounced alef dalet" (nun yod, i.e., Adonai; Kid. 71a). (Ed. Although this site mentions the Talmud and Hebrews as Jews -nether the less good info)

The Good Don't Realise How They Are Supporting The Most Evil - By Bernard Franklin

The Infiltrated Church has been largely responsible for promoting Evil for good!

MANY EUROPEANS LOOK AGHAST AT THE IMMORAL ACTIONS OF THEIR GOVERNMENT, as British and American servicemen, in particular, are sent to attack sovereign countries where we have no right to interfere. In whose interest are these attacks, usurpation of power, and theft of national assets taking place?

The answer is the secretive New World Order that wants to rule the world. Are these murderers, corrupters, warmongers, liars, cheats, thieves, destroyers of nations, cultures and civilisations really the kind of people who should be in control of Western governments and, as a result, have the ability to legislate for developing countries? The answer must certainly be no!

There are millions of good Christians who attend church every week to ensure they follow God's laws. These church-going Christians, even collectively, do not possess the power to start wars, put countries in debt or bully nations into acceding to unreasonable demands. Yet, through ignorance, it is good Christians who have voted the evil people into power.

There are surprisingly some Christians who feel Satan has got so far with his programme of destruction, that he should be helped along until the situation becomes so terrible that Jesus Christ will have to take over. This makes no sense at all. We know which politicians are following the Anti-Christ agenda and, logically, it can only be those with the ability to make changes that are responsible for the destruction of the white, British nation and other countries.

The drive toward world government has created a situation where power is concentrated in very few hands. By taking charge of the West's armed forces, today's rulers can inflict carnage on a scale unimagined at the time of the English or French revolutions.

The saying that "Power corrupts, and absolute power corrupts absolutely" is very true. See how Tony Blair, George Bush, Winston Churchill, Obama, Sarkozy, May, Cameron and Boris Johnson having been elected as inappropriate national leaders, and went on to feel they have a right to act as universal Gods, despite their characters being seriously flawed.

According to Christian teaching we are put on earth to resist evil temptation. Then why, by voting for the major parties, has the predominately Christian public give an evil army complete control over our lives? One plausible explanation for the sudden attempt to remove certain long-established Arab leaders is that, unlike Christian Europeans, they refuse to allow their people to become slaves to the banker's system of usury.

The overall effect in the West has been to pass power to the unelected 1% of greedy manipulators. They have been able to buy up 95% of broadcasting companies around the world and control public thinking. Start unnecessary wars, control world trade, while their banking system has constantly devalued money. With their multi-national corporations they have polluted our planet and been responsible for global warming. They were also the ones who created the greatest single crime in history by making the atom bomb.

Don't Neglect Those Worthy of Our Support

There are many thousands of great Britons tirelessly working for the community without expecting payment or fame. Many do charitable work, while others try to gain some political say for the British. All of these volunteers give up their time, and spend their own money on what they consider to be vital for our collective well-being. If you were to sit down and write a list of what you believe should be government policy, and present it to the Committee of the local Labour, Liberal or Conservative Party, you would likely find them either dismissive or hostile.

There are many honest and knowledgeable Britons who could do a far better job than politicians. But none of them would join a political party. I don't know anyone that belongs to a political party, nor do I know anyone who does. One has to be very brave in Britain today to stand up for the British. Doesn't this tell you that there is something terribly wrong with the political establishment? This is good reason to support those who raise their heads over the parapet for you. To become a teacher in a comprehensive school today one has to be prepared to instil in white children a loathing of their own race. This teaching is followed up by dangerous race-hate nonsense which suggests that to overcome an illusory racism one should take a black partner. The origin of this anti-white programme can be traced to September 1952, and is recorded in the files of the Canadian Intelligence Service.

This non-military warfare states, "We will identify with the races of Asia and Africa. – "In the interest of wiping out racial tensions", (that they created with their immigration programme) "whites must be forbidden to mate with whites. The white woman must cohabit with members of the dark races, and white men with black women. Thus the white race will disappear, and our most dangerous enemy will become only a memory."

Like fools we allow our children at, school, to be programmed for our own racial suicide. Schools exert too great an influence on young minds to be left in the hands of our enemies.

The Books of the Bible - From Dr. Wesley Swift's Bible Study 16th December 1964

THERE WERE 163 BOOKS which should be classified as inspired books. Some of them were scrolls and might not be but two or three chapters as we would term them today. But remember that none of these scrolls that make up the books of the Bible were originally divided in chapters and verses. This was done back in the early period of printing. Many books and many volumes and anything pertaining to religion or theology were done in chapters and verses, so as to locate it again, it brings out any point they wished to discuss.

So it became sort of a religious legal form, as they started putting everything in chapters and verses. We do have the book of Jude, a short book which is just one chapter. But there were 163 books or volumes and scrolls which could have made many chapters and books. All were inspired and all of them could have been used, by the early Patriarchs down to the writing of the New Testament. The sum total were more than that but 163 were known to be inspired. The council of Nicaea sometimes called Nicolea today by the contemporary commentators talking about the crisis in Cyprus, and so forth, but they were not Nicolaitanes, and they are not pronouncing this according to the old associations.

