Dear Readers,

Are We in or Approaching Armageddon - Time to Take Stock

Last February was a relatively quite month as far as enemy action is concerned, except for the recent false flag train crash in Ohio USA and the man made earthquake in Turkey and affecting Syria also.

This is a small measure of good news, for it indicates the Globalists plans did not go as well as expected, and are now falling back to plan B.

There has been a huge backlash from the great harm caused by the jabs. Following a princess of the Thai royal family, who after receiving the shot, went into a comma. This being blamed on a brain bacterial infection of the brain. The Thai royals found it was a vaccine side affect. This will be a huge cost to the manufacturers of the covid vaccines, when their contract with Thailand is declared null and void.

Psychological warfare is now being used to deaden peoples minds to the terrible harm caused by the state by allowing articles on the medical harm to appear in the MSM such as GB News and even the Daily Mail.

Globalists through their media, have now taken the focus off the Ukraine NATO proxy war to the Middle East and India.

The enemy's irrational belief that if they let us know in advance whether it be through films or other MSM outlets, albeit in code without objection, where silence is counted as consent.

The recent Ohio train crash is an example, a film depicting such a disaster was made only a year before the real event. This indicates that their plans are not going to schedule. Hence the reduced time between film and event.

Most consider war as a nation fighting another nation with soldiers and ammo., But since WWI, this has not been the case, because our Edomite enemy, has gained control of the levers of power, and is now using this power to eradicate the White race. We are now in a hybrid war where every thing the state controls is used against us, most notably the health service. WWI, 2 & 3 can be considered as 3 phases of one war to gain control of the whole world. We await the great day of Yahweh, the final battle of Armageddon when He will be the victor. May that Day come soon-Praise Yahweh!!

Nachash and Eve; Disraeli and Victoria

THE CORRUPTION OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE ACCELERATED DURING THE REIGN OF QUEEN VICTORIA. Her friendship with Benjamin Disraeli, a viper Jew if there ever was one, led to his becoming Prime Minister. History remembers Disraeli as “the father of British Imperialism.”

The British Empire built itself up during the era of colonialism. In a classic episode of Jewish flattery, Disraeli talked Victoria into declaring herself “Empress of India.” He also arranged for major loans to be made to Victoria’s Britain through the Rothschilds.

As Prime Minister, Disraeli advised Victoria to persecute the Boers of South Africa, although Britain had no right, morally or politically, to attack the Boers.

This was pure genocide on behalf of the High Jew who wanted to get his hands on the diamonds that were discovered there. As such, Disraeli is a classic example of the Serpent whispering in Eve’s ear, giving her deceptive counsel and leading her astray.

The corruption of the British Empire under the influence of Disraeli and the Rothschilds led Freidrich Nietzsche to say of the British, “The greatest export of the British Empire is cant.” Cant is hypocritical speech. “Beware the leaven of the Pharisees, which is hypocrisy.” -- Luke 12:1.

You can see, today, how America has been corrupted in the same way. George Bush’s use of the word ‘democracy’ is hypocrisy without clothes, yet the people do not have eyes to see his nakedness. The American people are dumb enough to believe that we invaded Afghanistan and Iraq to “protect America.” If you do not understand that the real reason we are in Iraq is to protect the Jews and the imperialistic designs of the Serpent seed, then you don’t understand anything.

Clearly the enmity spoken of in the Garden is fiercely evident in today’s politics.

Conclusion

One of the charges levelled against us by the anti-seedliners is that we quote the Talmud where the rabbis teach that Eve was seduced by the angel, Sammael, and that we are thus promoting Talmudic teaching.

However, it must be realized that when the rabbis teach that Eve was seduced by Sammael, they do so posturing as Israel and Judah, so they are definitely not implicating themselves.

The Jews teach that the Arabs and Palestinians are Edom, although they avoid discussion of the seedlines because that discussion reveals the racial exclusivity of True Israel, a subject they won’t touch with a ten foot pole.

It is also a fact that the Aramaic Targums, which are Judahite, not Jewish, literature, teach the same thing; and it is also true that Book of Enoch and the Early Church Fathers also taught that Eve was sexually seduced, so, you might say, we are in good and bad company. (These facts will be demonstrated in Part 7).

In any case, any statement must be evaluated on its factual merits, not on who made the statement. Obviously, if the speaker is a known liar, the statement will be treated with caution; but that alone does not make any statement false.

The blanket statement by the anti-seedliners that “everything the Jews teach is false” is an oversimplification. It is not true that everything the Jews teach is false.

A sophisticated liar has to tell some truths in order to suck in his victims. Like baiting a hook, he must tell the truth up to the point where you will bite, otherwise he will not collect very many victims.

It is not true that everything the rabbi says is false. The proper way of expressing Jewish deception is this: Everything a rabbi says is calculated to deceive. This is subtle craft, par excellence! In order to tell a convincing story, he has to be believable. Once he has assured himself that you have been duped, then he exploits you.

I believe that the future of Christian Identity will be determined by the resolution and outcome of this bloodline dispute. I believe that the evidence presented here demonstrates that the seedline teaching stands on very solid ground (metaphorically speaking!).

How can we obey God’s command to be exclusive if we engage in race-mixing? If we are His Chosen People, then we are to stay close to Him by following His commandment to keep our seed pure. Otherwise, we would be doing exactly as the Jews do.

Their exclusivity is purely cultural. By the way, anti-Seedliners, the Jews also claim to be morally exclusive! Their exclusivity is Talmudic. The Jews are a racially indistinct group that adheres to a particular religious doctrine. By denying Two-Seedline, the anti-seedliners are advocating a system that resembles, without (Yahweh’s demanded) racial exclusivity, Talmudic Judaism! How’s them apples?

The Bible is the record of what happens to us when we mix with other races: Our Religion Becomes Corrupted! The Bible puts it this way: If we do not remain racially and culturally distinct as a people, We Follow after Other Gods! But we are His People, and no one else but the Anglo-Saxon, Celtic and Caucasian peoples! We are His offspring!

Without realizing it, Jones, Weiland, Weisman and company are minimizing the very thing that the Bible tells us will destroy us!

By taking racial exclusivity out of our religion, we become, unfortunately, just like everybody else. And the anti-seedliners just don’t get it.

“Has not the one God made and sustained for us the spirit of life? And what does he desire? Godly offspring. So take heed to yourselves, and let none be faithless to the wife of his youth.” (Malachi 2:15)

Do you still think that the seedlines don’t matter? The Bible is clearly telling us that there are Godly offspring and ungodly offspring! Just think about the quality of your blood...and the future of your children.

Old Testament

“Word for Word” Exodus Part 14

Translation by Stephen Howard Anderson

Chapter 18

1. When heard Yithro, the priest of Midyan, father-in-law of Mosheh, of all that had done Elohiym for Mosheh, and for Yisrael His people, and that had brought Yahweh Yisrael out of Mits'rayim;
2. Then took Yithro, father-in-law of Mosheh, Tsipporah, wife of Mosheh, after he had sent her back,

3. and her two sons; of which the name of the one was Gershom; for said he, "I have been a sojourner 1616 in a land of racial aliens 5237.

4. And the name of the other was Eliyezer 461; for Elohey 430 my father was my help 5828, and delivered me from the sword of Par'oh:

5. and came Yithro, father-in-law of Mosheh, with his sons and his wife to Mosheh in the wilderness, where he encamped at the mountain of Elohiym:

6. and said he to Mosheh, "I your father-in-law Yithro am come to you, and your wife, and her two sons with her."

7. And went forth Mosheh to meet his father-in-law, and bowed down, and kissed him; and they asked each other of their welfare; and they came into the tent.

8. And told Mosheh his father-in-law all that Yahweh had done to Par'oh and to Mits'rayim for the sake of Yisrael, and all the travail 8513 that had come upon them by the way, and how had delivered Yahweh them.

9. And rejoiced Yithro because of all the goodness which had done Yahweh to Yisrael, whom delivered He from the hand of the Mits'rayim.

10. And said Yithro, "Blessed be Yahweh, who has delivered you from the hand of the Mits'rayim, and from the hand of Par'oh, who has delivered the people from under the hand of the Mits'rayim.

11. Now know I that Yahweh is greater than all the elohiym 430: because in the thing where they dealt proudly 2102 He was above them."

12. And took Yithro, father-in-law of Mosheh, a burnt offering and sacrifices for Elohiym: and came Aharon, and all the elders of Yisrael, to eat bread with the father-in-law of Mosheh in the presence of Elohiym.

13. And it came to be the day next, that sat Mosheh to judge the people: and stood by Mosheh the people from the morning unto the sunset.

14. And when saw the father-in-law of Mosheh all that he did for the people, said he, "What is this thing that you do for the people? Why sit you alone, and stand all the people by you from morning till sunset?"

15. And said Mosheh to his father-in-law, "Because come the people to me to inquire 1875 of Elohiym:

16. when they have a matter, come they to me, and judge I between one and another, and make known I the statutes of Elohiym, and His Torothayv 8451."

17. And said the father-in-law of Mosheh to him, "The thing that you do is not good.

18. You will surely wear away 5034, both you, and this people that are with you: because too heavy 3515 is this thing for you; you are not able to do it by yourself alone.

19. Listen to my voice, I will give you counsel 3289, and Elohiym shall be with you: you must be in front 4136 of Elohiym for the people, so that you may bring the matters to Elohiym:

20. and you shall teach 2094 them ordinances and laws, and shall make them know the way they must walk in, and the work that they must do.

21. And also you shall provide 2372 from all the people able 2428 men, that fear 3373 Elohiym, men of truth 571, hating covetousness 1215, and place such over them, to be captains 8269 of thousands, captains of hundreds, captains of fifties, captains of tens:

22. and let them judge the people at all times 6256: and it shall be that all great matters they shall bring to you, but every small matter they shall judge: so it shall be easier for you, and they shall bear the burden with you.

23. If you shall do this thing, and Elohiym command you so, then you shall be able to endure, and all these people shall go to their place in peace."

24. So listened Mosheh to the voice of his father-in-law, and did all that he had said.

25. And chose Mosheh able men out of all Yisrael, and made them heads 7218 over the people, captains of thousands, captains of hundreds, captains of fifties, and captains of tens.

26. And they judged the people at all times: the hard 7186 causes they brought to Mosheh, but every small matter they judged themselves.

27. And let Mosheh his father-in-law depart; and went he his own way into his own land.

Chapter 18 Notes

Yithro is a title, meaning "his excellence", as Reuel (his name) was a priest in Midyan, and a magistrate of some sort.

Verse 2,3 - Ex. 2:21,22

Verse 3 - Acts 7:29; Gereshom is an offshoot of the word ger (sojourner) 1616. The word "strange" in the KJV is not correct for 5237, nor for 1616. 5237 is nach'riyyah, coming from nachriy, which carries the meaning of alien, as one not of your family or racial stock. It can carry the meaning of "foreign".

Chapter 19

1. In the month third, when the children of Yisrael were gone out of the land of Mitsrayim, the same day they came into the wilderness of Siynay.

