Calling The True Israel Peoples

Editorial

Dear Reader,

The Coronation of King Charles III This Month

Even before the crowning of King Charles III on May 6th there is much controversy surrounding the event, not least of which, is the wording of the coronation oath. Following enquiries to The Duke of Norfolk and the Archbishop of Canterbury on this matter the oath to be sworn by Charles has so far not been divulged.

Controversy over the Oath arose after difficulty in getting a copy of the one signed by the late Queen. When eventually a copy was obtained, it was discovered that the Queen had signed the top of the document with an underline which in law would mean everything below the line was not agreed to! A further copy of the oath was obtained indicating the line underneath had been tampered with to make it look part of the signature.

Not only that, since the last coronation, Westminster Abbey has been available as a mosque for the local Imam to call his flock to prayer!

There have been doubts expressed about the validity of the present royals since Queen Victoria as Prince Albert was unable to sire children. Her offspring were likely to stem from the Rothschilds, with its consequent impact on other European monarchies as well!

Prince Charles is a great supporter of Islam and facilitated the building of Regents Park Mosque of course Islam is a Jewish secret construct. No coincidence then, Saturday being a Jewish Sabbath - 6th day of the week and month = 66 or 6 x 11 (the number of Gog). The execution of Charles Ist was the start of the Jewish Amsterdam bankers taking control away from the monarchy perhaps the accession of Charles III will mark their demise!! Praise Yahweh, for only he knows the beginning from the end!!

Judgment Day Perspectives A Simple Refutation of the Rapture By Eli James

E-Newsletter Volume II, #2, February 23, 2005.

UNFORTUNATELY, THE PROTESTANT WORLD (AND SOME CATHOLICS TOO) HAS BECOME ENAMoured OF A VERY SINISTER DECEPTION. It is called the “Rapture Theory.” The Rapture Theory promotes the idea that “faithful Christians” will be spared the tribulations of the Judgment Day.

Somehow, whether it is through the medium of space ships taking them to outer space or angels whisking them from this corporeal reality into the astral plane, these Christians believe that they are not required to defend the Faith against the enemies of Jesus Christ. Rather, they believe that all they have to do is wait around for the day that they will be rescued from all of this.

Friends, there is hardly a more pernicious idea pervading Christendom than this one, because it has had the effect of neutralizing all those Christians who should be working for the Kingdom. Instead, they have become uninvolved in their own salvation.

Let’s look at the Scriptures whence this doctrine arises:

Matthew, Chapter 24: “But as the days of Noah were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be. For as in the days that were before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noah entered into the ark, and knew not until the flood came and took them all away; so shall also be the coming of the Son of man. Then shall two be in the field: the one shall be taken, and the other left. Two women shall be grinding at the mill; the one shall be taken, and the other left. Watch therefore: for ye know not what hour your Lord cometh.” -- Verses 37-42

This description is assumed by the rapturists to say the following: The good Christians (the rapturists) will be taken and the bad Christians and/or non-Christians will be “left behind” to endure the tribulation.

The rapturists will be taken away to some nether world where they will be sustained until it is all over. Perhaps they will even be able to observe the Great Tribulation unfolding on some screen like some exciting docudrama. Then they will be returned to earth to pick up the pieces and to presumably rebuild and rule. This is the essence of the Rapture Theory. I haven’t seen the movie, Left Behind, but I’m sure it paints the same scenario.

What are these people missing?

In the verses quoted above, it is clear that Jesus is comparing the future tribulation with the days of Noah just before the Flood “took them all away.” So, let’s look at those verses and see what they say:

“And Yahweh said unto Noah, Come thou and all thy house into the ark; for in thee have I seen righteousness before me in this generation.”-

Verse 1 “And every living substance was destroyed which was upon the face of the ground, both man and cattle, and the creeping things, and the fowl of heaven; and they were destroyed from the earth: and only Noah remained alive, and they that were with him in the ark. – Verse 23.

Now, note very carefully the use of the word “remained.” Unless I do not understand the English language, “remained” and “left behind” are synonymous. Noah and his family were the ones who remained and the others were taken away by the Flood. Is there any doubt as to who was taken versus who was left behind on the earth? It is crystal clear that it is the evil ones who were taken away by the Flood and the righteous ones who were left behind on the earth.

Now, Let's Go Back to Matthew

Verse 37 tells us, “As in the days of Noah...” Jesus is making a direct comparison between the coming tribulation and the bygone days of Noah. The evil ones were doing absolutely nothing to prepare for the day of trouble. It was “party hearty” time. Only the good people were making preparations.

The rapturists cannot be compared to the good people because they are doing absolutely nothing to prepare for the day. They may not be actively sinning, but they are certainly not promoting God's Kingdom. They have, in fact, become fat, lazy Christians.

The only “preparation” they are making is assuming their righteousness. In fact, they are merely engaged in business as usual, like Noah's contemporaries “eating and drinking, marrying, giving in marriage,” etc. The revelers of Noah's time were blissfully going about their daily activities, disobeying God's commandment to establish His Kingdom here on earth.

Verses 40 and 41 tell us, “Then shall two be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left. Two women shall be grinding at the mill; the one shall be taken, and the other left.”

