

The New Ensign

No. 35 July 2012

This publication is for private circulation only

Calling The True Israel Peoples

Editorial

Dear Israelite Reader,

My Response to Henry Jackson's Capitulation to the Devil

{(My responses are in brackets)}

The rippling tide of bitterness, its consequence, and its antidote

"My farm is taken!" That phrase is almost as terrifying as the word "Cancer". On Tuesday 24th April, while I was busy cutting silage, four smart vehicles came racing into my farm yard, and out jumped about twenty big black men, dark with anger and seething hatred. I walked over to them and greeted them in a friendly manner, receiving only mumbled replies. The leader, the lands commissioner, started. "You are aware that the government has acquired all farm land and that you are living illegally on this farm." "Oh," I replied. "Well," he continued, "We have a new owner whom we wish to bring here and introduce to you."

He asked if there was a place where we could sit down to talk, and once we were seated (sprawled out) on our verandah chairs the intimidation started. "We expect you to co-operate with the new owner. We want the transition to go smoothly." A particularly large individual added his piece, deep hatred glaring from his face, "If you don't co-operate we will send our boys to you and you will be chased off without anything – not even your clothes. You will take nothing with you." Another man then asked me, "Do you know who I am?" I answered that I did not. He said, "I am mr  (I can't remember what his name was), and I can get people off their farms in two hours!" He held his two fingers up and repeated forcibly, {"TWO HOURS!"}

I had been rather quiet up to this point, but then gently replied, "Mr , I want to tell you something that I want you to hear." "What is it?" he gruffly asked? Pointing my finger to him I said quietly, "I do not fear you, I only fear God. You and I will both die one day, and in our own shoes we will stand before God and answer to Him for what we have done in this life, you for your actions, and me for my response to those actions."

That seemed to rattle him considerably.

With many other threats they left as fast as they had arrived, promising to return in the afternoon with the new owner to introduce to me.

When they came there were fewer of them and only two cars, and I had had time to get my composure. The man (his name is Philemon) asked me how much time I needed and I said, "Ideally six months to take me through the winter." He replied that that was two long, so I asked him how much time he would give me, and he replied, "Three months". I knew this was very gracious indeed in comparison with what other farmers had had, so I accepted. And in a matter of hours the deal was done and I had lost

Contents

	Page
The Word "Spirit" - Arnold Kennedy	3
Who is Gog - Pastor Eli James	9
Harold Stough Notes - Landscape Zodiacs - Glastonbury	15
The Knight of The Scarlet Thread - Totten (Part 6)	17
Edinburgh - Jerusalem in The North - Comyns Beaumont	19
The King James Bible and Francis Bacon	22
Pasteurised Milk A National Menace - C. J. Thompson	25
Creative Leisure and The Kingdom - John Trotter	28
The Toxin so Dangerous That it is Causing Birth Defects - Dr. J. Mercola	30
I Am A Racist	32
Letters And Views	34

my farm, my lovely house and place of abode, with nowhere to go!

But the Lord had prepared me for this day. Over the past two years the Lord had been speaking to me very often about my own heart's attitude and much cleansing had taken place. The last three months or so, particularly, He had often put the thoughts in my heart that I was going to lose my farm, so I knew that a test was coming in my life and that He was expecting me, His child, to respond the way He would. When the vehicles came racing in on Tuesday I knew immediately that the time had come. You see, there's nothing that happens to us in this life that catches our Heavenly father by surprise. If we are His children He has our lives safely in His hands. If we listen to His voice, and do what He tells us, then there is no need to fear what man may do to us, nor to fear the future.

And what does He tell us to do when this type of thing happens to us? Are we willing to apply His words to our lives? Mat 5:44 "But I say to you, 'Love your enemies, bless those who curse you, do good to those who hate you, and pray for those who spitefully use you and persecute you, so that you may become sons of your Father in heaven...'"

{(Several points here: Matthew 5 is a sermon addressed to the Israelites living amongst themselves. It is not addressed to Blacks or to any other nation. "I am not sent but unto the exiled sheep of the House of Israel." (Matt. 15:24.) Yahweh would not be dispossessing this deluded Christian if he had been obeying Yahweh's laws of separation.

"For from the top of the rocks I see him, and from the hills I behold him: lo, the people [Israel] shall dwell alone, and shall not be reckoned among the nations." - Num 23:9.

"Israel then shall dwell in safety alone: the fountain of Jacob shall be upon a land of corn and wine; also his heavens shall drop down dew. - Deut. 33:28.

Israel is to dwell alone. There is no scriptural mandate to convert the other races. That is pure, universalistic fiction. We are not to live among them. They are not to live among us. This is the Law of Yahweh. For two hundred years, America's churches practiced racial segregation. During that time, no one, except the Zionists and communists, ever suggested that the Bible demands racial integration. Then suddenly, in concurrence with the televised nonsense of the Jewish-controlled televangelists, the Bible was suddenly being interpreted as promoting racial integration. I ask you: "Did the Bible change, or did somebody change the interpretation of the Bible?" Our Founding Fathers, who were all Bible-believing Christians, would not make Indians or Blacks citizens under our Constitution. (Article One, Section 2, Paragraph 3: only Whites were considered "free Persons.") Abraham Lincoln, who grew up reading the Bible, declared that the races are unequal and, as a member of the Whig Party, had begun the process of repatriating Blacks back to Africa. The Whigs had commissioned two ships that had begun the process, creating the nation of Liberia for Blacks being repatriated back to Africa. The Civil War interrupted this campaign, for obvious reasons. Lincoln opposed slavery, but he also opposed racial integration. Marcus Garvey, a Black man in the 1920's, had begun a "back to Africa" movement (the UNIA, United Negro Improvement Association) for Blacks here in America, but he was opposed by the Zionists, the ADL, the Jew-run NAACP, and the communists.)) TO BE CONTINUED

Pastor Eli James

www.anglo-saxonisrael.com

Editor

thenewsign@gmail.com

This magazine is for private subscription only and is not in any way connected to The Ensign Message Magazine which is a totally separate entity.

The Word “Spirit” (Part 2)

Arnold Kennedy

FAITH AND WORKS

BEFORE going further into the matter into the subject of “spirit”, it would be well to obtain a better perspective on matters of “faith” and “works”. This is an area of genuine confusion because of false church teachings about the following passage.

Galatians 2: 16 Knowing that a man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ, even we have believed in Jesus Christ, that we might be justified by the faith of Christ, and not by the works of the law: for by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified. But if, while we seek to be justified by Christ, we ourselves also are found sinners, is therefore Christ the minister of sin? God forbid.

Note the word “justified” in this verse. Justification is the starting point of a walk in which we have enabling by activated “spirit” which we have as the consequence of repentance. The three following points are important to understand.

When we are forgiven, the wrath against us for having broken God’s law ceases, as we are no longer “under the law” in the sense of being penalised or condemned by that law.

Not being “under the law” does not mean God’s Law ceases to exist. When forgiven we are under Grace. God has imputed righteousness outside of law keeping.-(Romans 4:6).

Then God’s Grace leads us unto repentance. (Romans 2:4, “Not knowing that the goodness of God leadeth thee to repentance?”)

Paul taught, “That they should repent and turn to God, and do works meet for repentance” – Acts 26:20.

When we are converted, we come trusting in the unconditional love of God that enables forgiveness of our sins through faith in Jesus’ sacrifice. Being justified by faith in His Blood brings us out of negative territory, that is, out of darkness, from the left hand side of the diagram to the right hand side. We can cross this “great gulf” –(Luke 16:26) between whilst in life, but not after death. We are put onto the right hand side onto the start of a pathway that “leads to everlasting (age long) life”. On that path, we are expected to “do works meet for repentance”.

Going back to “justification”, this is outside of any actual law keeping, or “works of righteousness”, but it involves repentance and intent to obey what is known of God’s will from this point on. When God sees this, He responds and moves us from the left hand side to the right side of the mid point of the graph. This is what “justification” is. Justification is not the end of the journey but rather it is the start of a pathway. To many churches, this is the end as well as the beginning.

Romans 3:24 Being justified freely by his grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus:

Being passive, the phrase shows justification is something that is done for us.

Romans 5:1 Therefore by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ:

Here the tense of the phrase “have peace” is still present. This passage goes on to say, “And not only so, but we glory in tribulations also: knowing that tribulation worketh patience; And patience, experience; and experience, hope: And hope maketh not ashamed; because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by (the) Holy Ghost which is given unto us”. This is saying that something follows because of “by holy ghost”. Being washed we are made holy and thus have a measure of holy “spirit”.

Now we start to better see that there is a change in position, and that after reconciliation there is a demand that maintaining good works is to be ongoing from this point, as we see in the next passage.

Titus 3:7–8 That being justified by his grace, we should be made heirs according to the hope of eternal life. This is a faithful saying, and these things I will that thou affirm constantly, that they which have believed in God might be careful to maintain good works. These things are good and profitable unto men.

In short, we come to God without any good works, but we continue on with God with good works.

So when we arrive on the right hand side of the graph, we have to do good works? The churches say, “God forbid... all is of Grace”. So what does, “do works meet for repentance” mean in practical terms? Let us look at this.

“TAKE HEED TO YOUR SPIRIT”

When we are “forgiven” we are placed in a position of responsibility where we are told to take heed to (our) “spirit”. The word “our” is not there (is dative). In effect, this means we have to take heed to where we are on the graph, as it were, in regard to “spirit”.

Malachi 2:16, “Therefore take heed to your spirit, that ye deal not treacherously. Ye have wearied the LORD with your words. Yet ye say, Wherein have we wearied him? When ye say, Every one that doeth evil is good in the sight of the LORD, and he delighteth in them; or, Where is the God of judgment?”

Firstly, when we have been placed on the right hand side of the graph, we have the ongoing choice to progress further to the right, or we can revert towards the left hand side. We can become unthankful and we can wilfully sin and thus become unholy. If we become unholy and “fall away”, we are no longer on the right hand side of the graph. The justification process may then have to be repeated, but there comes a time, such as the unwise virgins experienced, when they found their lamps had gone out. Then they no longer had any oil in their lamps. Their action was too late. They no longer had “spirit” (This is symbolised by the word “oil”)!

We have the continual ongoing choice to choose whom we will serve. This principle is expressed the same in the Old Testament in Lev.10:10, “And that ye may put difference between holy and unholy, and between unclean and clean”. We can revert like the “swine that was washed to its wallowing in the mire”. When this happens we have moved back to the left hand side of the diagram.

THE POPULAR BUT WRONG CHURCH POSITION

The latter part of this passage in Malachi 2:16 is where the churches stand when they say, “God loves you no matter what you do”. They should say, “no matter what you did”.

There are web sites on the Internet that advertise, “The Unconditional Love of God” and these sites say that any suggestion of doing any works of any kind at any time is not trusting God to save us. They are saying in effect, “Every one that doeth evil is good in the sight of the LORD, and he delighteth in them”-(Mal 2:7).

Effectively about, “Where is the God of judgment”, they are saying that God is not the righteous God who will reward every man according to his works, as we are told so often. So we will come to look at the matter of rewards and consequences of actions shortly.

So yes, we are expected then to, “do works meet for repentance”. The churches make much ado about the following verse:

Ephesians 2:8-9, For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: not of works, lest any man should boast.

The word “saved” here is Strong’s 4982 sozo and is perfect in tense that means it was completed for that point in time. What happened then?

Ephesians. 1:13, “In whom ye also (trusted), after that ye heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation: in whom also after that ye believed, ye were sealed with (that) holy spirit of promise”.

What happened is that they were all cleaned up from the past and being now holy there was now “spirit” operating in their lives. With the “spirit” of holy living we are marked (sealed).

The churches have to ignore what follows Ephesians 2:9 to maintain their doctrine.

“For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them”.

Good works become part of God’s plan for His people. By “spirit” this becomes possible to do. Paul goes on to pray that this “spirit” might continue, saying: “That the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give unto you (the) spirit of wisdom and revelation in the knowledge of him”.

But this must continue, and continuance involves “works”. As Jesus said to the church at Ephesus, Rev 2:5 Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent, and do the first works; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent”.

The point made here is that there is a sequence of events. We come initially to God by Grace alone without any works. This is what ‘justification’ means. After we have come, good works are required. It might be likened to getting married where we are not required to do married “works” before the saying of “I do”. After saying the “I do” we are expected to no longer live as a single person, but are to do “works fit for being married”. Spiritually, our saying the “I do” is our confession of Jesus as our Kinsman Redeemer and Lord. So we can see that this is just the beginning, just as the marriage ceremony is just the start of married life. For married life to continue, there are physical actions, mental actions and laws to be followed.

The phrase, “That is that we should walk in them” is about “sanctification”, this being the step beyond “justification”. Sanctification is the will of God for us.

1 Thess 4:2-8 For ye know what commandments we gave you by the Lord Jesus. For this is the will of God, even your sanctification, that ye should abstain from fornication: That every one of you should know how to possess his vessel in sanctification and honour.

Then we are told some practical things about this.

1 Thess 4:5 Not in the lust of concupiscence, even as the Gentiles which know not God: That no man go beyond and defraud his brother in any matter: because that the Lord is the avenger of all such, as we also have forewarned you and testified. For God hath not called us unto uncleanness, but unto holiness. He therefore that despiseth, despiseth not man, but God, who hath also given unto us (his) holy Spirit.

- We see here the “spirit” consequence of obedience. If we do not comply, then God becomes an avenger.
- We read in the Old Testament about God becoming an enemy to Israel.

Isaiah 63:9-10, “The angel of his presence saved them: in his love and in his pity he redeemed them; and he bare them, and carried them all the days of old. But they rebelled, and vexed his holy Spirit: therefore he was turned to be their enemy, and he fought against them”.

Note the “but” here. This the churches do not accept. The churches effectively are saying in their doctrines that we are always coming and are never arriving when they do not go beyond justification. Thus they receive the grace of God in vain. The churches do not believe that God can become an adversary (= Satan) to them.

2 Cor 6.1 “We then, as workers together with him, beseech you also that ye receive not the grace of God in vain”.

And then Paul talks about giving no offence in anything so that when we give offence we have received the grace of God in vain. The word “offence” means stumbling through sin.

We are told about things that affect the spirit we are of. This story is about a time when Jesus was going up to Jerusalem, and when some Samaritans did not receive Him.

Luke 9:54, “And when his disciples James and John saw this, they said, Lord, wilt thou that we command fire to come down from heaven, and consume them, even as Elias did? But he turned, and rebuked them, and said, Ye know not what manner of spirit ye are of, For the Son of man is not come to destroy men’s lives, but to save them.”