2. They had departed from Rephiydiym, and had come to the wilderness of Siynay, and encamped in the wilderness; and encamped Yisrael before the mountain,

3. and Mosheh went up to Elohiym, and called Yahweh to him out of the mountain, saying, "So speak to the House of Yaaqob, and tell the children of Yisrael;

4. 'You have seen what I did to the Mitsrayim, and how I bore you on wings 3671 of eagles 5404, and brought you to Me.

5. Therefore, if 518 you will indeed obey My voice, and keep My Covenant, then you shall be a treasured possession 5459 to Me, above all 4480/3605 people: because all the land is Mine:

6. and you shall be to Me a kingdom of priests 3548, and a set-apart 6918 nation.' These are the words that you shall speak to the children of Yisrael."

7. Came Mosheh and called for the elders of the people, and brought before them all these words which had commanded him Yahweh.

8. And answered all the people together, and said, "All that has spoken Yahweh will we do."

And returned Mosheh what had spoken the people to Yahweh.

9. And said Yahweh to Mosheh, "Lo, come I to you in a thick 5645 cloud 6051, so may hear the people when speak I to you, and believe you forever." And told Mosheh the words of the people to Yahweh.

10. And said Yahweh to Mosheh, "Go to the people, and sanctify 6942 them today and tomorrow, and let them wash their clothes,

11. and become ready for the day third: for on the day third will come down Yahweh in the sight of all the people on Mount Siynay.

12. Set bounds 1379 for the people all around, saying, 'Take heed to yourselves, so that you do not go up the mountain, or touch the border 7097 of it: whosoever touches the mountain shall surely be put to death:'

13. There shall not a hand touch it, but he shall surely be stoned 5619, or shot through 3384; whether it be beast 929 or man 376, he shall not live: when sounds out long 4900 the ram's horn 3104 they shall come up to the mountain."

14. And went down Mosheh from the mountain to the people, and sanctified the people; and they washed their clothes.

15. And said he to the people, "Be ready for the day third: come not at your wives."

16. And it came to be on the day third in the morning, that there were thunders 6963 and lightnings 1300, and a thick cloud upon the mountain, and the sound 6963 of the shophar 7782 exceedingly 3966 strong 2389; so that all the people that were in the camp trembled 2729.

17. Brought forth Mosheh the people out of the camp to meet with Elohiym; and they stood at the back part of the mountain.

18. And Mount Siynay was altogether on a smoke 6225, because the presence of Yahweh descended 3381 upon it in fire 784: and the smoke 6227 of it ascended 5927 as the smoke of a furnace 3536, and the whole mountain quaked 2729 greatly.

19. And when sounded long 1980 the sound of the shophar, and grew exceedingly strong 2388, spoke Mosheh, and answered him Elohiym by a voice.

20. And came down Yahweh upon Mount Siynay, on the top of the Mount; and went up Mosheh.

21. And said Yahweh to Mosheh, "Go down, warn 5749 the people, lest they break through 2040 to gaze, and many of them fall 5307.

22. And let also the priests which approach 5066 Yahweh sanctify themselves, lest Yahweh break forth 6555 upon them."

23. And said Mosheh to Yahweh, "The people cannot come up to Mount Siynay: because You commanded us, saying 'Set bounds around the Mount, and sanctify it.'"

24. And said Yahweh to him, "Away, get you down, and you shall come up, you, and Aharon with you: but do not let the priests and the people break through to come up to Yahweh, lest He break forth upon them."

25. So went down Mosheh to the people, and spoke to them.

Chapter 19 Notes

Yahweh is about to appear to Yisrael, and prepares Mosheh to prepare the people for this event. They are instructed to sanctify themselves, which requires ritual bathing, washing of clothing, and abstention from sexual relations. Mount Siynay was the designated spot, and the very ground was holy. No one but Mosheh had permission to even touch the mountain, upon pain of death.

Verse 5 - Deut. 4:20; 7:6; 14:2; 26:18; Titus 2:14 -

Verses 5,6 - 1 Peter 2:9

Verse 6 - Revelation 1:6; 5:10 -

Verses 12,13 - Hebrews 12:18-20

Verse 13 - It states no HAND shall touch it, neither of beast nor man. What beast has a hand? Two legged non-adamic beasts of burden, that's what kind. The great shophar (ram's horn trumpet) would sound a long blast, and Yahweh would come. He descended upon the mountain in fire, thunder, and lightning. Anyone near this would be killed just by His very presence. That is the reason for the setting of boundaries around the mountain, for the safety of the people. Yahweh was about to give the Ten Words (Ten Commandments) to Mosheh, and everything had to be just right.

Verse 16 -Revelation 4:5

Judaized Christianity: Front for New World Order — Sen. McCarthy By Yvonne Nachtigal

(Sen. Joseph McCarthy (below) was among the first to notice Communist takeover of the US)

Excerpt from a 1956 speech, “George Washington’s Surrender” by Senator Joseph McCarthy (1908-1957.)

And many of the people of the land became Jews.” Esther 9:17.

A YEAR BEFORE HIS DEATH, SEN. JOSEPH MCCARTHY made the connection between Freemasonry, Communism, and Judaism. He cited British General Charles Cornwallis 1781 prophecy of the Masonic (Communist) takeover of America.

“Cornwallis well knew that his military defeat was only the beginning of world catastrophe that would be universal and that unrest would continue until mind control could be accomplished through a false religion.

What he predicted has come to pass. A brief sketch of American religious history and we have seen Masonry infused into every church in America with their veiled Phallic religion. - “Your Churches Will Teach the Jew’s Religion”

“The confession of General Cornwallis to General Washington at Yorktown (Oct. 17, 1781) has been well hidden by historians.

History books and text books have taught for years that when Cornwallis surrendered his army to General Washington that American independence came, and we lived happily ever after until the tribulations of the twentieth century.”

“Jonathan Williams recorded in his “LEGIONS OF SATAN,” 1781, that Cornwallis revealed to Washington that “a holy war will now begin on America, and when it is ended America will be supposedly the citadel of freedom, but her millions will unknowingly be loyal subjects to the Crown.”

Cornwallis went on to explain what would seem a contradiction:

“Your churches will be used to teach the Jew’s religion and in less than two hundred years the whole nation will be working for divine world government. That government that they believe to be divine will be the British Empire.

All religions will be permeated with Judaism without even being noticed by the masses, and they will all be under the invisible all-seeing eye of the Grand Architect of Freemasonry.”

And indeed George Washington himself was a Mason, and he gave back through a false religion what he had won with his army.

“Cornwallis well knew that his military defeat was only the beginning of world catastrophe that would be universal and that unrest would continue until mind control could be accomplished through a false religion. What he predicted has come to pass. A brief sketch of American religious history and we have seen Masonry infused into every church in America with their veiled Phallic religion.

“Darby and the Plymouth Brethren brought a Jewish Christianity to America. Masons Rutherford and Russell started Jehovah Witnesses’ Judaism which is now worldwide with their message of the divine kingdom. Mason Joseph Smith started Mormon Judaism with its Jewish teaching of millennialism.

Millennialism is the belief that there will be a Golden Age or Paradise on Earth in which “Christ will reign” prior to the final judgment and future eternal state (the New Heavens and New Earth). In fact, this will be the rule of the Masonic Jewish (Illuminati) bankers fronted by the Luciferian Anti-Christ. ed. Click HERE

The State Department is infested with communists. I have here in my hand a list of 205—a list of names that were made known to the Secretary of State as being members of the Communist Party and who nevertheless are still working and shaping policy in the State Department.

Joseph McCarthy

At the turn of the twentieth century, there appeared the Scofield Bible with a Jewish interpretation of the prophecies. With the wide use of this “helpful” aid, all the American churches have silently become synagogues. We now have Baptist Jews, Methodist Jews, Church of God Jews, apostate Catholic Jews, and many Protestant Jews throughout America.

We are aliens in our own country because of false religion. All are praying for divine deliverance into that "Divine Government" which Cornwallis knew to be the British Empire.

"A false religion has been used to deceive us into allegiance to our enemies of Yorktown and Bunker Hill. No! Not a gun has been fired but the invisible and malignant process of conquering America with the Jew's religion has gone on unabated.

(Cornwallis, a Freemason, knew the plot)

"The Union Jack has been planted in our hearts with religious deception. All has happened "legally," "constitutionally," "freely" and completely within our most sacred trust — our churches.

Religious deception is a painless inoculation against the truth. It cannot be removed from the conscience with surgery, yet it is the motivator of our actions and directly controls our lives.

"Once man gives over to false religion, he is no longer rational because he originates no thought.

His life is controlled by whoever controls his religion.

"The veil of false religion is the sword of Damocles and its power to control humanity defies even the imagination of tyrants who use it."

"This is not to say that George Washington was a traitor willingly, or knowingly. He was beguiled into a Satanic religious order that insidiously controls men's minds.

So have American statesmen and military leaders down through the years have given aid and allegiance to the enemies of the United States because they did not have knowledge of the invisible subterfuge that stalks this land.

My eyes were opened the day my colleague from Ohio handed me Wagner's "Freemasonry an Interpretation." If every American would read it, they would no longer ask why and how it has happened."

The Hoskins Report (Part 2)

Chapter 323

Babylon is in Three Parts

Arthur

THERE was an upcoming primary for the Democratic Party to select a candidate for State Senate. I liked Arthur (still do), a promising local lawyer. He was tall, well spoken, knowledgeable and he looked like a statesman. However, a long time ago I learned that eyewash and 390 will get you a cup of coffee. So, I gave him a bridge to bum.

America at that time was anti-communist (we were told). The president said he was anti-communist. Everyone in the American government was supposed to be anti-communist. The people in Lynchburg sure were.

I noticed that the Lynchburg super markets were selling canned hams from communist Poland. What were Lynchburg stores doing trading with the enemy?

I asked Arthur to announce that if elected he would work to ban Polish hams. He agreed. Two weeks passed - nothing.

I dropped in to see him and he said that he had talked to the party leaders and that they advised him against it. OK. So, I went to Arthur's opponent, a real vague fellow named Bert who ran an exterminating company. I explained the deal to him.

I don't think Bert could have found Poland with a map. Anyway, his campaign couldn't have been going worse. He agreed to make the announcement - if I would write it up for him.

I wrote it, he signed it, and we sent it the newspaper. They printed it. Bert beat Arthur in the Democratic primary hands down. I learned several things from this. That it's not what a person says, but what he does that is important.

I learned that Arthur was a part of the ruling Babylonian episcopacy. I learned that there were people like Bert who would do whatever would get them elected - his son now in politics - kept there by the black vote. And, I also learned once again that there were powers behind the scene that held "veto power" over what their candidate could or could not do - regardless of what the voters wanted.

Peaksview Park Incident

Twice daily, over the last several years with a few exceptions, I have taken my dogs for walks at Peaksview Park.

My understanding of the city "leash law" is that all dogs at all times must be on leash unless they are under voice restraint. I arrived at this understanding of the city ordinance several different ways.