Now, given the context that Jesus clearly ascribes back to the days of Noah, who is “taken” and who is “left behind?” It is clear that the people who were left behind here on earth were the good people of Noah's family. The ones who were “taken away” were the evil ones of the surrounding country. They were taken away by death. There is no other possible interpretation.

The rapturists, in order to purvey their doctrine, must Reverse the clear meaning of Genesis 7 in order to interpret Matthew 40 and 41 to mean what they claim.

Jesus is telling us that the ones who will be taken, as in the Days of Noah, will be like the evil ones who were swept away by the Flood. Contrariwise, the righteous ones, as in the Days of Noah, were “left behind” here on earth, although they had to endure a seven month ride in the ark.

The Rapturists Have Got It Backwards; and they had better start preparing for the worst, because, if you keep on reading Matthew, Chapter 24, Jesus makes it very clear who will inherit the Kingdom:

“Watch, therefore: for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come. But know this, that if the good man of the house had known in what watch the thief would come [the rapturists don't care when the thief will come because they assume they will be spared!], he would have watched, and would not have suffered his house to be broken up. [The rapturists are standing by, idly, while the house is being broken up.]

Therefore, be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh. Who then is a faithful and wise servant, whom his lord has made ruler over his household, to give them meat [instruction in the Law] in due season? Blessed is that servant, whom his lord when he cometh shall find so doing.

Verily I say unto you that he shall make him ruler over all his goods. But if that evil servant shall say in his heart,

My Lord delayeth his coming; and shall begin to smite his fellow servants, and to eat and drink with the drunken [as in the days of Noah]; the lord of that servant shall come in a day when he looketh not for him, and in an hour that he is not aware of, and shall cut him asunder, and appoint him his portion with the hypocrites: there shall be a weeping and a gnashing of teeth.” -- Verses 44-51.

If you are not actively “contending for the faith,” i.e., working for the Kingdom here on earth as in heaven (recall the meaning of the Lord’s Prayer), then you are an evil, lazy servant. Indeed, you are no servant at all.

Jude, Verse 3, has this to say: “Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of the common salvation [for true Israel], it was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort that ye should earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints [not to the antinomians and dispensationalists!].”

Notice the definite article ‘the’ in front of the word ‘faith.’ Does this mean any old faith that one might happen to entertain, or is this a reference to the Faith of Our Fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob? Unlike our modern antinomians, whose faith is in Jesus rather than the faith of Jesus, the saints of old had faith in God’s Law.

In essence, modern Christianity puts more stock in the personality of Jesus, as a roving one-man cavalry, riding in to save us from ourselves. The Biblical Jesus, however, is one who exhorts us to obey His Law and to follow His example. Is modern Christianity following His example? Didn’t He overturn the tables of the money-changers? Hasn’t modern Christianity let the moneychangers back into the temple?

The Rapturists belong to that very same school of non-activist, un-contentious, “don’t rock the boat” Christians (unlike those activists who founded Christianity in the face of both Roman imperialism and rabbinical persecution) who have stood by and watched the household being torn asunder by the antinomians and the “Judeo-Christians.” How can you inherit that which you have failed to protect?

“If ye love me, obey my commandments.” -- John 14:15.

Biblical Christians know that if they put their trust in Yah’s Law, the nation will prosper. (See II Chronicles 7:14.) The problem is that modern Christianity has become heretical and Pharisaic, teaching the doctrines of men instead of the Law of God.

Elaborating on this subject, in the very next Chapter, right after the parable of the wise and foolish virgins, Jesus gives us the parable of the unprofitable servant. In this parable, the master of the household gives three different servants five, two and one talents respectively. (It seems to me that the double meaning of the word 'talent' is really beautiful here.)

The housemaster praises the two servants who doubled their talents but he rebukes the holder of the one talent because he simply buried the coin and did nothing with it.

In verses 29 and 30, Jesus tells us:

"For unto everyone that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance: but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath. And cast ye the unprofitable servant into outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth."

I can hear the wailing and the grinding of teeth when the rapturists find out how wrong they have been.

"That the trial of your faith, being much more precious than gold that perisheth, though it be tried with fire, might be found unto praise and honor and glory at the appearing of Jesus Christ." -- I Peter 1: 7.

Those who are doing absolutely nothing but waiting around for the Rapture, contrary to the clear admonition of our Lord to maintain His household and obey His commandments, are the very people who will be counted among the hypocrites when the Bridegroom comes to claim his Bride [Israel restored], for they assume that their faith will excuse them from the firestorm when Scripture clearly tells us that our faith is to be tried by fire.

"And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie: That they all might be damned who believe not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness." -- II Thess. 2: 11,12.

What greater delusion could there be than believing that mere faith, as opposed to practicing the righteousness of Yahweh's Law, is all that is required for salvation! Did any of the prophets say that it would be that easy????? The dispensationalists and antinomians who say that the Old Testament is a "Jewish book" that has no relevance to the modern "Christian" church should read the book of Job to find out what real faith is. Job lost all of his earthly possessions, including his children.

After enduring all of these things, Job declared: "Behold, happy is the man whom God correcteth: therefore despise not thou the chastening of the Almighty." (Job 5:10) Also: "When He hath tried me, I shall come forth as gold." (23:10.) The author of the book of Job tells us: "In all this Job sinned not, nor charged God foolishly." (1:22.) Of these modern, fair weather Christians, I would ask: How does your "faith" compare with Job's? Are you absolutely, one hundred per cent positive that the Old Testament is irrelevant?