Jesus was addressing His disciples here who were operating or thinking on the left hand side of the graph. Jesus goes on to show them how materialistic they were, and how He Himself had nowhere to lay His head, as a comparison. All our thinking must be on the right hand side of the diagram at all times, seeking to understand and to learn the “ways” of God.

MEASURES OF SPIRIT

Going back now to the subject of “spirit”, there is mention of “measures of spirit”. This might be considered from our position on the right hand side of the graph. We might say a person may have a measure that is a quarter-cup full, a half-cup full, a full cup or even one that is overflowing! People may be at different positions along the right hand side of the graph, that is, they may have differing measures of “spirit”. The word “measure” is emphasized below.

Ephesians 4:7 But unto every one of us is given grace according to the measure of the gift of Christ. And he gave some, apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers; For the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ: Till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ:

God’s plan is for us to have increased “measure” of anointing and to be progressing towards the extreme right hand side. The ministry of apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors and teachers is given to increase the “measure” in God’s people, or their progress along the pathway to the extreme right hand side. Our minds play a part here, and we are responsible for whatever measure we have, and thus have to “think” about it, and “think soberly”.

Romans 12:3 “But to think soberly, according as God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith”.

INCREASE AND GROWTH

There is another word that presents us with a similar idea as “measure”. This is the word, “increase”. John the Baptist put it this way, “He must increase, but I must decrease”. There are passages that tell us, “God giveth the increase”.

1 Corinthians 3:6 I have planted, Apollos watered; but God gave the increase.

2 Corinthians 9:10 Now he that ministereth seed to the sower both minister bread for your food, and multiply your seed sown, and increase the fruits of your righteousness;)

Colossians 2:19 And not holding the Head, from which all the body by joints and bands having nourishment ministered, and knit together, increaseth with the increase of God.

1 Thessalonians 3:12 And the Lord make you to increase and abound in love one toward another, and toward all men, even as we do toward you:

But there are other passages that show we have a responsibility to function in increase and growth. This purpose is to be our active part.

1 Thessalonians 4:10 And indeed ye do it toward all the brethren which are in all Macedonia: but we beseech you, brethren, that ye increase more and more.

Ephesians 4:15 But speaking the truth in love, may grow up into him in all things, which is the head, even Christ:

1 Peter 2:2 As newborn babes, desire the sincere milk of the word, that ye may grow thereby:

2 Peter 3:18 But grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. To him be glory both now and for ever. Amen.

So then we are to be “workers together”- (2 Cor. 6:1). We play our part in co-operation with God. And then, there are passages that show that we can increase in a positive or a negative way.

2 Timothy 2:16 But shun profane and vain babblings: for they will increase unto more ungodliness.

The end is not pretty for those who are unprofitable servants!

Matthew 22:13 Then said the king to the servants, Bind him hand and foot, and take him away, and cast him into outer darkness; there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

WHAT HAPPENS AS WE MOVE FURTHER ALONG THE RIGHT HAND SIDE, INCREASING OUR “MEASURE”?

Jesus had the “spirit” without measure. He had fullness of Spirit.

John 3:34 For he whom God hath sent speaketh the words of God: for God giveth not (the) Spirit by measure unto him.

There was no limitation of “measure” as He lived at the extreme right hand side of the graph. By this fullness of the spirit” Jesus healed the sick and raised the dead. The disciples were told to do the same, and we are to become filled with spirit.

Ephesians 5:18 And be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with (the) Spirit.

The evidence of being totally “filled with spirit” is not in an ecstatic experience, or in speaking in tongues, or any form of religious asceticism or conformity, but rather it is in “raising the dead”.

“Raising the dead” does not concern physical references only. In Romans 9:13 we read, “But yield yourselves unto God, as those that are alive from the dead”. In the terms of the earlier “illustration” it is about being moved from the left hand side to the right hand side, in a spiritual sense.

We read about Paul, in Act 13:9 “Then Saul, (who also is called Paul,) filled with (the) Holy Ghost, set his eyes on him”, and c o m m a n d e d blindness to come on an adversary. We read of Peter raising Dorcas from the dead. These actions are evidence of something; they are the consequences of previous activities and are what they received (and gave out) as consequences.

Jesus said to the disciples, “And as ye go, preach, saying, The kingdom of heaven is at hand. Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils: freely ye have received, freely give”.

When they were walking with Jesus, we read where Jesus said in John 20:22 “He breathed on them, and saith unto them, Receive ye (the) Holy Ghost”. They were given “spirit” measure to complete their mission.

Mark 4:24-25 And he said unto them, Take heed what ye hear: with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you: and unto you that hear shall more be given.

For he that hath, to him shall be given: and he that hath not, from him shall be taken even that which he hath.

So we can increase our measure, and be found further along on the right hand side of the graph. In the parable of the talents in Matthew 25, trading with the talents given makes for increase. Not trading means being cast into outer darkness, to the left hand side of the graph, as it were.

Churches have prayer meetings, where they sometimes pray, “Lord pour out your spirit”. Nothing happens and it is unlikely that it ever will because they regard “The Spirit” as something independent of themselves and their actions. But why else is the “nothing”? It is because belief also comes into this. As a starting point they do not believe, “He that hath anointed us is God, and hath given us (his) holy spirit is God". The do not accept the tense of this passage. They are looking for an outside personality to come into them, as it were. They thus cannot accept that "spirit" measure is a consequence of personal belief and action.

Churches and television religious programs tell us we must pray more and that all that is necessary is to keep on praying to receive what is wanted. Would we get anything by singing repetitive choruses such as, "Fill my cup Lord, I lift it up Lord, Come and quench the hunger in my soul". Bread of heaven come and fill me till

I want no more, Here's my cup, I lift it up – come and make me whole", and so on. - or is our measure the consequences of our practical actions?

Why then do we not see healing and raising the dead in operation today in the Churches? Is it a matter of belief or is it a matter of wrong teaching about the Law, and wrong teaching about "spirit"? Thus what they do not have is a matter of disobedience and irresponsibility.

To be continued

Who Is Gog? (Part 2)

By

Pastor Eli James

The point of all this history and pre-history is to demonstrate one thing: God forbids race-mixing and the inhabitants of this planet have repeatedly rebelled against this prohibition. Any legitimate translation of the Old Testament affirms God's hatred of race-mixing. Indeed, the Adamites, Hebrews, and Israelites, throughout both the Old and New Testaments, are repeatedly commanded to remain separate and distinct from other peoples. Jesus said "I am not sent but unto the lost[exiled] sheep of the house of Israel." Our purpose is to re-establish God's Law on earth. Part of this law is "kind after kind." To the extent that earth's inhabitants have broken this law, the earth has been punished, again and again. And we are about to be punished yet again for this crime against Yah's Law. That punishment has a name. It is called the Judgment Day.

The usual objection to this biblical teaching of separateness is that the teachings of the Bible are for "all men." This is partially true. God's Law is, in fact, supposed to be practiced by all men. However, the COVENANTS are made exclusively by Yahweh with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. Except for the Covenant God made with Ishmael, the father of the Arabs, all of the other biblical Covenants are made exclusively with Israelites; and that means that we have a special mission or contract with God. The problem is that we have miserably failed in our commission.

Today, we are committing this same crime of race-mixing again; and the earth is about to be punished (cleansed) again. God guarantees that Jacob will be saved out of this time of trouble; but only the separatist overcomers will be selected to survive. This is God's Law. The Judgement Day and the Second Coming will be the final cleansing. God will no longer tolerate any more race-mixing. Those who promote it will be gathered and burned in the fire. In case you haven't noticed, the White Race is being destroyed by the race-mixers currently in power in virtually every country and in every major institution. (Read Matthew, Chapter 13, the parable of the wheat and the tares, for this judgment which will be pronounced upon the race-mixers.) The overcomers/survivors will celebrate with Jesus in the Wedding Feast of the Lamb. This is the Great Plan of Scripture. All mixed seed will be forbidden and will eventually die out or be wiped off the face of the earth. Only pure seed (that which was originally designed by Yahweh) will remain. ("A mongrel shall not enter into the congregation of Yahweh." Deut. 23:2. And there shall in no wise enter into it any thing that defileth, neither whatsoever worketh abomination, or maketh a lie: but they which are written in the Lamb's book of life." Rev. 21: 27). All races will be represented on the earth, but no mixed seed will ever be allowed again. From that point on, God's original plan for the redemption of the earth will resume.

Only White people, especially of the Judeo-Christian and liberal variety, have been dumb enough to swallow this race-mixing, White guilt, liberal "compassion" nonsense. It is precisely White Christendom which has been the prophesied "blessing" to the earth, NOT the Jews. The Jews have been a curse wherever their usurious, Talmudic deceivers have set foot. It is from the propaganda mills of the Jews that White guilt has been promoted. No other race except ours has ever been stupid enough to even contemplate racial suicide as our people are doing today. Our God, Yahweh, foretold the day that He would send a strong delusion in Israel in order to teach us a lesson.

Regarding the end times, II Thessalonians 2:8-12 tells us:

"And then the lawless one [the Talmudic rabbi] will be revealed, and the Lord Jesus will slay him with the breath of His mouth and destroy him by His appearing and coming. The coming of the lawless one by the activity of Satan will be with all power [the economic power of the house of Rothschild, communism and Zionist control of America's military might] and with pretending signs and wonders [United Nations Organization, rabbinical claims to Israel, the hoaxocaust], and with all wicked deception [Judeo-Christianity, multiculturalism and liberalism] for those who are to perish, because they refused to love the truth [the Covenanted separateness of Anglo-Saxon Israel from the other races] and so be saved. Therefore God sends upon them STRONG DELUSION, to make them believe what is false, so that all may be condemned who did not believe the truth but had pleasure in unrighteousness."

This strong delusion consists of two main aspects: 1.) the false belief that some OTHER group, namely, the Edomite and Khazar Jews, is Israel. This is the essence of the heresy called "Judeo-Christianity," which seeks to destroy God's Covenant people, and 2.) White Guilt. So, we, Christian Israel, have abandoned both the Law and the Prophets in favour of ancient Pharisaism and modern liberalism. Strong delusion indeed!

Gog and the Day of Judgment

What has all of this got to do with Gog?

As I was in the process of finishing my book, The Great Impersonation, How the Anti-Christ Has Deceived the Whole World, I was reading the Book of Ezekiel for historical information about the Twelve Tribes. I found it to be mostly a book of prophecy. My original purpose in writing the Great Impersonation was to do a comparative historical survey of the Bible and recorded history. What I found was that the Bible is an astonishingly accurate book of prophecies; and even more importantly: only the Anglo-Saxon Caucasian people have fulfilled the prophecies that are spoken of Israel. This realization forced me to add two more chapters to the book, both of which discuss how these prophecies have been fulfilled in our people. After 18 years of researching and writing, I was anxious to publish; but there was no way that I could leave such mind-boggling prophetic information out of the book, so I spent another two years preparing the last two chapters.

Here is what Chapter 37 of Ezekiel has to say about the restoration of Israel:

"Moreover, you son of man, take you one stick and write upon it, For Judah, and for the children of Israel his companions: then take another stick, and write upon it for Joseph, the stick of Ephraim, and for all the House of Israel his companions: And join them one to another into one stick; and they shall become one in your hand." (Verses 15-17.)

Just in case there is any doubt, the meaning of the Two Sticks prophecy is spelled out again in verses 20 - 22:

"And the sticks whereon you write shall be in your hand before your eyes. And say to them, thus says Yahweh Elohim: Behold, I will take the children of Israel from among the heathen, where they be gone and will gather them on every side, and bring them into their own land. [This is NOT the Israeli State because the Jews are not Israel and because the New Jerusalem is not the Old Jerusalem. More on this later.] And I will make them one nation in the land upon the mountains of Israel; and one king [President] shall be king to them all: and they shall be no more two nations, neither shall they be divided into two kingdoms any more at all."

The two Houses of Israel, Israel (Joseph and Ephraim are used as synonyms for the House of Israel) and Judah, which were separated in 745 BC will eventually be rejoined. That is what this prophecy is telling us. The land that the Israelites will be moved to is described as existing between two seas: "Thy borders are in the midst of the seas, thy builders have perfected thy beauty." (Ezek. 27) The Jews have NEVER been a nation of builders. A typical Jew has never even held a hammer in his hand, let alone dug a ditch or farmed a field. America is the nation that exists "from sea to shining sea." As in the book of Hosea and other books of the Bible, the migrations of the Northern House of Israel are discussed in both literal geographical terms and in figurative language as well.

The Book of Zechariah confirms Israel's dwelling in a land between two seas: "On that day, whether in summer or in winter, running water will issue from Jerusalem [Jerusalem in the end days is wherever Israel is], half flowing to the eastern sea and half to the western sea." (14:8. Revised English Bible) There is no way this can mean Palestine or the geographical location of the Israeli State. There is only one sea there, on the west coast, the Mediterranean.

Furthermore, even if the literal location were present-day "Israel," it is not possible for the Jews to fulfil this prophecy because the Jews teach that the House of Israel, the exiled Ten Northern Tribes, disappeared from history and will never be found again. The reason they teach this is to give themselves sole claim to the inheritance of Israel. But as those of us in Christian Identity know, the Ten Northern Tribes became the Anglo-Saxon, Caucasian people. Our heraldry (family crests, standards and symbols) all originated among the Twelve Tribes and only we have witnessed to the world the two candlesticks (lamp stands) of the Old and New Testaments. The Jews are impostors who cannot sustain the scrutiny of Scripture; and only Christian Identity is holding the Jews accountable for their lies. The Jews reject the "latter rain," i.e., the New Testament completely and they teach a self-serving, distorted version of the former "rain," the Old Testament. Thus, having relegated the Ten Northern Tribes to oblivion, the Jews yet again contradict the word of Yahweh. A thousand curses upon them for having the effrontery of contradicting the Creator of the Universe! Who is the rabbi to contradict the Word of God? He plays god when he does so.

Now, knowing who the real Israelites are, and knowing that Yahweh intends to mold us and shape us in His image so that we will ultimately be the just dispensers of His Law, Ezekiel verifies the exclusive contract He has made with Israel and with NO ONE ELSE:

"Moreover, I will make a covenant of peace with them; and it shall be an everlasting covenant with them [not everyone]: and I will place them, and multiply them, and will set my sanctuary in the midst of them for evermore. My tabernacle also shall be with them: yea, I will be their God, and they shall be my people. And the heathen shall know that I, Yahweh, do sanctify Israel, when My sanctuary shall be in the midst of them for evermore." (Eze. 37:26-28)

WE are THEY! HalleluYAH!

