Calling The True Israel Peoples

Editorial

Dear Reader,

Under Foreign Occupation

WHAT does one do when our government is funding, training, and arming terrorists, and then inviting them along with all their extended families into your country, using your wealth to pay for it all?

Well, let's be clear, it's not really your government, now is it? Most readers of this magazine will know quite well, that it is the Edomites, who have infiltrated the Caucasian Israelite nations under various guises, which the Scriptures refer to as Gog and Edom. Indeed as the Scriptures say, "Gog has taken a great spoil", this being almost all of their national wealth which has been stolen from under our noses, including infrastructure, and industry which has been sent abroad to Gog's near relatives in the east, with hardly anybody noticing!!

The politicians of our rigged political system are beholden to powerful alien interests, who are destroying the country whilst sucking the people dry. The chief tribe of vampires is somewhat few in numbers and dispersed across the planet, but they wield great power, particularly from the City of London.

A reader of the New Ensign in Bavaria informed us, that a building, in his pleasant formerly completely white village, used for the care of elderly people was requisitioned to accommodate a number of the recent influx of immigrants. This was done on the 11th of September - another 911! On the same day, 13 thousand descended on Munich - another good Illuminati number!

The enemy is using their control of the media, to make it look as though this flood of immigrants are being welcomed with open arms, but patently this is not the case and it is causing many people to wake up from their deep sleep.

For this we praise Yahweh, but he won't come to our aid until his people repent of their wicked ways and He be enquired of them. We look forward to His soon return!!

The Fallacy Of Millennialism (2)

By Pastor Eli James

The Millennium and the Day of Judgment

THE MILLENNIUM under discussion is in Chapter 19, continuing into Chapter 20, where the Beast and the False Prophet are cast into the "lake of fire," but first we have to identify this pair of beings, the Beast and the False Prophet, in order to distinguish them from the Dragon.

We confront these two entities earlier in Rev., Chapter 16:

12. And the sixth angel poured out his vial upon the great river Euphrates; and the water thereof was dried up, that the way of the kings of the east might be prepared.

13 And I saw three unclean spirits like frogs come out of the mouth of the dragon, and out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the false prophet.

14 For they are the spirits of devils, working miracles, which go forth unto the kings of the earth and of the whole world, to gather them to the battle of that great day of God Almighty.

15 Behold, I come as a thief. Blessed is he that watcheth, and keepeth his garments, lest he walk naked, and they see his shame.

16 And he gathered them together into a place called in the Hebrew tongue Armageddon.

I repeat: nowhere in the Bible is there any hint of two judgment days. But the Post-Trib Millennialists are logically forced to assert a Judgment Day for the Beast and False Prophet, with all of their minions, PLUS a Judgment Day for the minions of Gog and Magog, a thousand years later! This 1,000-year hiatus between two judgment events is the inherent flaw of Millennialism. Of course, these Millennialists totally ignore the fact that the Gog and Magog scenarios is part of the equation! If they wish to argue for a chronological interpretation of Rev. 19 & 20, then they have to be consistent and account for all of the facts! - not just those they wish to include!!!

In my thorough study of all of the prophecies in the Book of Revelation, I have identified Chapter 16 as a FLASH FORWARD to the End Times. Chapter 16 refers to events, which occur prior to and up to the Judgment Day. The Apocalyptic succession of beasts (a major plot of Revelation) is:-

Egypt,
Assyria,
Babylon,
Medo-Persia,
Greece,

Rome (Imperial Rome received the "deadly wound," paving the way for Papal Rome to take its place)

Napoleon, and, finally:----

The House of Rothschild, the "Empire of Merchants." Only a handful of Bible scholars have ever even broached the subject of the 8th Beast; and woefully few of these are Judeo-Christian theologians. Only Identity theologians, such as Howard B. Rand and Bertrand Comparet, have successfully identified the Eighth Beast, Mystery Babylon (Rev. 17:11).

This is quite amazing, since John the Revelator devotes practically all of Chapters 17-19 to colourful descriptions of this last Beast, which is the reincarnation of the ancient Babylonian debt-usury system, of which the Federal Reserve System is a major component. These two chapters go into great detail, describing the "Empire of Merchants." The United Nations, which is under the control of the Eighth Beast, the House of Rothschild, is also a part of this vision.

While the Apocalyptic Succession of beasts follow each other in chronological order through the pages of history and Bible Prophecy, only one of these beasts exists during the period of the End Times. That is the Eighth Beast, the house of Rothschild, which is the reigning "beast" of this Tribulation period. This Beast also symbolizes the Babylonian Debt-Usury System, which has re-emerged upon the historical scene, although few Bible interpreters make this connection, since they do everything possible to avoid implicating the Jews as one of the "beasts."

The False Prophet is easily identified. It is a specific reference to false religions, especially as personified in Judaism and Judeo-Christianity. Both of these religious ideologies prophesy falsely about the meaning of Scripture in the End Times (eschatology). The Catholic Church is a major part of the False Prophet entity. I include Universalism and Ecumenism as being part of the False Prophet, as these latter two heretical doctrines are shared by numerous misguided denominations. The False Prophet is False Religion issuing False Statements about Scriptural Prophecy. This would certainly include Judaism and all of the Judeo-Christian denominations, for they have swallowed Jewish lies like hungry fish! Islam, Hinduism and Buddhism would also fall under this umbrella, because they do not accept Jesus Christ as the Son of God.

"Who is a liar but he that denieth that Jesus is the Christ?" - I John 2:22.

Now, with an understanding of who the Beast and the False Prophet are, let us now reconsider Rev. 19:

17 And I saw an angel standing in the sun; and he cried with a loud voice, saying to all the fowls that fly in the midst of heaven, Come and gather yourselves together unto the supper of the great God;

18 That ye may eat the flesh of kings, and the flesh of captains, and the flesh of mighty men, and the flesh of horses, and of them that sit on them, and the flesh of all men, both free and bond, both small and great.

19 And I saw the beast, and the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against him that sat on the horse [Jesus Christ], and against his army.

20 And the beast was taken, and with him the false prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that had received the mark of the beast, and them that worshipped his image. These both were cast alive into a lake of fire burning with brimstone.

21 And the remnant were slain with the sword of him that sat upon the horse, which sword proceeded out of his mouth: and all the fowls were filled with their flesh.

So, the international banking empire of the House of Rothschild (8th Beast) and the twin set of false religions (Judaism and Judeo-Christianity, taken together as the False Prophet, because of perverting God's Holy Word) are to be cast into the lake of fire. Now, ordinarily, being cast into the lake of fire should be considered the FINAL END of these two beings/entities, as this implies total destruction. The problem of interpretation for the Post-Trib Millennialists occurs in Chapter 20, which seems to suggest a second tribulation period, which would occur after one thousand years, when the Dragon is released from its chains.

Let's read:

1 And I saw an angel come down from heaven, having the key of the bottomless pit and a great chain in his hand.

2 And he laid hold on the dragon, that old serpent, which is the Devil, and Satan, and bound him a thousand years,

3 And cast him into the bottomless pit, and shut him up, and set a seal upon him, that he should deceive the nations no more, till the thousand years should be fulfilled: and after that he must be loosed a little season.

Now, since these verses follow on the heels of the prose of Chapter 19, everyone assumes that Chapter 20:1-3 is a chronological continuation of the story in Chapter 19. But few Judeo-Christian interpreters have read the Apocalypse carefully enough to understand that this Apocalypse is composed of several ongoing plots and sub-plots. The Seven Church Ages announce the first major plot.

The Seven Beasts and the Eighth Beast, listed above, combine to make another major plot; and this plot is revisited sub-plot, which occurs three or four times in various chapters. You have to read each Chapter carefully to see if one of these plots or sub-plots is being revisited. Generally speaking, the Apocalypse is a prophetic chronograph of history, but this chronograph is repeatedly interrupted by these other themes. So, it is important to keep these themes separated from one another and not to mix them up with the chronograph.

When these themes are revisited, the chronograph is interrupted several times in different chapters of the Apocalypse. The Beast and the False Prophet also combine to make a??????

This is like a movie that tells several different stories at the same time. The movie cuts away from one story to another, giving us bits and pieces of each sub-plot, with all of the sub-plots converging at the end of the story, when all of the sub-plots fit into the big picture.

Nor do most Bible scholars understand that the Book of Revelation contains FLASHFORWARDS AND FLASHBACKS. I explain this concept and thoroughly document it in "Revelation Unfolded." Understanding this, you will see that the entire content of Chapter Sixteen is a flash forward to the End Times.

Chapters 15 and 16 deal with the Seven Last Plagues, announcing them ahead of time, and then describing in detail what it will be like when the plagues arrive. Chapter 15 announces the seven bowls (which pour out the plagues) and then digresses into a description of Yahweh's heavenly throne. Then Chapter 16 gives us the details of the Seven Last Plagues as a flash forward. For example, Verse 2 describes the skin lesions of those who accept the Mark of the Beast. If this a prophecy concerning the current fad of having RFID chips implanted under our skin, then it is compelling, because it has already been demonstrated that these chips can cause cancerous lesions!!! Verse 3 describes people having "dead blood," which I believe is a reference to vaccinations, which actually destroy our immune systems!! Verse 4 says the "rivers and springs will turn to blood." This could easily mean pre and post-natal diseases, including diseases caused by vaccinating infants. Autism, degenerative diseases, and childhood asthma would fall into this category, as these diseases are related to toxicity and invasive medical "treatment," such as vaccination.

Verse 8 describes a Coronal Mass Ejection (CME), a gigantic solar flare from the sun, which will scorch the earth with fire. (For the rest of the interpretation, see Revelation Unfolded.)

The first three plagues are things that we are going through right now, while the solar flare is due, according to some sun observers, in 2012.

Chapter 16 gives us the details of the Last Plagues in a flash forward. Chapter 17 then goes into a description of the Great Whore, Babylon the Great, the international banking and mercantile empire of the New World Order. All of the Seven Last Plagues, the Battle of Armageddon, and the Judgment of the Great Whore will probably happen simultaneously in the very near future. We are presently seeing food riots (famine) and economic collapse as we speak!

Sorting Out the Language

Note, first, that the subject of the first three verses of Chapter 20 is the DRAGON, which is identified as "the Devil and Satan." This is not the same as the Beast or the False Prophet. The Dragon is a spiritual entity, which lives continuously throughout the entire Book of Revelation narrative, while the 8th Beast and False Prophet are earthly institutions that develop during the latter days. While it is certainly true that Satan has his earthly representatives, it must be remembered that Satan is a spiritual entity, not a banking syndicate or a collection of religious denominations.

Let's continue with Rev. 20:

4 And I saw thrones, and they sat upon them, and judgment was given unto them: and I saw the souls of them that were beheaded for the witness of Jesus, and for the word of God, and which had not worshipped the [sixth] beast, neither his image, neither had received his mark upon their foreheads, or in their hands; and they lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years.

The Sixth Beast was Rome, which had placed the mark of excommunication upon those who refused to do business with this beast; and Papal Rome was the reigning beast during the Reformation. Verse 4 is describing the Sixth beast and the Reformation. So the Protestant Reformers (saints) lived during this long period, even though many of them were beheaded for their beliefs. It was these Reformers who had the true Christian Faith. Everyone else was spiritually "dead."

5 But the rest of the dead lived not again until the thousand years were finished. This is the first resurrection.

6 Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection: on such the second death hath no power, but they shall be priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with him a thousand years.

From today's perspective, the saints and martyrs of the Protestant Reformation, the "first resurrection," are already in "heaven," i.e., qualified for eternal life. Although in a disembodied state, they are, like us, waiting for the Judgment Day to come about to bring in the Era of Eternal Life, so that they can be resurrected in the flesh, when we will be given bodies surrounded and protected by the Holy Spirit. This protection will give our literal flesh bodies an immortal status, which is what Yahweh had intended for Adam and Eve before they fell. Some of us will actually live through the Great Tribulation and Judgment Day and be thus glorified!!! This is what Paul means when he says we, the "living," will meet these disembodied souls (the "dead") "in the clouds"! (I Thess. 4:17.)

Praise Yahweh! I can't wait for the day, even though it may be dreadful and terrible to behold! His Remnant will be saved! Since verses 4-6 describe the martyrdom of the Reformers at the hands of the Catholic Church, these verses are also a flashback to those days.

So, while the Catholic Church reigned as the Sixth Beast, the Dragon was imprisoned in the underworld for a Thousand Years. This is a historical event. The Dragon is Satan, but since Judaism is the Synagogue of Satan, this verse is telling us that the power of the Synagogue of Satan will be curtailed for a thousand years!

The Spirit of Judaism is the Babylonian Talmud and its Babylonian Debt-Usury system. Satan is the Spirit that animates Mystery Babylon (Rev. 17:1-5.) During the era of the Holy Roman Empire, the Jewish Debt-Usury System was held in check, unable to prey upon whole Christian nations, although the Jews were able to establish small-scale usury operations within the duchies and earldoms of the Holy Roman Empire. But these were the exception rather than the rule; and, when it was done, it was usually done in secret, against the declared policy of the Papacy and the rest of the Holy Roman Empire. Occasionally, a nobleman would need money to pay off gambling debts or to cover some expenses; and he would turn to a Jewish banker for funds. When he did this, he would risk incurring the wrath of the other noblemen and also that of the Vatican.