Can the rapturists, who are sitting around wasting their talents, be considered "profitable servants"? Is their "do nothing" attitude in these times of crisis acceptable to Jesus? I don't think so! The rapturists' delusion is one of grandiose self-flattery: "Our faith is so strong that we will be spared the fire," they proclaim! How self-serving and convenient!

On the contrary, they have substituted a delusion for the Faith, and I guarantee that they will be second in line, right after the false priests of “Judeo-Christianity,” to be cast into the fire for their failure to heed Scriptural warnings about the true nature of the tribulation and the Judgment Day. They will be “taken away” all right, but in the same manner as the evil ones of Noah’s day. They will be taken away by death.

2.) They have unwittingly obviated the need for the Tribulation because they have replaced God’s Law with antinomian “faith,” thus removing the Scriptural basis (righteousness versus unrighteousness) for the Judgment Day and the very tribulation from which they falsely expect to be spared.

Finally, Matthew 10:22 puts it this way: “And ye shall be hated of all men for my name’s sake: but he that endureth to the end shall be saved.”

3.) They have fallen into a delusion of self-flattery, claiming that their vague, emotion-laden concept of “faith,” even though it denies the validity of the Law, is sufficient for salvation.

Does it say “he that is raptured before the end shall be saved”? And, incidentally, nobody hates the rapturists because they are the least controversial of all Christians! Since they have effectively removed themselves from the scene and from contention, nobody pays them enough attention to warrant hatred – certainly not the sworn enemies of Jesus Christ!

4.) They have opted for the easy way out, contrary to the clear pronouncements of Scripture which tell us that we must be “tried by fire” and that we must “endure to the end.” In short, they have become Christian couch potatoes whose heads are so far up in the clouds that they are no earthly good. Amen.

How can you hate an “enemy” whose only plan is to leave the battlefield? Can you hear the enemy saying “Good riddance!” and “Have a nice trip”? “See you after the battle!” “Don’t bother to come back!”

There will indeed be a rapture of the saints; but the “rapture” will be the joy they experience after they have endured to the end. Frankly, I wouldn’t miss it for the world. I want to savor the victory. Being “chastened,” “tried,” and “made pure as gold” should be considered an honour, not something to be avoided. Gird your loins and buckle your seatbelts, the roller coaster leaves in five minutes! Maybe sooner! (Please share this message with any rapturists you might know. They need to hear it more than anyone else!)

In summary, I would like to say that the rapturists are Scripturally wrong on four major points:

1.) They have reversed the meaning of Jesus Christ’s prophecy regarding who will be taken and who will be left behind.

Old Testament
“Word for Word” Exodus Part 16
Translation by Stephen Howard Anderson

Chapter 21

- 1. Now these are the judgements which you shall set before them:
- 2. If you buy a servant that is an Ibriy 5680, six years shall he serve: and in the seventh he shall go free for nothing.
- 3. If he came in by himself, he shall go out by himself: if he possessed a wife, then his wife shall go out with him.

4. If his master 113 has given him a wife, and she has born him sons or daughters; the wife and the children shall be her master's, and he shall go out by himself.

5. And if the servant shall plainly say, 'I love my master, my wife, and my children; I will not go out free:

6. Then shall bring his master him to the judges 430; shall bring he him to the door or to the door post; and shall bore his master through his ear with an awl; and shall serve he him forever.

7. And if a man sells his daughter to be a maidservant, she shall not go out as the menservants do.

8. If she is displeasing 7451 in the eyes of her master, who has not betrothed 3259 her to himself, then he shall let her be redeemed 6299: he has no power 4910 to sell 4376 her to people of another race 5237, seeing as he has dealt deceitfully 898 with her.

9. And if he has betrothed her to his son, he shall do with her after the manner of daughters.

10. If he takes him another wife, her food 7607, her clothing 3682, and her right of cohabitation 5772 he shall not diminish 1639.

11. And if he does not do these three things for her, then she shall go out free without money.

12. He that smites a man so that he dies, shall surely be put to death.

13. And if a man does not lie in wait 6658, but Elohiym delivers 579 him into his hand; then

I will appoint 7760 to you a place 4725 where he may flee.

14. But if a man comes presumptuously 2102 upon another person, to slay him by trickery 6195; you shall take him from My altar, so that he may die.

15. And he that smites his father, or his mother, shall surely be put to death.

16. And he that steals 1589 a man, and sells 4376 him, or if he is found in his possession, he shall surely be put to death.

17. And he that curses 7043 his father, or his mother, shall surely be put to death.

18. And if men fight 7378, and one smites another with a stone, or with his fist, and he does not die, but is bedridden 5307/4904:

19. if he rises up and walks outside on his staff 4938, then he that smote him shall be free from punishment 5352: except he shall pay for his loss of time 7674, and shall make sure that he is thoroughly healed.

20. And if a man smites his Hebrew servant, or his Hebrew maid, with a rod 7626, and he dies under his hand; he shall surely be avenged 5358/5358.