Yahweh's sanctuary travels with us, whether we realize it or not, because we are His People. Yahweh's Exclusive Covenant with His People Israel could not be more clearly spelled out since it contrasts the people of Israel to the heathen. This flies in the face of the Dispensationalists who teach that the Jews are Israel and that the Jews lost favor in God's sight, so God switched His covenant to the "Church."

Can you see the distortion of Scripture that passes for Judeo-Christianity today? What part of “for evermore” don’t they understand? His sanctuary will NEVER leave Israel. “We don’t follow the Old Testament,” they say. “We’re New Testament Christians.” What a joke! I’m sorry! No one who rejects the Old Testament can possibly understand the New Testament. These people are fools, period.

Now, once Yahweh has placed His People Israel in the land of unwallied cities which lies between the seas (certainly not the physical description of Palestine!) in the latter days, there will come a ferocious armed conflict the like of which the world has never seen before or since. Europe has already experienced such armed conflict on its soil. This last battle will occur in the cities and towns of America, as well as the rest of the world; but its focus will be here in America as the Anti-Christ makes his last gasp effort to destroy his only competition: the regathered Twelve Tribes of Israel.

Satan knows exactly who we are; but we are still in the throes of a horrible case of amnesia. As we regain our senses and reawaken to our True Identity, the truth will set us free.

Gog’s Strategy Against America

We can guess that, due to the huge influx of illegal aliens being forced upon us by the Zionist Occupation Government, this final battle will begin as a race war within our borders. These illegals are being deliberately foisted upon us because the International Jew is using them to destroy us.

This event was also prophesied by Yahweh through His prophet Isaiah:

“According to their deeds, accordingly He will repay, fury to His adversaries, recompense to His enemies; to the islands He will repay recompense. So shall they fear the name of Yahweh from the west [Note the direction from which Yahweh’s enemies will fear His wrath. It is also here in America where the Yahwist movement is strongest, with even some non-Identity denominations now using the true name of God, Yahweh.], and His glory from the rising sun. When the enemy shall come in as a flood, the Spirit of Yahweh shall lift up a standard against him.” (Isa. 59:18, 19)

What standard? The standards of Israel! The Truth of the Bible!

The illegal aliens are this enemy flood; but they are just one more mercenary ally of the International Jew.

Ezekiel 38:2,3: “Son of man, set your face against Gog, the land of Magog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal, and prophesy against him...Behold, I am against you, O Gog.”

Gen. 10:2-5 lists Ashkenaz, Gomer, Tubal, Meshech, Togarmah and Magog as descendants of Japheth. While I was doing the research for my book, I realized that these tribes were primarily located in the steppes, the great plains that extend from southeast Russia into Asia. The nations located in this region today are Khazakstan, Uzbekistan, Turkmenistan, Azerbaijan, etc. This is precisely where the Khazars originated. These Khazars, who are a mixed breed of people and who have some Japhethite blood in them through the above listed Japhethites, converted to Judaism in the 8th Century AD. [For the skeptics in the audience, you can start with this link: <http://www.khazaria.com/khazar-quotes.html>] The Khazar Jews are an entirely non-Shemitic people. Although originally our kinsmen, many of these Japhethites became so miscegenated that they could no longer be considered our kin. At least two groups that I am aware of remained pure-blooded: the Milesians who eventually moved to Ireland and the Slavs who stayed in Eastern Europe. There are also still many White Magyars. But many of them mixed with the Huns. The combination of the two is the Hungyars, or Hungarians.

Over the centuries after their conversion to Judaism, the Khazars continued to mix with more and more ethnic groups, eventually becoming one of the most racially mixed people on earth, and they were practicing Jews. They had become the dominant group of the Jewish religion, the Synagog of Satan. Then it hit me: Gog is the SynaGOG of Satan: the Jews of Edom and Khazaria combined. The Edomite Jew provided the religion (the Babylonian Talmud, ie, the “tradition of the elders” which Jesus Christ thoroughly condemns throughout the New Testament as a counterfeit of the Mosaic Law) and the Khazar Jew provided the Mongolian blood, ferocity and population. Bolshevism and Zionism were their bastard children. There are many other bastard children.

Here is how George Lamsa, in his translation of Eze. 38:2,3 from the Aramaic, reads:

“Son of man, set your face against China, and against the land of Mongolia, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal, and prophesy against him and say...Behold, I am against you, O China.”

Why China? Because the Khazar Jew is 40% Oriental and Mongolian; and this alien breed, which is commonly known as the Ashkenazi Jews, has been at war with the West for all of recorded history. The International Jews of Khazaria are the ones who created communist China by supporting Mao and undercutting Chiang Kai Shek, the leader of free China at the time. During World War II, the communist Jews in the Roosevelt administration, especially in the State and Commerce Departments, were doing everything they could to destroy free China and hand it over to the communists. Just as Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill conspired to hand all of Eastern Europe over to the communists at Potsdam and other secret meetings, the same thing was going on in the Far East. China was totally betrayed by the Jews in Roosevelt's regime and Mao Tse Tung was the beneficiary. China, therefore, is nothing but a vassal state of the International Jew. The entire story of the communist takeover of China from the State Department is told in a book that every American should read: America's Retreat From Victory by Senator Joseph McCarthy.

Writing this book earned Joe McCarthy the eternal wrath of the Jew.

Today, the International Jew has made China the largest economy in the East. By transferring America's jobs and wealth, slowly but surely, to other nations and especially to China, Gog is maneuvering America into an economic crisis. By constantly giving China Most Favored Nation status, the International Jew has created a monster he hopes to use against America if America does not disarm herself and relinquish her sovereign national status by becoming a province of the United Nations Organization. The ultimatum day is getting closer and closer. The traitors in our government are at this moment devising a plan by which America's gun owners will have to give up their guns via UN mandate. If the American people allow this to happen, America is finished as a country. We will have become slaves to international corporate fascism.

Verses 4-6 of Ezekiel 38 describe the allies that the Khazar Jew has paid off to be part of his anti-Israel (Anglo-Saxondom) military campaign. The Jew has always been able to hire the armies of other nations to do his fighting and dying for him. This will be the last such battle.

Now, knowing that the Jewish people, who originate primarily from Khazaria, have such a high percentage of alien, non-Shemitic, non-Hebrew, non-Israelite blood, we can correctly identify the modern Jew as Gog. Therefore, Christian Identity's definition of Gog is the combined Khazar/Edomite kingdom under the leadership of the House of Rothschild. The Khazar Jews are the world's foremost race-mixers. They are the intellectual and mixed genetic offspring of the pre-Adamic race-mixers mentioned earlier and of the 'nachash' Serpent who seduced Eve. Thus, the Jews are the original "Serpent People." We all know that the Jews are not a race. They are an ethnic group of mixed racial types. There are White Jews, Chinese Jews, Black Jews, Edomite Jews, and Khazar Jews. But by far (95%), the majority of present-day Jews are of Khazar origin. It is these same Jews who invented and promoted communism. It is these same Jews who invented Zionism and brought this vexation to the peaceful, unsuspecting nation of Palestine. The Palestinian people never harmed the Jewish people in any way, yet the Jews commit atrocities against them on a daily basis. It is these same Jews who promote race-mixing in every country on earth, especially the race-mixing behaviour of Anglo-Saxon Israel, the true descendants of Adam and Eve, Abraham and Sarah, Isaac and Rebekah, Jacob and his four wives.

These Jews, who, according to Jesus Christ Himself, are “of their father, the devil” (John 8:44), know that our mission, as Adamites here on earth, is to destroy their empire of slavery and race-mixing. But the Serpent fooled (deceived) Eve and got her to commit the very sin which Adam was sent here to prevent. We have been paying the price ever since. Although some Jews have miniscule amounts of Adamic / Hebrew / Shemitic blood in them because of recent intermarriage, it would be absolutely correct to say that none of them are either Shemites, Israelites or Hebrews. The reason for this is that only pure-blooded Adamites can be counted as such. The Jews are, therefore, neither, because Judaism only requires the mother be Jewish in order for the offspring to be a Jew. This tradition is not Scriptural. The father can be anyone or anything, even a Serpent. In other words, the Jews are perpetuating the sin of Eve. Their claim to being the “chosen people” is as phony as their claim to being a distinct race.

The Book of Ezekiel is a book of prophecy for the Dispersed Tribes of the northern House of Israel. No Jew has ever claimed to be a member of this distinct Adamic group. The Jews, genetically, have had four main infusions of Adamic blood: first, through Cain, then through Canaan, next through Esau, and finally through the House of Judah during the time of the nation of Judea (150B.C. to 70 A.D.). The House of Judah consisted of the tribes of Judah and Benjamin and members of the former tribe of Levi. It was these tribes that inhabited Judea during the time of Christ. Around 150 B.C., the Edomite tribe of Idumeans were forcibly taken into the tribe of Judah by the Judahite King, John Hyrcanus. In doing this, Hyrcanus violated God’s holy law against race-mixing and allowed the Edomites (the mixed descendants of Esau, Canaan and Cain) to marry into Judah and Benjamin, although it is clear to me that the vast bulk of this mixing took place only in the city of Jerusalem. The Benjaminites of Galilee were out of the loop and rarely even visited Jerusalem, just as Jesus Christ rarely visited Jerusalem.

God’s displeasure with intermarriage is clearly on record in the books of Ezra and Nehemiah. See Ezra 6:21, 10:1-12; Nehemiah 9:2, 13:29,30. Essentially, all Scriptural verses that declare Israel’s separation mean just that. No sex, no mixed religion, no mixed culture. I already quoted Deut. 23:2. In the New Testament, Paul, in II Cor. 6:16-18, quotes the various commands of separation and exclusivity from Isa. 52:11; Eze. 20:34; Num. 6:1,2; I Kings 8:52, 53; and many more verses that command us to be separate from other nations. Just do a word search on ‘separate,’ ‘separated,’ and ‘separation,’ and you will see what I mean.

As we all know, the Jewish people have always been a class of merchants. In fact, the word ‘Canaanite’ means “merchant, peddler or trafficker,” so the Jews have been merchants for millennia. The dwelling place of this merchant class is always the biggest cities. There is no such thing as a “Jewish farmer” or a “Jewish carpenter.” These are fantasies peddled for the dumb sheep to swallow so that Christians will believe there is something in common between the Jews and Jesus Christ, as if spirituality and merchandise have something in common, or as if evil and good had something in common!!!! The Talmud actually denigrates these Adamite occupations and forbids Jews to engage in them. (“No occupation is inferior to that of agricultural labor, for it is said, ‘they shall come down.’ From Yebamoth 63a of the Talmud.) So, that old bumper sticker that says “My boss is a Jewish carpenter” is a real knee-slapper for the rabbis. They always get a great chuckle out of that one. Another Christian deceived!

On the contrary, Yahshua Messiah avoided Jerusalem precisely because it was filled with Jews! Don’t believe me? Read it for yourself:

“After these things Jesus walked in Galilee: for He would not walk in Jewry, because the Jews sought to kill Him.” (John 7:1) Dear Christian, if you will simply read the Gospels for yourself instead of allowing Churchianity’s pulpit bastards (pimps of the pulpit) to read and interpret them for you, you will then realize that Jesus was in constant conflict with the scribes and Pharisees and all the other Jews. He told them to their faces that they are the “children of the devil.” They were NOT His kinsmen as they would have you believe. (John 8:47.) They were in fact our ancient enemy: Edom, otherwise known as the Sephardic Jews. The Edomites were a branch of the Canaanites; and Idumea was the name of the Edomite nation that bordered Judah to the south.

It is from this mixture of peoples that the group known as the scribes and Pharisees emerged. It was this group, falsely claiming Israelite heritage by virtue of their proximity to Judah and their citizenship in Judea, that developed the religion known today as Judaism from their own, anti-biblical traditions. These traditions are today known as the Babylonian Talmud. According to Douglas Reed, in his book, The Controversy of Zion, when the Pharisees were expelled from Judea in 70 AD, they reestablished themselves in their old stomping grounds, Babylon. The Jews even admit these facts but “Christian” scholars ignore these facts or pretend that they don’t mean anything. Yahweh has already cursed these pulpit bastards to a double dose of judgment.

To be continued

Harold Stough Notes

Landscape Zodiacs (Mandalas): Glastonbury

A landscape zodiac (or terrestrial zodiac) is a map of the stars on a gigantic scale, formed by features in the landscape, such as roads, streams and field boundaries. Perhaps the best known alleged example is the Glastonbury 'Temple of the Stars', situated around Glastonbury in Somerset, England. The Glastonbury Zodiac was first described by the artist, Katharine Maltwood in the 1920's, and has remained controversial ever since, even though over fifty more zodiacs have been since described in Britain and Europe. The focus of the question appears to no longer be whether these mysterious zodiacs exist - but rather, how and why they do.

The Glastonbury Zodiac:

The idea that the heavens were mapped around Glastonbury is not a new one. It is said for example, that Katherine Maltwood's revelations had been fed by her remembering reading 'the 13th century antiquarian William of Malmesbury's gnostic comment that Glastonbury was a "heavenly sanctuary on Earth."

The occultist Dr. John Dee, following Druidic/Hermetic traditions, made several visits to the area around 1580 from which he prepared charts and a commentary regarding what he called 'Merlin's Secret' around Glastonbury. Dee had noted the unusual arrangements of prehistoric earthworks in the Glastonbury area, as Richard Deacon, his 20th century biographer notes. He makes clear mention of the way they apparently represented the constellations of the Zodiac in the following sentence:

"The Starres which agree with their reproductions," Dee wrote, "on the ground do lye onlie on the celestial path of the sonne, moon and planets...thus is astrologie and astronomie carefullie and exactley married and measured in a scientific reconstruction of the heavens which shews that the ancients understode all whic today the lerned know to be facts."

Glastonbury was mentioned as one of 'Britain's Perpetual Choirs' in the 1796 edition of a translation of FABLIAUX (TALES) which includes a four line Welsh text (known as a Triad - or 'triade'), and an English translation of it. The theme is the Perpetual Choirs of Britain, and the three sites given in the translation are the 'Isle of Avalon' (Glastonbury), 'Caer Caradoc' (Salisbury) and 'Bangor Iscoed' (Disputed). In 1801, Iolo Morganwg recorded that 'in each of these choirs there were 2,400 saints; that is there were a hundred for every hour of the day and the night in rotation, perpetuating the praise and service of God without rest or intermission.' The function of the choirs was to maintain the enchantment and peace of Britain. John Michell later adopted this into his concept of a vast landscape 'Decagon'. (see below)

Which of these images matches Gemini.