But they had well over 300 volumes to choose from and they whittled them down to only 66 books and only 64 of them belonged in the original of 163. Out of that 300 or more volumes of scrolls there were actually 163 good ones, and you will ask how do I find them? This is a little hard to do but you can find them.

It is almost impossible, yet not to find the book of Enoch, that is the old books of Enoch which was actually three books, "The Secrets of Enoch", "The Towers of Enoch", and what was known as the "Wisdom of Enoch" which is commonly called "The Book of Enoch", and this last is the easiest found. But they used to be in great separate scrolls, and were then bound together into one huge volume. The scrolls were bound shortly after the Wycliff

"Men do not sow in one field and reap in another." In other words men do not sow in their bodies in earth then reap in the heavens, or in some distant place, and their spirits were not burned in fire, and all that kind of stuff. This was all pagan grotesque Babylonian type stuff which was used to oppress, and to intimidate people, and to get them to serve their type of demons.

Bible came out. Then after this the Lutherans and the Catholics produced the book of Enoch, and they had revised the whole thing.

They did this because this book of Enoch was in such common use everywhere as it had been even in the periods prior to the time of Christ. During the time of Christ the Enoch Scrolls were heavily used, and this was true clear back to the time of the Patriarchs, but they were not as much copied and plentiful as they were preceding the time of Christ, and two or three centuries following that time. But Rome had to do something about this because you could not have hells and fires and torture chambers, and have the book of Enoch in use, because there was not anything like this in the books of Enoch. Therefore there wasn't anything to do but change it just as the Apocalypse of Paul would also be changed.

The Apocalypse of Paul was one of the most vital pieces of literature for the early church. Fortunately the whole of the Apocalypse of Paul was copied over and over and various churches had it. And of course Christians everywhere wanted to read it. Evangelists and Apostles would read to them out of the Apocalypse of Paul because this was the sum total of the Mysteries and the Wisdom which God had taught Paul in his heavenly vision. This made up the foundation of the majority of the Epistles which he wrote.

Those came out of the content of the Apocalypse of Paul, and of course out of the content of the things YAHWEH had unveiled to him. So in this was things which related to space, to the Universe, to the antiquity of earth, and of course related to people. But there was absolutely no perdition, no hells, no fires or torture chambers for a man after he died, none of these things existed.

In fact because superstition had such impact upon men, because all pagan religions had some type of situation like this, the Apostle Paul was told by Archangels and by YAHWEH himself,

And they classified any other religion as being in opposition to the truth when demonology of Babylon was taught. All those things were brought into our religion to keep people in a fear complex. This is why they needed to replace the original Apocalypse and the books of Enoch, plus the Gospel of Nicodemus would get Universal reading, because people were eager to hear these things, so they decided they better translate this book, or these books for themselves.

Rome had one of their Popes dictate the redoing of the entire book of Enoch, thus the "Towers of Enoch", "The Secrets of Enoch", and the "Wisdom of Enoch" were taken apart and then they inserted even in them their predictions and fires and torture chambers. Then in this copy, they pushed this as a popular copy with Rome's permission. This is why when they were hunting the scriptures for an English translation of the Bible, they used these books and translated these same Vatican manuscripts and documents into English. They knew about the existence of the books of Enoch and many other pieces of literature.

So they took these books and looked at the others then made sure that they had the translations they wanted to uphold in their own church. This is the reason why if you get a book of Enoch today, that the Charles edition published by Oxford, it has been republished every few years, and it has some things in it that are true. It has a part of the background where as at the same time it has part of the mumbo-jumbo put in so that it supports the doctrines the church established, but which were not the doctrines of Enoch at all. Great license was then taken by theologians to add, to subtract from, to change anything the Apostles said.

This is a rather interesting thing, for St. Augustine has this in his works and I have all of his works as well as that of St. Thomas of Aquinas, about for instance, this dealing with Rome. But they said it was perfectly permissible when God gave higher knowledge to men, or established his own Bishopric, and they spoke as Catholics, but it was perfectly alright for them to make changes in anything which had been stated, or said unless there was some seal that they, these men spoke by perfection. Since all prophets and all writers, and all Apostles were but men and subject to error, where by God had set one apart as a Bishop, then he had given him the most elevated position in his church, and thus the Holy Spirit would not permit this individual to be in error, where this designation might not have been given to all Apostles and prophets.

So they said they could correct the prophets and Apostles in the name of the authority of the Bishopric. By this they set doctrines to support this which I can show you in correlated doctrine. This is the reason why these doctrines of theology come down to our times. Lots of people get concerned when you say this is not the way it should be, but you have already accepted the change, IN THE WRONG DIRECTION.