21. Notwithstanding 389, if he arises in a day or two, he shall not be avenged: for he is bought with his money.

22. If men fight, and cause injury 5062 to a pregnant 2030 woman, so that her unborn child 3206 goes forth from her, and yet no bodily harm 611 follows: he shall be punished with a fine 6064, according to as the woman's husband will lay on him; and he shall pay as the magistrate 6414 determines.

23. And if bodily harm follows, then you shall give 5414 life 5315 in place of 8478 life,

24. Eye 5869 in place of eye, tooth 8127 in place of tooth, hand 3027 in place of hand, foot 7272 in place of foot,

25. Burning 3555 in place of burning, wound 6482 in place of wound, stripe 2250 in place of stripe.

26. And if a man smite the eye of his Hebrew servant, or the eye of his Hebrew maid, that it is destroyed 7843; he shall let him go free in place of his eye.

27. And if he smite out his Hebrew manservant's tooth, he shall let him go free in place of his tooth.

28. If an ox gores 5055 a man or a woman, and they die, then the ox shall surely be stoned 5619, and its flesh shall not be eaten; but the owner of the ox shall be free from punishment.

29. But if the ox was known to gore with its horn in time past, and it has been testified 5749 to its owner, and he has not kept it in, but it has killed a man or a woman, the ox shall be stoned, and the owner shall also be put to death.

30. Or if there is laid on him a sum of money 3724, then he shall give for the ransom 6306 of his life whatsoever is laid upon him.

31. Whether it has gored a son, or has gored a daughter, according to this judgement it shall be done to him.

32. If the ox shall gore a male slave or a female slave; he shall give to their master thirty shekels 8255 of silver, and the ox shall be stoned.

33. And if a man shall open a pit 953, or if a man shall dig a pit, and not cover it, and an ox or an ass falls into it;

34. the owner of the pit shall make restitution 7999, and shall give money to the owner of them; and the dead beast shall be his.

35. And if one man's ox injures 5062 another's, that it dies; then they shall sell the live ox, and divide the money of it; and the dead ox they shall also divide.

36. Or if it is known that the ox has gored in times past, and his owner has not kept him in; he shall surely pay ox in place of ox; and the dead shall be his own.

37. If a man shall steal 1589 an ox or a sheep, and kill it, or sell 4376 it; he shall restore five oxen in place of an ox, and four sheep in place of a sheep.

Chapter 21 Notes

Verse 2 - This concerns only Hebrew servants. Non-adamic "beasts" were never to be freed.

Verses 2-6 - Lev. 25:39-46

Verse 4 - women servants has a different status than male servants.

Verses 7-11 concern a daughter of Yisrael that was sold to become a wife or concubine. She had certain rights as an Israelite, but not as much as a son. Her purchase conveyed certain obligations concerning her treatment, and if her rights were violated she was to be returned, and her bond price was lost to the purchaser. The master or his son could marry her. If the husband took another wife, the status of the first wife must be maintained, including the right to marital relations (sex).

Verse 12 - It is quite clear as to murderers and the punishment for that crime. Lev. 24:17

Verse 13 - If it was not premeditated, the killer could go to a city of refuge. Num. 35:10-34; Deut. 19:1-13; Josh. 20:1-9

Verse 14 - Premeditated murder was punished by death. Verse 15 - Anyone that struck his parents was put to death. Verse 16 - A kidnapper is to be killed. Deut. 24:7

Verse 17 - Cursing your parents was punished by death. Lev. 20:9; Matt. 15:4; Mark 7:10

Verses 18 and 19 - If you injured a man during a fight, you were responsible for making sure he was healed, and paying for his lost time.

Verse 20 - If the servant in question is of Yisrael, the death of any Israelite was to be avenged. Not so with non-adamic "beasts".

Verse 21 - If the injured servant got up in a day or so, there was no penalty, as he was considered property while serving out his bond-price for six years.

Verses 22- 25 - If you injured a pregnant woman during a fight, and she lost the child, you paid a fine determined by her husband, but if she sustained serious harm, whatever you did to her was to be done to you.

Verse 24 - Lev. 24:19,20; Deut. 19:21; Matt. 5:38

Verse 32 - Thirty shekels of silver was the price for the life of a non-Israelite slave. This is the price paid by the Pharisees for the betrayal of Yahshua Messiah.

Verse 37 is 22:1 in the KJV and others.

The Hoskins Report Chapter 162 America Through Chinese Eyes

"The ultimate success is victory gained without fighting." Sun Zi

An HR reader sent me a copy of a 1999 Chinese Intelligence report projecting their opinion of American military capability through the year 2020. This sort of game-planning is done by all countries. This one was particularly interesting since it is a peek into the Chinese mind guessing how American military thinking will, or will not, affect them[1].

Background

The Chinese view Americans as a simplistic people who view warfare in a simplistic sense - sort of a frontiersman and his rifle taking a bead on an enemy - with today's guided missile, radar, air strikes, naval bombardment, news propaganda, etc. taking the place of the rifle. They try to guess how this American thinking will react to outside stimuli and to their own more subtle deceptive approach which has countless facets and combinations. The following is the list of "five heroes" two of China's military thinkers consider to be leader types of tomorrow's wars.

