The Pope Who Blessed the Men of Easter 1916

OVER EIGHTY YEARS ago there took place in the city of Dublin the infamous Easter Rebellion. Members of the Irish Republican Army and the Marxist Citizen Army knowing that the British Army was involved in a life-and-death struggle with Germany in the Great War, seized the General Post Office and surrounding area in Central Dublin and proclaimed an "Irish Republic". What is not so well known and what in this ecumenical age has become suppressed history, is the fact that the Irish Republican revolutionaries and murderers had received the Papal Blessing on their actions. For the aim, then as now in the 1990's was to create an all-Ireland state with Roman Catholicism as the State Religion.

THE PLOTTERS IN 1916.

Count George Noble Plunkett

BORN GEORGE Noble in Dublin and made a Papal count as a young man, he was the father of executed 1916 leader, Joseph Mary Plunkett. He was elected to the House of Commons on an abstentionist ticket at a by-election in Roscommon North in February, 1917.

Pope Benedict XV

(Latin: Benedictus XV; 21 November 1854 – 22 January 1922), born Giacomo Paolo Giovanni Battista della Chiesa, was Pope from 3 September 1914 to his death in 1922. His pontificate was largely overshadowed by World War I and its political, social and humanitarian consequences in Europe.

The historical facts were given in an exclusive article in the Irish Press of Friday May 26th, 1933 from which we now quote some extracts. When the Easter Week Uprising had been decided upon, the Executive of the Irish Volunteers, acting as the Provisional Government of the Irish Republic, sent George Noble Count Plunkett as their envoy to Pope Benedict XV to ask for his help. Let the Papal Count retell his own story as it appeared in the Irish Press newspaper:--

"I went to Rome immediately before the Rising in 1916 to communicate with His Holiness Pope Benedict XV there I was received in private audience by His Holiness for two hours, we fully discussed the coming struggle for Irish Independence. The Pope was much moved when I disclosed the fact that the date for the Rising was fixed I pledged the Irish Republic to fidelity to the Holy See (Vatican) and the interests of religion (Romanism). Then the Pope conferred His Apostolic Benediction on the men (IRA gunmen) who were facing death for Ireland's Liberty."

Is it then any wonder that the Harlot Church of Rome and the Beast of the Leftist IRA terrorism are still working towards the same aim — the destruction of Protestant Ulster as an integral part of the United Kingdom? What we face today is a continuation of the centuries-long war of genocide against the Protestant people of this land which has proceeded from 1641 to the present day. It is a war to extinguish the Light of the Gospel in Ireland.

The massacres in recent years at Whitecross, La Mon and Mountain Lodge Church, Darkley, are all blood-stained signposts on the road to Papalising Ulster. Such a day will never come for Almighty God planted our forefathers in this north-eastern part of Ireland to be His witness. Let us be an informed people, a prepared people and above all, a people trusting in our God for victory and deliverance.