He would also risk losing his property if he couldn't pay his debts, so many financially troubled noblemen did turn to Jewish money-lenders for "help." This type of small-scale usury did go on during this period, but nothing like the banker to the nations status that the Rothschilds have achieved.

There were times when the local banking operation expanded into a city-wide business. The city-states of Medieval Europe were essentially independent states. Due to the nature of the feudalistic system, peasants were tied to their plots of land; and travel was restricted. Besides armies, only noblemen, merchants, and church leaders travelled extensively; and this was often dangerous, due to the highwaymen and renegades in the countryside.

The fact that the Jews were repeatedly driven out of these city-states is proof that they were not able to gain a major foothold within them. Both Church and Monarchy strictly forbade the practice of usury, which had always been the exclusive province of the Jews (and still is). During this time, neither the Papacy nor the Kings and Queens of the Holy Roman Empire needed any money from the Jews. This is why Queen Isabella had no difficulty evicting the Jews from Spain. She could have had them all killed. Spain was rich in gold and other goods from the spoils of colonialism. To Isabella, the Jews were a pestilence, so she got rid of the pest. Would that governments today could so easily get rid of the pestilence!

The other monarchies procured all the money they needed through taxation; and the Church derived its income from the various monarchies. Also, the Roman Catholic Church derived income from the selling of indulgences, the collection basket, and from the spoils of war, which would include the Crusades. Given this economic situation, the 8th Beast could not emerge until the prohibitions against usury were lifted; and this began to happen under Napoleon, who both liberated the Jews from the ghetto system and created the opportunity for the Rothschilds to lend money to Christian nations, for the purpose of making war against Napoleon.

It was not until after the Napoleonic Wars that Christian Europe collectively dropped its guard against Jewish usury. Austria, Italy, Spain, and the various German principalities were forced to borrow money from Jewish bankers in order to pay for their national defence against Napoleon's marauding armies. Russia, especially, had a strict policy against usury; and many pogroms against Jews occurred in Russia after Jewish moneylenders defied the law and pauperised the peasants with their money lending activities.

The Czars of Russia never did borrow a dime from any Jewish moneylenders. For this insolence, Jacob Schiff, a Rothschild banker agent, financed the Japanese against Russia during the Japanese-Russian War. Later, the Rothschilds financed the Bolshevik coup, which was nothing else than Jewish vengeance taken out against Christian Russia.

When the Napoleonic war was finally over, Europe was devastated and in great debt to one Jewish banking family in particular: the Rothschilds. War-weary Europe, now heavily in debt to the Rothschilds and other Jewish bankers, was forced to continue doing business with the devil. Thus, it was the Holy Roman Empire which had held this Dragon in check, and it lasted from 800 AD until about 1804 AD, or, just a little over 1000 years.

7 And when the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed out of his prison,

The Napoleonic Wars were the death knell of the Holy Roman Empire. The final nail was hammered into the coffin in 1804. What happened in the year 1804?

It was during the Napoleonic Wars that Napoleon issued orders that the Jews living in their various countries should be liberated from the ghettos. Furthermore, they were to receive equal citizenship with Christians, thus overturning centuries of anti-Jewish tradition. This was a very unpopular move by Napoleon, but it earned him some much-needed capital, to continue funding the war. Many anxious Jewish communities readily paid bribes to Napoleon's army to acquire this highly coveted liberty. Realizing the Army's need for these provisional funds, Napoleon quipped, "An army travels on its stomach." This was a quid pro quo between the Jewish ghettos and Napoleon. Few history books mention this exchange of funds for ghetto liberation, because for the Jewish community, it was most certainly a policy of bribery; and this is too embarrassing for modern Jews to admit, as they are always denying that they use their money to manipulate nations through bribery or extortion. If they admit that they did it once, the natural question is, "How often do you do this?" The Jewish ghettos were willing to pay, and Napoleon needed the money. History books never mention the fact that Jewish control of international finance is the true source of international strife.

Near the conclusion of the first stage of the Napoleonic Wars, and at the height of his imperial power, it came time for Napoleon to be crowned as the new Holy Roman Emperor. Since

Charlemagne was first crowned on Christmas Day in 800 AD by Pope Leo III, all of the succeeding Emperors had been crowned by the contemporary reigning Pope. The scene was set in Paris, France, 1804. The reigning Pope was Pius VII. As the ceremony to crown Napoleon proceeded, Pope Pius VII lifted the crown, intending to place it upon Napoleon's head, but, in one of history's most bizarre moments, the assembled audience stood aghast as Napoleon snatched the crown out of the Pope's hands! He then crowned himself with his own two hands. This act symbolized two very important facts:

The Pope no longer had the power to crown monarchs and Napoleon was declaring his independence from the Holy Roman Empire.

From Genesis To Genocide: Destiny Of The Jews (Part 2) By Andrew Carrington-Hitchcock

To identify the genocide that is going to befall the Jews, I quote these scriptures in closing:

1 John 2:22 – Who is a liar but he that denieth that Jesus is the Christ? He is antichrist, that denieth the Father and the Son.

Matthew 13:36 – Then Jesus sent the multitude away, and went into the house: and his disciples came unto him, saying, Declare unto us the parable of the tares of the field.

Matthew 13:37 – He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man;

Matthew 13:38 – The field is the world; the good seed are the children of the kingdom; but the tares are the children of the wicked [one];

Matthew 13:39 – The enemy that sowed them is the devil; the harvest is the end of the world; and the reapers are the angels.

Matthew 13:40 – As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire; so shall it be in the end of this world.

Matthew 13:41 – The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity;

Matthew 13:42 – And shall cast them into a furnace of fire: there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth.

Matthew 13:43 – Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.

Matthew 15:12 – Then came his disciples, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the Pharisees were offended, after they heard this saying?

Matthew 15:13 – But he answered and said, Every plant, which my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up.

Matthew 23:33 – [Ye] serpents, [ye] generation of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell?

Matthew 23:34 – Wherefore, behold, I send unto you prophets, and wise men, and scribes: and [some] of them ye shall kill and crucify; and [some] of them shall ye scourge in your synagogues, and persecute [them] from city to city:

Matthew 23:35 – That upon you may come all the righteous blood shed upon the earth, from the blood of righteous Abel unto the blood of Zacharias son of Barachias, whom ye slew between the temple and the altar.

Matthew 23:36 – Verily I say unto you, All these things shall come upon this generation.

Psalms 137:7 – Remember, O Yahweh (Lord), the children of Edom in the day of Jerusalem; who said, Rase it, rase it, even to the foundation thereof.

Psalms 137:8 – O daughter of Babylon, who art to be destroyed; happy shall he be, that rewardeth thee as thou hast served us.

Psalms 137:9 – Happy shall he be, that taketh and dasheth thy little ones against the stones.

Obadiah 18 – And the house of Jacob shall be a fire, and the house of Joseph a flame, and the house of Esau for stubble, and they shall kindle in them, and devour them; and there shall not be any remaining of the house of Esau; for Yahweh (the Lord) hath spoken it.

Malachi 4:1 – For, behold, the day cometh, that shall burn as an oven; and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble: and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith Yahweh (the Lord of hosts), that it shall leave them neither root nor branch.

These scriptures clearly identify the Jews and their fate. The reference to them as the daughter of Babylon in Psalms 137:8 is also interesting when one considers the Jews most holy book, “the Babylonian Talmud.”

Whilst we are all bombarded on a daily basis with the Jews alleged holocaust of six million in World War 2, we can now see the holocaust that they are truly afraid of and the reason why they mention the alleged World War 2 holocaust so often. The Jews are hoping Yahweh will believe they have already had the holocaust prophesied in scripture, in the same way they hoped their lies that Yahweh was their father would be believed by Jesus Christ in John 8:41.

But as we can see in the scriptures above the destiny of the Jews is to go from Genesis to genocide, receiving the holocaust they truly fear and the one that is divinely ordained.

Harold Stough Notes

King John's Last Will and Testament - written on behalf of King John in October 1216?

Did you know that the oldest surviving original English royal will was that of King John of Magna Carta fame?

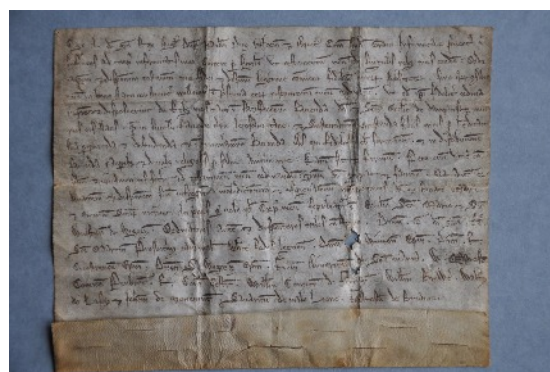

In the autumn of 1216, with the kingdom still embroiled in civil war, King John fell ill, probably of dysentery, while in the prosperous and, more importantly, friendly to the Crown, port and town of Lynn. His illness steadily worsened as he made his way back through Lincolnshire, making it as far as the bishop of Lincoln's castle at Newark just over the border in Nottinghamshire. Then, on the 18th or 19th of October (depending on which sources are to be believed) John eventually succumbed to his illness.

Newark Castle, Nottinghamshire by the River Trent

In the last days before his death John had his will drawn up. In it he specifically stated that the gravity of his illness prevented him from drawing up an itemized will, so instead he named 13 men to oversee the fulfilment of his wishes. Here is the text of his will, in English:

I, John, by the grace of God king of England, lord of Ireland, duke of Normandy and Aquitaine, count of Anjou, hindered by grave infirmity and not being able at this time of my infirmity to itemize all my things so that I may make a testament, commit the arbitration and administration of my testament to the trust and to the legitimate administration of my faithful men whose names are written below, without whose counsel, even in good health, I would have by no means arranged my testament in their presence, so that what they will faithfully arrange and determine concerning my things as much as in making satisfaction to God and to holy Church for damages and injuries done to them as in sending succour to the land of Jerusalem and in providing support to my sons towards obtaining and defending their inheritance and in making reward to those who have served us faithfully and in making distribution to the poor and to religious houses for the salvation of my soul, be right and sure. I ask, furthermore, that whoever shall give them counsel and assistance in the arranging of my testament shall receive the grace and favour of God. Whoever shall infringe their arrangement and disposition, may he incur the curse and indignation of almighty God and the blessed Mary and all the saints.

In the first place, therefore, I desire that my body be buried in the church of St Mary and St Wulfstan at Worcester. I appoint, moreover, the following arbiters and administrators: the lord Guala, by the grace of God, cardinal-priest of the title of St Martin and legate of the apostolic see; the lord Peter bishop of Winchester; the lord Richard bishop of Chichester; the lord Silvester bishop of Worcester; Brother Aimery de St-Maur; William Marshal earl of Pembroke; Ranulf earl of Chester; William earl Ferrers; William Brewer; Walter de Lacy and John of Monmouth; Savaric de Mauléon; Falkes de Bréauté.

If concessions are made for the practice of sealing rather than signing documents, this is a valid will as we would know it today. It fulfils all the criteria: that the person writing the will must be 18 or over; that they make it voluntarily; be of sound mind; make it in writing; sign it in the presence of two witnesses who are both over 18; and have it signed by their two witnesses, in their presence. Perhaps, following the use of the Latin word 'testamentum' in this document, we should refer to it as a 'testament' rather than a 'will'. Our modern use of the word 'will' links back to the Old English phrase 'ic wille' (I desire), used in the Anglo-Saxon period in documents directing the disposal of one's property after one's death.

The document itself is small, around the size of a postcard. From the fold at the bottom and the slits found there, the royal seal clearly once hung from the bottom of the will, likely accompanied by the seals of the 8 appointed executors present at the drawing up of the will. With only half of the kingdom under royal control at his death, one of the responsibilities of the men chosen to execute John's last will lay 'in providing support to [his] sons towards obtaining and defending their inheritance'. Among the 13 overseers we find named Guala (d. 1227), the papal legate, and the future regent, William Marshal, Earl of

The alleged poisoning of King John by a monk of Swineshead Abbey

Pembroke (d. 1219). Both men played a major part in securing the throne for Henry III, including being instrumental in the 1216 reissue of Magna Carta.

Jesus And The Law

John Trotter of Winnalee, Australia

FOR the purpose of this article I will be referring to only those words that Jesus Christ uttered in Matthew. There are many parallel quotes found in the other 3 Gospels. There are a number of points that will be commented upon at first.