The Chinese intelligence report, "Unrestricted Warfare", states that the Jan 17, 1991, Desert Storm's 42-day-war obliterated traditional thinking about war. Theories, techniques, and methods of conquest used for the last 500 years have been erased. Those refusing to recognize this fact will be hopelessly outdistanced in the days ahead.

They believe that the world is presently still sifting through the intellectual rubble left by the Gulf War. It is trying to piece together a coherent vision of "what happened"? Was this war a one time accomplishment? Did the Americans stumble on a revolutionary new war concept or was that desert war really the doorway to future war?

They conclude that it is now obvious that the helicopter and the "obsolete" prop-driven plane armed with "smart missiles" have become new weapons and now dominate the battlefield by removing the tank. They now see tanks as expensive moving death traps or political toys. They even conclude that it is possible the helicopter and prop anti-tank planes are themselves possibly outdated by the introduction of a lone soldier armed with a cheap missile launcher launching smart missiles.

The thing that really seems to impress them are the more devious plots - and plots within plots. The analysts barely disguised their admiration for the Saddam Hussein (above) affair - a friend, surrogate and confidant of the US - destroyed by the very US who brought him up from obscurity, the ones who made him leader of a country, paid him, armed him, used him and destroyed him!

They see the US as busily moving about the world pulling down leaders and setting up puppets. Are these new leaders be used like Hussein? Will this work again and again? To what purpose?

Then there was the skilful use of media atrocity disinformation to form public opinion in America's favour - the downside of which has been the destruction of American believability. The list continues with this just scratching the surface.

There is this thing they note as a very visible fact: "In the aftermath of Desert Storm, the US has not been able to again achieve a single commendable victory. Whether in Somalia or Bosnia- Herzegovina." The on-going Iraq affair seems to confirm this observation.

The Chinese report refers to the American National Defence Report for 1996, 1997, 1998 which shows America's concern that areas like Iraq, Iran, the Middle East, and the Korean Peninsula being possibly able to stage threats of another nature - like spreading nuclear, biological and chemical technology; sponsoring terrorist warfare, engaging in drug warfare and promoting out-of- control immigration, and creating threats of large-scale anti-personnel weapons of various sorts. They conclude, however, that while countries able to rival the US in the conventional military sense will not appear prior to the year 2015, American military and civilian leaders are more anxious and fearful of the "unknown." This makes American "reaction" unknowable, and possibly dangerous to everyone in the world.

Five Heroes

It is agreed that America is light years ahead in space and military battlefield technology but, Chinese Intelligence sees new and different kinds of battlefields in the future.

They point to five individuals whom they consider hero types of the new age, each representing a new type that becomes many variations when combined with others. These hero types may be harbingers of this new age warfare. These five are: George Soros (above) - financial speculator, Bin Laden - Islamic terrorist, Escobar - drug dealer, Matsumoto - founder of "Aum Shinrikyo", and Kevin Mitnick - computer hacker.

1. - George Soros - Economic War

George Soros, a financial speculator, brought down the economies of a dozen countries. In the opinion of the Chinese, he created more damage and destruction than could be caused by conventional warfare.

What happened was this: "Overnight billionaire" Soros used the money-media monopoly and his own ability to hire expert financial manipulators and politicians. This opened the door to collapse the economies of a dozen or so Asian countries. Their collapse reduced the assets of these countries to pennies on the dollar allowing Soros agents to sweep the depreciated assets into Cartel corporations for a pittance. Soros is very good at what he does. They consider him a "dangerous pirate," one of the five most dangerous people in the world.

British opium dealings in China - both of which are why China believes nothing the West has to say about anything.

2- Bin Laden - Terror

Bin Laden is a household name, war; Bin Laden - terror the well known shadowy ubiquitous warrior for Islam. China sees him as tomorrow's example of a "terrorist" that illustrates the potentials of this type of operation.

Assuming that bin Laden actually exists, the next concern among thinking elements of the Saxon nation is whether or not this warrior for Islam is actually an Islamic nationalist and saviour or another Cartel created Saddam Hussin strawman?

If he is a true Islamic nationalist - his religion is enough to cause the West to stay alert. If a Cartel media-creation - and if Islam accepts him as their leader - he will attempt to lead Islam back into the Cartel box from which it is trying to escape.

The Chinese intelligence concern is whether or not "terrorism" in its countless forms will become the weapon of choice by the world's many enslaved nations. If this becomes a reality - there is presently no defence against it in spite of government eyewash and a possible age-of-chaos that lies ahead.

3. - Escobar - Drugs

Escobar - a notorious international drug smuggler. His political contacts give him the connections needed to create drug chaos. Westerners tend to look on Escobar as if he were just a comer drug-dealer. He represents more than that in the eyes of Chinese. Escobar stirs memories of China's 1800's Opium Wars and

Opium Wars

British-India produced opium. British merchants controlling India's opium production needed a market. They selected China. At that time Europe looked on China as they looked on black Africa - "A melon to be sliced", and slice it they did - again and again.

David Sassoon was Britain's agent. According to the "Jewish Universal Ency. 1904 edition, Sassoon is the name of a family of merchants, industrialists and bankers who originated in Baghdad and lived in Bombay, India. The Indian Sassoon company had branches and interests in Calcutta, Shanghai, Canton, Hong Kong, Yokohama, Nagasaki, and other cities in Japan. The British gave this company a monopoly of the opium-trade in addition to trade monopolies in Indian yam, and Lancashire cotton goods.