First, a dog trainer in Lynchburg, whom I respect, told me about it. Another time I was in the park throwing a ball for the dogs when a woman, whom I understood to be in charge of the parks, drove by and commented that my dogs should be on leash. When she saw the dogs responding to my commands she agreed that they were under voice restraint and that everything was all right.

This opinion was also confirmed by people who worked for the humane society and by the Lynchburg Police Department on the two occasions when I called to verify if it was true that dogs could be off-leash if under voice control.

On two occasions, while I was in Peaksview Park, I was reported to the authorities for having my dogs off-leash. Policemen arrived in due time. After I demonstrated that my dogs were under restraint, obedient, and friendly, which the officers confirmed by running hands over them, they announced that they were satisfied and left. This was still another confirmation.

From all this I would assume that in Lynchburg dogs may be off-leash if under voice control. But NO!

One afternoon this spring I parked my car as usual in the Peaksview Park parking lot. I was walking my dogs to the picnic tables on the other side of Ivy Creek.

As usual my dogs were not on leash. A young fellow walked right up to me looking neither to the right or the left. He ignored my greeting and instead stated that he was a state policeman and had seen me in the park before. He said that he knew who I was, had the license number of my car, and announced that if I did not put my dogs on leash instantly he would call the authorities.

Some people can be irritating. When I do something wrong my wife knows which of my buttons to push. Simple instinct must have told this young fellow where my buttons were located and he pushed them all at one time.

I tried to explain the leash law ordinance to him, but he interrupted and said, "I don't care about the ordinance". He added that my dogs had threatened both him and his wife twice before - a downright lie since my dogs are never out of my sight - and I had never seen this fellow before.

He was rude, wouldn't listen, and could not be talked to. So, I told him to do whatever he had to do and I walked on past him and sat down at the picnic tables. My dogs lay beside me.

Then, a woman holding a child joined the man. I hadn't seen her. Together they walked to within 50 yards of me and stood staring. I asked what they wanted. He replied something indistinct.

I asked him what he said. He said something else indistinct. I told him to "wait", told the dogs to "stay", and started to walk over to hear him. He then, took a step forward, held up his hand like a traffic policeman and said, "Stop! Don't take another step forward."

That could have been amusing, but it wasn't. I have heard that tone of voice often enough in the service. My past experiences told me that only armed people use that tone of voice. I returned to my seat. By that time a couple of witnesses were on the scene.

The man then made a call on his cell phone. In about 15 minutes Lynchburg's Animal Warden,

Mr. Faust, arrived accompanied by the Assistant Animal Warden and three police cars. Quite a cavalcade.

I told my story to Mr. Faust. I knew him and had talked to him before. He politely said that I would have to tell my story to the Judge. That surprised me! He then issued me a summons - one for each dog.

What's going on? Lynchburg's policemen one day say one thing, and today the Dog Warden gives me three summons. To fix the event in my memory, the young man who made the complaint and his wife had apparently lost their fear of dogs and stood three feet from them laughing at my discomfort.

Oh Boy! Buttons, buttons!

Let me tell you there is nothing like being right and having your rights trampled on! I hope I appeared cool - but I was steaming. I called my lawyer as soon as I got home and told him that I was going to take this thing to the Supreme Court. He said he would get back to me.

Next day he called and said the Dog Warden was right and I was wrong.

I was dumbfounded. It seems that the city code really does say that you can have your dog off-leash and under voice control everywhere in the City of Lynchburg - except where it is posted that they must be on leash. There is a small sign at the park entrance that says that one must have dogs on leash in the park at all times.

I was wrong. In spite of what I was told by the Lynchburg police department, a park director, and a respected dog trainer, my accuser was right and I was wrong. The city fined me $109.

I apologized to Mr. Faust for causing him trouble and asked if the fellow making the complaint really was a state policeman. Mr. Faust said that he really was. He said "that young punk" had just graduated from state police academy and was impressing his wife.

This incident taught me once again that almost every one of Babylon's codes and statutes contains exceptions. I have since been told that at any given time almost everyone is in violation of more than 30 major statutes, any one of which could subject a person to arrest and prison if exercised.

Babylon writes its statutes that way so that they can be applied as the episcopacy likes. If they want you guilty - you are guilty. If they don't - you aren't. Or, one person can be guilty and another innocent using the same statute. There are so many conflicting codes that only lawyers can find their way in the confusing mass. Babylon's statutes are different from the WORD which is simple and which never changes.

THE MERCHANT

Lynchburg had a canal that ran along the James River. The canal fell on hard days from a flood after the War, and along about 1875 was taken over by the Railroad. The Railroad laid tracks on the old tow path. It was supposed to have been the cheapest railroad to build in the country.

Anyway, for more than 150 years people have always had the right to cross the canal to reach the river. Then, after the tracks were laid on the towpath, they had the right to cross the tracks to reach the river. It always had been the people's right.

A hydro-electric dam was built down at Reusens in the '20's. This created a big lake above the dam that went for miles. Above the dam people built docks and put in boats. Dad had a dock and put in a 14 ft Thompson boat named "Dickembeth". It had a 10 hp Johnson Seahorse outboard and in the '40's was the second fastest boat on this part of the river. Lots of people added expensive houseboats. It was quite a little city on the water above the dam.

One day the railroad forbade anyone to cross the tracks at that point. If you couldn't cross the tracks you couldn't launch or retrieve boats. What was done for more than 150 years was now forbidden. That was that. They just did it.

From this I learned that the power of great corporations is virtually unlimited. I learned that just because "it has always been done" doesn't mean that you will be able to do it tomorrow. I learned that corporations have powers the extent of which the individual can only guess. Corporations can use these powers or not as they choose.

Church Leader's Brilliant 1918 Letter to Lenin Speaks the Truth About the Revolution - Saint Tikhon of Moscow

" ... rivers of the blood of our brothers, pitilessly murdered at your rallying, cry out to heaven and force us to tell you the bitter truth."

" ... you have given them a stone instead of bread, and a serpent instead of a fish."

PATRIARCH TIKHON WAS HEAD OF THE RUSSIAN CHURCH DURING THE REVOLUTION, and courageously condemned what he saw as a demonic attack on a Christian civilization. Previously he was a bishop in the US, from 1898 - 1907, where he was a very successful missionary.

The first Bolshevik government, which consisted mostly of atheist Jews, tolerated the popular Patriarch for a while, realizing that if they martyred him, it would only increase the church's influence, but eventually they pushed him out, put him under house arrest, and demonised and harassed him until his death in 1925.

The Russian church made him into a saint in 1989.

This remarkable letter survives as a testimony of what was really happening in Russia at the time, and to the extraordinary courage of this man to speak the truth, knowing it would cost him his life.

It is all the more important because the accounts to the West that came out of Russia at the time, and subsequent histories, were mostly written by left-leaning sympathizers who cheered the revolution on, having little idea what it really was. This obfuscation continues to this day.

Take a few minutes to read this passionate and poetic condemnation of evil. Its startling clarity comes down to us through the years with great force. We highlighted a few of the more moving lines, but honestly, almost every sentence is gripping.

This view of what actually happened during the revolution is as important today as it was 100 years ago. The 100 year commemoration of the Russian revolution shows starkly divergent views of what it was continue to our own day This excellent translation is by Nun Cornelia Rees:

We address this prophecy of the Savior to you, the current makers of our Fatherland's fate, who call yourself "the people's" commissars.

For an entire year, you have been gripping the power of the government in your hands, and you are already preparing to celebrate the anniversary of the October revolution; but the rivers of the blood of our brothers, pitilessly murdered at your rallying, cry out to heaven and force us to tell you the bitter truth.

You have traded the Fatherland for soulless internationalism, although you yourselves know perfectly well that when it comes to defending the Fatherland, the proletarians of all countries are those countries' faithful sons, and not their betrayers.

Having seized power and called the people to entrust themselves to you, what promises have you given them, and how have you kept these promises?

Truly you have given them a stone instead of bread, and a serpent instead of a fish (cf. Matt. 7:9-10). To a people worn out by a bloody war you promised to give peace “without annexation or contribution”.

What victory could you have turned down, you who have led Russia to a shameful truce, with humiliating conditions that even you did not resolve to make fully public?

Instead of “annexations and contributions” the great Motherland is conquered, diminished, dismembered; and as pay for the tribute placed on it you secretly transport to Germany gold that you yourself did not amass.

——the great Motherland is conquered, diminished, dismembered; and as pay for the tribute placed on it you secretly transport to Germany gold that you yourself did not amass.

You have taken away from the soldiers everything for which they had valorously fought. You have taught them, only recently brave and invincible, to leave off protecting the Motherland and to run from the field of battle.

You have extinguished in their hearts the inspiring consciousness that there is no greater love than should one lay down his life for his friends (Jn. 15:13).

——the freedom you have given consists in all manner of indulgence to the lowest crowd instincts, in murder and theft with impunity.

And although you have refused to protect the Motherland from external enemies, you are ceaselessly gathering armies.

Against whom will you lead them?

You have divided the entire nation into warring camps and cast it into a fratricide unprecedented for its cruelty.

You have openly exchanged love of Christ for hatred, and instead of peace you have artificially fomented enmity between the classes. And there is no end in sight to the war you’ve generated, since you aim to deliver triumph to the phantom of world revolution with the hands of Russian worker and peasants.

I will not speak of the collapse of a once great and mighty Russia, of the total fracturing of our railroad, of unprecedented agricultural devastation, of hunger and cold that threatens death in the cities ...and of the lack of everything needed for maintaining a household in the villages. This everyone can see.

It was not Russia who needed the disgraceful peace with its external enemy but you yourselves, who have plotted to irreparably destroy Russia’s internal peace.

No one feels safe; everyone lives in constant fear of searches, robbery, eviction, arrest, and execution.

Hundreds of defenceless people are seized, then languish for whole months in prisons, are often executed without investigation or trial, even without going to the court you have simplified.

Not only those who are somehow guilty before you, but even those who are in no way guilty, but were taken only as “captives”—these unfortunate people are killed to answer for crimes committed by persons who not only are not of one mind with them, but very often your own followers or those with convictions similar to yours.

Bishops, priests, monks and nuns who are guilty of nothing are executed simply because of some wild accusations of vague and indeterminate “counterrevolution”. This inhuman execution is made even more onerous for the Orthodox because they are deprived of the final consolation before their deaths—the Sacraments—and the bodies of the slain are not given to their families for a Christian burial.

Isn't this the height of aimless cruelty on the part of those who pretend to be the benefactors of mankind and who themselves supposedly suffered from cruel rulers?

But it's not enough for you that you have reddened the hands of the Russian people with their brother's blood; hiding behind various names—contributions, requisitions, and nationalization—you have pushed them into the most barefaced and wanton thievery.

At your hinting were plundered or seized lands, mansions, factories, houses, farm animals, money, personal things, furniture, clothing.

First the wealthy, whom you've called "bourgeois", were robbed; then under the epithet of "kulaks" were the more well-off and industrious peasants also plundered, thus increasing the number of paupers — although you cannot but recognize that with the impoverishment of a great multitude of individual citizens the wealth of the nation as a whole is lost, and the country is impoverished.