These points are: One of the reasons why Christ was in constant conflict with the religious authorities was over the fact that they relied upon the "traditions of men"(Mark 7:8). These traditions were made up of laws that had come from Babylon. The number of extra laws ran to about 600. These laws were in conflict with the Laws that God gave to Moses. It must be realised that only the Ceremonial Laws were done away with at the time when Christ died on the Cross. These Laws are mentioned in Ephesians 2:15 and Colossians 2:14. If these 2 distinctions are not realised then there will arise confusion over the matter of Law and Grace. If Grace is unmerited favour and the Law of God is truth (Psalm 119: 42) they then still apply today. The final point is, if all the Laws have been done away with, then why we are experiencing the curses of the Law due to disobedience (Deuteronomy 30:19). We cannot expect God's Laws to be implemented today because we are presently living under the Babylonian system. Under the New Covenant with Israel we will have these Laws written into our minds and hearts (Hebrews 8:8-11).

The first recorded mention of Christ's words are Matthew 3:15. This verse refers to His baptism and the word righteousness is used. Synonym to righteousness are the words equity and justification. Righteousness and the Law are closely associated as shown in Psalm 119:142, 172. In Luke 24:13-53 we have the story of Christ witnessing to His disciples on the road to Emmaus. Later on we are told how He appeared to the 11 disciples and spoke to them about the fact that Christ was mentioned in the Law of Moses, the prophets and the Psalms. He spoke of repentance and the remission or pardoning of sins. It is interesting that the first time the words of Christ are mentioned is in reference to His own baptism and the last words given is in reference to the Baptism of the Holy Spirit upon those who are to be witnesses to the uttermost part of the earth (Acts 1:8).

The first direct reference to the word Law is read in Matthew 5:17-18. The Law referred to here is not the ceremonial Law, but rather to all those other Laws that are to do with the affairs of the nation, our relationship to God and to our neighbour. The reference to the "jot and tittle" clearly shows that not even the smallest alphabetical letter of the Law will pass away neither will the "dot" over the letter "i" pass away. Verse 19 states that those who believe the Law is done away will be least in the Kingdom of Heaven. That is, they will not reign with Him on this earth. The following verses, including many in chapters 6 and 7 show that Christ is to be seen as a strict enforcer of the Laws that would not be accepted under the present standard of political correctness. This coming King of the nations will rule with a Rod of Iron (Revelation 2:27).

In Matthew 18:6 Jesus again is using strong language regarding the offense of causing a child to sin. He says that it would be better that a stone be placed around his neck and be drowned in the sea. Such statements like that from a prominent person would be headlines with the expectation of court proceedings. We can only wonder what Christ said on many other occasions which has not been handed down to us. Refer to John 21:25 for a statement relating to all the things that Jesus did. I am sure that Christ upset many of the well-known leaders of His day.

If we are to believe that Jesus Christ was in "the beginning with God" and He being the Word became flesh (John 1:1-14), then the means of punishment expressed in the Old Testament would have been agreed to by Jesus Christ. When Christ comes back, He will be as King with Sovereignty, Authority and Power. His dealings with those who desire to dethrone God would be considered quite inhumane. Those who are the Tares (Matthew 13), represent an insignificant percentage of the world's population of 7 billion.

The next direct reference to the Law as uttered by Christ is Matthew 22:36-40. These verses can be read in Deuteronomy 6:5 and Leviticus 19:18. These 2 commands of Love is comprised in all the writings of the Law and the Prophets. John 14:15 says, "If ye love me, keep my Commandments". The word Love here is "agape" and it means love in a social or moral sense.

Before any one decides to believe that Christ is harsh when it comes to the Law, read Matthew 23:23 to the end of the chapter. The weightier matters of the Law are justice, compassion and the conviction of truth. What hypocrites these Pharisees were. Conditions on the earth without the Law is referred to in Matthew 24:38-39. The mystery of iniquity or lawlessness is controlling the affairs of this world. The modern day Pharisees are in control of the Ship of State.

In Matthew 23 Jesus uses some of the strongest words to describe the hypocrisy, outward show and the fact that they sat in Moses's seat agreeing to laws that only placed burdens on the people. It is of interest that F. Fenton's version says that they have usurped the seat of Moses. Even John Macarthur's commentary says:- "they have seated themselves in Moses' "seat" emphasising that this is an imaginary authority they claim for themselves ". So much more could be said regarding this chapter.

It is such a great pity that when the Law is mentioned today by the churches they are generally referring to the Ten Commandments. Virtually nothing is said concerning the financial and economic Laws. The Bible has so much to say regarding these matters. In passing, Christ did not agree with usury (interest) as is so often believed. Even the issues of the tithes and free-will offerings are misunderstood. Little is even known about the heave tithe.

To conclude this article I will quote the following verses Psalm 19:7 and Romans 3:31. They say: The law of The Lord is perfect, converting the soul: the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple and do we then make void the law through faith? God forbid: yea, we establish the law. I will leave the matter up to you for these 2 verses say it all.

German Victims (Deutsche Opfer) From Our Midlands' Correspondent

Did You Know?

THAT GERMANY is a U.S./British (City of London) occupied country for 70 years now and is not allowed to speak history truth in many areas of the Reich and WWII? The U.S. corporation "Bundesrepublik"

MUST represent the lies of the Allies about Germany, dictated by the Jews and the U.S. government. The plan was and is, since 1871, to destroy the successful German empire and a large percentage of its people and bring the Jews closer to world rule while making the Germans the sacrificial lamb for this hideous world-destroying strategy. Any lie will do, because Jews are taught in their Holy Book, the Talmud, that they should lie and deceive gentiles if it benefits them. And does it not?

DID YOU KNOW?

That hundreds if not thousands of books from truth speakers have been "burned" and forbidden in Germany and other European countries with stiff fines or prison for disobeying this dictate? And that the BRD (Bundesrepublik Deutschland) calls itself a land where there is 'freedom of speech'?

That publishers, speakers, musicians, and writers who present certain WWII history TRUTH are constantly harassed, dragged into court, imprisoned, haunted down their whole life and often financially ruined in European countries with the imprisonment in Germany?

That to be a Nazi was not a bad thing at all; to the contrary, the Nazis were the most honourable Germans due to the teachings of their honourable leader Adolf Hitler. That "Nazi" is used in an inverted way as an epithet to call people 'evil' and threaten them? Never mind being called a Nazi. I'd be proud to be called a Nazi now.

That for decades the ADL (Jewish) and other such organizations have been working on taking America's free speech away and that free speech is only hanging on a thin thread?

That Germany must do whatever the Allies say or it 'will be bombed'?

That Germany is not allowed a peace treaty in order to keep it a slave to the occupiers Russia, France, England and leader USA who is the main abuser of the Germans?

That if you are German you have more to be proud of than any other nation? And that the great German culture in newer times spans 1,000 years?

That the most prolific people in literature, science, art and music were Germans?

That the Germans lived in Palestine before the Jews? And that the Jews slaughtered the Germans (OT battles) and stole their history / mythology and made it their own and changed the meaning and made it into the bible for their purpose and plan?

That England declared, soon after the German kingdoms united in 1871 into one empire (Reich) that it can chop up the German Empire, hinting at their plans early to make war against Germany?

That England then proceeded to defame the people of the German Empire (First Reich to the Third Reich) with the Jewish press with supposed cruelty by the Germans in former wars to instigate hate against the Germans?

That most of the press in Germany was Jewish, going back centuries? That the Jews had a strong grip on the German kingdoms and the First and Second Reich financially? And that they sucked the lifeblood out of the Germans?

That the Jewish Banking / British Empire / Jewish media proceeded to go on a media binge to destroy the German commerce to eliminate the competition to England by spreading preposterous lies against Germans since German ingenuity and product quality was second to none and impossible to attack?

That Churchill said before WWII that not only the German empire but also the German people must be destroyed because they are too successful?

That Germany was not responsible for WWI and yet it was blamed and punished with unbearable reparations by the Bully Allied Leaders, of which the last payments were only recently paid off for WWI? Not to mention the debt of WWII for Germany for which it was not responsible! And what about the billions of reparations paid for the Jewish Holocaust that does not exist? The Germans have been robbed by the Jews for centuries!

That the Jews had the best treatment in Germany of all European nations? And how ungrateful they were to the Germans, these vipers!

That the Germans were very accepting of the Jews until they found out what the Jews did to them behind their backs?

That the fire of the Reichstag was most likely a Jewish/Communist attack?

That the burning of the synagogues was possibly a false flag attack (Jews set them on fire themselves as they were leaving Germany) to get compensation for the old synagogues? The German people as a whole would have never done this. The Germans are not Jews!

That Communism is a Jewish invention and the master plan to murder people and destroy nations under hidden Jewish direction by using policemen, military, officials of all types and people with power to harass, intimidate, harm, beat, execute, murder, and destroy individuals and the masses under their own government? That the first step is to eliminate free speech? That another step is to take fire arms away?

That Communism has not gone away; to the contrary, it has increased but has gone underground and its murder weapons have changed (mental disabling and killing with chemicals in food, water, and the air. Chemtrails spraying nano-technology to be ingested. Destroying brains with pharmacology. Increasing cancer numbers. Hidden sterilization with vaccinations. Cancer injected with needles or vaccinations.) That the United States is infested with Communism, and so is Europe.

That leaders like Martin Luther King and Nelson Mandela, revered and promoted as good (by the Jews) were actually communist criminals and deceivers trained to mislead blacks into hate against whites in order to bring about racial wars 'at the right time'? That the main MO of Communist Jews is to turn race against race, religion against religion, poor against the middle class, the average citizen against the rich, farmers against merchants, Protestants against Catholics, citizens against the Police, etc. Then the Jews hide and watch. When the slaughter is over, they come and take over.

That it was not a Russian Revolution but a Jewish Revolution? That the Jews had overthrown Russia, created the Soviet Union, and orchestrated and murdered since 1916 until the end of the Soviet Union between 66 Million to 120 Million people of many races in Russia, including millions of German-Russians and Germans from the Reich? It was the greatest ethnic cleansing on earth.

That after the Jews created the Soviet Union, they tried to create a Communist Germany and murdered many Germans? And that Adolf Hitler saw what they were up to?

That the Germans founded the farming and thousands of German towns in the Ukraine, on the Krim, by the Volga, and in Siberia around 1800 by invitation of Catherin the Great and built the 'Russian Bread Basket'? That the Ukraine alone had 1.5 Million ethnic Germans at the turn of the 20th century?

That the Jewish-Soviet government murdered Millions of Germans in the Ukraine starting in 1916, then in the famines in the 20s and 30s, in the civil wars after WWI, in the massive execution sprees starting in the 30s, as POWs and kidnapped civilians during and after WWII in the Gulags in Siberia?

That the pogroms (anti-Jewish laws) in Russia against the Jews in the early 20th century were in response to the Jewish murder sprees where the Jews came in gangs and raped, robbed, murdered and put homes and farms on fire?

That the Jews were planning to overthrow Germany and make it into another Soviet Union at the end of WWI and had accomplished to solicit Millions of war-poor and hungry Germans with promises into the German (Jewish) Communist party?

That Communist leaders Jews Rosa Luxemburg (above) and Karl Liebknecht who tried to overthrow Germany after WWI and turn it into another Jewish-Soviet Slave State are revered by the "German" (really Jewish-US) government and sorrow faces are displayed at memorials for them, while they never have a memorial for the 6 Million German soldiers who lost their lives in WWII?

That Adolf Hitler recognized in his youth in Vienna that it was the Jews who were Communists and that they set out to destroy Europe and make Germany into another Soviet Union?

That Adolf Hitler had a gigantic heart of love for people? That he was the first who campaigned against smoking as a cause of cancer? That he was very sensitive toward animals? That he established laws to protect animals in medical research? That he was a vegetarian?

That Adolf Hitler was a Catholic and remained in the church until the end of his life even though he had a few spats with the Roman church regarding some of the Christian teachings that were destructive to the German spirit? He rejected the Old Testament as purely Jewish teaching, not Christian. That the building of churches was flourishing during his reign? That he was admired by many Christian church leaders? That he was a man of high values and honour?

That Adolf Hitler was fighting the Communist party before he was elected Chancellor of Germany and that thousands of Hitler-supporting Germans were murdered and attacked on the street by the Communists? That even children in the Hitler's Youth were murdered by the Communists?

That the Communist members' youth was debased by their elders leading them into early sex and alcohol? Probably prostitution as well. That after the end of WWI the Jews sold our hungry women and children into prostitution? That about a Million Germans were purposely starved to death after WWI by a food blockade?

That the Communist Jews in Germany had so much power that several leaders in Hitler's party were shot point blank as they marched toward the government office trying to overthrow it without weapons?

That Adolf Hitler was imprisoned for trying to put a corrupt government out of action in his march with his early party members?

That the Jews were enraged when their Communist party lost and Adolf Hitler's Brown Shirts won?

That the Jews planned and instigated and dragged out both World Wars to make us much money as possible with their banking loans and to have as many people killed as possible, primarily Germans?

That two months after Adolf Hitler was elected, the Jews of the whole world, including the German Jews (550,000) declared war on Germany and the German people? And that this was treason?

That even though this was High Treason and called for the death penalty, Hitler did not give the German Jews the death penalty but staged only a very short boycott against them to flaunt the power of the German people?