For security reasons the Sassoon company employed only Jews in its business. To keep them focused and conditioned, synagogues and schools were built for them. Whole families were imported from Baghdad. The synagogues served the same purpose that government public schools and corporation-financed colleges and seminaries serve the in the West.

Aum recruited young university graduate scientists and put them to work developing biological and chemical weapons.

One of their first attacks was in 1994 which killed 7 people. After the larger 1995 subway attack it was discovered that Aum had stockpiled hundreds of tons of chemicals destined to be made into enough sarin gas to kill millions. The cult had even procured a helicopter to distribute the gas.

Members took the sarin gas in liquid form in lunch boxes and drink bottles and placed the containers in the subway. They punctured the containers with sharpened umbrellas and walked away. The results were spectacular.

Aum also experimented with biological agents, including anthrax and botulism. These biological attacks failed because the germs used were not sufficiently virulent.

We remember that in WWII Japanese willingly stepped into Bakka rocket bombs, were bolted into human torpedoes, and flew Kamikazi planes on one-way trips to destroy their enemy along with themselves. We remember that when hope of victory was lost on the battlefield the survivors committed suicide by the thousands. Many Westerners can't comprehend this mindset.

The Japanese are not alone in this. There are stories about Chinese acting in a similar manner, and daily headlines chronicle ongoing Iraqi and Palestinian human bombs that destroy both the bombers and their enemies. This self-destructive aspect is found in many cultures, and many individuals of these cultures have been brought to live in Western lands[3].

The Real Axis of Evil

Monsters in Our Midst — the U.S., Britain, and Israel

ED:(Its not the people of Britain and the USA that are monsters, but those infiltrating non Adamites that have taken control)

SOMETIMES, AFTER A LONG STORM, the wind eventually blows the clouds away, and the sunlight shines through, revealing a familiar landscape that has never looked so different to us, which comes as a tragic and emotional shock when we realize the time we've squandered refusing to see the beauty right in front of us and the lives we've wasted believing things that in this new light of day we now know for certain were not true.

As I have said many times before in an inarticulate and unformed way, the great tragedy of the 9/11/2001 debacle — in which thousands of Americans lost their lives in a cynical stratagem designed to increase the bloody profits of the weapons makers — was a failure to see how this evil pattern of treason from within was actually the design template of American political behaviour throughout the 20th century.

First, by covert financial assistance followed by widespread aspersion and calculated provocation, we create our desired enemy, always with the ultimate aim of reaping fabulous profits from the sale of weapons and the theft of resources down the line.

This design template realizes itself most recently in the creation of Osama bin Laden and the so-called Muslim terror threat, which has now culminated in the disaster in New York City and a schedule of endless wars, now underway, that threatens to destroy the entire planet with its spread of radioactivity and the reduction of all humans everywhere to economic prisoners of this evil game.

Saddam Hussein as well was a creation of the American CIA, which nourished him as a reliable, dual purpose lackey who when the time was right could either be counted on to assist in the repression of those from whom the Western tyrants wanted to steal, or morphed into an evil villain who could then be conveniently destroyed, each course achieving the same objective — total control of the hapless dupes in possession of the coveted resources.

Though it's crystal clear now to many who realize that American aggression throughout the world is always kindled from the devious minds in Washington who put profit before principle, it is not so clear — owing to the multi-layered media mind-lock that forever keeps Americans blocked from seeing objective political reality — how the U.S. has accomplished and perfected this demonic practice of creating conflict as a way to sustain its own affluence.

Again, the great tragedy of 9/11 is that people were afforded the opportunity to look through a window at America's political behaviour in real life and in real time, but instead decided to look the other way.

America's corporate and financial leadership participated in the formulation, execution and cover up of these fake foreign invaders for the purpose of profit, much in the same way as Vietnam was created out of fiction, as Nicaragua was oppressed based on propagandistic fairy tales, and as hundreds of other foreign incursions were triggered by public relations schemes emanating from Washington.

This sorry lineage goes all the way back (if not further) to the Spanish American War of 1898, in which an accidental (or perhaps self-inflicted) explosion in Cuba led to the creation and worldwide ejaculation of what we now know as the American war machine.

But the clearest — and most horrifying — glimpse connecting 9/11 to America's past deceptions goes directly to World War II — the so-called good war, which paralyses the American psyche in a way no other event has before or since.

Like all the other American military interventions overseas, World War II was about reviving the American economy after a devastating depression had reduced the vast majority of U.S. residents to painful poverty.

Today, the object lesson of World War II

manifests itself most vividly in the obscene proliferation of Holocaust museums, which constantly remind us that Jews were victims of Aryan genocide. It is a perfect psychological cover for the one thread that connects all the major wars of the 20th century.

Few people today remember the pivotal event of World War I, an event known as the Balfour declaration. President Woodrow Wilson campaigned for re-election in 1914 on a peace platform, and vowed to keep America out of the Great War then consuming the European continent. After he was re-elected however, he changed his mind. Why is a question that can be traced to a single document.