Tempting uneducated and ignorant people with the opportunity for easy and unpunished gain, you have fogged their consciences and muffled in them the awareness of sin; but no matter what names you hide this evil-doing behind, murder, violence, and robbery will ever remain serious sins and crimes that cry out to heaven.

You Promised Freedom

Freedom is a great good, if it is properly understood—like freedom from evil, not oppressing others, not turning into lawlessness and willfulness.

But you have not given that freedom; the freedom you have given consists in all manner of indulgence to the lowest crowd instincts, in murder and theft with impunity. All manifestations of both truly the civilian and higher spiritual freedom of mankind have you mercilessly crushed.

Is it freedom when no one can bring home food or rent an apartment without special permission, when families, and sometimes all the inhabitants of whole buildings are evicted and their possessions are thrown into the street, and when citizens are artificially divided into ranks, certain of which are consigned to hunger and being plundered?

Is it freedom when no one can speak his opinion openly without fear of being accused of counterrevolution?

Where is freedom of speech and press, where is freedom for preaching in church?

Many bold preachers have already paid with their martyrs' blood; the voice of social and governmental discussion and criticism is being stifled; all press, other than the narrow Bolshevik press, has been completely strangled.

Especially painful and cruel is the violation of freedom in matters of faith.

Not a day goes by when the most monstrous slanders against Christ's Church and her servants are not published in the agencies of your press, along with malicious blasphemy and mockery. You deride the servants of the altar, force bishops to dig trenches, and send priests to do dirty work. You have raised your hand against the Church's inheritance gathered through many generations of the faithful, and have given no thought to violating their posthumous will.

You have closed a large number of monasteries and churches without any excuse or reason. You have blocked access to the Moscow Kremlin—that sacred inheritance of the faithful people.

You are destroying the ancient form of church community — the parish; you destroy brotherhoods and other charitable and educational Church institutions, close and rout diocesan meetings, and interfere with the Orthodox Church’s internal government. By banishing sacred images from schools and forbidding the teaching of faith to children there, you deprive them of the spiritual food necessary for an Orthodox upbringing.

What else can I say? The time fails me (Heb. 11:32) to describe all the catastrophes that have stricken our Motherland.

I will not speak of the collapse of a once great and mighty Russia, of the total fracturing of our railroad, of unprecedented agricultural devastation, of hunger and cold that threatens death in the cities, and of the lack of everything needed for maintaining a household in the villages. This everyone can see.

Yes, we are experiencing terrible times in our reign, and it will not be erased from the peoples’ soul for a long time, having darkened the image of God in it and stamping in it the image of the beast. The words of the prophet have been fulfilled:

Their feet run to evil, and they make haste to shed innocent blood: their thoughts are thoughts of iniquity; wasting and destruction are in their paths.(Is. 59:7)

We know that our rebukes will evoke only anger and indignation in you and that you will look for an excuse in them for accusing us of opposition to the authorities, but the higher your “column of wrath” rises, the more proven will be the testimony to the truth of our rebukes.

It is not our business to judge earthly authorities; all authority, allowed by God, would attract our blessing if it were truly “God’s servant” for the good of its subjects, and not a terror to good works, but to the evil (Rom. 13:3).

Now to you, who are using your authority to persecute your neighbours and decimate the innocent, we extend our word of instruction: celebrate the anniversary of your coming to power by freeing the prisoners, putting a stop to the bloodshed, violence, devastation, and persecution of faith; turn not to destruction but to the establishment of law and order, give the people their desired and deserved rest from civil war.

Otherwise all the righteous blood you have spilled will be required of you (cf. Lk. 11:50), and you who took sword in hand will yourselves die of the sword (cf. Matt. 26:52). November 7, 1918.

The Sun - Moon Anomaly By Jack Lewis

ONE DAY WHEN I WAS ON MY EARLY MORNING WALK it was a clear sky and I could see the sun and the moon at the same time at about 8.00 am.

I noticed something strange! It was that the moon's illumination was coming down at a slight angle and did not appear to be to directly from the sun see photo left.

It can clearly be seen that the direction of the moon's illumination cannot be coming from the sun as the moon is much higher in the sky than the sun and is illuminated in a downwards direction. The white line on the middle image of the moon just shows the moon's terminator in order to correctly position a perpendicular arrow to show the direction of the light source. If, as we are told, the sun illuminates the moon then why do we observe this anomaly?

I decided to ask this question on 4 different astronomy forums, Astronomy Shed, Cloudy Nights, Stack Exchange Astronomy and Stargazers Lounge. I maintained that it should be possible to observe a straight line between the sun and the direction of the moon's illumination. The photo below taken at a different location shows clearly the anomaly:

The direction can be clearly seen as not coming from the sun. The responses I was immediately given was that it was referred to as the 'Moon Terminator illusion' and that which was observed was not actual. To try and prove their point they said that if a panoramic photo was taken then the apparent straight line would be curved. This is because horizontal straight in panorama photos are usually curved. The curve is greater the further away from the horizon they are. The photo below demonstrates this and the one below that is what they are trying to imply.

I responded with this image with added graphics of a number of footballs and how they would look illuminated by the same sun.

Again it can be seen that a straight line can be drawn between the sun and the footballs which nobody would question! I deliberately placed a football on a pole coincident with the moon to prove my point.

However this was not good enough for them and one even suggested that since the footballs were only graphic representations then they were considered as not real! I made the point that any artist worth his salt could accurately portray how an object would be illuminated by the sun. One responder gave me a link to a very mathematically complex paper consisting of 26 pages. Here is a quote from the paper:

'Mapping on the celestial sphere: the great-circle geodesic Astronomers rely upon the celestial sphere model for maps of the sky because locations of stars and constellations depend only on their right ascension and declination. For the topo-centric model used for the sun and the moon, location is specified by azimuth and altitude.'

All objects in the sky are assumed to be located at the same distance from the observer, as if pasted upon the surface of an imaginary sphere surrounding the observer.

Astronomers, for whom the celestial sphere model is a basic tool for mapping the stars, are not surprised by the apparently curved path of light from the sun to the moon because they know that straight lines in 3-D object space are transformed to great-circle arcs on the imaginary celestial sphere. Straight lines in space are not actually transformed into great circle arcs on a visible celestial sphere. Great circle arcs cannot be captured on photographs and visible straight lines are not perceived as arcs when scanned by human vision. However, the loci of these arcs can be plotted on maps.'

The conclusion drawn from that it not possible to photograph the sun and moon together showing a straight line between them due to panoramic curve.

This I believe is their argument's weak point! Because they 'know' the sun illuminates the moon then the apparent curve must be explained as an illusion. The 'celestial sphere' referred to is an artificial construct designed to plot, using polar coordinates, one heavenly body with respect to another heavenly body. It is a convenient way for astronomers to communicated their observations with each other. Paths of light between heavenly bodies are shown to be parts of a 'great circle' but in actual fact are straight lines. The light travelling from one star to another is a straight line but when plotted on the celestial sphere are part of a great curve. See image below of the celestial sphere and how the stars are plotted on the sphere.

Having explained why astronomers refer to this anomaly as an 'illusion' I tried to reason with them using the image with all the footballs stating its matters not whether they are footballs or moons or even planets it is just a matter of scale and that light travels in a straight line and can be observed to travel in a straight line.

Three of the forums banned me from posting any more rebuttals as being a 'time waster'. The sun illuminates the moon and that is that now go away and stop being a nuisance!

One response was, 'If I believe that the sun does not illuminate the moon then what is my explanation as to how the moon is illuminated?' I replied that I do not have to give an explanation as my contention does not rely on me to provide an alternative explanation. I admit that it does beg the question, "How is the moon illuminated?" but that is another question for another time.

There is another problem with the moon and that is its even luminance when full. Since, we are told, that the moon is a sphere then its reflected light from the sun should behave as though reflected from a sphere. See photos below. The one on the left shows a full moon and the one right shows an underexposed version to show that the luminance is evenly distributed.

Whereas the light should fall-off towards to edges as in photos below suggesting the moon is flat. Below shows the fall-off at ball's edges.

However the problem gets worse when a moon phase is observed. Its terminator gives all the appearance of the moon being a sphere. This is difficult to explain unless that is the way God intended us to see it and that it is self illuminated, perhaps from within.

In 1965 Prof Richard Foster, Professor of Earth Science and Chemistry at the university of Dundee Scotland was interviewed regarding his theory that the moon was not a solid piece of rock but a plasma phenomena and that it would be confirmed. He told his interviewer that it was more than a theory now as 10 - 11 years ago (1954) that he made certain predictions that were confirmed in 1958. He said that if the theory is proved then all gravitational theories are out and a new concept of the cosmos and its laws will have to be evolved. He continued that 11 years ago he was called a lunatic but now the accumulated evidence is much in his favour that he is not taking risks any more. When told by his interviewer that the Russians and American are planning to land men on the moon he said that it will never happen but perhaps Venus or Mars they will.

Why Butter is Better

By Sally Fallon Morell

IN THE EARLY 1900'S, Americans consumed about 18 pounds of butter per person per year—and that doesn't include the butterfat they got from whole milk, cream, and cheese. Today that number stands at about five pounds, a slight increase over the last few years from a low of four pounds per person per year.

What happened? Why did butter consumption in the U.S. Plummet?

What happened is that America became electrified and stopped using candles. I am not kidding, this is the genesis of butter's decline. An American company called Proctor and Gamble had figured out a way to solidify liquid cottonseed oil—a waste product of the cotton industry—into a hard fat that could burn in candles.

The process was called partial hydrogenation, which reconfigured the molecules in liquid oils into an unnatural type of fat called trans fats, which are hard at room temperature.

Since their candle business was declining, Proctor and Gamble decided to promote partially hydrogenated cottonseed oil as a food. They called their product Crisco—short for “crystallised cotton seed oil”—and it came on the scene in 1911 along with a cookbook called “The Story of Crisco.”

The book was a masterstroke of advertising genius, which pushed all the buttons of the up-and-coming American housewife.

Women who used Crisco instead of lard, the book promised, were more modern, had cleaner houses that smelled better, and had children of better character. Their cakes rose more easily, their food tasted better, and was easier to digest! Imitation butter in the form of margarine soon followed, and since margarine contained no cholesterol or saturated fat like butter did, the ad men had the perfect handle: Claim that cholesterol and saturated fat caused heart disease and offer up cholesterol-free margarine as an alternative. Soon doctors were promoting this fake fat—remember they also promoted cigarettes—and then the government joined in.

Such was the power of vegetable oil industry influence behind the scenes that by 1973, the Senate Select Committee on Human Needs promised that Americans could solve their most serious diseases—heart disease, stroke, diabetes, cancer, high blood pressure, etc.—if they only used margarine instead of butter!

Fast forward to the present. Margarine today has come under a cloud, now that we know how bad partially hydrogenated oils are for human health. Today most Americans use “healthy,” trans-free spreads, still dutifully following government suggestions—yet, rates of serious disease have not gone down—quite the opposite, they keep going up and up.