That 400,000 Jews left Germany after Hitler's response and about 150,000 did not want to leave?

That the Jewish star to be worn by the Jews in Germany was by the request of the Jewish leadership?

That the Crystal Night was in response to the shooting and killing of a German diplomat by a Jew?

That the Zionists wanted the German Jews to leave and immigrate to Palestine and that many preferred to stay in Germany?

That, yes, Hitler wanted the Jews out of Germany and his 'final solution for the Jews' was to send them to Madagascar. This plan was interrupted due to the war breaking out.

That all German leaders standing before the Nuremberg Military Tribunal said up to their execution that they did not know of an order to exterminate Jews. Even after 20 years of prison, Albert Speer stood by this.

That Herman Goering said: "The gas chambers are a p r o p a g a n d a swindle. Adolf Hitler would have never given his approval to gas Jews."

That in 900 typed pages in the Auschwitz Trial 1963 to 1965 that all the people on trial who were involved in some function with Auschwitz said that they knew nothing of gas chambers to murder the Jews and that instead Auschwitz was an exceptionally well-run work camp.

That foreign researchers, historians, gas experts, and even foreigners that have been incarcerated in a German camp wrote about their experience in the concentration camps and proved that the gas chambers are a fiction?

That Adolf Hitler had more than 40 attacks on his life? That there were many Jewish infiltrators and disloyal and sore loser German Communists who worked against him?

That the photos and pictures presented to the public of "murdered Jews" could be from any place in Europe, namely from the Polish camps where they murdered Germans or Russians, from the Russian camps where they murdered Germans and Poles? That there were thousands of Gulag camps in Russia and hundreds of camps in Eastern Europe were for decades and after the war PRIMARILY GERMANS were murdered, but also Jews? The death rate in these camps were 50% to 90%?

That many pictures of dead Jews presented with German military personal were collages and pieced together or staged to place Germans in the vicinity of corpses? That some of the most famous Auschwitz pictures are fakes? That it is curious that many of the bodies were naked. It is not German culture or custom to dishonour the dead by displaying them naked in heaps.

That the most emaciated dead bodies who were “supposedly starved to death” in the German camps were the bodies of Typhus victims, and not necessarily in German camps. Typhus is a war disease and transmitted by lice due to war conditions. All people in all camps throughout Europe were de-liced with some type of chemical regardless if the camp owners were German, Russian, Czech, Polish, or any other nationals. This was done to protect the camp personnel and the camp internees from Typhus. It was a protective rather than a destructive measure.

That wanting the Jews out of Germany was a humane reaction rather than having them all executed for high treason on the spot? (550,000 German Jews declared war on Germany in March of 1933!)

That Hitler helped the Jews financially to leave for Palestine and refunded them for all their property in Germany and paid for the journey to Palestine until he found out much later what they did to the Palestinians, and he stopped helping them to immigrate? He also made a speech about that, where he bitterly accused the Zionists of cruelty against the Palestinians!

That Germany was the most successful country in the world during Adolf Hitler’s reign even though it had been reduced to a third world country after WWI, and that the Jews and England and the US could not tolerate such ‘German success’ while they mismanaged their own countries, and their people suffered from poverty and depression because they served the Jewish bankers, the Federal Reserve Bank, a private Jewish bank not federal at all? So they made Hitler into an evil murderer to wipe out all the good about the Germans.

That per official reports no less than 86,000 people in Germany have been convicted in 8 years for Holocaust doubt or denial under Jew Paragraph 130 (per Ursula Haverbeck). The Jew-US runs Germany, and Germans are made to suffer for having an opinion and for a crime their fathers and grand-fathers never committed. That is truly dishonouring the dead!

That Germany’s financial success was to a great extent based on Hitler rejecting the Jewish banking and usury?

That neither Poland nor Germany started World War II but England and France? Poland started a local conflict with Germany?

That Poland had driven off Millions of ethnic Germans since after WWI from their homeland Poland? That these people did not only lose their home country but all their possessions?

That Poland murdered thousands of ethnic Germans in Poland before September 1939, most of them brutally tortured to death and Adolf Hitler knew this and kept trying to negotiate with Poland to allow Germany access to the former German territories by means of an Autobahn? And that the Poles kept attacking the Reich in the press, kept torturing and murdering the Germans, and mobilized?

That the German scientists were excluded from competing in world science after WWI to keep them unsuccessful and silenced? I wonder how many great Germans in other areas were suppressed or murdered or kidnapped and taken to foreign countries never to be heard of again?

That the conflict between Poland and Germany just before WWII was local and not a cause for a World War? And that the World War was a plan by the Jews, Britain, Russia, France, and the U.S.

That Poland started the war with Germany and not the other way around? Poland attacked the German border many times during 1939 WITHOUT the Germans fighting back.

That on the day the war broke out the Poles had stepped on German land pursuing fleeing ethnic Germans and killing them. That this is when Adolf Hitler said: “Since this morning, we are shooting back [at the Poles].” (His speech of Sept. 1, 1939) In other words, Germany did not attack Poland, Germany was attacked and fought back.

That the Soviets kidnapped Millions of German men, women and children from the Reich, from Poland, from other Eastern countries and dragged them off to the Russian slave labor camps, the Gulags, toward the end of WWII and many years after it? Most of them did not survive.

That there were many concentration camps in the East Bloc countries like Poland, Chechnya, Hungary, Russia, etc. Also in the West, were Germans were tortured to death AFTER THE WAR in the most horrid ways, including sexually. And no German government member speaks of it but keeps falsely accusing the Germans of the Jewish Holocaust? What slaves they are to the Jews and the US leaders!

That the International Criminal Gang (Allies and the Jews) again blamed the war (WWII) on Germany and for 70 years is beating up Germany and imprisoning Germans who speak the truth to keep the Germans shut up and enslaved? Not to mention the billions of reparations the hard working German slaves have to pay again. What ethnic abuse!

That nearly 6 Million German citizens have been starved to death inside of smaller Germany by Supreme Commander Jew Dwight Eisenhower after the war by a food blockade?

That over 1 Million, more recently the numbers claimed are 2 Million, German prisoners of war were living on the ground without any bedding or protection from the weather and deliberately starved to death in the American Rheinwiesen Lager (POW camps on the Rhein banks in Germany) by Supreme Commander Jew Dwight Eisenhower to get rid of German men? Not to mention the British, French, Russian, Polish etc. POW camps were most German POWs did not survive.

That while they kept the surrendered German soldiers imprisoned and murdered them, (against the Geneva convention to keep them imprisoned after the war) the German women and children were brutally and repeatedly, ongoingly raped in Germany by the Americans, Russians, British and French occupation forces for many months by the Millions? Many German women and girls were raped for years after the war by the occupation.

That German police and physicians were not allowed in Germany for years after the war? Only Russians, Jews, Americans, Brits, Frenchmen, etc. could “treat” and “protect” our German people; in other words, our enemies. That the fox (the occupier military) was guarding the hen house, raping, robbing, treating to death, neglecting, harming, torturing, beating to death and executing our innocent and noble German people.

That thousands of our German scientists have disappeared, were murdered, and were executed, along with tens of thousands of our German elite near the end and for many years after WWII?

That thousands of our German citizens have been kidnapped by the Allied enemy nations and put into slave labor camps around the world, and that many of them have never returned home nor have ever been heard of again?

That because the Americans have kept the Germans enslaved with their lies and victory power, the Jews have won world power and are now controlling most governments in the world installing their corrupt and depraved value system calling it Democracy and Freedom? And it is clear, the American government is the co-conspirator in Jewish world dominance! Just look at all the Jews in our U.S. government, and all the Western governments!

That the Jews have had a law signed by Bush for the Jews to kill all American Christians?

That the Jews can cheat non-Jews? That they can lie to non-Jews? That they can let a non-Jew die without any attempt to rescue him? That non Jewish women are filthy in their eyes? That it is acceptable to have sex with a 3-year old? That all non-Jews are nothing but cattle? That the best of the non-Jews deserve to die (our elite)? That the next best will then be elevated to the position of “best” and will also deserve to die? Where will that end? That according to the Jews, the non-Jews’ only purpose is to serve Jews? That leaders who collaborate with the Jews have stated that 90 percent of the population of the earth needs to be ELIMINATED? They are not talking about reducing birth!!!

That only about 90,000 Jews died of all causes in WWII compared to 60 Million non-Jews? And that in Germany the Germans of WWII cannot be publicly mourned? In the more recent mourning for the victims of the bombing of Dresden, the demonstrators are harassed and interrupted by counter-demonstrators with the support of the treasonous “German” government?

That the treasonous Communist Pole, Angela Merkel, said in a speech that “...the German people did not deserve a democracy...”

That the Jewish Holocaust is a manipulation tool of the Jews to continue the fabrication that Germany is the ‘bad guy,’ and must be kept down. This they do for several reasons, some of which are: 1) To keep the German empire under the claws of the Jews and the U.S. 2) To exploit the Germans financially – work for them while the Jews-US scoop off the cream from the top 3) To destroy the German race and culture. 4) To destroy Europe. 5) To siphon money off Germany and off the U.S. for the Jews as victims. 6) To make the Jews the victims so that everywhere they go they get special privileges and a ‘handicap’ which has catapulted them into a deadly world power. 7) For the Jews to rule over the non-Jews. 8) To destroy the sovereignty of country after country because the International Criminal Gang has been so successful with ruling over Germany while everyone is blind to it and helps accuse the Germans. 9) To destroy the sovereignty of the United States. – – – It has been working and continues to work until the Jewish Holocaust is fully recognized and exposed by the Americans as a fraud!

That the wolf is walking around in sheep’s clothing PRETENDING TO BE A VICTIM. And that the Jewish god is NOT the Christian God. It is a Jewish invention for the benefit of the Jews to subdue the non-Jews, and, therefore, not a god for the white race. The white heathen race had many gods and admired and RESPECTED the natural and spiritual world. That the white race itself was the creator or co-creator of a good world and was the leading race in the world.

That through deception by the Jews, the white race was subjugated and murdered and brought to its knees in Palestine before and after the days of Christ.

That all the great implementations Adolf Hitler made to build up an honourable society, the enemies of mankind apparently are using as a guide line to implement all the inverted values with the goal to destroy our society?

That Adolf Hitler was just the opposite of what the mass media tells us? That he probably was the most honourable and humane leader in centuries. Not only that, he was Germany’s Savior and an extremely intelligent and personable man. He was an avatar, a genius; some even call him ‘like a Jesus Christ.’ All his actions came from his heart and for the love of his German people.

That because Adolf Hitler and the Nazis were so grand, so honourable, that the lying International Criminal Gang – from Jewish Rabbis to Obama (abusing Germany) to Putin to impersonator Angela Merkel – does all it can to keep the truth hidden, persecuting and destroying good honest people who speak the truth, and hunting down Nazis (so-called bad people) and processing them through a Kangaroo Court.

Not taking any of this seriously? I take it very seriously!

The Strangest Alias In History From Our Belfast Correspondent

MANY REASONS AND MOTIVES have prompted men to assume other names. Circumstances have arisen which, for the sake of protection, have called for an alias. The hiding of a man's identity beneath an assumed name has enabled him to pass unnoticed where recognition would have involved peril. One of the most difficult tasks of police authorities is to strip a suspected person of any aliases under which he or she may have been living in order to disclose the individual's true identity. Men have mysteriously disappeared from their frequented environments by the simple device of changing their names. Memory is short and a person is soon forgotten, although he may be still living in very close proximity to his former surroundings. Thus, the use of an alias is an extremely effective means of obscuring identity.

A Whole Race Disappears

Only once in human history, with its multitudinous vagaries, has it been recorded that a whole race completely disappeared from sight, seeming to leave no trace behind it. So completely was its identity obliterated that, although still in existence and better known to the whole world than any of its contemporaries, the nations comprising it having a foremost place in history and envied by those striving for world dominion, it still passes unrecognised by the world generally as to its true identity.

A commonwealth of nations and a great nation living under an alias! Truth is often stranger than fiction and it would need the pen of a genius and the imagination of some great writer to vividly depict and weave into story form this hiding of nations and the obscuring of their identity while they unobtrusively play the greatest role that has even been the lot of any race in the unfolding drama of human relationships.

How comparatively few who read the best-known Book in the world have discovered in it this strange story. How comparatively few have realized that the Bible contains a story thread at all, much less that it is the story of the people created by Almighty God for world service, with a Divine pledge of imperishability, destined at the end of its long journey to lead the nations of the world into the Kingdom of God on earth and to consummate the Divine purpose of blessing every family of the human race. The nations formed by that people are to become the focal centre of world destiny upon which the eyes of the whole world look and to which they turn for guidance, help and deliverance - yet all the while their true identity is unrecognized. This is no mere fiction; it is actual truth and fact. With cynical smile, scoffing word or impatient, incredulous gesture, men dismiss as the fad of a fanatic or the warped idea of a crank the suggestion that, in spite of all their boasted sagacity, they have failed to identify the best-known nations in the world. But so it was intended. How perfectly the alias hides its secret! How completely the identity remains obscured!