The biggest problem with Katherine Maltwood's discovery is that she used features seen in the present-day landscape. Some of the details are derived from roads and field boundaries that can be demonstrated not to have existed before the nineteenth century. Some, which she and her followers identified from aerial photographs have turned out to be signs of agricultural activity at the time the photographs were taken (such as the 'eye' of Capricorn, which was a haystack)! Even then, the figures do not correspond to the traditional figures of the zodiac as we know it: The Image for Gemini is now said to be a figure of 'Jesus', and Cancer, for instance, is not a crab but a ship. And yet the 'Glastonbury Zodiac' is supposed to be the best attested and most convincing of such 'monuments'.

The theory was next brought to light in 1929 by Katherine Maltwood, a Canadian artist who was researching landscapes around Glastonbury to illustrate a book, when she 'realised' the zodiac in a vision.

Other Zodiacs:

The Glastonbury 'Zodiac' was 'refined' by Mary Caine in the 1960's, and has been expanded upon since.

Anthony Thorley has more recently identified over fifty Zodiacs across the British countryside and has researched the subject in depth. It is perhaps his mention of an acausal relationship between the consciousness of humanity and the landscape that offers something of a glimmer of hope in trying to understand the process that seems to be occurring here as, seemingly in collusion with human consciousness, the British landscape appears to have 'manifested' over 50 gigantic zodiac simulacra of zodiac symbols, 'mostly emblematic animals, in the shapes of its natural and its cultured landscape'. Moreover, these symbols are said to appear in the same order as their star signs around the ecliptic.

Criticism: The idea was examined by two independent studies, one by Ian Burrow in 1975 and the other in 1983 by Tom Williamson and Liz Bellamy, using standard methods of landscape historical research. Both studies concluded that the evidence contradicted the idea. The eye of Capricorn identified by Maltwood was a haystack. The western wing of the Aquarius phoenix was a road laid in 1782 to run around Glastonbury, and older maps dating back to the 1620's show the road had no predecessors. The Cancer boat (not a crab as would be expected) is made up of a network of eighteenth century drainage ditches and paths. There are some Neolithic paths preserved in the peat of the bog formerly comprising most of the area, but none of the known paths match the lines of the zodiac features. There is no support for this theory, or for the existence of the "temple" in any form, from conventional archaeologists or mainstream historians.

While it is true that most of these 'zodiacs' are open to the same intrinsic criticisms as the esteemed Katherine Maltwood's 'Temple of the Stars' at Glastonbury, their presence opens the debate of the existence of a dialogue between the cosmos and what Jung called the 'collective unconscious'.

The Knight Of The Scarlet Thread (Part 6)

Charles A. L. Totten

AS traditions all of these are older than the Christian era, and the idea of later collusion is preposterous. These facts solve the whole mystery of the Prophet's disappearance, and although they are diametrically opposite to the written and accepted history of the world today, the time is not far distant when they will supplant it, for they have too many collaterals to be suppressed to much longer, and the vindication of Jeremiah's own commission requires us to get the truth in order, and uphold the Bible, although all other books and learned commentaries have to stand aside.

Nor should it be forgotten that in this controversy YAHWEH, himself, has some concern since that by his command this prophet was, 'to build and to plant', and did so there in the Western Isles; All who deny it, in the face of testimony such as this, and adhere to the general idea that the mission failed and that Jeremiah was slain by the Jews, to say the least, have read their Bibles blindly.

Baalistic worship there in Ireland was soon succeeded by one based upon that of Moses, and in due time the Druids themselves became enthusiastic priests of truth. The Ark of the Covenant was concealed in Tara by the Ollams (Prophets) of Jeremiah. They placed within it the title deeds of Palestine, and many other sacred treasures, which remain there yet, against their future day of glorious manifestation. Free-Masonry had its renewed birth at this mysterious period, and was undoubtedly established by Jeremiah, 'The Royal Arch Degree', as the guardian of the Ark's secret resting place. It is presumed to be buried in the 'Mergech', or Tomb of Tephi, as the word Mergech is a pure Hebrew word meaning, Repository, and with all traditions maintain to have remained absolutely un-violated down to our own day.

(Free-Masonry, came from the Ancient Mystery Schools of Israel, Masons or builders of OUR RACE. Many Great men of this race have been Masons and understood at least some of this mystery, for instance, George Washington. However today, like most everything else, Satan's children have infiltrated and destroyed much of Masonry until it is a mixed bag, mostly Baal, maybe a little in some places of YAHWEH, in the rituals, but surely adapted to the World Order.)

The author tells us that he has in his possession, direct and personal correspondence with prominent personages in Ireland and England who have been interested in exploring the ruins of Tara, with the express purpose of discovering these 'spolia opima'. The ruins are private property, but permission has been obtained several times to examine them, but all efforts, to explore, have been a failure. There is a mystery connected with the matter, and at least at the times of the former attempts, the 'Set Time' had not come. Thus the great Mergech at Tara Hill, the name of the tomb once thought to be Celtic, now since 1871 known to be Hebrew, a repository, and it undoubtedly contains treasures of great importance to OUR RACE.

In later years (A.D. 1024 Cuan O Cochlain who was for a time the Regent of Ireland wrote a poem and this is a brief of some of the stanzas;

It gave great happiness to the women
When Temor, the strong was erected and named.

The gentle Heremonn here maintained
His lady, safe in an impregnable fortress;

She received from him all favors she desired,
 And all his promises to her he fulfilled.
 Bregia of Tea was a delightsome abode;
 On record, as a place of great renown,
 It contains the grave; the great Mergech;
 A sepulchre which has not been violated.

The length and breadth of the tomb of Tephi was accurately measured by the sages:-

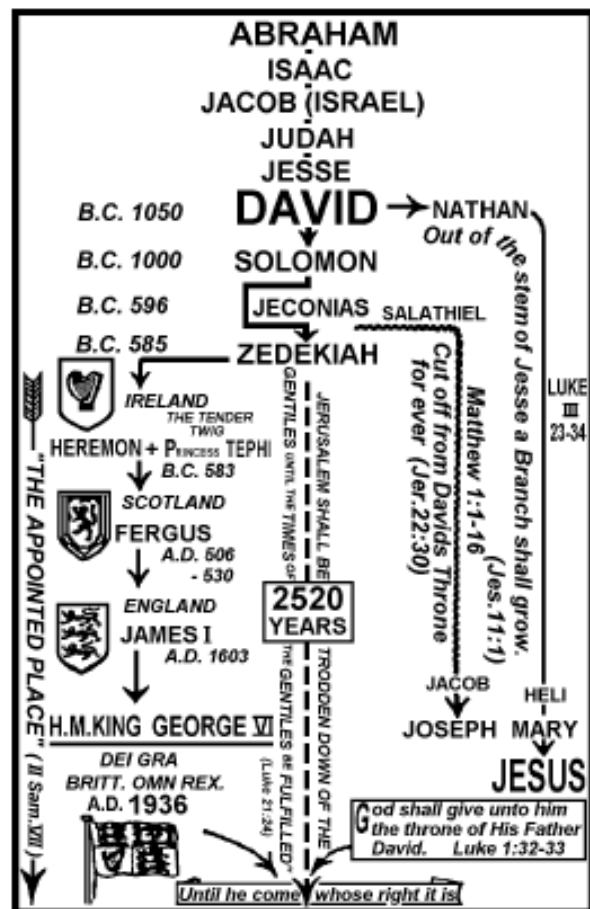

Was sixty feet of exact measure, As Prophets and Druids have related.

Tephi's death occurred about 10 years after her arrival and marriage. Eochaidh, whose reign is put down as 13 to 16 years survived her only long enough to complete the monument erected to her honour. He was 52 years old at his death. The only son of Eochaidh by Tea Tephi was Irial, the Prophet. This Prince was carefully educated at Mur Ollam, or School of Prophets founded by Jeremiah. At his fathers death he was only 16 years of age, so trouble started for Ireland as the sons of Heber once more took the throne. Later the Heremonian faction recovered the crown and Irial ascended the throne when he was 25 years of age. Heremonn after Heremonn was gathered to the dust, and their spirits returned to the great ARD RI of heaven, but the sceptre of David held its unbroken sway on the earth, and Judah's Royal Remnants prospered in the Isles. Down through the ages king succeeded king and all were crowned at Tara on the LIA PHAIL, but the site was too narrow, and its shadow spread abroad.

At last Fergus, the first king of Scotland (Scotia Minor) left Ireland, (Scotia Major) and again transplanted the Red Lion Rampant, and the throne of David. Taking the 'Stone of Destiny' with him, he was crowned upon it in unbroken successions all the kings of Caledonia took the crown.

Kenneth II removed the Stone to Scone, and there the Sceptre still passed over it, from successor to successor. Finally Edward I captured this Talismaic Stone and took it, with all the Scottish regalia to London, and placed it in Westminster Abbey, where it is today, still the Coronation Chair of Great Britain.

The common people call it 'Jacob's Stone', they believe it to be the token of an indestructible Empire, and that it is indeed the richest jewel in the British Realm.

In due time the royal line of David followed the stone into its new resting place. When James I united the Empire, he brought the Red Lion of the tribe of Judah, with its golden field, from Scotland, and placed it opposite the Unicorn of Israel, uniting thus the British coat of Arms, and between them placed the motto of Benjamin, 'God and my right', for it is the heritage of Little Benjamin to dwell safely by the anointed of YAHWEH, even between Ephraim and Judah.

This is a theme well worthy of the pen of prophecy, and accordingly we find its thread closely woven into the lines of Sacred Writ. Those ancient Hebrews were beneath the finger of YAHWEH, statesmen of so broad an international and far-reaching type, that we, who live but a generation only, and waste our years amid trivial things cannot comprehend the magnitude of state-craft so consummate. 'Behold! I do a thing in your days,' Utters one of them, 'That ye will in no wise believe, though a man declare it unto you.' And it is even so; for done it is, and though 'tis done in stone', men do not stand convinced. And it is well done, by a sculptor who heweth without hands, and whose handiwork is mountainous in constant growth. The vision of Nebuchadnezzar is fulfilling before our very eyes, and the dream of Nebuzaradan. Is A Fact. The four leaf clover casts its shadow upon every land, for North, South, East and West, it is only under the Shadow of Saxon things alone, that men have any hope.

(I hope that you have enjoyed this book review of the Planting of the Empire in the West and realize the Beginning of the Western Empire as the overthrows occurred and placed the great Pillar, Jacob's Stone, where it belonged, as the chief Jewel in the diadem of Britain. Today this Stone. The house of God, is the heart's core of the Stone Kingdom growing into a mountain on a Saxon earth. Nor need we of this hither half of the Anglo Saxon brotherhood, find any cause to Envy Ephraim (British Empire), for American (Manasseh's) greatness is well assured, as pointedly put down in prophecy, as sharply chiselled as a fact of history, as Ephraim's or that of England. America's mission is mapped out beyond the Shadow of the Sceptre, and to set it forth here is foreign to the purpose of this book report, but IT IS THERE.

But in the fullness of time, and by the romantic marriage of Eochaidh, and Tea Tephí, we have seen how YAHWEH, our God, kept the integrity of His oath to David and hastened to perform it. We see how the Sceptre delayed its final entrance into the greater, 'City of Merchants', London, England until all the hosts of scattered Israel had come back into the fold

The End OS19646

Edinburgh - Jerusalem In The North (Part 3)

By Comyns Beaumont

Tyropoean Valley: Perhaps more than any other topographical feature this identifies Edinburgh with Jerusalem. A narrow chasm or ravine which ran from north to south, crossed from the Valley of Jehoshaphat in the north of the city towards Siloam in the south, thus cutting the otherwise continuous hill from the Citadel to the Watergate in two. On the west of the Tyropoean Valley was the Upper Market Place and Ophel; on its east the Mount (or Hill of) Moriah, and, said to be adjoining the latter, stood the great tower of Antonia, built by Herod to defend the Temple, which was stormed by Titus and later thrown down and utterly destroyed by order of Hadrian stone by stone. This Antonia was erected on the site of the former Tower of Hananel, both built for the same purpose, namely for the defence of the adjoining Temple. In Nehemiah's day, Eliashib and the priests restored the city wall and a portion of the "great fortress" (Hananel) which commanded the Temple then (Nch. iii, 1).

The Tyropoean Valley was partly filled in during the rule of the Maccabees (cp. McCabe), the intention being probably to unite the Upper and Lower city, but it was not completed. A bridge spanned the gap, and in the struggle between Aristobulus and Hyrcanus (37 B.C.), the former "cut the connection between the Temple and the (Upper) city by breaking down the bridge that joined them together" (Jos., Wars, etc., I, vii, 2).

We have in Edinburgh the exact replica in the valley or ravine between Castle Hill and the High Street, where is now the humpbacked hill called George IV Bridge, evidently of artificial construction. In fact the road called George IV Bridge was only partially raised in the reign of that king, and proceeds from the south where was formerly the Borough or South Loch going north and south like the Tyropoean Valley, and like it formerly a ravine. Evidence of its comparative lateness is shown by what remains of West Bow, once upon a time the only means of approach to the Castle via Johnstone Terrace, an access very steep and winding, reaching the summit where Castle Hill and the Lawn Market conjoin. George IV Bridge proceeds northwards downhill and in the valley beyond passes the Mound on its east.

This Mound is of considerable interest for until a couple of centuries ago it lay a huge mass of rubbish of indeterminate origin though various reasons were advanced on the subject. It had lain there longer than the oldest inhabitant could remember, and was called Geordie Boyd's Mud Brig, though who was the said Geordie Boyd and how he accumulated the huge mass of stone and rubbish no one knew. It came to be used as the city dump and it was probably drawn upon heavily for the making of the George IV Bridge, and likewise provided the foundations for those two fine edifices, the Scottish Royal Academy and the National Gallery, erected on the site.

When all the foregoing is taken into consideration this vast mass of debris can only have been the ruins of the Tower Antonia, for the Mound occupied the same position as the corresponding Antonia did in Jerusalem. An ancient and unaccountable mound of stone all broken debris found exactly on the corresponding site to Antonia, gives one profoundly to think! There can be little doubt that the resemblance between the George IV Bridge and the Tyropoean Valley, both ravines, both cutting through the most important hill, is so remarkable that it could not be duplicated by similar topographical surroundings in any other city in the world.