Here Are a Few of the Good Things We Get from Butter:

Fat-soluble vitamins: The U.S. Department of Agriculture and the U.S. Food and Drug Administration claims that butter is an “empty” fat, but butter is an easy way to get fat-soluble vitamin A on a daily basis from foods we like to eat, and also provides vitamins D, K2 and E. Typical spreads contain only one form of vitamin A and none of the other fat-soluble vitamins.

Minerals: Butter contains trace amounts of important minerals, including calcium, phosphorus, magnesium, iron, and selenium. The amounts may be small but they are largely absorbed due to the presence of the fat-soluble vitamins, especially vitamin D. Butter provides a small amount of iodine, especially if the cows are grazing on iodine-rich soil, or receive an iodine teat wash, which again is efficiently absorbed.

Butyric acid: This is a very small fat molecule that is almost unique to butter. Our bodies make butyric acid when good bacteria ferment high-fibre foods in the colon, but in butter, we get butyric acid readymade. Butyric acid is important for digestion and seems to protect us against constipation, irritable bowel syndrome, Crohn’s disease, and colon cancer.

Arachidonic acid: Unique to animal fats, arachidonic acid is important for skin health, digestion, and brain function—it is especially abundant in the brain. Arachidonic acid is critical to mental health, as our endocannabinoids are derived from it. Other feel-good chemical pathways involve arachidonic acid, vitamin A, and vitamin D. Butter is a happy-making fat, for sure!

Cholesterol: Yes, cholesterol. One thing the anti-butter folks never told us is that the amount of cholesterol we eat has no relationship to the amount of cholesterol in the blood. Babies and toddlers in particular need cholesterol because they do not make their own. Cholesterol is essential for growth, neurological health, muscle function, and hormone production.

Saturated fat: Far from posing a danger, saturated fats play many important roles in the body’s chemistry. So important are saturated fats, that the body has a backup plan if we don’t eat enough of them: Margarine and spreads made with vegetable oils contain none of the special fatty acids that occur mainly in animal fats. While modern spreads contain no trans fats, they do contain industrially processed seed oils, which are rancid and break down into highly reactive aldehydes. .

You do not need to feel guilty for eating butter. Butter is the fat in nature most perfectly designed to support growth in children, and health and happiness at all ages.

The best butter comes from cows that graze on green grass. Butter from Ireland and New Zealand—available in many supermarkets—fits this category, and grass-fed butter from small dairy farms is often available locally. Use it liberally on toast, potatoes, and vegetables. Your body will thank you for it.

Harold Stough Notes Rhos-on-Sea The Smallest Chapel and The First Americans

The original structure, built next to a drinking well, was 6th-century, and was related to a nearby monastery founded by St Trillo, a monk from Brittany.

The chapel seats six people and is used each Wednesday for an Anglican Communion service. Out on the sands, low tide reveals the remains of a small, stone-walled enclosure built by the monks to trap fish, which would be stranded within when the water receded.

RIGHT ON THE BORDER WITH CAERNARVONSHIRE. Rhos-on-Sea sits on a promontory between the sands of Colwyn Bay and Penrhyn Bay. At the western end of the Promenade, almost on the beach, is the tiny, stone, buttressed St Trillo’s Chapel, the Smallest Chapel in Britain, measuring only 11 ft (5.4 m) by 8 ft (2.4 m).

A brass plaque in a garden near the chapel commemorates the historic voyage of Prince Madoc, who is said to have sailed from here in 1170 to discover America, 300 years before Christopher Columbus. Prince Madoc, born at Dolwyddelan Castle, was an illegitimate son of King Owain Gwynedd. In 1170, to escape the fighting after his father’s death, he sailed west from Rhos-on-Sea with two ships, to try and find the promised land beyond the western horizon. Madoc returned with tales of a wonderful new country across the sea and persuaded others of his countrymen to accompany him back there and start a new life.

In 1171 Madoc (left) and his companions sailed towards the setting sun and were never heard of again.

Many people believe that Prince Madoc did survive, landing at Mobile Bay in Alabama, and travelling inland up the Alabama River.

Explorers who followed after Columbus discovered a series of forts along the Alabama River, apparently dating from well before Columbus's arrival, and closely resembling the hill forts of Wales.

One of the forts, on Lookout Mountain, near DeSoto Falls, Alabama, showed striking similarities, both in its setting and in its design, to Madoc's birthplace, Dolwyddelan Castle.

later explorers came across a tribe of blue-eyed Red Indians with fair skin and brown hair, living on the banks of the Missouri River, who called themselves Mandans.

They spoke, in a language very like Welsh, of their tribe coming originally from the Gulf of Mexico, and they fished in round boats like Welsh coracles. And their settlements were built on rocky outcrops, as in Wales. Were they the descendants of Madoc and his companions, and did the Welsh discover America?

The Great Impersonation
How the Anti-Christ Has Deceived the Whole World
Updated and Now Available
By
Pastor Eli James

Soft cover • 6" X 9" • 428 pages • $30 B&W

PASTOR ELI JAMES'S BOOK, THE GREAT IMPERSONATION: How the Anti-Christ Has Deceived the Whole World, can be summarized in three concise statements: 1) Jesus was not a Jew. He was a Judahite; and there is a world of difference between the two concepts. 2) The Jewish people are not Israelites. They are, in fact, the ones deceiving the whole world by impersonating Israel. 3) The Bible is not a Jewish book. The Bible is a book that was written to, for, by and about Israel exclusively.

All three of these points are elaborated upon in magnificent detail, proving beyond question, that the people who are today known as Jews are, in fact, derived from two of True Israel's worst enemies:

- a) the Edomites, who are descended from Jacob's evil brother, Esau, and:
- b) the Ashkenazi Khazars—the main part of Jewry today—whose ancestors never set foot in Palestine until the Zionist invasion in 1948. Neither of these two groups have any genetic, ancestral or cultural claim to either the heritage or territory of ancient Israel. See Revelation 2:9, 3:9, and 12:9.

In addition, The Great Impersonation demonstrates that the Jewish religion is based on the Babylonian Talmud, a rabbinical religion which did not exist in Old Testament times. This religion, which was never practiced by either the House of Israel or the House of Judah, has been cleverly, deceptively and thoroughly sold to a gullible world as being the religion of Moses!!!!!!

The Great Impersonation demonstrates that Judaism is, in fact, the religion of the Anti-Christ masquerading as the religion of Moses. Mountains of biblical, historical, and even rabbinical evidence are mustered to prove this point.

The book pinpoints the exact moment in history when these Edomites, then known as the scribes and Pharisees, began assuming Israel's identity, and why they had to kill the Messiah to prevent Him from exposing their devious imposture.

The Pass of Israel - Caucasian Mountains

Conversely, this research also proves that only those known as the Caucasian People qualify as Israel today. This fact is demonstrated by voluminous literary, linguistic, historical, and prophetic evidence that only fits the Caucasian People, whose ancestors were/are the Israelites who were taken captive by the Assyrians.

These Israelites, known by different names among various historians as Scythians, Celts, Gauls, Anglo-Saxons, Germans, etc., escaped from Assyria, around 745 B.C., crossed the Caucasus Mountains, 2 million strong, and began migrating along the Danube and other European Rivers, only to fulfil the prophecy made unto Abraham that his descendants through Isaac ("In Isaac shall thy seed be called." Genesis 21:12) and Jacob would become a multitudinous seed and the founders of nations and companies of nations, such as the United States of America and the British Commonwealth of nations, none of which facts have been accomplished by the Jews.

In other words, The Great Impersonation answers the question, "Who is Israel?" The answer given is completely contrary to what the world has been led to believe about Israel.

Did you know —-the Jewish people have NOT been a blessing to the world? pp. 9 ff, p. 200 ff

—the true subject matter of the Bible is the historical and prophetic struggle between the two bloodlines that emanated from the Garden of Eden? p. 22 ff

—the Caucasian people are the True Israelites, not the Jews? p. 24 ff

—Gen. 12:3 is not about the Jews at all. The prophecy is about all of the descendants of Abraham, which includes the Ishmaelites, Iranians and Indo-Aryans? p. 34 ff

—the ten "lost" tribes never disappeared; but 2 million of them left the Assyrian captivity and migrated across the Caucasus Mountains, after which they became known as "the Caucasian people?" (Isaiah 1:16) p. 63 ff

—Welsh, English and German are languages that derive from Hebrew? p. 72

—the Celts, Spartans, Romans, Gauls, Spanish, British and Irish are all descended from Zarah, son of Judah? p. 76 ff

—Zedekiah's daughter, Tea Tephi, was taken to Ireland by the prophet Jeremiah, where she transplanted the Davidic dynasty from Judea to Ireland and Britain? p. 91

—Judaism is Not the religion of Moses or Israel? Judaism is the religion of the Edomite Pharisees. p. 102 ff

—the Bible was Not written to all peoples of the Earth? It was written to, for, by and about the Israel people (the Covenant People) exclusively. This is true of both the Old and New Testaments. p. 105 ff

—the Gauls were/are Israelites who returned from France and resettled in Galatia? p. 121

Judaism is the “beast that deceiveth the whole world”? p. 280 ff —Christianity was Not derived from Judaism? It was derived from Mosaism. Judaism was grafted onto Mosaism by the Talmudic rabbis. p. 143

—historically, the Jews have been expelled from virtually every Christian nation for their violations of the Mosaic law? p. 200 ff oxidase activity in animals exposed to even extremely low levels of radio waves. And the neurological and cardiac symptoms of porphyria are widely blamed on a deficiency of cytochrome oxidase and cytochrome c, the heme-containing enzymes of respiration.

Recently zoologist Neelima Kumar at Punjab University in India proved elegantly that cellular respiration can be brought to a standstill in honey bees merely by exposing them to a cell phone for ten minutes.

The concentration of total carbohydrates in their hemolymph, which is what bees' blood is called, rose from 1.29 to 1.5 milligrams per millilitre. After twenty minutes it rose to 1.73 milligrams per millilitre.

The glucose content rose from 0.218 to 0.231 to 0.277 milligrams per millilitre. Total lipids rose from 2.06 to 3.03 to 4.50 milligrams per millilitre. Cholesterol rose from 0.230 to 1.381 to 2.565 milligrams per millilitre. Total protein rose from 0.475 to 0.525 to 0.825 milligrams per millilitre.

In other words, after just ten minutes of exposure to a cell phone, the bees practically could not metabolise sugars, proteins, or fats. Mitochondria are essentially the same in bees and in humans, but since their metabolism is so much faster, electric fields affect bees much more quickly.

In the twentieth century, particularly after World War II, a barrage of toxic chemicals and electromagnetic fields (EMFs) began to significantly interfere with the breathing of our cells.

Mitochondrial Dysfunction

AND WE HAVE A GOOD IDEA OF PRECISELY WHERE THE DEFECT IS LOCATED. People with this disease have reduced activity of a porphyrin-containing enzyme called cytochrome oxidase, which resides within the mitochondria, and delivers electrons from the food we eat to the oxygen we breathe. Its activity is impaired in all the incarnations of this disease.