The Reason for the Alias

Surely there must be a reason - an important reason - for this remarkable alias? Surely behind what it conceals there must be a Master Mind? It is that reason and that Master Mind which make the story live. How thrilling it must be to pass unnoticed while rubbing shoulders with one's fellows, listening to what they say about one, sharing with them things held in common, all the time wondering at their blindness in failing to see the obvious. And more so since a part of the story in the Bible offers a minute description of the people in question, a vivid word picture so clear in detail that, once attention is drawn to it, one wonders how it could ever have been missed.

It is like the hidden figure intertwined in some drawing which challenges us to find it. How we look and turn the drawing about from side to side, upside down and at every angle. But once it has been found, it stares out at us every time we look at it and we wonder how it could have been possible not to see it before. So it is with the national alias. The national instruments for world blessing march down their prescribed avenues of world history to do a work they could not have done were it universally known who they really are.

The Missed Story of the Bible

Because the story of the Bible has been missed, the story of the alias has been overlooked as well. How hard it is to wean ourselves away from traditional beliefs and the confused vocabulary by which men endeavour to interpret the Scriptures. Accepted theology has obscured perfectly plain meanings and common sense has become confused by involved explanations and complicated exegeses. Why not call a spade a spade; why not believe that God means what He says and says what He means in intelligible language. God has planned it that His purposes shall be perfectly clear to all so that "the wayfaring men, though fools, shall not err therein" (Isa. 35:8). When He uses a symbol, He so states. When He employs figurative language, it is obvious. When He speaks in terms of literal history or narrative, He means it to be taken as such. It is this confusing of vital issues which has caused the ordinary reader to miss the story of the Bible. He has been made afraid to take things literally and, when he has had the courage to do so, the Church has resented his action as an infringement of its prerogative to interpret.

A People hidden for 2,520 Years

The strangest alias of history is written in terms of simple, everyday language. For over 2,520 years God has had a people in the world living under an alias. It is only now, in the days in which you and I live, that the identity of the people so hidden is due to be revealed. The specified time period of the alias is terminating.

The time for the greatest discovery of history is at hand. Slowly but surely world events are lifting the veil and disclosing the origin and the identity of what has for so long been the greatest enigma of human happening.

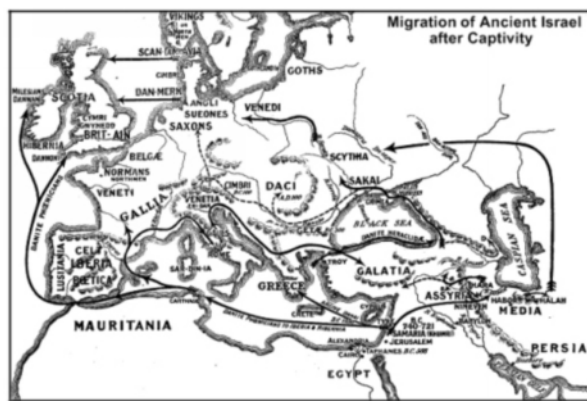

Let us await God's time; it is not for us to run before history, however eager we may be to make the facts known. To allow our impatience to anticipate God is to betray an ignorance of the Divine purpose or a failure to trust Him to do in His own way and time what He has promised to do. It is not for us to play the role of the private detective, but rather to watch with deepening interest and wonderment how He is carrying through His design. We may often have wondered why our well-meant efforts in public and in private to explain the alias have met with, to us, an inexplicable countermove that has frustrated our efforts. Is it not the evident sign that we have been premature in our eagerness to hurry things? To force open a door so carefully kept closed before the opening time is to hinder rather than help.

"He that believeth shall not make haste." Yet it is the very thing we, in our earnestness, wish most of all to do. Why won't people listen? Why can't they see? Some have even wanted a national proclamation to be issued, identifying the Anglo-Saxon-Celtic peoples with Israel of old, or have deplored the fact that the Christian Church cannot be compelled to see the truth so as to make an official declaration concerning the true identity of present-day Israel.

Why all this haste? Can we not trust God to do in His own time what, after all, concerns Him far more vitally than it can ever concern us? Shall we try to remember that not all have seen the hidden figure in the drawing - that they do not see what you or I may have discovered. May I urge you to bear with a word of exhortation? It is not our task to remove the national alias, however eager or earnest we may be to disclose the identity beneath it. Shall we try to understand that those closed doors, that opposition, that refusal or apparent unwillingness to listen, may be the very way, perhaps the only way, by which God is able to curb our impetuosity and so prevent our spoiling His plan?

This thing is too big, too world significant, too far-reaching to be rendered ineffective by well-meaning but mistaken human interference. World destiny is wrapped up in this alias. How lovingly God deals with us and our deep desire to help Him, but how often He must smile at our childlike lack of understanding while appreciating the motive that would persist in premature action. We want to move forward now — and He has waited patiently for 2,520 years for the very same thing!

Why the Alias Still Remains

What lies hidden beneath this alias? Why is it such a zealously-guarded secret? Sufficient information has already been revealed to let us know that the British Commonwealth of free nations and the great people of the United States of America are no ordinary nations among the peoples of the world; that they are there for world service, for the uplift of mankind, for the maintenance of law and order and the establishment of the basic principles of righteousness, justice and freedom in the earth. With no uncertain voice the Holy Scriptures declare that the alias - the change of name - was given to the House of Jacob, the descendants of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. That was the Divinely-appointed line through which blessing was to reach all mankind, the people called in the New Testament "the Commonwealth of Israel."

Make no mistake here, for this alias has nothing to do with the Jew of history. The Bible most plainly records that neither Abraham, nor Isaac, nor Jacob were Jews. Never has it been necessary or desired to change the name of the Jew. Nothing has ever hidden the identity of the Jew.

On the other hand, you know the story of Jacob, that moment in his career when he met God and wrestled with the Angel. It was the supreme crisis in his life and experience when his name was changed from Jacob to Israel. With a changed life and character he was to rule with God. The nations that came from him to play their great part in the world drama have to graduate in the same school. As he wrestled and prevailed, so must the Anglo-Saxon nations wrestle and prevail until their name, too, may be changed and the alias under which they have travelled down their predestined roads gives place to the name by which all shall know that they, too, rule with God for their blessing and for His glory.

Today we are passing through the time of national Jacob's trouble, which is leading us out into the time of renewal, readiness and worthiness to receive the new name, that of Israel. We are facing our Peniel in this welter of tribulation and tears in order that we, like Jacob, may learn to depend utterly upon God alone; that we, like Jacob, may realize that we dare not let God go until He blesses us. When that day dawns, God will be able to trust us with that name of which He is a part, Isra-el (ruling with God).

The identity is all right; nothing changes that. That has never been in question. The main issue is, When shall we be able to have it made known that we have prevailed with God, taken our place on His side, forsaken our old evil ways, and have been changed and renewed? Then, and only then, will the world know "whose we are and whom we serve."

Must we cease, then, to proclaim our identity? Why should we? It is part of the Divine plan; part of the Bible story. We must continue to proclaim it so that those who have eyes to see and ears to hear may see and hear, although the majority remain in ignorance. But let us proclaim it in its right setting - proclaim the struggle that will bring the nation out of the night into the day as we pass over and out of the old life into the new, no more Jacob, but Israel. Then will the strangest alias of all history yield its long-guarded secret and the whole world will rejoice. Thereupon, triumphant voices will be raised in exaltation: "Arise, shine; for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee. . . And the Gentiles shall come to thy light, and kings to the brightness of thy rising." (Isa. 60:1-3)

A History of Magna Carta

From Our Welsh Correspondent

KING JOHN is familiar to most people through the Hollywood version of the legend of Robin Hood. He is portrayed as second only to the Sheriff of Nottingham in cunning and treachery. In the Robin Hood tales, John plots to prevent Richard Lionheart from returning to England and to the throne which is rightly his. Robin is engaged in the practice of robbing the rich to give to the poor, mainly because King John has set extraordinary taxes and given the Sheriff extreme powers to collect them. In essence, that was the situation. But Robin Hood does not enter our story at all. There is little evidence to place him on the scene, the best documented legends place him several hundred years in the future. The historical version differs from that described by myth but is even more dramatic.

There were eight children of Henry II and Eleanor of Aquitaine: William (1153 - 1156), Henry (1155 - 1183), Matilda (1156 - 1189), Richard (1157 - 1199), Geoffrey (1158 - 1186), Eleanor or Leonora (1162 - 1214), Joan (1165 - 1199), and John (1166 - 1216). There were also half-brothers and half-sisters from Eleanor's first marriage and Henry II's relationships, but the story is complicated enough without including them. Let's just say that they did rather well for themselves and leave it at that.

Henry II of England from Cassell's History of England - Century Edition - published circa 1902

Henry II and Eleanor of Aquitaine had a dysfunctional marriage marked by rivalry for power, conspiracy, plotting, and Henry's wandering eye. Eventually this led to the imprisonment of Eleanor. The children in the immediate family reflected their parent's politics and problems. The oldest son, William, died when he was three and the next in line, Henry, was actually crowned king, but never ruled. He died six years before his father. For that reason he is called Henry the Young King and doesn't get to have a roman numeral. Richard was next in line and became Richard I upon the death of his father in 1189.

Sounds simple and reasonable so far. It wasn't. Henry II wanted John to become king but was hampered by details called tradition and law. In addition, Eleanor had made Richard her heir. Henry II wanted control over Eleanor's holdings, and in the end Eleanor unsuccessfully plotted with her other children to overthrow Henry II, or to at least wrest control over most of the French territories from Henry II. But that gets ahead of the story.

Let's go back a bit. Henry's great-grandfather on his mother's side was William the Conqueror, Duke of Normandy. When William won the battle of Hastings and the English crown in 1066, he maintained his lands in Normandy and remained the Duke of Normandy. By the time of Henry II, not only did Henry rule Normandy, but Anjou as well. When he married Eleanor, she brought Touraine, Aquitaine, and Gascony into the family. Add in Maine and Poitou and that gave Henry II power over much of France. But France had a king, Louis VII, who, just to make the story more complicated, had been Eleanor's first husband. Not surprisingly, Henry II was a threat to the French king, and Henry II had to defend his territories. He did so successfully in 1152 but we shall see that the French didn't give up. This gets complicated. The French territories were not part of England. While King of England, Henry remained Duke of Normandy and had various other titles for his other holdings within the French court. He owed fealty duty to the king of France.

Henry II

Henry II was king for over thirty years and during that time worked to modernize his administration and kingdom. As he increased the power of the state, he came into conflict with the other power in England and Europe: the Catholic Church. Two of the most important functions of government are keeping the peace and providing common resources such as an army. To do either of those, one must have money which can be gotten in a number of ways.

Henry II was as interested in strengthening his power in England as he was in maintaining his French possessions. He instituted a number of reforms in England to bring the power of the king to remote regions and protect his borders. He began to travel to various parts of England to assess conditions, hold court, and generally establish rule. Dukes, left to their devices, tended to get ambitious. More important, he created new law through the Assize of Clarendon (1164) which arranged for regular court visits to settle disputes, particularly land disputes. Judges were appointed who had the power of the crown behind them. They travelled around England holding assizes, what we, in America, would call a circuit judge. They replaced the courts controlled by the Catholic Church.

Part of their procedure was to call together 12 men who were knights to use their memory of who owned what to settle disputes. This was the beginning of trial by jury. In addition, there was a larger court that might visit only once every seven years. It also used local knights to evaluate claims as in a Grand Jury. The system wasn't complete, but it was a beginning. The power of law was taken from the local Dukes and from the Catholic Church.

This move on Henry's part brought him in direct confrontation with the Church. Not only would the Church lose the power of being primary arbiter in all sorts of civil cases, Henry II demanded that the members of the clergy subject themselves to the civil court for civil matters. If there was a land dispute between the Church and a local landowner, the civil courts would have jurisdiction. If a priest were caught stealing, the civil courts would have jurisdiction. Up to this point, the Church had handled all such matters. It was as if they were a separate country operating by the laws of Rome. Or a modern analogy might be that every priest and nun had diplomatic immunity.

Thomas Becket

It happened that Henry II had the opportunity to appoint a new Archbishop of Canterbury. This is how closely related the Church and state were in those days. The Church had power in civil affairs, but Henry had the power to appoint archbishops. To make sure that he had someone who would support his new reforms, he appointed one of his best friends, Thomas Becket (who would be called Thomas à Becket after his death).

Thomas was not in the clergy, he was the Chancellor.

To correct this minor problem, he was ordained as a priest, the following day was made a bishop, and by evening, became the Archbishop of Canterbury. Who says there isn't humour in history?

At first everything went well. Thomas supported Henry's new laws. Gradually though, as Thomas grew into his new position, he began to have pangs of conscience and, as often happens, because of his new responsibilities he began to adopt the point of view of the Church and the need to protect it and its integrity. He became extremely religious. Historically this era is the beginning of a long process of separating the powers of church and state. It wasn't easy to draw the line; it still isn't today. During the feudal era the Church was so strong and provided so many benefits and services to the kings of various countries there wasn't much question of the necessity of cooperation.