Pool of Siloam: Josephus tells us that the Tyropoean Valley southwards extended to the Pool of Siloam. It had sweet (drinking) waters in "great plenty" and lay against the old city wall which skirted it. Nehemiah describes how he rode to the Valley Gate before the Dragon Well, then to Dung Gate (near the king's stables), where he viewed the broken walls, then to the Fountain Gate and to the "King's Pool" or Siloam. The King's Garden lay in the vicinity for he mentions those who repaired the Dung and Fountain Gates, "and the wall of the Pool of Siloam and the King's Garden and unto the stairs that go down from the City of David" (Neh. ii, 13-25).

All these references from the Valley Gate to Siloam covered the western end of the city and a part of the south-west. The Valley Gate was that which led from the western extremity of the walls to the Valley of Hinnom, in old Edinburgh answering to West Port leading to Corstorphine Road. Dung Gate answers to Dung Port, a gate near the King's stables at the foot of Edinburgh Castle at the west, the place where the Scottish kings held their jousts. A little more southerly is Fountain bridge, leading to the Grassmarket below the Castle walls, which recalls the old name, although the Fountain Gate of Jerusalem must be identified with Bristo Port. The southern extremity of the former ravine, now George IV Bridge, is known as Bristo Port, which abutted on Old Borough Loch, once a considerable fresh-water lake, corresponding with the Pool of Siloam. A road called the Vennel, formerly a lane which followed the line of the city wall, points to the situation of Bristo Port and the former Loch.

West Port (the Valley Gate of Jerusalem) stands at the head of the Vennel, and its continuation finds Port Hopetown, terminus of the Union Canal, as the probable last remains of the former Old Borough or South Loch, which at one time stretched over most of Heriot's School, the Royal Infirmary, George Square and the Meadows, reaching eastward as far as the Cowgate. The actual position of the Cowgate itself is lost, but it was probably connected with the Temple on whose site is St. Giles' Cathedral, and it may have been the Gate Miphkad, through which the bullock of sacrifice was led to the altar (Ezek. xliii, 21). It would explain the name "Cow."

In 1693 Slezer, in his work, Theatrum Scotiae, says that Edinburgh's Borough Loch extended to the Cowgate and that iron rings were still to be seen fixed to the walls of houses where people tied up their boats. The situation of this former loch in low-lying land, fed in part by underground streams that flow yet from Arthur's Seat through the Back of Canongate and Cowgate, and allied possibly with the Water of Leith, agrees with the position of the Pool of Siloam.

Temple: Herod's fine temple incurred severe priestly criticism because he placed a golden eagle over the entrance and the priests accepted no other symbol of divinity than fire. On the site of Solomon's and later Zerubbabel's temples, it stood on the crown of the hill known as Moriah or Mount Moriah, with the powerful Tower of Antonia abutting on it to its north-west, which fortress had its foundations partly built up by artificial material from the base of the hill (Jos. Wars, etc., V, v, 8) and was described as a high, square edifice with round towers at each corner like so many Scottish baronial castles. The Romans, as before mentioned, destroyed every vestige of Herod's Temple, as also of the Antonia, whose broken stones may have formed the vast mass of debris which became known as Geordie Boyd's Mud Brig. St. Giles' Cathedral and the present Law Courts must occupy the former site of Herod's Temple razed to the ground.

The High: The High, or the Street of God, led upwards to the Temple from the Lower Market Place, and agrees topographically with Edinburgh High Street and Canongate, the latter an ecclesiastical borough with a religious distinction all its own, apart from the Cathedral. Sir Walter Scott urged the claims of Canongate, within whose bailiwick stands Holyrood House, its traditional founder being St. David. In St. John's Street, entering the Canongate by an archway, stands the Kilwinning Lodge of Freemasons, said to be one of the oldest, if not the actual oldest Masonic Lodge in the world, a craft traditionally founded by Solomon, but undoubtedly owing its origin to a yet earlier period, although Solomon was certainly a Master Craftsman. Kilwinning's Masonic temple, dedicated to St. John, recalls that he was an Essene, a most important sect in Jerusalem, which possessed a "house" or lodge near the Gate of the Essenes so-called after them. In Edinburgh, by the Back of Canongate, was the Canon Gate, and it would correspond with that of the Essenes.

Bezetha: The great increase of population led to the development of the fourth hill, across the Valley of Jehoshaphat, which lay on high ground north of the Temple and the Tower Antonia. The Valley of Jehoshaphat, now occupied by the railway station and Princes Street Gardens, with formerly the Nor'Loch skirting the north walls of the Castle, originally the Pool of Bethesda, enables us to identify Bezetha with Edinburgh's North Back of Canongate and Calton Hill, and the modern Princes Street.

Joppa: It is astonishing at first thought that the identical name of the port of Joppa was borne by both Jerusalem and Edinburgh, but it should be remembered that the name and position of Jerusalem were destroyed and proscribed by force majeure and it would be easy to overlook the name of the port even though it lies only three miles distant from Hadrian's doomed city. Josephus says of Joppa that it was "not naturally a haven for it ends in a rough and straight shore," as applies to the Edinburgh Joppa, now largely embraced in Portobello.

There were dangerous rocks off the shore, and the north wind "beats upon the shore," he continues, "and dashed mighty waves against the rocks." When this "black north wind blew a gale it dashed ships against one another and carried some of them out to sea" (Wars, etc., III, ix, 3). Joppa in the North Sea does suffer from north-easterly gales but a nor'easter in the Eastern Mediterranean would blow off the land. At our British Joppa, the mighty seas in stormy weather beat against the rocks and numerous skerries in that open sea. With Joppa where it is now identified we have a rational explanation of how Josephus claimed that traditionally Andromeda was bound to a rock near Joppa intended to be devoured by a sea-monster, when Perseus rescued her, a story cast in the Atlantic region.

Its position also explains how the Tyrian fishermen were said to be able to sell their catch in Jerusalem on the Sabbath, for when they were fishing in the North Sea they had no distance to go, no long journey over hills for thirty-five miles. Incidentally, from Edinburgh from an early time there was a paved road to Joppa called the Fishwives Causey, because the women used to walk to the port to purchase the fish as landed.

Mount of Olives: This famous height which dominated Jerusalem is represented in the Near East by a long flat hill which only exceeds the height of the Mosque of Omer by 180 feet. The Mount of Olives, as its name betokens, was originally planted with olive groves, myrtles and oaks, and on a flank of it lay the King's Gardens, belonging to the former House of Lebanon of Solomon, and later called the Garden of Gethsemane, where Judas Iscariot betrayed

Christ. If we look to Arthur's Seat and the King's Park, as the true site of this renowned height, and whose summit towers 822 feet above the city below, there may be even found the explanation of the disaster reported by Zechariah when the great earthquake split a part of the Mount in two, leaving a valley between. Near Salisbury Crags, below Arthur's Seat, there is a tremendous physical fracture, together with Samson's Ribs—the Ribs of Hercules—where the bare basaltic columns resembling a giant's ribs, dip downward to the lower road leaving a valley between, now a roadway. This remarkable geological fault or fracture is the effect of a seismic visitation and well explains Zechariah's statement.[6]

Arthur's Seat dominates Edinburgh as the Mount of Olives did Jerusalem, from the east. Its lower heights, ringed with former terraces or lynchets, point to the time when the olive and vine were planted there. Buried in the soil of Arthur's Seat bronze swords and Celts have been found and prove the eminence and great antiquity of the site. Sir Daniel Wilson, in his Prehistoric Annals of Scotland, reports that on the eastern slopes was found a coin bearing the effigy of a man wearing a turban, and with an inscription in Hebrew bearing the name, "Solomon ben Isaac." Probably careful archaeological research might unearth others.

To be Continued

The King James Bible And Francis Bacon From Our South Of England Correspondent

In his first regnal year, King James presided over a conference between Episcopalians and Puritans. The primary topic for discussion concerned the numerous, and sometimes conflicting versions of the Bible—most of which were not written in English.

The Puritan leader John Rainoldes stressed the need for a uniform English translation of the Bible. The King approved the idea, and commissioned a force of 54 translators to execute the project. The translators were then arranged into six groups operating under specific guidelines. It was the consummate set-up. Bacon had every intention of producing his own translation of the Bible since his teen years, and the King provided the perfect opportunity and means for its implementation—along with the ideal cover for which Bacon was only too happy to insure that James would receive full credit for the undertaking. Hence, the "Bacon Bible" would forever be known as the King James Version by virtue of Bacon's need for a patron to finance such an immense project, and a front man behind whom he could operate with complete invisibility.

By 1609, the translating was completed and the roughly drafted manuscripts were handed over to James who, in turn, covertly committed them to Bacon's care. Thus, Bacon, along with his Fra Rosi Cross society, applied the Shakespeare touch to the work resulting in the most impeccably polished best seller the world has ever seen. With the publication of the King James Version of the Bible in 1611 and the 1623 Shakespeare Folio, the English Language underwent a total transformation in just 12 years.

The late actor Charles Heston stated "no other literary work reads more like Shakespeare than the King James Translation of the Bible."* Author Edwin D. Lawrence said "When Bacon was born, English as a literary language did not exist, but once he died he has succeeded in making the English language the noblest vehicle of thought ever possessed by mankind. This he accomplished merely by his Bible and his Shakespeare."*

Just as he had done with the Shakespeare work, Bacon incorporated both coded messages and Rosicrucian-Masonic symbolism into the "KJV" (King James Version) which identified him as the author, or in this case, the chief translator and editor.

One of the most obvious of Bacon's coded devices used in the 1611 publication of the KJV is his trademark "headpiece" engraved on the cover. The same engraving block had also been used to print the headpiece of the 1593 publication of Venus and Adonis (the first work to bear the Shakespeare name). Later, it would appear in Bacon's Advancement and Proficiency of Learning. All of Bacon's works used variations of this design (to be further discussed in chapter 24).

Without a doubt the most significant encryption technique employed throughout Bacon's works involves a variety of numerical ciphers. These typically involved the Simple, Kaye, Reverse, and Pythagorean Cipher Tables—each matching specific numbers to the letters of the alphabet.

Bacon chose Psalms (his favorite book in the Bible) as the junction for his encrypted messages. He also used Key words as signposts to provide coded instructions (much like a treasure map) to the initiated reader. So, just as he uses synonyms for his name such as hog, sow, swine, etc. to serve as Key words in the Shakespearean works, he also makes use of the same system in the KJV, starting with the appearance of the word swine in Leviticus, Chapter 11 verse 7. This, of course, directs us to Psalm 117. Bacon chose the number 117 because it corresponds to the name John Dee in Reverse Cipher. Turning to Psalm 117, we find that it consists of precisely 33 words (Simple Cipher for the name Bacon). No other biblical translation does this.

The second appearance of the word swine occurs in Deuteronomy, Chapter 14 verse 8. Turning to Psalm 148 we find that it is comprised of 202 words. In encryption codes, zeros are ignored as nulls, leaving the number 22. This is code for Bacon's birth date, January 22 (i.e. the 22nd day of the year). Again, no other biblical translation does this. Additionally, Bacon deliberately chose the number 148 because it matches the name William Tudor (Simple Cipher). This would have been Bacon's royal name had he acceded to the throne.

Throughout the KJV, Bacon always uses the word swine as the substitute for his name, with only one exception—the word boar is the third Key word in the series representing Bacon's name. This is significant because the boar is a predominant feature of Bacon's coat of arms. He is definitely taking us to a higher level of understanding. There is an important lesson to be learned before we can move on. And, sure enough, we appear to be at a dead end since the word boar has shown up in verse 13 of Psalm 80. However, Bacon has chosen this Psalm to point out the significant "Fibonacci" connection between the numbers 13 and 8 (to be discussed in a later chapter). However, the Key to encoding the instructions leading us forward is in the wording of the verse itself: "The boar out of the wood doth waste it, and the wild beast of the field doth devour it."* The Key words here are "waste" and "devour." In Bacon's day, those words were synonymous with "take away" or "subtract." Thus, we are simply being instructed to subtract 13 from 80, resulting in the number 67. In the Simple Cipher that number matches the name Francis. We now turn to Psalm 67, and, voila, it consists of exactly 111 words (the name Bacon in Kaye Cipher). Again, no other translation of the Bible will yield the same results.

By now, the keen reader has acquired a fundamental understanding of Bacon's methodology. However, he has provided still another revelation for our discovery. Starting from the beginning, with first word of the book of Genesis, we notice that (unlike any other biblical translation) the 46th word of the KJV is "Light." This is the single most important word in both the Rosicrucian and Masonic vocabularies. It's a signpost directing us to Psalm 46.

There are several reasons Bacon chose this Psalm as the converging point for his coded message. First, the structure of the Psalm, prior to its retranslation, provided an ideal slate upon which Bacon could pen an ingenious "super-message." Second, its numerical value of 46 stands between the numbers 45 and 47. These three numbers, aligned in series, serve as a backdrop for a spectacular display of code using the Pythagorean, Kaye and Simple Ciphers.

Thus, we start with the preceding Psalm 45. That number corresponds to the name Shakespeare in the 1 through 9 Pythagorean Cipher. Moreover, Psalm 45 has 17 verses. The number 17 in the Pythagorean Table matches the name Bacon. This is another signpost. Once again, the wording of the verse provides critical information as it indicates the importance of a name is about to be revealed: "I will make thy name to be remembered in all generations:

therefore shall the people praise thee forever and ever."*

The revelatory stage has been eloquently set as we now step into Psalm 46. In the Kaye Cipher, the name Christian Rosenkreutz corresponds to the number 406, i.e. 46. It is no accident that the word Light, the 46th word in the KJV, matches that name which in turn leads us to Psalm 46 which functions as another signpost. So, we count down to the 46th word of Psalm 46—we land on the word shake. Reversing the process, we count up from the end of the Psalm (starting with the word Selah) to the 47th word which is spear.

Until now, Baconian scholars have missed the significance of the number 47, insisting that the word Selah be ignored so that the word spear would be the 46th word from the Psalm's ending. They also ignore the fact that the word Selah appears two more times in the coded message. If the word is to be ignored once then it should be rejected altogether—but that would then destroy the encryption.

Bacon knew what he was doing. He deliberately ends the Psalm with "Selah" for two reasons. First, the word Selah corresponds to the number 33 in Simple Cipher. Here, Bacon is using one of his favorite encryption devices by ending the Psalm with his own signature, 33. And second, he wants the word spear to be the 47th word from the end for the purpose of presenting us with a brilliant metaphor. Thus, in Simple Cipher, the number 47 matches the name Hiram. This is no coincidence as the number 47 is twice mentioned in the Masonic 3rd Degree lecture with regard to the "47th problem" (also known as the "Pythagorean Theorem") in Euclid's Elements—it is the number of the Master Mason.