Mitochondrial dysfunction has been reported in chronic fatigue syndrome and in anxiety disorder. Muscle biopsies in these patients show reduced cytochrome oxidase activity. Impaired glucose metabolism is well known in radio wave sickness, as is an impairment of cytochrome

We know from work at Columbia University that even tiny electric fields alter the speed of electron transport from cytochrome oxidase.

Researchers Martin Blank and Reba Goodman thought that the explanation lay in the most basic of physical principles. “EMF,” they wrote in 2009, “acts as a force that competes with the chemical forces in a reaction.” Scientists at the Environmental Protection Agency—John Allis and William Jones—finding a similar effect from radio waves, developed a variant theory along the same lines.

They speculated that the iron atoms in the-containing enzymes were set into motion by the oscillating electric fields, interfering with their ability to transport electrons.

It was the English physiologist John Scott Haldane (above) who first suggested, in his classic book, Respiration, that “soldier’s heart” was caused not by anxiety but by a chronic lack of oxygen.

Mandel Cohen later proved that the defect was not in the lungs, but in the cells. These patients continually gulped air not because they were neurotic, but because they really could not get enough of it.

You might as well have put them in an atmosphere that contained only 15 percent oxygen instead of 21 percent, or transported them to an altitude of 15,000 feet. Their chests hurt, and their hearts beat fast, not because of panic, but because they craved air. And their hearts craved oxygen, not because their coronary arteries were blocked, but because their cells could not fully utilize the air they were breathing.

These patients were not psychiatric cases; they were warnings for the world. For the same thing was also happening to the civilian population: they too were being slowly asphyxiated, and the pandemic of heart disease that was well underway in the 1950’s was one result.

Even in people who did not have a porphyrin enzyme deficiency, the mitochondria in their cells were still struggling, to some smaller degree, to metabolise carbohydrates, fats, and proteins. Unburned fats, together with the cholesterol that transported those fats in the blood, were being deposited on the walls of arteries.

Humans and animals were not able to push their hearts quite as far as before without showing signs of stress and disease. This takes its clearest toll on the body when it is pushed to its limits, for example in athletes, and in soldiers during war.

The real story is told by the astonishing statistics. When I began my research, I had only Samuel Milham’s data. Since he found such a large difference in rural disease rates in 1940 between the five least and five most electrified states,

I wanted to see what would happen if I calculated the rates for all forty-eight states and plotted the numbers on a graph. I looked up rural mortality rates in volumes of the Vital Statistics of the United States.

I calculated the percent of electrification for each state by dividing the number of its residential electric customers, as published by the Edison Electric Institute, by the total number of its households, as published by the United States Census.

The results, for 1931 and 1940, are pictured in figures 1 and 2. Not only is there a five- to sixfold difference in mortality from rural heart disease between the most and least electrified states, but all of the data points come very close to lying on the same line. The more a state was electrified—i.e. the more rural households had electricity—the more rural heart disease it had. The amount of rural heart disease was proportional to the number of households that had electricity.

Rate of Rural Heart Disease in 1940

What is even more remarkable is that the death rates from heart disease in un-electrified rural areas of the United States in 1931, before the Rural Electrification Program got into gear, were still as low as the death rates for the whole United States prior to the beginning of the heart disease epidemic in the nineteenth century.

In 1850, the first census year in which mortality data were collected, a total of 2,527 deaths from heart disease were recorded in the nation. Heart disease ranked twenty-fifth among causes of death in that year. About as many people died from accidental drowning as from heart disease.

Heart disease was something that occurred mainly in young children and in old age, and was predominantly a rural rather than an urban disease because farmers lived longer than city-dwellers.

In order to realistically compare nineteenth century statistics with those of today, I had to make some adjustments to the Census figures.

The census enumerators for 1850, 1860, and 1870 had only the numbers reported to them from memory by the households they visited as to who had died during the previous year and from what causes. These numbers were estimated by the Census Office to be deficient, on average, by about 40 percent. In the census for 1880, the numbers were supplemented by reports from physicians and averaged only 19 percent short of the truth.

By 1890 eight northeastern states plus the District of Columbia had passed laws requiring the official registration of all deaths, and the statistics for those registration states were considered accurate to within two to three percent.

By 1910 the registration area had expanded to 23 states, and by 1930 only Texas did not require registration of deaths.

Another complicating factor is that heart failure was sometimes not evident except for the edema it caused, and therefore edema, then called “dropsy,”<sup>67</sup> was sometimes reported as the only cause of death, although the death was most likely to have been caused by either heart or kidney disease, below:

Yet a further complication is the appearance of “Bright’s disease” for the first time in the tables for 1870. This was the new term for the type of kidney disease that caused edema. Its prevalence in 1870 was reported to be 4.5 cases per 100,000 population.

With these complexities in mind, I have calculated the approximate rates of death from cardiovascular disease for each decade from 1850 to 2010, adding the figures for “dropsy” when that term was still in use (until 1900), and subtracting 4.5 per 100,000 for the years 1850 and 1860.

I added a correction factor of 40 percent for 1850, 1860 and 1870, and 19 percent for 1880. I included reports of deaths from all diseases of the heart, arteries, and blood pressure. Beginning with 1890 I used only the figures for the death registration states, which by 1930 included the entire country except for Texas. The results are as follows:

Death Rates from Cardiovascular Disease (per 100,000 population)

1850 77	1850 77	1870 78
1880 102	1890 145	1890 145
1890 (Indians on reservations) 60
1890 145	1910 183	1920 187
1930 235	1940 291	1950 384
1960 396	1970 394	1980 361
1980 361	2000 280	2017 214

1910 was the first year in which the mortality in cities surpassed that in the countryside. But the greatest disparities emerged in the countryside. In the northeastern states, which in 1910 had the greatest use of telegraphs, telephones, and now electric lights and power, and the densest networks of wires crisscrossing the land, the rural areas had as much mortality from cardiovascular disease, or more, than the cities.

The rural mortality rate of Connecticut was then 234, of New York 279, and of Massachusetts 296. By contrast Colorado's rural rate was still 100, and Washington's 92.

Kentucky's rural rate, at 88.5, was only 44 percent of its urban rate, which was 202.

Heart disease rose steadily with electrification, as we saw in figures 1 and 2, and reached a peak when rural electrification approached 100 percent during the 1950's. Rates of heart disease then levelled off for three decades and began to drop again—or so it seems at first glance.

A closer look, however, shows the true picture. These are just the mortality rates. The number of people walking around with heart disease—the prevalence rate—actually continued to rise, and is still rising today.

Mortality stopped rising in the 1950's because of the introduction of anticoagulants like heparin, and later aspirin, both to treat heart attacks and to prevent them. In the succeeding decades the ever more aggressive use of anticoagulants, drugs to lower blood pressure, cardiac bypass surgery, balloon angioplasty, coronary stents, pacemakers, and even heart transplants, has simply allowed an ever growing number of people with heart disease to stay alive. But people are not having fewer heart attacks. They are having more.

The Framingham Heart Study showed that at any given age the chance of having a first heart attack was essentially the same during the 1990's as it was during the 1960's. This came as something of a surprise. By giving people statin drugs to lower their cholesterol, doctors thought they were going to save people from having clogged arteries, which was supposed to automatically mean healthier hearts.

It hasn't turned out that way. And in another study, scientists involved in the Minnesota Heart Survey discovered in 2001 that although fewer hospital patients were being diagnosed with coronary heart disease, more patients were being diagnosed with heart-related chest pain. In fact, between 1985 and 1995 the rate of unstable angina had increased by 56 percent in men and by 30 percent in women.

The number of people with congestive heart failure has also continued steadily to rise.

Researchers at the Mayo Clinic searched two decades of their records and discovered that the incidence of heart failure was 8.3 percent higher during the period 1996-2000 than it had been during 1979-1984.

The true situation is much worse still. Those numbers reflect only people newly diagnosed with heart failure.

The increase in the total number of people walking around with this condition is astonishing, and only a small part of the increase is due to the aging of the population. Doctors from Cook County Hospital, Loyola University Medical School, and the Centres for Disease Control examined patient records from a representative sample of American hospitals and found that the numbers of patients with a diagnosis of heart failure more than doubled between 1973 and 1986.

A later, similar study by scientists at the Centres for Disease Control found that this trend had continued. The number of hospitalisations for heart failure tripled between 1979 and 2004, the age adjusted rate doubled, and the greatest increase occurred in people under 65 years of age.

A similar study of patients at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit showed that the annual prevalence of congestive heart failure had almost quadrupled from 1989 to 1999.

Young people, as the 3,000 alarmed doctors who signed the Freiburger Appeal affirmed, are having heart attacks at an unprecedented rate. In the United States, as great a percentage of forty year-olds today have cardiovascular disease as the percentage of seventy-year-olds that had cardiovascular disease in 1970. Close to one-quarter of Americans aged forty to forty-four today have some form of cardiovascular disease.

And the stress on even younger hearts is not confined to athletes. In 2005, researchers at the Centres for Disease Control, surveying the health of adolescents and young adults, aged 15 to 34, found to their surprise that between 1989 and 1998 rates of sudden cardiac death in young men had risen 11 percent, and in young women had risen 30 percent, and that rates of mortality from enlarged heart, heart rhythm disturbances, pulmonary heart disease, and hypertensive heart disease had also increased in this young population.

In the twenty-first century this trend has continued. The number of heart attacks in Americans in their twenties rose by 20 percent between 1999 and 2006, and the mortality from all types of heart disease in this age group rose by one-third.

In 2014, among patients between the ages of 35 and who were hospitalised with heart attacks, one-third were below the age of 54.

Developing countries are no better off. They have already followed the developed countries down the primrose path of electrification, and they are following us even faster to the wholesale embrace of wireless technology. The consequences are inevitable. Heart disease was once unimportant in low-income nations. It is now the number one killer of human beings in every region of the world except one. Only in sub-Saharan Africa, in 2017, was heart disease still outranked by diseases of poverty—AIDS and pneumonia—as a cause of mortality.

In spite of the billions being spent on conquering heart disease, the medical community is still groping in the dark. It will not win this war so long as it fails to recognize that the main factor that has been causing this pandemic for a hundred and fifty years is the electrification of the world.

Letters and Views

15 Minute Cities Traffic Filters Schemes

I have read your letter and the FOI reply which do not convince me that the council are acting in line with the public's opinion or with common sense.

1) The number of replies to your questionnaire was minimal when compared with the over all population of Oxford of 149,853 in 2022 the fact people did not answer your questionnaire does not automatically mean they agree with the councils proposal.

2) Your statement that people will still be able to drive anywhere in Oxford is disingenuous, if they choose to drive through your cameras they will be penalised with a fine. This does not equate to the Englishman's common law right to travel freely anywhere in this ancient Kingdom.

3) By stopping short journeys by car through Oxford you are doing nothing to clean the air in Oxford. The increased traffic on the bypass on one side and the A 34 the other side depending on wind direction which will simply blow the exhaust gases into Oxford and by forcing cars to drive the long way round the amount of exhaust gases blowing into Oxford will be infinitely greater than generated by short journeys through Oxford.