That began to change as nationalism increased, educational levels outside the monasteries increased, and the kings coalesced their power. The Church was a threat; at the same time it ensured an umbrella of international cooperation. The pope can be seen as meddlesome on the one hand, but on the other hand he worked to maintain peace to preserve communication and his own supra-national organization. He used the power of the Church to excommunicate disobedient kings or in extreme cases he used the power of the interdict; denying an entire populace the sacraments and clergy. Kings ruled by the grace of God and the pope was his messenger. Almost anything could be interpreted as impacting the welfare of souls and thus would come under the purview of the Church.

The balance of power for the kings was their control of the military, the economy, and the loyalty of their subjects. More sophisticated government, taxation, record keeping, and bureaucracy strengthened the king and made the support of the Church less necessary for the survival of the state. The increased importance of real property, trade, and travel called for more civil authority to maintain and defend it. The need for a military, used both to defend and expand territory, also increased as the nations became more organized and prosperous and thus more desirable as prizes of war.

This then is the situation facing two friends. Thomas Becket and Henry II were both intelligent rulers who could see the patterns of social power and history. Each was called on to protect the future of their convictions. In 1163, a member of the clergy was acquitted of a murder charge by the Church court. The people were angry and Henry tried to have the man brought before the civil court. That was when Thomas chose to oppose him. History is fickle because people are fickle. The scandals of preference and bribery dogging the Church court were not limited to this case. In the interest of justice, Henry II had established a system which would, as far as possible in those days, not depend on wealth, connections, or position. Thomas might have chosen a better case on which to make his stand, but in the end it didn't matter -- the people changed sides and supported him once Henry went into action.

When Thomas opposed Henry's civil courts, Henry retaliated and began the process of "setting him up" for misuse of government money during Thomas' tenure as Chancellor and Archbishop. Thomas Becket fled to France and the protection of Louis VII. Once there, he further angered Henry by excommunicating two bishops who were supportive of Henry's new policies. He stayed in France for seven years. In 1170 Henry II came to France and the two met in Normandy. Henry had heard that Becket was trying to get the pope to excommunicate him. As the result of this meeting and the backing of Pope Alexander, Thomas Becket returned to Canterbury. Henry was still in France when he got the news that Thomas had refused to rescind the excommunication of his bishops. He lost his temper and four of his knights heard him say, "Who will rid me of this meddlesome priest?" According to Henry II, they took it upon themselves, without his knowledge, to do the deed. You can read a vivid eyewitness account of the murder of Thomas Becket written by Edward Grim, a monk of the cathedral, if you go to the reference at the bottom of this page.

The murder had far-reaching consequences for England, but the immediate result was that Henry II had to make peace with the Church. He did this four years later by performing penance at Canterbury Cathedral. He was beaten by eighty monks while wearing sack cloth and ashes and spent the night in vigil at Saint Thomas Becket's tomb. The Church had wasted no time and had canonized Becket in 1173. He also had to promise to raise money for the Crusades and to either mount a Crusade or make a pilgrimage. He did neither. There was enough to do at home. In 1173 Henry II's son Henry the Young King, with the support of Richard and Geoffrey started a revolt against their father. While young Henry had been made king, he had no power and very little money. Richard and Geoffrey also stood to benefit by freeing themselves from the control of their father. The group had quite a bit of support from nobility both in their French territories and in England, including young Henry's father-in-law, Louis VII of France. But Henry II handily won the day, both in England and when he took his armies to France. Henry forgave his sons, but it would seem that in this case Thomas Becket was right. He had strongly advised against the coronation of young Henry. It creates a terrible situation when there are two kings – even if one of them is your son.

Monarchies have always had the problem of what to do with adult heirs to the crown. Henry the Young King died in 1183 during another revolt against his father.

While all this was going on, Henry II took the opportunity to expand his territory to the west. In 1169, Henry II was requested to send troops to aid Dermot MacMurrough who claimed the crown of Ireland. Ireland was, at that time, split up into small dukedoms and kingdoms with a high king. There were many candidates for the post, but no one had significantly greater resources. Henry II changed that. The throne was secured in 1169, but MacMurrough requested more and more troops to keep the peace. When he died in 1171, the Anglo-Norman troops were already loyal to Henry II and he sent additional troops and claimed Ireland for himself. This was quite a coup for a king, in fact, it was just about a bloodless coup. Historically, it may have cost more than it was worth, but at the time it seemed like a good idea.

ALINSKY'S 8 LEVELS OF CONTROL

Sir—, Saul Alinsky died about 43 years ago, but his writings influenced those in political control of our nation today..... Recall that Hillary did her college thesis on his writings and Obama writes about him in his books. Died: June 12, 1972, Carmel-by-the-Sea, Ca. USA.

Anyone out there think that this stuff isn't happening today in the U.S.? All eight of Alinsky's rules are currently in play:–

.How to create a social state by Saul Alinsky:

There are eight levels of control that must be obtained before you are able to create a social state. The first is the most important.

1) Healthcare - Control healthcare and you control the people

2) Poverty – Increase the Poverty level as high as possible, poor people are easier to control and will not fight back if you are providing everything for them to live.

3) Debt – Increase the debt to an unsustainable level. That way you are able to increase taxes, and this will produce more poverty.

4) Gun Control – Remove the ability to defend themselves from the Government. That way you are able to create a police state.

5) Welfare – Take control of every aspect of their lives (Food, Housing, and Income)

6) Education – Take control of what people read and listen to – take control of what children learn in school.

7) Religion – Remove the belief in the God from the Government and schools

8) Class Warfare – Divide the people into the wealthy and the poor. This will cause more discontent and it will be easier to take (Tax) the wealthy with the support of the poor.

Does any of this sound like what is happening to the United States ?

Alinsky merely simplified Vladimir Lenin's original scheme for world conquest by communism, under Russian rule.

Stalin described his converts as "Useful Idiots." The Useful Idiots have destroyed every nation in which they have seized power and control.

It is presently happening at an alarming rate in the U.S.

If people can read this and still say everything is just fine... they are "useful idiots."

Traitorous Farmers

Driving round Lincolnshire many farmers fields continue to put up hoardings for treasonous politicians, Bilderberg puppets and political parties that have given Britain's sovereignty and therefore peoples freedom away. No doubt this is the same nationwide but as Lincolnshire is a farming 'county!' It is easily spotted.

Together with taking bribes (being paid not to farm which is control of the food supply), GMO crops and spraying other crops with literally poison these farmers should be harassed for being traitors. Only then will they get the message.

Maybe you should ask them to go and visit war memorials for the brave souls who allegedly died for freedom that those hoardings are utterly opposed to.

Only within the last few days has someone drawn my attention to the fact that our cereals are sprayed with Monsanto 'Roundup' before harvesting. This is clearly not to kill weeds, but to increase yield, apparently; as well as to dry out the crop so it ripens right across the field at the same time; again increasing yield. This means that flour and all made from it is contaminated with glysohate. Yours truly, Lincspatriot.

Myths About Britain's 'Finest Hour'

Alexander Cockburn

There's a myth now about the British hanging together in those dark days [of 1939-1941]. "London can take it," Ed Murrow told America in his CBS broadcasts. Actually, morale was appalling. Most people correctly had little confidence in the competence of their government and thought Germany was going to win. In the Channel Islands, which the Nazis did take over, the people greeted them hospitably and turned in Jews with zest. The British Ministry of Information employed 10,000 people to read people's mail surreptitiously, intercepting about 200,000 letters a week, and discovered that people were deeply pessimistic and thought Churchill was "played out."

A secret government report spelled out the popular lack of nerve: "Portsmouth -- on all sides, we hear that looting and wanton destruction had reached alarming proportions. The police seem unable to exercise control ... The effect on morale is bad and there is a general feeling of desperation ... their nerve had gone."

Churchill's famous speeches about their "finest hour" and so forth didn't have much effect either. He delivered them in the House of Commons, and when the BBC asked him to rebroadcast them on the radio, he refused. So the BBC secretly used an actor named Norman Shelley to read them, pretending to be Churchill. Shelley's usual role was to play Larry the Lamb on "Children's Hour." Most people didn't actually know what Churchill's voice sounded like, and those who did thought it sounded funny. Letters poured into No. 10 Downing St. asking what was wrong with the PM.

Many people tried to shut out the war as much as they could. By the end of 1940, nearly a third of the population admitted to not following news of the war. When asked what depressed them most, people put the weather first, then war news, then the air raids. Life was rotten anyway for a huge slab of the population, which was malnourished, poorly housed, barely educated and deeply discontented. When they visited the [London] East End, the king and queen were soundly booed. In the summer of 1941, a woman got five years in prison for saying "Hitler is a good man, a better man than Mr. Churchill."
Yours truly, B, Northern Ireland.

Land of dope and Jewry, land that once was free

All the Jewboys praise thee, as they plunder thee

Poorer still and poorer, grow thy true born sons
Faster still and faster, they're sent to feed the guns

Land of Jewish finance, fooled by Jewish lies
In press and books and movies, while our birthright dies

Longer still and longer, is the rope they get
But - by the God of battles, 'Twill serve to hang em yet.

Longevity of The Ancient Britons

Sir,—Plutarch mentions, so kind are the seasons as to ripen all sorts of grain, and to furnish a great variety of excellent fruit. Indeed, notwithstanding any apparent disadvantages, the longevity of the inhabitant.

Inhabitants of Britain frequently attained the age of 120; and we are informed by Mr. Carew, in his Survey of Cornwall, that in his time. there lived one Polzew, in Cornwall who had reached the great age of 130; a kinsman of his lived to 112; a Mr. Beachamp died at the age of 106; and, in his own parish, in the short space of fourteen weeks, there died four persons, whose years altogether amounted to 340. The famous Thomas Parr, of Shropshire, lived to the advanced age of 152 years. Dr. Plott, in his Natural History of Oxfordshire, speaks of one Richard Clifford; who was living in Oxfordshire, at the age of 114; Brian Stevens, at Woodstock, and two or three persons then living at Oxford, above 100. Also a Mr. Biddulph in Staffordshire, who had twelve tenants then living; whose ages; reckoned together, amounted to 1000. Dr. Willet mentions a man who was living at Bedfordshire at the age of 121. Dr. Hakewill observes, that William, Marquis of Winchester, attained the age of 107. Henry Jenkins, of Yorkshire, died at the advanced age of 169: in short, there is scarcely a town or village but has afforded some instances of longevity. Extracted from Rapin's History of England, 1733.

This gives lie to the controlled media propaganda that we are now living longer than our ancestors!
Yours truly, J. J. Co. Durham.

Postscript To My Letter Of The Saville Case (The New Ensign, No. 64 December 2014)

Sir—,I wrote this letter in anger and may have even disobeyed our Lord's command "Judge not that ye be not judged -(Matthew 7.1), which resulted in an incomplete letter and the omission of necessary conclusions.

A younger friend of mine works in the Crown Prosecution Service. He is a Freemason and in his lodge are Firemen and others in that rank of society. He assures me "there is no harm in it".. As he is a friend I don't give him the obvious rejoinder: "You are playing amateur theatricals without an audience, which seems pretty pointless to me". He is also a Christian and a British Israelite and he dare not talk about these to his colleagues. The poor chap is trapped in a job with pretty strange people.

And this "government" department has stopped the course of Justice five times with the Saville case. In my opinion stopping the course of Justice is a satanic act, so the DPP and his senior officers appear to be Satanists!! And my Christian friend is not aware of it!!!- How many others are in this unfortunate position? Precipitating a war is, of course, a satanic act.

Those unfortunate people who reported the abuse by Saville, which was properly investigated by the police saw their five cases not brought to Court, They cannot report this disgrace to the Police Complaints Commission for it was the CPS who stopped the five cases!! The PCC will not be empowered to deal with CPS!!! It appears that the leading politicians have been blocking the road to Justice for a long long time. And the Police Complaints Commission, like the CPS, are not necessary. "Jobs for the boys" appear to be the secret policy of our "government"

Not all policemen are honest men. Forty years ago friends of mine had a T.V. shop in Liverpool which was burgled. The police investigated, caught the gang but my friends never got the evidence back - the T.V.s. Such acts of lame Justice, which is of serious concern to every Judge and Magistrate. Such incidents should be reported to the local Court so that the Magistrates or in serious cases the Judges, can sort out the matter with the help of the Chief Constable, using his, police Disciplinary Procedures. This clutch of civil servants in the PCC are an unnecessary public expense Such is our Government. Yours truly, An Ancient Mariner.

The End

Did Jesus Wear Long Hair?

By

Dr. Oren F. Potito

Rev. Oren Fenton
Potito
1932 - 1995

MANY MEN today are wearing their hair long. This style seems to have had its start in modern times by certain musical groups such as the Beatles and others. The hippie movement, which has spread like a plague, has adopted the long hair style for men. The "Jesus freaks" and other religious hippie cults have taken the long hair road. Unfortunately many men and boys who are not hippies have started to wear their hair in this manner. Many try to justify long hair by stating that Jesus Christ wore long hair. The time has come to set the record straight.