England was losing the war, badly. In a letter to Lord Rothschild, power behind the budding Zionist enterprise, Arthur Balfour promised Britain would look favorably upon a plan to create a homeland in Palestine for the Jews.

Suddenly, Wilson changed his mind. Some say it was because he was blackmailed over a secret lover. Others insist it was his Jewish handlers. Whatever the cause, many tens of thousands of Americans lost their lives in World War I because of a promise by Britain to Zionists to steal Palestine from its Arab inhabitants and create a Jewish homeland.

Few people today remember the seminal causes of World War II, either. After a demonstrably unfair settlement to conclude World War I (some say engineered by Wilson's Jewish adviser, Colonel House) depriving Germany of all its gold, Hitler came to power and resuscitated the German economy at the very moment the entire rest of the world was ravaged by a bank-created economic meltdown, now known as the Great Depression.

Using a barter trade system that completely circumvented control of the Jewish-dominated banking system (and getting help from American quislings among whom were the ancestors of George W. Bush - above), Hitler made Germany into an economic power when the rest of the Western world had been reduced to poverty-stricken chaos.

Because of the unfair treatment Germany had received during the creation of the Treaty of Versailles concluding World War I, and because Jewish bankers engineered that rip-off, Hitler began systematically stripping Jews of their power in Germany. In 1933, world Jewry declared economic war on Germany, a fact well-documented in the history books.

Treaty of Versailles

The move did little to curb Germany's economic success, as I say, at the exact time America was suffering the dire consequences of its Great Depression.

Further, Zionists worked out a deal with Hitler to not only fleece Jews in Germany, but to help some of them emigrate to Palestine, but only the Jews who Zionist officials deemed worthy to help start a new Jewish state were eligible. The remainder of the Jews were abandoned by the Zionist enterprise.

The epiphany that connects 9/11 to World War II is that there does not exist any non-Jewish written evidence supporting the contention that Hitler had a plan to exterminate Jews. It is true that once Hitler realized in 1942 that the Zionists with whom he had a working arrangement to help colonize Palestine had switched their allegiance to the British that he began rounding up Jews with renewed zeal.

But there is no written evidence among German documents (and Germans were and are notoriously meticulous record-keepers) that there was any plan for what is now known as the Holocaust. Nor is there any hard, non-Jewish evidence of so-called gas chambers. The Jews who did die — certainly not 6 million — perished from either malnutrition or typhus.

Now, in many European countries, there are laws prohibiting anyone from voicing these assertions. Freedom of speech around the world has been killed by Zionist Jews.

In fact, the Holocaust industry (as it is known today) did not really begin to capture the popular imagination until after the first Kennedy assassination, almost 20 years after WW II ended.

Sad to say — and it will horrify many so-called conscious and compassionate observers — but you can't clearly see the horrendous deception forced to the world about Arab terror and the Muslim threat without first seeing the colossal hoax of World War Two's so-called Holocaust, which gives the architects of the Jewish homeland a free pass to work their sinister strategies against the entire world.

And when you do see the Holofoax and 9/11 in the same wan light, you can also see how the Soviet threat was fabricated in the late 1940's to accelerate the profits of the arms makers. And possibly — if you research it — you can understand how Wall Street funded Hitler and the Bolshevik revolution was triggered by a battalion of Jews from Brooklyn.

Hitler, bin Laden, Saddam. Targets created by the Western powers to reap huge profits from the sale of armaments and the robbery of resources. The cost in innocent lives has never been a concern to those who reap those profits, and is of no concern today.

This is what we should have realized two years ago when we watched the rubble in downtown New York City being carted away and dispersed to foreign countries before a proper forensic investigation could be conducted.

Arabs in an Afghani cave (built with CIA money, by the way) could not have dreamed up this complex a scheme, involving the deliberate stand-down of America's air defences, the bribery of a plethora of American officials who assisted in a very profitable manipulation of the stock market, and the planting and endless regurgitation of the fantastic fable by the Jewish media.

One fact about the so-called Arab hijackers that is rarely mentioned nowadays is that they were shadowed during their entire flight school follies by a complex network of Israeli "art students" who were quickly spirited out of the country after the dirty deeds were done. Also, many of the "hijackers" have been found alive, living comfortably in other countries, and no attempt has been made by American authorities to rectify this transparent error in the cynical cover story about 9/11.

Now, I am not so naive as to believe that naked power does not rule this world. It has since the Assyrian war machine first massed its phalanxes against the feckless villagers of the Fertile Crescent some five millennia ago.

The sad part is that in 5,000 years later, human nature has not evolved one iota, and in the very villages where Sargon and Nabonidus and Xerxes (left) once slaughtered innocent families simply trying to live their lives, now two George Bushes have continued the same primitive practice of killing without mercy in order to steal without conscience.

I am not so naive as to believe that if America, Britain and Israel weren't busily trying to co-opt and prostitute all the nations of the world, then somebody else would be attempting the same stunt. It still doesn't make it right.

From our own so-called modern perspective, it was Britain that first mastered this evil strategy, and built up an empire on which the sun never set by claiming they were bringing civilization to unenlightened regions, but really they were just smuggling drugs, opium, to be precise.

Perhaps to be fair, the British learned this technique from the Spanish, the Dutch, or the French, or the Romans, the Greeks or the Persians.