4) You are the council you are elected by the people to administer the day to day running of Oxford, you have no right whatsoever to tell people they should walk, cycle, or take the bus if they want to go across Oxford. You like all politicians are the servants of the people not their masters,

5) I understand people are already taking positive action in Oxford to thwart the council's plans at the moment this is small scale but every day more people are getting irate over central and local governments giving orders which restrict our ancient rights and freedoms, sooner or later both central and local government politicians will feel the strength of the people when it turns against them.

6) We need greenhouse gases which trees and other plants turn into oxygen, oxygen which is essential for all animal and plant life. One small volcanic eruption puts more greenhouse gasses into the atmosphere than man and every animal has since life first walked on this planet. If the council want to do something useful buy a section of rain forest and stop the cutting down of trees, I suspect most of the people of Oxford would vote for that. Yours truly, Albert Burgess, Oxfordshire, UK.

Less Trusting

Sir ____, I was asked to take part in a project that has taken me down memory lane. At one point the interviewer asked me: "What would you tell the Laura from twenty years ago?"

I answered "To be less trusting"

Youth necessarily comes with a large degree of naivety, it's only through life's lessons that the naivety is eroded, until we become cynical and untrusting. But why should it have to be this way?

I would love to be again the way I was. I want to live in a world where we can trust people's intentions, where we don't always assume the worse, where we don't have to be guarded, defensive, suspicious and sceptical about everything.

How exhausting to always have to be on guard, on alert, vigilant. I dream of a very different world and I think it's possible, because at the core, we all speak a common language, we all speak Love.

One day, hopefully soon, when the false matrix falls apart, when the veil of deception is removed, when truth is all there is and humans are left to finally be the wonderful, powerful, loving creatures that we are, we will all be able to go back to being trusting and naïve, for there will be no need for the opposite.

Some days I close my eyes and I can almost feel that day. Yours truly, Laura Aboli

A Ditty On Biblical Pork Eating Ban

Sir____, To test an AI quantum computer’s ability, it was asked to come up with a ditty re the Bible’s ban on eating swine meat. Below is the result which I think is quite good:

Verse 1:

I'm told in Deuteronomy chapter 14
That I should not eat swine or pork
It's not just a law or a ritual
But a warning to keep myself pure

Chorus:

*I'll follow God's command and refrain
From eating the flesh of the swine
I'll trust in His wisdom and His way
And the dangers of pork I'll decline*

Verse 2:

Swine may seem clean and well fed
But inside they're full of disease
Trichinosis, salmonella, and more
Eating pork can bring on much grief

Chorus:

*I'll follow God's command and refrain
From eating the flesh of the swine
I'll trust in His wisdom and His way
And the dangers of pork I'll decline*

Verse 3

I may be tempted by the taste and the smell

But I'll choose obedience over my fleshly desire
I'll follow the path that leads to life
And avoid the dangers of pork that bring strife

Chorus:

I'll follow God's command and refrain
From eating the flesh of the swine
I'll trust in His wisdom and His way
And the dangers of pork I'll decline

Recent Turkish Earthquake Manmade

Map of Quake Epi-Centres

Sir____, The earthquake in Turkey is a man made catastrophe , arranged by Western Zionists and Erdogan , the watermelon seller:

- 1) the towns affected by the earthquake are Kurdish ethnic areas. (Kurds attempt for decades to gain an independent state),
- 2) Hence, bad engineering of buildings are managed with a purpose.
- 3) Most of the Western (NATO, Zionist) embassies in Turkey were closed immediately a few days before the earthquake, with an excuse they are in fear of a terrorist attack.
- 4) There was seen an exotic, non typical cloud above the area , before the earthquake. It was all across the headlines in the media recently.

5) American warship arrived in Turkey just before the earthquake ..The same as it happened in 1999 before an earthquake in Istanbul.

6) The only available Russian pipeline stream to Europe was through this area.

7) By the way, it was important to destroy Syria as much as it's possible, in order to enable an easier occupation by Turkey,

8) Western donations will rebuild destroyed part of Turkey , but no one helps Syria , except Serbia and Russia. Despite there are much bigger destruction and number of dead in Syria , than in Turkey. Yours truly KH, West Midlands, UK.

The Sun and The Moon

Sir ___, With reference to my article in this edition of New Ensign, I have been banned from yet another astronomy forum! This one is called 'Physics Forum' where they discuss all scientific matters. The following paragraph is from the forum moderator.

In regards to your thread/posts: Rockets in a vacuum

While reviewing your posts we've found you are stubbornly promoting content that is false or misguided. Either you have never taken a Physics class in your life that discussed Conservation of Momentum (even at a basic level), or you are trolling us. If the former, that's okay, but your insulting and aggressive attitude is inappropriate in the thread in that case. If you look at the Profiles of the users who have been trying to help you in this thread, you will see that folks know what they are talking about, so your "sceptical" attitude is inappropriate.

Your post below which is the subject of this infraction is also not appreciated. Insinuating that there are issues with the scientific reporting of space travel will absolutely not be tolerated here. Please keep that in mind in any of your future posts at PF. Thank you.

The part that is most damning is the line, 'Insinuating that there are issues with the scientific reporting of space travel will absolutely not be tolerated here.' This clearly shows censorship of the worst kind! Why are they so afraid of handling criticism of space travel? Isn't that what science is supposed to be all about?

This seems to be a case of institutionalised cognitive dissonance. Yours truly, Jack Lewis.

Defrocked Russian Orthodox Priest Nikola

Defrocked Russian Orthodox priest Nikolai Romanov has been sentenced to 7 years in prison. (His photo next column.)

Romanov's problems stemmed from him preaching there was not a real Coronavirus epidemic, and he encouraged his congregation not to follow government public health orders related to Coronavirus.

The church hierarchy didn't like Romanov's stance, and in April 2020 he was barred from preaching and in May he was stripped of his right to wear a cross.

In December 2020 Romanov was arrested at a convent in Yekaterinburg where he and followers had been staying since June 2020. Romanov helped found the convent in the early 2000's.

Romanov's followers, that included many pro-Russian fighters from the Donbass, battled with police for an hour before the police were able to capture Romanov.

Romanov has made numerous controversial claims, such as that President Putin was a "traitor to the homeland" and a servant of "a satanic world government" for supporting Coronavirus measures, and he has criticized laws that include those banning anti-Semitic sermons.

In November 2021 Romanov was sentenced to 3.5 years in prison after being convicted of violating freedom of conscience and religion for taking control of the convent.

On January 27, 2022, Romanov was sentenced to a total of 7 years in prison — that included his prior sentence — for additional convictions of inciting hatred against Jews and Catholics. Source. Yours truly, KH, West Midlands, UK.

Genealogy of Mass Murder A Tale of Three Lies: The Holocaust, 9/11 and the COVID Scamdemic By John Kaminski

THE COVID HOAX IS THE BASTARD GRANDCHILD OF THE HOLOCAUST, as well as the maniac son of 9/11 — both of them Frankenstein concoctions of the monsters known collectively as international Jewry, who for centuries have surreptitiously and sadistically controlled the world's money, as well as its media, its medicine and the minds of men.

Since I began seriously tracking this suppressed thread — initially from the demolition of the Twin Towers in 2001 — I began to notice two undeniable and ever expanding patterns — the increasing shrinkage of all knowledge into a premeditated formula of duplicitous propaganda (a kind of programming now blatantly observable on Google as the truth of the past systematically disappears), plus this unending and unrestrained hatred of all things German (illustrated by draconian Jewish laws against telling the truth), which have led me to several irresistible observations.

First, and most recently, the COVID scam perpetrated by the Jewish monster known as Big Pharma, never would have happened without the success of the 9/11 scam, which was engineered by the cover up provided by Big Media, another kosher monopoly which tried unsuccessfully to blame the whole charade on Muslims.

It is my unshakable conviction that the COVID scam never would have happened had the true criminals behind 9/11 been adequately identified, which they never were. These were the Jews manipulating all aspects of the conspiracy, from start to finish. They were protected by Jewish media, Jewish judges and Jewish presidential advisers. And they still are — in a closed feedback loop that may not be challenged by the deluded goyim who are being systematically herded toward their own oblivion by prohibiting them from revealing the truth of these matters.

Had they been arrested, tried, convicted and executed — as they should have been — the planners of the 9/11 caper, in concert with the Jewish owners of Big Media, covering for their Jewish hirelings in Big Government, never would have gotten away with what was then the crime of the century, but which has now been demoted to second place by this demonic worldwide effort to murder most of the world's population with demonstrably toxic injections.

Since they fooled the world about 9/11, the satanic trio of Big Pharma, Big Media and Big Government — Jewish enterprises all — proved its descent from the biggest lie of all, one that still shackles our minds today as it is mentioned every night on the evening news — Six Million Dead, oh those poor Jews!

This is the lie that captured the world, and is now on the verge of murdering most everybody in it.

It is the greatest lie ever told that has led to a tsunami of colossal lies which have now ruptured human civilization. It is crystal clear who is to blame, and you should know that right now they're coming for your life.

If you deny this, then you are working for them, and everyone should take notice that you are the enemy of everything decent and true. Unfortunately for all of us, this includes just about every single member of your Congress.

Poisoned Perceptions

The missing perceptual element throughout the 20th century that is still missing today is the pivotal fact that Jews control the media; thus everything the public eventually believes is a warped perception devoted to concealing their manipulative and largely successful greed.

The actual thread of this persistent conspiracy tracks backwards in human history as far as you wish to go, but for purposes of reasonable comprehension of the events of our own day, we take it back now to the Balfour Declaration, the promise by the English to the rich Jews who controlled them that Jews could possess the homeland they wanted in the Middle East. This document famously described by renegade Jew Benjamin Freedman triggered World War I around 1913.

Unremembered in this frenetic* fog of war were the creation of the Federal Reserve, the private Jewish group that controls America's money, as well as the ever increasing income tax, and the direct election of senators, which terminally corrupted U.S. democracy.

* Excessively agitated; distraught with fear or other violent emotion

The modern defamation of Germany, which continues to this day, dates back to the original crime of World War I in which American and British Jews turned that country into a pornographic horror story with the unfair restrictions of the Versailles Treaty, a Jewish conference that falsely blamed Germans as the sole reason for this war.

Twenty years later, after Hitler had rescued his country from this depraved depression, impartial scholarship vividly records Hitler's desire for peace and Roosevelt's secret move to arrange the invasion of Pearl Harbour as a backdoor dragging Germany into the needless conflict of World War II, which, like 9/11 and COVID, injured everybody in the world and killed many millions in the process.

What too few people realize today is that this war never ended for Germans, who still today are brainwashed into believing the Jewish version of reality and still thrown into jail for remembering the one government in world history that tried to escape from the Jews' worldwide financial control and was utterly destroyed when the Jews mobilized the corrupt world against it.