Now comes the main course—the pieces de resistance. We count the number of words between the words shake and spear, resulting in the number 111, which corresponds to the name Bacon in the Kaye Cipher. In a master stroke, Bacon has united the names Shakespeare (45), Christian Rosenkreutz (46), and Hiram (47) with his own name, thereby revealing the three names, along with their three matching numbers to be pseudonymous aspects of himself.

Furthermore, Bacon has crafted a way to prove it out mathematically. We remember that his two Rosicrucian seals when combined equal 444. And, when we place the trio of numbers side-by-side, i.e. 45 46 47, a remarkable pattern emerges. Just as he employs the method of displaying his code numbers in the Psalm both frontward and backward, Bacon does the same with the "trio", i.e. 444 and 567. We now combine them, resulting in 1011, or 111. Moreover, we get the same result by partitioning the trio in halves, then combining them, i.e. $454 + 647 = 1011$. None of this is coincidence!

Finally, the metaphorical meaning becomes clear. At the outset of his initiation into each Masonic Degree, the initiate (Candidate) proclaims his wish to receive "Light." Thus, being lead to Psalm 46, the initiate seeking Light (knowledge), represented by the number 46, begins his journey of insight and discovery as he enters the "Bacon Light" represented by the number 111 through which he is transformed from initiate to Master in the number 47. Therefore, Christian Rosenkreutz (46) and Hiram (47) serve as Masonic pillars flanking Bacon (111) in the unifying form of Shake—111—Spear.

The rich linguistic style of the KJV is uniquely different from all other versions of the Bible. The numerous parallels with the Shakespearean works are unmistakable—this includes the encrypted content that is simply not present in any other biblical translation.*

The End OS21029

Pasteurised Milk A National Menace (Part 3)

By

Late James C. Thomson 1943

One commercially important fact emerges. Pasteurised milk, even when dirty, grows old and harmful to the consumer without giving any outstanding indication of deterioration. Degenerative changes within it no longer cause it to become sour. Instead, for from three to ten days, depending largely upon temperature, it can be, and is, sold as fresh. Then, suddenly, it becomes bitter and obviously putrescent. From beginning to end the processing is fraught with danger to the consumer.

But all facts which would cause the public to raise questions are carefully suppressed. As already explained, control is exercised over our press, radio and parliament, and we have been conditioned to accept a tissue of profitable falsehoods. We honour our betrayers.

Personally I am always more impressed by genuine findings than by any amount of theory. When facts have to be suppressed to prevent the overthrow of a dogma, "science" is in a 'pitiful state. Yet in official circles, when large scale statistics refuse to be cooked to suit the large controlling interests they are never permitted to reach the public.

The implications in the following letter are vitally important to every Nature Cure student and adherent:-

PASTEURISATION OF MILK

"Sir—There has been a good deal in the papers recently about the pasteurisation of milk to prevent contamination of tuberculosis to human beings by drinking milk from tubercular cows.

About 50 years ago, when cattle were not tested for this disease as they are to-day, the best looking cow was selected out of a byre containing 41 cows and a nephew of mine, when a child, was reared on the milk from this cow entirely. Sometime later, all the cows were tested, and the cow from which my nephew got the milk was the most tubercular cow in the byre. This child is now a man 50 years old and has always enjoyed good health, and for vigour and physique is well above average. Does this prove that milk from a tubercular cow contaminates human beings!"—Yours, etc., Joseph Harrison.—The Scottish Farmer (20: 2: 43).

T.B.-FREE MILK CAUSES RISE IN HUMAN T. B.

Here is a larger experiment, equally telling, but although deserving of wide publicity, It Is frowned upon by our bacillus-worshipping "scientists." These statistics are from Dr. C. Engelbreth, Copenhagen (translation of an article in The Norse Medical Journal, issued by the County Agricultural Institute, St. Mary's Gate, Derby, April 1935):-

"Owing to the prevalence of cattle tuberculosis in Denmark, almost all the raw mixed milk and cream contains bovine tubercle bacilli. Nevertheless bovine tuberculosis in humans is not common. . . .

. . . the public has been led to believe that human tuberculosis can arise from milk; hence the proposal that all milk coming into Copenhagen should be from T.T. herds. This was thought to be the big stride forward in the battle against human tuberculosis, and the Isle of Bornholm was instanced as a proof that cattle tuberculosis can be eradicated.

"In Copenhagen the average for the years 1923-31 was 46.5%; in Bornholm, however, the figure for the same years was 62%. Now Bornholm has a milk supply almost free from bovine tubercle bacilli whereas in Copenhagen only a small part is from T.T. herds; the bulk is mixed dairy milk and contains bovine tubercle bacilli. Hence, attain freedom from bovine tubercle bacilli in milk and lung tuberculosis rises. . . . Strong confirmation Is found in the figures for the larger provinces:-

Province	% of T .B. Herds	% Mortality from Lung Tuberculosis
Sonderjylland	89	43
Norrejyland	74	49
Oerne	50	51
Bornholm	16	62

"It is estimated' (Park, Gobbet, Griffith) that 14 to 20% of tuberculosis is of bovine origin but the Copenhagen statistics do not support this view and the bacteriological discrimination of type is not certain. The statistics show a decline in mortality from tubercular meningitis parallel with that of lung tuberculosis:-

Year	% T. B. Herds	%Mortality from Lung Tuberculosis
1917	817	116
1930	448	53

"If tubercular meningitis were of bovine origin, one would not have expected it to follow lung tuberculosis but to vary with the supply of infected milk.

London, With 90 per cent. of its milk pasteurised, has had great increases in both' pulmonary and non-pulmonary tuberculosis. But, rnirabile dictu these increases have nothing to do with the kind of milk consumed!

Not only, so but The Times (20: 9: 42) actually prints a letter containing :this phrase:-

"The diminution of M i l k - b o r n e tuberculosis disease in London, where 90 per cent of its milk is pasteurised, is evidence of its value."

Could self-deception go further? Could greater loyalty to advertisers be imagined?

Likewise the Daily Sketch for 26: 2:43. Here the Editor jibes at those who oppose pasteurisation and calmly suggest that the objection is not scientific but financial. That is the technique for bamboozling the public: reverse the facts, refuse the opposition a reply—then ridicule them for their silence!

"With No Other Object"?

In medical discussions the really vital questions arising out of all germ problems are quietly sidestepped. Healthy humans are not affected by germs in the way claimed in all the expensive propaganda. From the mouth of any healthy person pure cultures of almost any known "disease germ" can be grown.

The important thing is that so long as we remain healthy we do not suffer in the least from the presence of such germs. On the contrary they appear to be a helpful factor in health maintenance.

I see the situation as exactly paralleled by that of the carrion crow. Only after an animal dies does the crow take up its sanitary duties—to break up and detoxicate the decaying body. So long as a spark of life remains in the body, the crow remains neutral. As the crow is to the living animal so is the “disease germ” to healthy tissues. And, just as truly, it is courting disaster to keep either from its proper communal work. What the crow does for dead bodies, microbes do for devitalised tissues:—they are nature's surgeons, cutting away and rendering harmless minute areas of unfit cells—clearing away debris and preparing the way for repair and regrowth.

Because we believe we have ample grounds for these beliefs we ask our patients to remain undaunted in face of all misrepresentations. Remember that up to fourteen times more tuberculosis arises among the regular consumers of pasteurised and T.B.-Free milk than occurs in those who take only fresh milk, even when it is "swarming with T.B. germs."

It may be that oversimplified theories have omitted several vitally important factors. As F. W. Broderick, M.R.C.S., L.D.S., has said (Dental Gazette, Jan. 1942):—

“... the whole conception of susceptibility to or immunity from infections is just a maze of hypothesis consisting of such words as antibodies, toxins, receptors, complement, amboceptors, etc., etc., with no other object than to make new findings fit into accepted modes of thought.”

NATURAL HEALING IN TUBERCULOSIS--with a note on “Legal Proof”

Q. Speculating about your theory of bacilli as scavengers and surgeons, what would happen IN PRACTICE if the human doctors and surgeons were to withdraw in really serious cases of phthisis and delegate their work to the bacillus alone?

A. As the question is a practical one, here is an actual instance. An old-established phthisis patient, who had undergone many treatments previous to coming to the Kingston Clinic, in 1941, returned to report progress on 18th May 1943. This was his story:—

At the termination of his four months of active treatment with us his firm had required him to go to his former doctor for record purposes. An X-ray plate revealed that a large new cavity had opened in his less affected lung. He was duly warned of his imminent danger, the grave risks he was running, etc., etc. However, he is a courageous lad. Even if a little distressed by the verdict, after he wrote asking why I had done this thing to him and after I had recapitulated my theory of bacillary technique, he decided to continue with his Nature Cure plan of living.

“IMPOSSIBLE”

Six months later a second X-ray examination was made and this disclosed that in the interval, almost complete healing had occurred. This discovery proved to be such a shock for both the medical practitioner and radiologist that several more plates were exposed. More and more at a loss, in the end they sent all the plates to a T.B. specialist who in due course returned this startling verdict:— There is something wrong here. Such complete healing is impossible in six months. If the dates are correct, then the photographs are from different individuals:

“MARVELLOUS”

Needless to say, this incident dissipated from the patient's mind any lingering doubts and fears. Here is his latest report:-

I am feeling fine and getting through an unbelievable amount of work every day. When I recall what I was like a few years ago it is marvellous.

Note well that had he broken away from his regimen at the time when he was furnished with such complete and devastating “proof of failure” his condition would have been permanently worsened—and there would have been plenty of legal proof that we had done the damage. To say the least, the present satisfactory outcome would have been utterly out of the question.

All of which gives point to Dr. Tilden's claim:--
“The average surgeon has never seen the natural healing of a wound.”

Even more it drives home Gerald Heard's aphorism—“Only those enduring to the end are saved.”

A SCHOOL REPORT

Nature Cure is nothing if not practical. But while our system can achieve satisfactory healing in an occasional case even after it has reached the most desperate stages, the principles of natural living come into full flower in the achievement and maintenance of High Level Health—a state wherein such problems as infections, from chickenpox and measles to smallpox and tuberculosis, are solved incidentally as it were, before they arise.

Allow me to quote a practical instance from the Head of a boys' school. From his own satisfactory experiences he decided to modify the food of the children. Here is his account of the result of their increased intake of green foods, unpasteurized milk, etc :—

“I often think how much I owe to Kingston, not only for the splendid physical well-being I now enjoy . . . but also in my relations with the world. You will like to know that in eleven terms here we have had two cases of measles and one of mumps introduced by particularly badly-fed looking children from outside, and we have had only one contact case from them, instead of the usual school epidemics, while children in the neighbourhood have been going down like ninepins.”

For those who are willing to face facts, little more need be said. If Health is the end in view, any germ we may happen to meet is unimportant: In any normal situation how we live decides the issue.

To be continued

Creative Leisure And The Kingdom John Trotter (Winmalee)

FOR the premillennialist the issue of God's perfect Law and creative leisure is of great importance. Even with “new heavens and a new earth” (2 Peter 3:13) there has to be some form of economy. The Bible is very clear as regards this matter. Not only are there verses that mention the restored Kingdom of Israel but also there is mention of other nations existing in the future Kingdom Age. Christ is also to sit upon the throne of His father David and is to reign over the house of Jacob forever (Luke 1:32-33). The fulfilment of these future prophecies will not take place in heaven, where at the moment Christ sits at the right hand of God (1 Peter 3:22) .

It is my opinion that when Jesus Christ returns to earth and sits upon the throne of David, it is then that He will be as King and not before. The process of correcting the wrongs and bringing back Israel into a broken and contrite heart relationship with her husband will not take place overnight. The “ecclesia” or called out ones and the messengers who have been chosen from the beginning of time will play an important part in this cleansing of the Kingdom when the tares are to be removed. The real meaning of creative leisure and its daily application will then become a reality.

The following thoughts are mainly aimed at the Western world where the majority of Israel live today. We all live in a very wasteful society. Much of it is planned waste and in reality is the destruction of God's providence and wealth. This destruction results in the need for workers to spend endless hours at work in producing items that have only a short time of existence. We literally live in a throwaway society. Families as a result suffer in so many ways. There is also waste in the area of money matters especially where Government and big monopolies are involved.

Such examples of waste are the following: the deliberate inbuilt obsolescence where white goods are meant to last a short time; in other areas, companies deliberately produce excess number of items knowing full well that they won't be sold; union activity on building sites and O.H.S. issues slow down the daily routine of workers (in the case of O.H.S. matters it is admitted that safety issues had to change but now the pendulum has gone too far); international trade has not helped in this waste between nations. Many more examples could be given like that of eating more than what the body can deal with, resulting in obesity and diabetes.

In all areas of finance we have all Western governments interfering in the affairs of private enterprise like that of small business. The owner has to again fill out endless pages of information so as the government can keep a watch on you for a national census. As so often happens for the owner, to stay in business, he has to carry out certain practices that he is not happy with. All these extra commitments bite into the creative leisure time that we all would like to have more of. The Taxation Dept. does not help in these matters. At the moment we have in Australia a Federal Government that is known for its massive waste of money and abuse of its authority to govern this country. Unfortunately at the next election, when there is to be an expected change of government, we will see again after about 5 years that nothing has really changed. The "move slowly quickly" motto of the Fabian Socialists, who have been around since the late C19th, will make sure the saying, "the more things change, the more they stay the same", will still apply.

I believe enough has been said to show the waste problem that occurs in Western democracies. It is my opinion that much of this is planned. It is the "order out of chaos" theme. How far all this goes, time will tell, but I can assure you God will only let it go so far, because the end result would be total annihilation of mankind. We are told in Matthew 24:22 that those days will be shortened (docked) for the "elect sake". It is not generally accepted, that even the enemies of God are being used to carry out His plan. Even Satan's ministers of righteousness, as transformed ministers of light (2 Corinthians 11:15) are to play a part in this plan.

In view of the above few examples of waste in all its forms, I ask the following question: If these types of waste did not exist, can you imagine what time there would be made available to spend with the family, do studies to expand your knowledge on so many subjects, enjoy the wonders of nature and of course the important one, to have more time to study the Scriptures and related matters?