History Does Not Support the Idea That Jesus Wore Long Hair.

Many pictures drawn by artists in recent times, picture Jesus with long hair. In this they are wrong. The following is taken from the book, The Modern Student's Life of Christ, by Philip Vollmer, published some years ago by Fleming H. Revell Company:

"Archaeologists object to the conventional pictures of Christ because they are not true to history. A German painter, L. Fahrenkrog, says: 'Christ certainly never wore a beard and his hair was beyond a doubt closely cut. For this we have historical proof. The oldest representations, going back to the first Christian centuries, and found chiefly in the catacombs of Rome, all pictured him without a beard. All the Christ pictures down to the beginning of the fourth century at least, and even later, are of this kind.'"

Even from Leonardo da Vinci and Michaelangelo we have pictures of Christ in the Final Judgment according to this older type.

The June, 1971 issue of Tomorrow's World carried an article entitled "Did Jesus Wear Long Hair?" The article was illustrated with authentic busts from the ancient world of the Roman Empire leaders proving that short hair was the accepted mode in Roman-occupied Judea.

The busts of General Pompey, Julius Caesar (left), Caesar Augustus, Emperor Trajan, and King Herod Agrippa—all showed that short hair was the style. The article stated:

"For example, on pages 126-127 of Avi-Yonah's work (A History of the Holy Land) are found busts of Pompey, Augustus, and one believed to be Herod—all with short hair. All statues and carvings of legionnaires show them with closely cropped hair. A Roman with long hair was an oddity as is—used to be—the case for men in our society. In fact, all Roman Emperors before, during, and after the time of Christ, from Julius Caesar to Trajan, wore short hair. And the emperor was the individual who set the pattern in style and mode of dress for the whole empire."

Many popular pictures of Jesus that were painted in relatively recent times, have perpetuated the satanic idea that Jesus wore long hair.

There Is No Biblical Evidence That Jews Wore Long Hair.

"Doth not even nature itself teach you, that, if a man have long hair, it is a shame unto him?" 1 Corinthians 11:14.

Jesus was not a Nazarite! According to Numbers 6:1-27, a Nazarite did wear long hair. However, Jesus was a Nazarene and not a Nazarite. While the two words look similar in English, they are entirely different in looks and meaning in the original language of the Bible. A Nazarene was one that lived in Nazareth, according to Matthew 2:23. A Nazarite was one who took a Nazarite vow, according to Numbers 6.

The Nazarite vow was usually temporary (Samson and Samuel seem to be notable exceptions, for their vow was for life. See 1 Samuel 1:11 and Judges 13:5; 16:17).

The Nazarite vow was a vow of separation. Three things were forbidden as long as he was under the vow, 1) "He shall separate himself from wine and strong drink, and shall drink no vinegar of wine, or vinegar of strong drink, neither shall he drink any liquor of grapes, nor eat moist grapes, or dried." (Num. 6:3); 2) He could not cut his hair; 3) He could not touch or come near a dead body. (Num. 6:6-9).

A Nazarite could not have used any product of the vine, and thus Jesus could not have instituted the Lord's Supper if he had been a Nazarite. For in this, He used the fruit of the vine.

If He had been a Nazarite, He could not have touched the funeral "bier" (open coffin) of the dead man in Luke 7:11-18.

If He had been a Nazarite, it is doubtful that the Holy Spirit would have caused Paul to write. "... if a man have long hair, it is a shame unto him." (1 Cor. 11:14).

If He had been a Nazarite, Judas would not have needed to identify Him in Gethsemane, since Jesus would have been the only long-haired man there. Everything in the New Testament seems to indicate that Jesus looked much like the other Judean men of His age. If there had been any radical difference in His appearance, we believe that it would have been mentioned in the Bible.

"Doth not even nature itself teach you," that a man should have short hair and a woman long hair? I HAVE NEVER SEEN A BALD-HEADED WOMAN, but I have seen many bald-headed men. Very, very few women become bald, and those that do, are careful to conceal it with a wig. This surely must be "nature" teaching us.

The Bible clearly indicates that the hair style of a man should be short, and that the woman's hair should be long. There should be a clear distinction between the hair of a man and a woman. Many scriptures teach that a woman's hair should be or was long. (See Luke 7:38, 44: John 11:2; 1 Peter 3:3; 1 Timothy 2:9 and many others). On the other hand the scriptures indicate just the opposite for the man, for you can find no such list of scriptures as above, in relationship to the man. Other than the very few Nazarites mentioned in the Old Testament, we can think of only one long-haired man in the Bible and that was Absalom. He was the wicked, rebellious son of David.

"If a Man Have Long Hair It Is a Shame Unto Him"

The above quoted words were written by Paul and were divinely inspired of God. Therefore, we are going to accept what God says rather than the [illegible] of the day. For the Christian, the Bible is the final word, not some picture or popular tradition.

For evidence, we quote what scholars have said about 1 Cor. 11:14.

Lange says, "Accordingly, in contrast with the practices of a cruder heathenism of the earlier time, when long hair prevailed, there has grown up among the most civilized nations, that good taste which declares itself in favour of short hair for men and long hair for women. Among men, the wearing of long hair is now reprobated as a mark of effeminacy and dishonouring to them, inasmuch as it prevents the free exposure of the countenance."

Matthew Henry (left) says, "The woman's hair is a natural covering, to wear it long is a glory to her; but for a man to have long hair, or cherish it, is a token of softness and effeminacy."

"...If a man have long hair, it is a shame unto him."

The Greek Word "ATIMA" is translated "shame" in the above text. Elsewhere in the New Testament it is translated "dishonour", reproach" and "vile". Thayer's comments on this word are interesting and informative. He says: "Atima, dishonour, ignominy, disgrace. 1 Cor. 11:14; 1 Cor. 15:43, (in a state of disgrace, used of the unseemliness and offensiveness of a dead body); ... base lusts, vile passions, Rom. 1:26."

Could anything be plainer? The "shame" (atima) of long hair is elsewhere used in connection with a dead and putrefying, decaying body. In Romans 1:26, "atima" is translated "vile". Let us read this verse carefully.

"For this cause God gave them up unto VILE affections: for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature; And likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust one toward another; men with men working that which is unseemly, and receiving themselves that recompense of their error which was meet. And even as they did not like retain God in their knowledge, GOD GAVE THEM OVER TO A REPROBATE MIND" (Romans 1:26-28).

God is thus associating the "SHAME" of long hair with the "VILE" affections of the sodomites and homosexuals. Our generation has made long hair acceptable and is seeking to legalize and popularise homosexuality. Now, we have homosexual [illegible] and other churches that gladly welcome them into their membership. Long hair and homosexuality do not always go together, but they are very compatible. They both represent a revolt against God given nature, and against His precious Word.

What Does Long Hair Mean Today?

Let the radical subversive Jerry Rubin answer from his book Do It: "Young kids identify short hair with authority, discipline, unhappiness, boredom, rigidity, hatred of life—and long hair with letting go. Wherever we go, our hair tells people where we stand on Vietnam, Wallace, Campus disruption, dope. We're living TV commercials for the revolution Long hair is the beginning of our liberation from sexual oppression that underlies the whole military society."

Preachers, Churches and Parents Must Stand against Long Hair.

Parents who allow a son to grow and wear long hair are contributing to a rebellion against God and against our country. This is a sure step in losing control of a child. Preachers and Churches that compromise on this subject, hoping to reach more young people are actually fighting against God. Let us stand, whatever the cost!

We believe that Christian young men, when taught the truth, will want to wear their hair short. Informed Christians will not want to be identified with the "SHAME" or revolutionary revolt that long hair symbolizes.

A Look At Some Some Little Known Megaliths In Kent England

By
Our Sussex Correspondent

Many are aware of the famous megaliths such as Stonehenge and Avebury and others in the western parts of the UK, but few are aware of the megaliths in the East of UK, particularly on the hills surrounding the Medway valley in Kent.

The Coldrum Stones Kent

COLDRUM is the best preserved of the Kent megalithic tombs. It is situated overlooking the Medway Valley and is orientated east-west with a rectangular burial chamber of four large sarsens at the east end. The eastern side has fallen down the slope, but the chamber remains and has been partially restored. The mound is surrounded by medium sized sarsen stones which form a peristalith and is about 20 metres long. At the turn of the century there was still a medial stone in the burial chamber.

The site has been excavated many times, one excavation producing the bones of 20+ individuals of varying ages and both sexes.

The barrow apparently takes its name from the nearby farmhouse "Coldrum Lodge" built in 1796. (The farmhouse is no longer there). No earlier forms of the name are recorded.

Kit's Coty House - Neolithic Chambered Tomb - Catigern's grave Kent

Catigern, son of Vortigern whose grave is securely attached to Kent. However there are only very vague ideas of how or where Vortigern

Died.

The site Catigern's is in the south-east of England, at a place called Kit's Coty House, a neolithic chambered tomb. Kit's Coty House stands in a field to the west (It can't be seen from the road) of the A 229 from Maidstone to Rochester. A footpath, app. 0.25 miles long, leads towards it. The tallest stone of which is 8 feet high and the capstone 4ft. by 3 ft. which was once covered by an earthen mound of 180 feet long, as aerial photographs have shown. Side ditches were once up to 4ft deep. This site was already famous in the seventeenth century. The diarist Samuel Pepys described it as:

"Three great stones standing upright and a great round one lying on them, of great bigness, although not so big as those on Salisbury Plain. But certainly it is a thing of great antiquity, and I am mightily glad to see it."

Unfortunately not all people felt this way. A large stone shown on a sketch by Stukely in 1722 and known as 'the General's Tomb', was blown up in 1867. The large mound, also visible on that sketch, has also all but vanished.

Some call it simply Kit's Coty, because 'coty' means the same as 'house'. The story explaining the name tells one that Kit is Catigern, who, together with his brother Vortimer fought Hengist and his brother Horsa here around 455, which is recorded both in the Historia Brittonum as well as in the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle:

Historia Brittonum, Chapter 48

He had three sons: the eldest was Vortimer, who, as we have seen, fought four times against the Saxons, and put them to flight; the second Categirn, who was slain in the same battle with Horsa; the third was Pascent, who reigned in the two provinces Builth and Guorthegirnaim, after the death of his father. These were granted him by Ambrosius, who was the great king among the kings of Britain. The fourth was Faustus, born of an incestuous marriage with his daughter, who was brought up and educated by St. Germanus. He built a large monastery on the banks of the river Renis, called after his name, and which remains to the present period.

The Anglo-Saxon Chronicle records Horsa's death at the battle of Aylesford in 455:

455: This year Hengist and Horsa fought Vortigern the king, in the place called Aegelsthrep (Aylesford), his brother Horsa was killed, and after that Hengist and Aesc received the kingdom.

Also Camden said:—

“He was buried near Aylesford, where four great stones stand an-end, with others a-cross them, like Stonehenge”.

Both Horsa and he were killed. We don't know who won, but Catigern was supposedly buried here. Indeed, this site is just a few miles north of Aylesford, which is usually identified with the Episford of The Anglo-Saxon Chronicle. That a battle once raged here may be supported by another reference to this place as the battle of 'Cit Coit'. This battle is also a legendary Celtic battle ('Battle of the Woods'), but not connected with any specific site.

A possibility therefore remains that both are the same thing, as 'Cit' (or 'Kit') is in fact the same as 'Cat', the Celtic word for 'battle', which is of course the first part of Catigern's name. We could imagine a stand-off between two bloodied armies on either side of the river, the ford having been the contested object.

That a memory of Catigern could have lingered on for so long in a region that was settled so early by the Saxons seems doubtful, but the nearby presence of an Eccles-village name (which usually points to a surviving nucleus of a Christian British population) makes it sufficiently acceptable.

Across the road is another neolithic chambered tomb, or rather the sorry remains of it. It was once also a burial chamber, but today the stones are a confused tumble. This is Little (or Lower) Kit's Coty House (TQ 744604), also called the Countless Stones because it is one of those megaliths whose stones can supposedly never be counted twice.

To top things off, it should be said that the place is haunted; ghostly re-enactments of a (this?) battle are said to have taken place at one time or another. Another tradition is that at full moon you may place a personal object on the capstone, walk around the dolmen three times, after which the object will have disappeared. No guarantees, though.

Kit's Coty House and Little Kit's Coty are situated in the Medway valley, just north of Maidstone. If you pass by on your way to or from London, don't hesitate to visit them. This valley is one of the very few places historically linked with Vortigern and his family, maybe the only one outside Wales.

The Link Between Cancer And Monsanto's Glyphosate

Mike Adams (Natural News)

A recent episode of the popular health-centric talk show The Doctors brought the issues surrounding Monsanto's Roundup to light, homing in on many hot topics. Specifically, Roundup's main ingredient, glyphosate, and the International Agency for Research on Cancer (IARC) report that deemed the chemical as "probably carcinogenic to humans" were the show's focus.