My purpose for writing a story in this way is to show how the lies used to destroy Germany in this fashion are the same lies used to mislead the world about the charade arranged, conducted and covered up by Jews on September 11, 2001, as well as the deliberately fabricated epidemic that has paralysed the entire planet in the years 2021-22.

This terrible technique once triggered by the deceptive catastrophe now known as Pearl Harbour (Above) was used to ignite World War II. Sixty years later it was blamed on invisible Arabs and became a reason for America to invade every country in the world. And now, twenty years after that, it was used to paralyse all the nations of the world using a fake test and a poison cure for a disease that didn't actually exist.

All three of these events were planned, manufactured and covered up by Jews who controlled the governments, the media, and the business community. We are describing the greatest crimes ever committed against all the non Jewish people of the world. And we are witnessing our corrupt law enforcement apparatus throughout the world failing to respond to this penultimate Jewish conspiracy because it itself, along with all the supercilious officials ostensibly in charge of our welfare, are owned by the same Jews committing these colossal crimes against humanity.

Your epitaph

The stakes are much higher now, higher than they've ever been, because the poison is now inside most everyone on Earth, and doctors not in the employ of big corporations, like Mercola, Tenpenny, Cowan and others of conscientious, noncorporate demeanor, are predicting many more will die — young people twitching their last while in the prime of life, babies coming out of their jabbed mothers wombs found inexplicably dead . . . .

We can't help but conject how all this agony is all going to turn out, but somewhere back along that trail, there was a phrase that sticks in my mind, I think it was one of JFK's: "past is prologue" . . . and it reminds me of those many stories the Jews tried to keep us from seeing, yet which nevertheless found its way to the eyes of conscientious citizens who, because they were actually human, needed to see them.

It was that moment, after all those American boys had done what they were told to do by the Jewish General Eisenhower. When the shooting had finally stopped, all those krauts were rounded up in a field in France, kept there for months, no food, no water . . . 2.1 million Germans starved to death . . .

If you're a fool who still believes mainstream (Jewish) media, refuse to believe it at your peril.

Or Dresden, where the British bombs melted unarmed refugees into the pavement so that you couldn't tell one from the other—only 750,000 there, after the war was over . . .

They say Germans today don't know what the Third Reich was all about. They aren't allowed to talk about that stuff, they can't comment when their leaders put 90-year-old women in jail for saying Germans were the good guys, and all American and Russian rapists were not—

Why was the death toll so high in Afghanistan and Iraq when no single organizer of the complex 9/11 caper was ever even named, never mind caught . . .

Do you have the courage to get the picture, or are you one of them?

Still later, it seems like yesterday, when Governor Cuomo put all those senior citizens on ventilators . . .

The Venetian Conspiracy (Part 9) By Webster G. Tarpley, Ph.D

* John Ruskin, the leading ideologue of the British Dark Ages faction, began his career with a raving treatise on architecture, The Stones of Venice (1851). This volume popularised the notion that a “Venetian Gothic” style had been developed in the better times of the city’s history (which for Ruskin ended in 1418) and it was used systematically to discredit the Golden Renaissance.

ONE STORY HAS IT THAT THE LEITMOTIF OF THE LIEBESTOD was inspired by the mournful call of a gondolier. At the end of his life Wagner moved to Palazzo Vendramin Callergi, where he died. This building, presently a gambling casino, was also the home of Count Coudenhove-Kalergi, the founder of the Pan-European Union.

* A turn-of-the-century new Roman Empire faction led by Venetian Count Volpi di Misurata (above), who was known as the doge of his era, sponsored the fascist Mussolini supporter Gabriele D’Annunzio to drum up enthusiasm for a new crusade into the Balkans and the East.

Friedrich Nietzsche loved Venice, returned there incessantly, and dedicated certain poems to the city which today can still be used in lieu of a powerful emetic. Venice was an inspiration for Lord Byron, for Thomas Mann, and so on.

* Volpi became finance minister in Mussolini’s cabinet, along with a very large number of other Venetians. D’Annunzio incited the Italians to take back Trieste, the rest of Italia Irredenta, and the Dardanelles, bringing on to centre stage the so-called Parvus Plan for dismemberment of the Ottoman and Russian empires, which is generally recognized as the detonator of World War I. It is possible that the turn-of-the-century super spook Alexander Parvus was ultimately employed by Venice.

Other examples abound of how the Venetian oligarchy’s cultural and political influence has reached down into the modern era:

* When British East India Company re-tainer Thomas Malthus published his Essay on Population he was plagiarizing from the Venetian Giammaria Ortes, who produced, around 1750, a fully developed version of the argument that geometric population growth outstrips the much slower arithmetic progress of food production.

* The Societe Europeenne de Culture, a think tank created in 1950 through the efforts of Venetian intelligence operative Umberto Campagnolo, has for the past three decades pulled intellectuals from both East and West into organizing for an “international culture,” based on rejecting the existence of sovereign nations.

*The SEC counted among its members the cream of the postwar intelligencia: Adam Schaff of Poland, Bertolt Brecht of East Germany, Georg Lukas of Hungary, and Boris Paternak of the Soviet Union, as well as Stephen Spender and Arnold Toynbee, Benedetto Croce and Norberto Bobbio, Julian Huxley and Thomas Mann, Francois Mauriac, and Jean Cocteau. Later, the SEC launched the Third World national liberation ideology.

Today, the Club of Rome is the institution that represents the most concentrated essence of Venetian influence and the Venetian method. The Club of Rome wants to convince the great powers and peoples of the world to commit collective suicide by accepting the genocidal doctrine of zero growth. It also hopes to abolish the sovereign nation as a vehicle for economic growth and scientific progress.

Club of Rome founder Aurelio Peccei has just written a new book titled One Hundred Pages For the Future, a global review of the impact of the Club of Rome, and particularly since its 1972 release of the zero-growth model Limits to Growth was published, a series of social movements has sprung up under the sponsorship of the ideas in the book.

These – the women’s movement, the peace movement, Third World national liberation movements, gay rights, civil liberties, ecologists, consumer and minority rights, etc. – must now be welded together into one movement for a single strategic goal: the implementation of a zero-growth international order.

The Venetian problem remains with us today. Truly, the most urgent task of this generation of mankind is to definitively liquidate the horror that is Venice. Source

Your Smart Phone and the Spirit World, What Fun!

Mirror, mirror on the wall,
Who is the fairest of us all?
Her lips blood red,
her hair like night,
her skin like snow,
her name snow white.

ALL COMPUTER, TELEVISION AND MOBILE PHONE SCREENS ARE BLACK with a reflective coating. But did you know there is a history behind enigmatic black screens, and they are called scrying mirrors. Divination was a widespread belief in the Middle Ages where people would look into pools of water or black mirrors allegedly to predict the future.

The most famous advisor to Elizabeth 1st was Captain John Dee, a terribly interesting character.

Born in 1527 the Renaissance thinker John Dee was interested in all sorts of mathematics, geometry, astronomy, astrology, alchemy, and the Occult. Having read quite a bit of literature on this remarkably interesting individual ultimately.

Scrying Mirror and Ball

Having existed in pre-enlightenment Europe which was a time that gave credence to all sorts of magic and things considered unholy.

He used his exploits as a scientific adviser to the Queen from 1550 to 1570 and she herself gravitated towards the supernatural.

Captain John Dee

Dee was often recited to be using such things as crystal balls and other tools of Occultic belief but the most interesting possession he had was a handheld mirror made of obsidian. This strikingly polished black mirror was of Aztec origin, but no known records exist to show how Dee managed to obtain it.

Obsidian generates diverse types of fluorescents allowing chemical composition to create patterns on the surface of the object including an individual's reflection but with a different frequency light. Obsidian as an element is only found around volcanoes so therefore has limited sources as a material. Dee's mirror matched the periodic table profile of Mexican origin and therefore was in the region of the Aztecs.

Presently there are 18 mirrors of this type in the world with some minor variations, but it is clear these were rare objects. The mirrors we thought to have been polished using bat guano and that guano was used against evil on door thresholds in the same way Salt was used in Europe to prevent evil entering the property.

He used scrying mirrors every Sunday to allegedly advise her on what he saw.

Still to this day some people claim that looking into black polished mirrors help with meditation, and others divinity. There is however something more interesting when it comes to these devices, their screens and the language that exists in their components.

Daemon is the Latin word for the Ancient Greek Daimon (God like, Power, Fate), which originally referred to a lesser deity or guiding spirit. This word was entrenched in Hellenistic religious and philosophical mythology of the time. The word derived from the Proto Indo European daimon which meant provider, divider of fortunes and destinies.

In more recent history a chap called Fernando José Corbató invented the deamon process on computing.

The name was because this kind of process is similar to the Maxwell daemon experiment (with molecules). Maxwell put this theory to his name. It is a fast way of dealing with things at a mathematical level and worth a little research.

The new super computers work using the same programs and this speed of light processing is called D-WAVE or Daemon-Wave. Deemons run the show.

When you set up any software on any electronic device, the set up assistant is actually called a Wizard. These wizards take you step by step through the process to take on board your program so you are being programmed for your Daemons.

All these de-vice-s have ports or portals to connect to the inter or ether Net.

Now let's think about the people who create this software or as they are commonly called developers but look at the word if you put the hieroglyph in, you get Devel-Loper.

The hard drives of computers are called Sata storage ( serial Sata-Attachment) which again is only one digit away from Satan.

Your iPhone, Me-Phone, My-Phone is a Personal De-Vice. De-Vice or Devils- Vice.

Consider the EYE-Phone further. SIRI in your Eye-Phone is the reverse spelling of IRIS, a component to focus the human eye.

Now consider the fact that when you look into your camera phone it is a direct reflection of yourself but, take a selfie and inversion happens, your left ear becomes your right ear and you're right eye becomes your left.

Electronic devices use electricity which is channelled like channelling, and this allows the device to perform like a servant and where do the daemons servants go when u switch the phone off?

A further question that needs to be asked is why have Samsung Galaxy called their Z flip 3-5G smart phone the black mirror edition?

The Poison Tastes So Sweet By Thomas Sewell

Go in to Babylon my son,
the cities towers peak;
You'll barely even notice how,
the poison tastes so sweet.

Don't get too caught up in the lights,
of the bright circus show;
I know we can't compete at all,
with fairy lights at home.

You've traded sounds of roosting hens,
for crowded streets and cars;
It's so busy late at night, but!

You can not see the stars.

How goods the food, you'll hear them say,
O' different kinds you'll meet;
The foreign incense masks the smell, of feces in the street.

The customs are all strange in there,
they'll dance and shout with glee;
But in the morning, sad they wake,
- it's Pharmacology!

Sly salesmen sell you shiny toys, they're custom made for you;
They make you feel so wonderful,
but so do brothels too.

They'll sell you love in plastic wrap,
it's soulless and it's cheap;
You'll sow these seeds of emptiness, and this is what you'll reap.

The old stone walls are falling down, and nothings built to last;
You won't find mothers cooking here,
it's purgatory's grasp.

Go in to Babylon my son,
go see it for your keep;
But in these words of wisdom still,
The poison tastes so sweet.