Just imagine if we did not have mortgages (death grip) and the repayment was made without interest. Or let's consider the great amount of time we would have if all of God's financial Laws were applied to Government and to our private lives. We would then have true conversion for the Law of the Lord is perfect (Psalm 19:7). But you see the authorities and the ignorance of the Churches will not allow it to happen. It is no wonder that the shepherds of Israel are going to receive the greater condemnation by Jesus Christ when He reigns over Israel.

Once the Laws are printed into our hearts, then rain will fall in due season (Deuteronomy 11:14) and we will remember that it is God who gives us the wealth (Deuteronomy 8:18). Not only will God provide our daily needs, but the knowledge of His creation will be freely made known to all who seek His wisdom. Then creative leisure will become a means to give glory to God and to prosper in His blessings.

Creative leisure and true learning will go hand in hand. The search for knowledge will not be inhibited by dialogues that are based on the wisdom of this worldly system (1 Corinthians 3:19). There is not only inbuilt obsolescence in today's white goods, but fortunately for us there is a similar obsolescence in the Babylonian system under which we are now suffering. We have been promised that it also will fall (Revelation 14:8).

The few thoughts expressed in this article will hopefully help you to look forward to a time when the cares of this evil world will be no more. There is coming a time when the wealth of God's Creation and Providence will be equitably (not equally) shared by all those who seek His return. The wanton destruction of God's wealth will be a thing of the past.

Society in the West has been so structured with entertainment and greedy endeavours, that there is little time to fulfil the first question of the Larger Catechism of the Westminster Confession of Faith which asks: "What is the chief and highest end of man?". The answer: "Man's chief and highest end is to glorify God and fully to enjoy Him forever". In the meantime, because we do not know the time for the restoring of the Kingdom, we must with every effort find the time for CREATIVE LEISURE to not only centre our thoughts on Christ, the Redeemer of Israel, but also to study the Scriptures so as we might be approved by God and to "rightly divide the word of TRUTH" (2 Timothy 2:15).

The End OS21031

The Toxin So Dangerous It's Causing Catastrophic Birth Defects

Dr. J. Mercola

ROUNDUP Ready soy is now being cultivated on a massive scale across the globe, along with the exponentially increasing use of the herbicide Roundup. Monsanto's "Roundup Ready" soy beans are genetically modified to survive otherwise lethal doses of glyphosate, the active ingredient in the company's herbicide Roundup.

It's a win-win for Monsanto. But it's a loss for just about everyone else.

One of the countries most affected by genetically engineered soy is Argentina, whose population is being sickened by massive spraying of herbicides across the country's Pampas (the country's "fertile plain").

Argentina's Pampas used to be dotted with dairy and vegetable farms, but now, large-scale soybean monoculture blankets most of their cultivated land, making them especially susceptible to the damaging effects of genetically engineered soy. The impact can be better appreciated by considering the following statistics:

Soy is the main income source for landowners and the state—soybeans are considered a "gold mine" by Argentinians; soy exports generate 16,000 million dollars a year. The area cultivated with soy has reached 19 million hectares, representing 56 percent of Argentina's cultivated land. 98 percent of Argentina's soybean production is genetically modified.

190 million litres of glyphosate (the active agent in Roundup) are sprayed in Argentina annually, which is leading to not only illness among the population but to widespread deforestation, as trees are among the victims these herbicides leave in their wake of destruction.

Soya burgers are a staple of today's Argentinian diet. Argentinian children were consuming so much genetically engineered soy that they began developing breasts from the estrogenic effects, before authorities stepped in with warnings. Studies also strongly suggest that the glyphosate that these crops are doused with can cause cancer and birth deformities; both of which are occurring at increasing rates in areas where spraying is done. Sterility and miscarriages are also increasing. Experts warn that in 10 to 15 years, rates of cancer, infertility and endocrine dysfunction could reach catastrophic levels in Argentina. But few people are listening.

"It's Food for Today, Hunger and Cancer for Tomorrow"

The immediate symptoms are always the same for Argentinian bystanders in the spray zone: dizziness, allergic reactions and itching, mouth swelling, and general malaise that's similar to the feeling of coming down with the flu. People are warned to stay inside when spraying is underway, but they report getting sick in spite of this confinement.

When those affected visit their physicians, they're told it's "all in their heads." Authorities also turn a deaf ear—as does the government when it's presented with scientific evidence of the dangerous effects of Monsanto's products for their people and environment. Fortunately, increasing numbers of scientists are now starting to speak out. For example, the engineers' school in Santiago del Estero announced that chemicals are causing 100 babies to be born with deformities every year. One of the most influential studies was conducted by one of Argentina's leading scientists, Andres Carrasco, who works in Argentina's Ministry of Science.

Andrés Carrasco Attacked for Exposing the Truth

Embryonic specialist Andres Carrasco decided to investigate the health effects of glyphosate for himself after hearing so many reports by desperate peasant and indigenous communities who were suffering from exposure to toxic herbicides. According to Dr. Carrasco, his studies show glyphosate exposure can cause defects in the brain, intestines, and hearts of amphibian fetuses, and these results can be applied to humans. Moreover, the amount of Roundup used on genetically engineered soy fields was as much as 1,500 times greater than that which created the defects.

According to an article in Grain, the biotech industry "mounted an unprecedented attack on Carrasco, ridiculing his research and even issuing personal threats." In addition, four men arrived unannounced at his laboratory and were extremely aggressive, attempting to interrogate Carrasco and obtain details of his study.

"It was a violent, disproportionate, dirty reaction," he said. "I hadn't even discovered anything new, only confirmed conclusions that others had reached."

The conclusions to which Carrasco is referring are those from independent researchers who have found strong evidence glyphosate causes the following:

Carrasco's and others' work point to the fact that the public, in Argentina and elsewhere, is being subject to a massive biological experiment involving the effects of genetic manipulation of the food supply. Genetically engineered food products have NEVER been tested for safety—so the long-term effects are largely unknown. The warnings science has provided demand a thorough investigation into just how much glyphosate human beings and animals can safely ingest. At present, no such investigation has taken place, and most regulatory agencies choose instead to rely in industry studies claiming glyphosate is safe.

End OS21033

Steven Books

League Enterprises (SB)
27. Old Gloucester Street
London WC1N 3XX

For books by identity authors –
Kenneth McKilliam, Ria Splinter and Richard Porter plus many other subjects and difficult to obtain books.

<http://www.stevenbooks.co.uk/category/341/Religion>

I Am A Racist

From Our Suffolk Correspondent

A South African artist called Brett Murray has been causing a huge stir since his painting of South Africa's president titled The Spear was put up in a local gallery. The ANC have worked themselves up into a total frothy about the painting and their biggest issue with it - It's racist. ???????

Disrespectful, maybe. Rude, maybe. But racist???

That little word that has become the political whip with which the ANC work the masses up into angry mobs and riots anytime something happens that they don't like. And it's becoming really really tiring.

In South Africa, the word racist has lost its original meaning and now only get's used to describe a white person doing something a black person doesn't like. You never hear it used in any other context. You can't say to a black CEO that he is racist because he won't hire white people, no - he's just making sure that only blacks get hired because of BEE. You can't call a university racist because they won't accept an application from a white student with straight A's for 8 subjects - instead taking on a black student who barely passed matric. Nope, they're not racist, they're just correcting the wrongs of the past. But god forbid you do hire the white person or you do admit the white student, you'll be branded racist by the government quicker that you can say "colour shouldn't be the issue here" because how dare you choose a white person over a black person in a democratic South Africa.

Most of the time when you are a white person and you call your fellow countrymen to be held accountable for their unacceptable words and actions such as corruption, nepotism, fraud, theft, you'll be branded a racist.

Today, I shouted at a taxi driver who pushed in-front of me nearly driving me into the curb with no regard for the fact that I have a child in the car - I must be a racist, because only racists care about road safety it would seem.

I complained to the manager of my bank because the woman handling my account is so incompetent and hasn't responded to one email or message I've left her for over 2 months! Nevermind that my account is about to be shut down because of FICA. I must be a racist then because only racists expect service from a bank and stupidly think an organisation is going to actually do the job they promise to do in all their marketing material.

The other day my husband confronted a woman outside a shopping centre after she carelessly threw her fast food packet on the floor less than 10cm from a dustbin. Her response - "you're just a racist". Yes, you're absolutely right, because only racists care about keeping their city clean and litter free.

I fired a lady who worked for me once because I caught her rummaging through one of my cupboards and she had taken my passport and other belongings which I found in her bag. Her only response - "you're a racist". Yes, yes I am. Because only racists think that stealing is a criminal offence and is done by people with no morals or conscience.

I swear being a white person in this country can be very bloody exasperating at times. The ANC has brainwashed the masses with this little word - racist - to the point that it's actually completely lost its meaning and now get's used totally out of context. Most days I just let it pass and I don't go into effect of it. But today is not one of those days. Today I'm angry and today I'm sick and tired of it.

I'm not shouting at you because you're black, I'm shouting because you're a maniac on the roads who is a danger to society.

I'm not complaining to your manager because you're black. I'm complaining because you're an incompetent moron who is incapable of doing her job properly.

I'm not firing you because you're black. I'm firing you because you're a thief.

I'm not confronting you because your black, I'm shouting at you because you're a messy pig who expects other people to clean up your mess.

Please get over yourselves and move out the way of the remarkably amazing black people who DO take total responsibility and who actually want this country to work for ALL the people who live in it.

If being a racist in this country means that I will stand up for my rights, fight for what is fair and true and hold everyone around me accountable for their words and actions, then I am a racist through and through. If being a racist means that I believe in freedom of speech and expression and that everyone's point of view is relevant, no matter what colour, age or sex, then I will proudly announce to all who can hear that I am a racist. If being a racist means that I believe we should all be treated with the same rules and consequences and that no-one, especially not the President, is above the law and exempt from criminal prosecution when that law has been broken, then print me a t-shirt saying "I am a racist" and I will wear it in the streets. If being a racist means that I will not stand idly by while the few, corrupt pigs in the ANC rape this country for everything they can get with no regard for the poor and the homeless and the uneducated, then I'll get I'm a racist tattooed on my back.

Mr Zuma and the ANC - you need to get a different vocabulary. Instead of shouting at someone like Brett Murray about a painting being offensive, maybe you should be asking yourselves why he painted it in the first place. Instead of wanting to take Zapiro to court every time he depicts the president & his shower head in one of his cartoons, why don't you stop to realise that there is truth in everything he draws and that your angry responses are really due to the fact that he keeps hitting a nerve that's a little too close to home.

Maybe, Mr Zuma, it's time to take a long, hard look in the mirror. If you were honest with yourself you'd see that people actually have very little respect for you because you have lied and cheated your way through your Presidency. You have been involved with more seedy, corrupt criminals than Horatio Cane and you have abused funds for personal gain. You have raped, lied, stolen, protected evil men and weezled your way out of prosecution and you wonder why people continue to take the piss out of you in the media and treat you with utter contempt. Even the great Oliver Tambo's daughter doesn't think much of you based on what she had to say about the painting: "He should inspire the reverence he craves. This portrait is what he inspired"

You Mr Zuma and your ANC are a bunch of CANTS!

CAN'T let go of the past

CAN'T operate in your life without breaking the rules

CAN'T find your integrity with a map and a flashlight and a tour guide (unless you pay them off).

CAN'T treat women with any kind of respect

CAN'T obey the laws of this country

CAN'T stop operating from a place of revenge and hate for what's happened in the past

CAN'T find a way forward with no agenda or payoff

CAN'T stop putting family members in government positions for which they are not qualified

CAN'T stop the out of control corruption that is rife throughout every government department

CAN'T stop getting involved in shady, underhanded deals

CAN'T seem to get the education right in this country

CAN'T say goodbye of Affirmative Action and BEE which is ruining businesses across this land

But what do I know?

I'm just a white girl talking about a black man.

I must be a racist

The End

Letters & Views

THE ROYAL ASSENT

Sir, From what I can find the government has automatic consent. They would normally sign any act into law in front of parliament and the house of lords . So I presume she gives a nod they pass it. I also found she refused to give assent to an Iraq war inquiry. Its seems to me they are doing what they like

The Act was repealed by section 2(2) of the Royal Assent Act 1967,[6] which however preserved the Commissioners' role.

This Act was repealed for the Republic of Ireland by sections 2(1) and 3(1) of, and Part 2 of Schedule 2 to, the Statute Law Revision Act 2007.

In 1999, Queen Elizabeth II, acting on the advice of the government, refused to signify her consent to hearing of the Military Action Against Iraq (Parliamentary Approval) Bill, which sought to transfer from the monarch to Parliament the power to authorize military strikes against Iraq. Due to the Crown's refusal to consent to the bill's hearing, it was automatically dropped.

In 1998, Palace of Westminster (Removal of Crown Immunity) Bill was unable to progress because Queen's consent had not been given.

In 1990, Reform of the House of Lords Bill was unable to progress because Queen's consent had not been given.

The Military Action Against Iraq (Parliamentary Approval) Bill was a private member's bill introduced into the United Kingdom House of Commons by Tam Dalyell MP under the Ten Minute Rule. It received its formal first reading on 26 January 1999. The bill sought to transfer the power to authorise military strikes against Iraq from the monarch to Parliament. The long title of the bill was a Bill to require the prior approval, by a simple majority of the House of Commons, of military action by United Kingdom forces against Iraq. It was presented by Tam Dalyell and supported by Tony Benn, Harry Cohen, Jeremy Corbyn, George Galloway, Neil Gerrard, Dr Ian Gibson, John McAllion, Alice Mahon, Robert Marshall-Andrews, Dennis Skinner and Audrey Wise. The bill became Bill 35 in the 1998/1999 Parliamentary session, and was initially scheduled for second reading on 16 April 1999. As a bill modifying the monarch's prerogative powers, the Queen's consent was required before it could be debated in Parliament. This is an instance of one situation in which more direct monarchical assent than the rather technical Royal Assent is required for a bill to become an Act of Parliament.

The Queen, acting upon the advice of her government, refused to grant her consent for the introduction of the bill. The second reading was initially postponed from 16 April until 23 July 1999. Due to the Crown's continuing refusal to signify its consent to the bill, it could not receive its second reading on 23 July 1999. In the absence of a request for a further postponement, the bill was automatically dropped before it obtained its second reading.

When military action against Iraq was eventually organised in 2003, the government sought Parliamentary approval on 18 March 2003, one day before the invasion began, although no powers under the royal prerogative were thereby transferred to Parliament. John Knight

E. U. Referendum

Sir,---It is understandable why few people are aware of Britain's real situation being managed over our heads. The national media assertively conceal the truth about Government activities and we have to watch TV's "Russia Today" to learn what is actually going on. Our politicians work to their own secret agenda controlled by EU and Bilderberg influence but we are allowed the hint of an EU Referendum.