While overall discussion about the controversial product was talked about professionally, it was obvious that tension existed when glyphosate's safety was questioned.

For example, in the audience sat 20-year Monsanto scientist Dr. Donna Farmer, who at the start of the segment said, "I've seen those headlines and I know people have lots of questions." But in a predictable attempt to allay fears by showing that she's human like the rest of us, she went right for the heartstrings by announcing that, in addition to being a scientist, she's also a mom. She went for the emotional tug again towards the end of the episode when she declared, "I am extremely, highly confident in this product as a mom and then I can back it up as a scientist."

Monsanto scientist hones in on German studies, other items IARC analyzes in attempt to shift focus from glyphosate harms.

She made her opposition to the IARC report's findings clear, stating that the manner in which they tested for glyphosate hazards differed from how it's actually intended for use. Furthermore, she also noted that the IARC is one of a handful of divisions that fall under the World Health Organization (WHO) umbrella, stating that they are not the WHO themselves. Finally, Dr. Farmer honed in on German studies, which determined that glyphosate is not carcinogenic to humans.

To draw attention away from the 90 percent of crops in the United States that are sprayed with Monsanto's herbicides, Dr. Farmer also mentioned that IARC doesn't just study glyphosate, but several other items ranging from pickled vegetables and coffee to cell phone use and aloe vera extract.

Joining via satellite was the author of Seeds of Deception, Jeffery Smith, who came down hard on Monsanto, noting that the company was convicted of lying in both a New York court and a French court about glyphosate's toxicity levels and its ability to degrade the soil. He then told the audience about scientists who have declared Monsanto as engaging in "tobacco science," then proceeded to delve into glyphosate's history, including the fact that it was "originally created to clean industrial boilers and pipes because it grabbed materials and minerals and pulled them out."

Smith, who is also the founder of the Institute for Responsible Technology, shed light on the highly disturbing fact that, when this industrial glyphosate spilled and ended up killing plants as a result, Monsanto jumped right in and patented the chemical as an herbicide.

The author then concluded by informing everyone of the slew of health problems the chemical has been linked to. Everything from acting as an endocrine disruptor to blocking amino acids was put out there for viewers to hear.

"We don't need these chemicals," Smith said.

However, in response to Smith, Farmer was quick to say that he was demonstrating his "perspective as an author" at which point she reminded everyone that, in contrast, she's a scientist whose job it is to assess "the allegations he brought up."

Ultimately, it was host Dr. Travis Stork who perhaps said it best and spoke to what the vast majority of concerned consumers are thinking. Speaking of objectivity behind the IARC report and how it comes from an agency that has nothing to gain by conveying such information, he said, "To me, every time you have an international agency and it's made up of... experts and they don't have any quote-unquote 'skin in the game'... that raises alarms... not just as a doctor, but as a consumer."

As any health-conscientious person knows, the best bet is to stay far away from Roundup and do as Dr. Stork suggests: Remain informed by reading as many studies as possible and, of course, try your best to always grow and consume organic foods.

The End

Who IS "The Crown" Anyway?? How We Got Conned !! From Our Essex Correspondent

London c. 1650 AD, prior to the Great Fire of London 1666.

The "modern" world of so-called Western Civilization began at the end of the 17th century with the blossoming of the British Empire. The underpinnings of that Empire actually began several hundred years earlier with the establishment of the City of London, which is now an 800-year old corporation that controls finance and philosophy for an entity called "The Crown".

This entity is the creator and controller of the Bank of England and the US Federal Reserve. They also control the World Bank, the IMF and associated cartels. "The Crown" identity is kept most secret. The Crown's agent, The Bank of England assumed control of the United States during the Roosevelt administration (1901-1909) when its agent J.P. Morgan took over 25% of American business - Read here.

The Crown has never been the King or Queen of England since the establishment of this corporate body. The Crown is the directorate of the Corporation. The island of Britain is a financial oligarchy run by "The Crown" which refers to the "City of London" not the Queen. The City is run by the Bank of England, a "private" corporation. The City is a sovereign state located in the heart of greater London. It became a Sovereign State in 1694 when king William the third of Orange privatised and turned the Bank of England over to the banksters. Considered the "Vatican of the financial world," the City is not subject to British law.

It has its own courts, its own laws, its own flag and its own police force, separate from metropolitan London. City (Crown/Corporation) police drive red patrol cars and their uniforms are slightly different from the Metropolitan Police.

City Flag

City Police

It houses the privatised[1] Bank of England, Lloyds of London, the London stock exchange, all British banks, the branch offices of 385 foreign banks and 70 US banks as well as Fleet

Street's newspaper and publishing monopolies. It is also the headquarters for British Freemasonry.

The City of London Mayor's golden coach

The City of London has its own Lord Mayor who represents The Crown - his name is Roger Gifford - the head of the Corporation of London.

It has a council of 12 members who rule the Corporation under the Lord Mayor. The Lord Mayor and his 12 member council serves as proxies or representatives who sit-in for some of the worlds wealthiest, most powerful banking families.

When the Queen wishes to conduct business within the City, she is met by the Lord Mayor at Temple Bar where she requests permission to enter this private, sovereign state. She then proceeds into the City walking several paces behind the Mayor. Her entourage may not be clothed in anything other than service uniforms. The Queen bows to the Mayor only in the city. Outside of the city of London he bows to her.

The City of London is the only part of Britain over which parliament has no authority. In one respect at least the Corporation acts as the superior body: it imposes on the House of Commons a figure called the remembrancer: an official lobbyist who sits behind the Speaker's chair and ensures that, whatever our elected representatives might think, the City's rights and privileges are protected.

In 1886, Andrew Carnegie wrote that, "six or seven men can plunge the nation into war without consulting Parliament at all." Vincent Vickers, a director of the Bank of England from 1910-1919 blamed the Corporation/ City for the wars of the world.

The British Empire was an extension of bankers' financial interests. Indeed, all the colonies were "Crown Colonies". They belonged to The City and were not subject to British law although Englishmen were expected to conquer and pay for them.

Western colonization is widely taught in school history courses, so it need not be repeated here. One key aspect of the colonial period is generally omitted or skimmed over from the more basic history courses. This is the fact that all the "Crown colonies" were established on a corporate model with financial ties to the City of London - not the nation of England or Britain

The island of Britain is a Crown Colony The City of London is not

The directorate of The Crown, whoever they were, had NO loyalty to any nation - They were and are, devoted entirely to their philosophy which seeks absolute power over an earthly realm. For more than 250 years, the servants of The Crown brought untold wealth back from the colonies to the British Isles - for themselves: the population of the United Kingdom (English, Scottish, Irish, Welsh peoples) received very little wealth even though they provided the tax base and cannon fodder.

The people were invaluable assets of the Crown, but they knew not what they served - and still don't. "None are more hopelessly enslaved than those who believe they are free". Historian Jeffrey Steinberg could be referring to the US, Canada and Australia when he writes, "England, Scotland, Wales, and Northern Ireland, are today little more than slave plantations and social engineering laboratories, serving the needs of the Crown/City of London.

According to the "American Almanac," the crown bankers are part of a network with an estimated $10 trillion in assets. It lords over such corporate giants as Royal Dutch Shell, Imperial Chemical Industries, Lloyds of London, Unilever, Lonrho, Rio Tinto Zinc, and Anglo American DeBeers. It dominates the world supply of petroleum, gold, diamonds, and many other vital raw materials.

The Crown/City of London dominates the world's speculative markets. A tightly interlocking group of corporations, involved in raw materials extraction, finance, insurance, transportation, and food production, controls the lion's share of the world market, and exerts virtual "choke point" control over world industry. Read Here

If one wants to know the genuine motives for particular actions in history they are told to "follow the money." But that is only half of it - one must also follow the philosophy - the religious beliefs of those in control.

For purposes of clarity, let The Crown always refer to a stealthy circle of power brokers who all believe in the Masonic philosophy - the brotherhood of man ruled by philosopher kings (or adepts) in league with the God of Masonry. One need only wade through the cumbersome histories of Masonry and also read Albert Pike's Morals and Dogma to see precisely that this power-philosophy encompasses virtually all the religious notions ever conjured up by man.

Ordinary members of Masonic lodges, are to these adepts and their goals what the people of the Western civilizations are to the directors of the Crown - useful fools. This secretive cabal is represented by the dominant political, economic and cultural institutions across the world. Western society has been subverted and western culture is bankrupt. Democracy is a form of social control and the mass media and education are forms of indoctrination.

The Bank of England was created in 1694 by a Scotsman William Paterson who famously said:

The bank hath benefit of interest on all moneys which it creates out of nothing.—William Paterson

Up until 1946 when it was nationalised the Bank of England was a private run bank that lent money it created out of nothing to the English government and was paid back with interest. A famous story related to the bank and the Rothschilds is the Battle of Waterloo in which Nathan Rothschild used his inside knowledge of the outcome to play the market by selling his English bonds and giving the impression that the French had won therefore causing a rush by other brokers to sell quickly which drove the price down to 5% of their original worth. Once the bottom had dropped out the market he then re-bought as much as he could and in doing so he multiplied his wealth twenty times in 3 days of trading.

At the same time of being immensely wealthy he also became the single largest debtor to the English government which ultimately gave him control over the bank of England. English bonds were a debt guaranteed by future tax revenue of the English government, therefore the taxes the citizens paid were going to pay the 8% interest that the English government had to pay to borrow the money. As Nathan now controlled the majority of the English bonds he could determine the price and therefore the supply of the English currency which gave him great power over the countries finances.

"I care not what puppet is placed on the throne of England to rule the Empire. The man who controls Britain's money supply controls the British Empire and I control the British money supply." – Nathan Rothschild

The bank of England was nationalised in 1946 but because the government was broke after the second world war they had no money to buy out the shareholders so instead they were issued with government stocks and although the government now earned money from the profits they had to pay interest on any new stock they issued to pay for the shares. In 1977, the Bank set up a wholly owned subsidiary called Bank Of England Nominees Limited, a private limited company with 2 of its 100 £1 shares issued. The objectives of the company are:

"To act as Nominee or agent or attorney either solely or jointly with others, for any person or persons, partnership, company, corporation, government, state, organisation, sovereign, province, authority, or public body, or any group or association of them...."

Sayings By And About Jews

This company is very special as its protected by the official secrets act, its Royal Charter status and is exempt from the normal disclosure requirements that other companies have to comply with to meet section 27 of the Companies Act 1976. The reason being is that the major players in the world of finance including the Queen of England and other Royal families use this company to purchase shares and remain anonymous.

However even though (on the surface at least) the Bank of England is now state owned its important to note that up to 97% of the UK's money supply is privately controlled being in the form of interest bearing loans created by the big commercial banks. The bank holds very little government stock and the Bank's profits primarily come from the issuing of coins and notes for use by high street banks.

Therefore it seems the Bank Of England has reduced in size and importance over the years and is now mainly a regulatory body that oversees the existing banking system. Referred to as "the lender of last resort" one of its main functions as the bankers bank is to support banks that get into difficulty such as during the recent financial melt down.

Further interest on this subject can be found in the book The Empire Of The City and in the documentaries The Ring Of Power and The Corporation

1. In 1945, The Bank of England was nationalized by the Labour government. It is allegedly no longer private. The bank is supposedly publicly owned through the Secretary to the Treasury. Who or what pulls the strings behind the scenes is anyone's guess.

The End OS22086

Bolshevism (Judaism), this symbol of chaos and of the spirit of destruction, is above all an Anti-Christian and Anti Social Conception. This present destructive tendency is clearly advantageous for only one national and religious entity: Judaism.

The fact that Jews are the most active element in present day revolutions as well as in revolutionary socialism, that they draw to themselves the power forced from the peoples of other nations by revolution, is a fact in itself, independent of the question of knowing if that comes from organized world-wide Judaism, from Jewish Free Masonry or by an elementary evolution brought about by Jewish national solidarity and the accumulation of the capital in the hands of Jewish bankers.

The contest is becoming more definite. The domination of revolutionary Judaism in Russia and the open support given to this Jewish Bolshevism by Judaism the world over finally clear up the situation, show the cards and put the question of the battle of Christianity against Judaism, of the National State against the International, that is to say, in reality, against Jewish world power." (Weltkampf, July 1924, p. 21; The Secret Powers Behind Revolution, by Vicomte Leon De Poncins, p. 140).

"The Rabbis of Judaism understand this just as do the leaders in the Christian movement. Rabbi Moshe Maggal of the National Jewish Information Service said in 1961 when the term Judeo-Christian was relatively new, "There is no such thing as a Judeo-Christian religion. We consider the two religions so different that one excludes the other." (National Jewish Information Service).

I shall use such influence as I have in emphasizing the basic truths common to all denominations, in lowering denominational barriers and in promoting effective cooperation among Christians of whatever creed." (John D. Rockefeller, The Messenger of the Covenant, December 1935 issue; And Men Wept, by Catherine Palfrey Baldwin, p. 46)