When Protestantism came they didn't go much further, for they just accepted the same root material which had already been Changed, just translated it. In the retranslation they had the same set of material and if the change had been obvious they would drop it, but generally speaking the same knowledge is still required by all branches of Christendom. Generally speaking Orthodox theology did not discover this. Whereas today you have another wave of theology, this is Fundamentalism which not only accepts with literacy all the things in the scriptures, many of which are vital and important, and can be accepted literally by their having taken place.

But they blind themselves to whole areas of truth by saying that every word in this book if true, not one word of it is not true. But of course that is not true at all because the Devil talks here and he never told the truth in his life. So you can't say that everything you read in the Bible is true because when the Devil is quoting it is not true. Then that which he concocted like the story of the book of Esther, the purpose is not true.

Now; I think you might find this rather interesting, I have some clippings from addresses out of Northern California, and they are out of Sacramento papers, and the San Francisco papers, and the Jews up there are having their services, and their New Years services. And the Feast of Purim is one thing people don't talk much about, and another is the Kol Nidre. The Kol Nidre is an Oath they at this time take, and this oath says that all the oaths now taken are null and void. All the promises we have made and all the commitments, pledges, allegiances forsworn to, are no allegiances unless this is an allegiance to Jewry, and to our way. (unquote) Therefore they say: we now proclaim null and void all promises we made, and all commitments, pledges, and all agreements we shall enter into with the Goym to work out to the best interest of our society, the best obtainment of our objectives.

So the Kol Nedri when the full text is sung is total repudiation of any allegiance, or agreements, it totally disallows them. Further it is totally impossible for any Jew partaking of the Kol Nedri to be an American citizen. This man thus denies his allegiance to the United States, denies any pledges he has made because this is not a Jewish Nation.

Prehistoric London Its Mounds And Circles By E. O. Gordon (Published 1946) Part 23

Broad Sanctuary

TO THIS DAY, THE OPEN SPACE FRONTING THE WEST DOORS OF THE ABBEY IS KNOWN AS "BROAD SANCTUARY," a name which perpetuates the memory of the place of refuge established by Lleuver Mawr, "the Great Light," nearly 2,000 years ago, under the shadow of the Tot-hill.

A contemporary life of Edward the Confessor in the Harleian MSS. throws an interesting light upon this British settlement in the marshes in the eleventh century.

"The devout King destined to God that place both for that it was near unto the famous and wealthy city of London, and also had a pleasant situation amongst fruitful fields lying round about it, with the principal river running hard by, bringing in from all parts of the world great variety of wares and merchandise of all sorts to the city adjoining: but chiefly for the love of the Chief Apostle whom he reverenced with a special and singular affection."

From the sixth to the sixteenth century we find constant reference made to numerous jousts held on the royal tilting ground. But of none have we so full an account as of the "great jousts and tourneys" ordained by King Arthur[6]. Malory gives full details of several of these, to mention but one summons.

"And the cry was made that the day of the jousts should be beside Westminster upon Candlemas Day, whereof many Knights were glad and made them ready to be at these jousts in the freshest manner. In Book XIX we have a charming description of 'How Queen Guenever rode on Maying with certain Knights of the Round Table and clad all in Green.'

"So it befell in the month of May, Queen Guenever (left) called unto her Knights of the Table Round; and she gave them warning that early upon the morrow she would ride on Maying into the woods and fields beside Westminster.

And I warn you that there be none of you but that he be well horsed and that ye all be clothed in green, either in silk, or in cloth, and I shall bring with me ten ladies, and every Knight shall have a lady behind him, and every Knight shall have a squire and two yeomen; and I will they be all well horsed."

— "And so upon the morn they took their horses with the Queen and rode on Maying in woods and meadows as it pleased them, in great joy and delights." — "So as the Queen had Mayed and all her Knights, and all were be dashed with herbs, mosses and flowers in the best manner and freshest—right so came out of the wood Sir Meliagrance with an eight score men."

We refer our reader to the text of the Morte d'Arthur, if curious to learn the end of this Maying expedition which started so happily.

Throughout the Middle Ages Tothill Fields retained its popularity as a royal tilting-ground. Nor did it diminish under the Tudor kings. For here was held the famous tournament in honour of the marriage of Henry VII to Elizabeth of York, who, like her husband, had Keltic royal blood in her veins, a fact that is brought prominently into notice in the design of the brass closure of the royal tomb of Henry Tudor and his Queen in Westminster Abbey.

Here Henry VIII established his Society of Archers, the beginning of the Royal Artillery Company incorporated by Royal Charter in 1537. And several magnificent tournaments were held here in Queen Elizabeth's time, when the old Tothill was still standing.

Before we bring these fragmentary notes on the prehistoric mounds and circles of London to a conclusion, as we are about to do, with a description of an actual modern Gorsedd, solemnized as in pre-Christian times, within a stone circle on "some green spot, in the face of the sun, the eye of Light," with all the ancient symbolic ceremonial laid down by the Founder, it is important to glance at the historical evidence that has reached us of the functions of a Gorsedd, the "oldest educational institution in Europe" (according to Matthew Arnold), an Institution, moreover, not known out of Britain.