Do not believe for one moment that it would be fair. Any referendum offered will be confusingly worded, will not offer a straight "In" or "Out" choice and no matter what we vote for, the answer will be a resounding "Yes" to the EU.

The second Irish Referendum on the Lisbon Treaty is a case in point. It was as much a clear “No” vote as the first yet the apparent result was an unqualified “Yes” to the Treaty when the people had actually voted “No”. Our political system is corrupt.

And do not think that voting in a referendum is acceptable. Britain's EU membership has been illegal ever since Heath betrayed us into European domination under the pretence of the common market agreement. Those who vote in any EU referendum will be breaking British law and their votes will thus be unlawful. Yours faithfully, Rex Poulton

The Privy Council & The Royal Assent

Sir—All concerned have been duped for many, many years. It is understandable that there are so many anti royalists, as there has been so much legislation passed in her name that is unconstitutional, however, that is because for several years the Queen has in fact been a prisoner within her own realm, ever since the Treaty of Amsterdam was signed unlawfully in 1998.

There is a long history of these Treasons by both the Privy Council and unwittingly by Parliament right back to Queen Victoria. All is fully documented in Hansard.

1) Victoria taking refuge at Osborne House reneged on her sworn oath, and gave the Royal Assent into the keeping of the Privy Council to act on her behalf. They then signed the Treaty of Heligoland 1895.

2) George 5th. Was so supportive of the Constitution and his sworn oath of Allegiance to his subjects, that he was a problem to the Privy Council as he maintained the Royal assent, but as he became ill near the end of his reign, he again gave parliament his assent to act on his behalf.

3) Edward 8th. too busy chasing other men's wives in illicit relationships, informed parliament that he would be out of Britain so often, that he would be unavailable to give his assent to legislation and again handed the assent to parliament.

4) George 6th., unprepared for Monarchy, and suffering from cancer, finally due to adverse health, gave the Assent into the keeping of Parliament in 1939.

Upon his death in 1952, parliament still retained this Royal Assent, and it wasn't given back to Elizabeth 2nd until her Coronation.

Whilst during these years of unrivalled power of holding the Assent, parliament subscribed to a great many Treasons, most notably the signing of The United Nations Charter in 1946, which in clause 46, states that the U.N., at its discretion, can suppress and suspend the Laws, Customs and usages of all member states, and fact is that since then, Britain has been under continuous Emergency powers, and robbed blind in the process.

Now that the Diamond Jubilee has ended, the country as a whole should rise up and free the Queen from her enforced confinement and allow her to honour her Coronation oath to us, and bring parliament and the Privy Council to account before A Common Law Court of Record, and suitable punishment. Regards, John Bennett

Modern Art

Dear Sir—Your readers might be interested in this enclosed article I came across in the British Lion (June 1929) on Communist art, which we know is Jewish, and how in fact it is an attack on our culture. How shocked would the readers of that time be, if they could see the penetration of this perverse art and architecture in 2012! Yours faithfully, H. Oliver, Tynault.

BOLSHEVISM IN ART By Frank Leslie

MUCH has been written; and no doubt much has been done by the authorities to stem the flow of Bolshevik propoganda in this country. But while danger from that direction is always likely, there is a form of Bolshevism far more insidious in our midst. Its dangers are multiple and it is, unless curbed in time, inevitably going to affect the morale and even the religious element of the nation. It faces us on all sides, our architecture, our sculpture, our so-called modern school of painting, our and even our poetry are tainted with its germs.

In architecture we have had some of our finest old buildings razed to make way for massive prison-like structures entirely devoid of any artistic merit and solely constructed for the ready realisation of capital, and square and hideous they stand, an eyesore to those who knew London in better days. In one or two cases some pretence at artistic effect has been attempted and a barbaric form of sculpture has been introduced. And here is Bolshevism in art with a vengeance.

Sir William Arbuthnot Lane recently took exception to one sculptor's conception of a big toe and; in spite of what the remarks may have been by other sculptors, Sir William was thoroughly justified. Mr Reid Dick is reported to have said "he ought to mind his own business. Mr. Reid Dick evidently forgets that when the sculptor's work is completed to his satisfaction and publicly exhibited, then it is certainly intended for public criticism; otherwise why should he exhibit at all? In many instances it would be a kindness to his fellow men if the sculptor kept his precious "creation" in his cellar. Mr. Jacob Epstein also appeared in this controversy with the statement that "the modern sculptor is not a copyist." In his case this is certainly so, but if he is executing a bust from life, is he going to create a phantasy of his own imagination and label it with the name of his model? A Portrait from life must be as much a copy, or it is supposed to be, as the negative form a camera can produce. Of course, if Mr. Epstein means by his "creations" such absurdities as his "Rima" in Hyde Park, and the allegorical monstrosities on one of our latest architectural freaks, then we can thank Providence that he is not a Pygmalion!

When one looks at some of the latest eyesores erected at the most prominent positions in the Metropolitan area, one cannot help thinking that, whatever the sculptor's ideas of creation "may be a little study of "Duval's Artistic Anatomy" would not be amiss; even to a toe!

Leaving sculpture, let us look at modern painting. There we find the same insidious bolshevism obtruding itself upon an inoffensive public. If a protest is raised, it is met by insult, or the lack of intelligence to appreciate is suggested.

There is only one reflection, and it is tragic enough—that, with the advance of this so-called progress, physical energy will suffer, and the eyesight of the future generation (already a matter for serious consideration) will have deteriorated' to such an extent that they have the satisfaction of being unable to see the inflictions their forebears had to endure. Here a suggestion offers itself. Could not a room at the Tate Gallery be set apart for its gruesome and Bolshevik productions and ticketed "The Chamber of Horrors"? Thus the memory of art could be respected and visitors with a sense of clean and honest work be spared from this vicious form of exhibit. So also with music. Enough has been already written about jazz! The only conclusion we can come to is that, if the public really want it, it is a proof of degeneration. The very Negro disclaims it, and also what are described as "Negro Spirituals," than which no more blasphemous productions could be performed. Their place may be all right in the plantations; but to an audience with pretensions to enlightenment, they are nauseous.

Nor are some of the present "high-brow" conceptions much better when one listens to the mad emanations of a Stravinsky,

All considered; there is no doubt that a vile form of Bolshevism in art does exist, and the only means to counter the evil is to appoint a strict censorship. The outrageous abuse of the cinema necessitated intervention and a censorship was established and it is high time that the authorities dealt in a like manner with this so called Modern Art.

Archbishop of Canterbury

Sir—, I thought your readers might be interested in a letter that I sent to the Archbishop of Canterbury, with a letter of mine which was published in the New Ensign recently regarding court procedure .

My Lord Archbishop,

The letter attached was in an Internet magazine I receive monthly and caused me to ponder long and hard.

That rousing hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers" tells us that every member of any Christian church is a member of the Christian army and we all know who the commanding officer is! Who has given us certain orders, and in any disciplined body, such as a ship at sea, orders have to be obeyed, else chaos results.

Swearing is common in courts of law and elsewhere, such as the Freemasons in their amateur theatricals, taking horrendous oaths without an audience. We read in Martin Short's book; "Inside The Brotherhood", which tells of an interview with a 32° Freemason who had left the Masons to become a Christian.

While all this is going on, this disobedience to the Lord's order (your Grace may find others!) We cannot be described as a Christian nation. A most serious situation!

As the senior ecclesiastic in England may I suggest that you confer with the moderator of the Church of Scotland so that a conference may be held for all heads the Christian churches in our land, including the Unitarians and Roman Catholics (who have apologized for the Smithfield Martyrs etc.) so that this evil may be rectified. Yours truly, Duncan M Henderson.

Europe At A Crucial Crossroad

Sir—, In the following extract from an article by Jeff Nielson explains that the banks are artificially creating the European crisis to enslave all of Europe and seize all European gold reserves. They are doing this through the mechanism of Credit Default Swaps to raise or lower interest rates on bonds and, therefore, make or break individual states. As confirmation note, as Nielson points out, that Germany, France and the UK actually have a higher ratio of debt to GDP than Spain which is currently in the cross-hairs. TL

Nearly two and a half years ago, I first began warning readers of the "economic terrorism" which Wall Street had unleashed upon Europe – via the fraudulent manipulation of credit default swaps, and equally fraudulent "ratings cuts" from their accomplices, the ratings agencies. At a time when only Greece had begun to experience financial turmoil, I wrote:

...It will be even more interesting to see what happens next. If the CDS [credit default swap] spreads now begin to "mysteriously" widen for Spain, Portugal, and perhaps other EU members, this will signal that these financial psychopaths are going to continue to simply nuke one vulnerable economy after another.

In fact this is precisely what we have seen transpire. As this made-in-Wall-Street financial holocaust intensified, roughly one year ago I wrote a four-part series ("Economic Rape of Europe Nearly Complete") where I first explained what had already taken place, and then detailed what was to come.

In Part II of that series, noting how the banking cabal was lusting for the remaining gold reserves of Europe's debtor-governments; I predicted that part of this "rape" of Europe would be to use these fraudulent bond debts as a pretext for confiscating these nations' gold. One week ago, UK's The Telegraph published the article "Europe's debtors must pawn their gold For Eurobond Redemption", where it wrote:

...Southern Europe's debtor states must pledge their gold reserves and national treasure as collateral under a €2.3 trillion stabilisation plan gaining momentum in Germany.

In Part III of this series I wrote:

...The Oligarchs thus have one more necessary step to irrevocably cement this campaign of economic slavery: the full, economic integration of all Euro-zone economies.

Can the Greek people free themselves from their economic slavery? Can they elect a government which will actually represent the people (instead of bankers and Bond Parasites)? Will they be allowed to do so?

If the Greek people can successfully restore democracy to their nation, and follow in the path of Iceland – despite the much more hellish road the Greek people have been forced to take – then this will mark a crushing defeat for the financial fascism which Wall Street has envisaged for (first) Europe. On the other hand, if Greece (and its people) are successfully bludgeoned into remaining economic slaves, then the future looks very bleak indeed for the rest of the population of Europe. Yours truly RP

Lincolnshire Police

Sir,—Some of you may be interested to know that since an email I sent a few months ago regarding Lincolnshire Police being privatised by security firm G4S, news today by the local British Brain-washing Corporation is that security firm G4S have been asked (by whom?) to make savings. Apparently 500 police jobs were transferred over to the ownership of G4S on 1st April this year. Up to 60 jobs are to go before the end of the year. So there you have it as we all know what happens with privatisation. The Police Force is no more in Lincolnshire and as far as i'm concerned should not be respected by the public, until it returns to what it should be, that is unless decent Police Men/Women make a strong stand NOW. This probably explains why the Chief Constable Richard Crompton retired and other placemen refuse to act on our Treason allegations.

"Police" given more surveillance powers

I am sure many on this distribution are already under surveillance, however, did you note that Tax Inspectors can also get permission to access your details? Note Jeffersons words below!

Leverson Enquiry

Camermoron in the news today giving "evidence." This constant news (as well as Syrian misrepresentation) by the controlled media is just all smoke and mirrors and the likes of Camermoron are just acting their part. The real reason for this is that they are going to use Leversons "solution" (or should that be final solution?) to clamp down even further on those spreading the truth. Also note, according to Russia Today, there is some small print about information being in the public interest (i.e the truth) in a local bill before parliament at the moment that further strengthens this clamp down.

British Military next for Privatisation?

I heard yesterday that The British Army has now been reduced down to just 82,000! This is inline with the next British institution ripe for privatisation. You cannot have national armies in the New World Order. Regards, Mike Clayton

"I sincerely believe the banking institutions having the issuing power of money, are more dangerous to liberty than standing armies."
(Thomas Jefferson)

The Synagogue of Satan
Now expanded, updated and uncensored with the Protocols now included:

In The Name of Yahweh
Now with an index

Both books now available in Kindle and paperback from:

www.amazon.co.uk/

Or

www.andrewcarringtonhitchcock.com

Christian Identity Radio Broadcasts

Yahweh's Covenant People

"In Isaac shall thy seed be called" (Gen. 21:12)

The Regathering of True Israel

In The New JerUSAlem (Not to be confused with "Jews.")

"For my sword shall be bathed in heaven: behold, it shall come down upon Idumea, and upon the people of my curse, to judgment." Isaiah 34:5

Saturday nights, 8 ET (Sunday 1am BST)

www.talkshoe.com/tc/21924

The Voice of Christian Israel

Pastor Eli James

The Regathering of true Israel

The New JerUSAlem

"My eyes have seen your salvation .. the glory of your people, ISRAEL."
(Not to be confused with "Jews").

www.anglo-saxonisrael.com

The Voice of Christian Israel, Sundays, Noon ET (5 pm BST)

A wide range of Literature and rare book reprints in hard copy, reasonably priced, now available from the Christ's Assembly web site:

<http://christsassembly.com/literature.htm>

THE A journal for moral thinking people

FLAME

ISSUE 32
50p (non-UK) 50p (UK)
ISSN: 1060-1184

1 Copy: Send 3 x 2nd Class Stamps

5 Copies: Send 3 x Large Letter 2nd class stamps

P.O. Box 274,
Hemel Hempstead,
Herts HP3 9EQ
Tel: 07984 775937
www.theflameuk.com
Tel. No. 07984 775937

TalkShoe

The Kingdom Message

Rev. Stephen Michael

Saturdays 10am (est) 3pm (gmt)

<http://www.talkshoe.com/talkshoe/web/talkCast.jsp?masterId=73940&cmd=tc>

Announcements

The Christian Defence League

New Christian Crusade Church
PO Box 25
Mandeville, LA 70470. USA.
Tel. No. +1 6017498565

The Chronicles Of The Migrations Of The Twelve Tribes Of Israel From The Caucasus Mountains Into Europe

By
Pastor Eli James

The above PowerPoint presentation is available at Pastor Eli's website:

www.anglo-saxonisrael.com

Parts 1 - 6 plus a short introduction can now be viewed or downloaded - the latest addition part 6 covers the German people in relation to the migrations of the Tribes of Israel.

The New Ensign Can be contacted by e-mail

thenewensign@gmail.com

Previous Issues are archived at newensign.christsassembly.com

GERMANY'S OWN IDENTITY MAGAZINE

CONTACT

pia-6@t-online.de

Für unsere deutschen Leser

Weitere Informationen aus den Autor: thesynagogueofsatan@hotmail.com