The Americans simply copied the British model, but there exists strong evidence that the U.S. didn't adopt this model until the Zionists began to enter into the halls of public power at the end of the 19th century.

Since that time, in what has been called the American century but might better be termed — considering Einstein, Freud, and the New York Times et al — the Jewish century, we have seen the continuation of mass murder covered up by lies, of oppression masked as economic opportunity, and of a so-called civilized society slaughtering innocent indigenents for profit, and then sitting back smugly while praising their own humanitarian self-satisfaction.

The real axis of evil (to borrow a phrase from a certain low IQ politician who brays about his religion but has no real concept of its principles, like Thou Shalt Not Kill) is the United States of America, Great Britain, and the Jewish homeland.

The U.S. is the triggerman, which trumpets its hallowed legacy of individual freedom as an excuse for depriving others around the world of that very thing.

Britain is the architect, which perfected its colonial plan and then exported it to America, and retained real wealth in a subterranean way even as it pauperised its own people (something America is doing right now).

Israel, the Jewish homeland, is the tumour that facilitates the cancer's spreading, working its malevolent deceptions so greed triumphs over compassion and survival is everything, even though because of that philosophy the planet is dying, and so is every species on it.

It is wrong to blame Jews for inventing this kind of behaviour, because they have only copied it from the other tyrannies of history. But with the sanction of their holy books, particularly the notorious Sanhedrin, which approves of their lying and sanctifies the robbery and killing of non-Jews with no penalty, we can all be sure that this conscienceless behaviour will not be corrected as long as Judaism exists.

There are other, lesser accomplices in this great crime, like France, Australia and Japan, feigning fits of conscience while all the while remaining alert for trickle-down largesse, like perverts dawdling outside the brothel door, hoping for glimpses of flesh that will trigger their pathological spasms of voyeuristic satisfaction.

Once upon a time, America had no real enemies, only friends wanting to be just like us, a land of freedom and opportunity where everyone could get a fresh start.

Now it comes to pass that America has no real friends, only embittered former allies, resentful of the exploitation America has made them suffer with its wars and its graft. Now they all want to destroy us, and justifiably too.

In a way it's ironic. Now that America has revealed itself as a killer nation eager to steal and plunder from every other nation on earth, every other nation on earth still wants to be just like us. This is the world we have wrought, and the dark future we have charted for ourselves, as a result of the shrewd governance of the real axis of evil, which is the U.S., Britain, and Israel.

The End

Its a Wonderful Race (Part 2)

By James Bronson
Adapted by Jack Lewis

"TELEPHONE?" REPLIED THE ANGEL. "There are no telephones here. Alexander Graham Bell was another evil White man, so he never existed. No Europeans, remember?"

"Forget it, then," replied George. "I'll sleep in the damn cave!" Upon arriving at the cave, a shivering George asked Clarence for a lighter so that he could light a fire. "A lighter?" replied Clarence. "There are no lighters here, and no matches. Those are European gadgets, and evil Europeans never existed, remember? If you want to get warm, you need to do like the locals do – and start rubbing twigs together.

"Oh come on, man! You mean to tell me these people still rub sticks together for fire?"

"These people"? What do you mean by 'These people'?" mocked the angel. "Oh you know what I mean Clarence!"

"George. These Indians live exactly as they did before the evil White man arrived from Europe just a few centuries ago," said the angel.

"I refuse to stay in this cold cave, and I damn sure ain't gonna light a fire with twigs, and I refuse to sleep in a teepee! I'll go to Africa. I can make it in a warmer climate, and I'll adapt quickly to the great African civilizations that surely will have developed by now. Which way to the nearest airport?" "Airport?" said Clarence. "There are no airplanes here George. The Wright Brothers, those evil White inventors of the airplane, were never born.

This is a world without Whites, remember?" Oh." said George sheepishly. "How about a ship then?"

"Ships?" laughed the angel. "I'm afraid the most seaworthy rafts available to you won't be much help in crossing the vast Atlantic Ocean. The great Viking sailors and European navigators never existed. No Phoenicians, no Leif Erikson, no Henry the Navigator, no Columbus, no Magellan, no Hudson and no Robert Fulton. Even if you could build your own ship, there would be no compass for you to navigate with and no sextant either. I'm afraid you're stuck here George."

George fell silent. Clarence then said: "OK George. I'll let you cheat a bit. Grab onto my magic coat tail and we'll fly to Africa."

"Cool!" said George.

When they arrived in Africa, George saw thousands of half-naked African tribesmen being herded along a dirt path. They were guarded by other Africans with spears. "What are they doing to those poor men?" George asked Clarence.

"They are being enslaved by another tribe. Slavery was common in Africa long before the Whites arrived." Clarence said. "In fact, most of the slaves who were shipped to the Americas were sold to the mostly Jewish slave traders by African tribal leaders."

"This is an outrage!" George shrieked. "Take me to Dr. Martin Luther King. Since his evil White assassin never existed, this great man will still be alive.

He's probably a great King somewhere, leader of an advanced civilization. He will free the slaves from their African masters. Take me to him, Clarence."

"George, are you sure you want to do this?" "Take me to him now!" George shouted back. "All right. All right. Follow me George." Clarence led George to a little hut deep in the heart of Africa. The naked women and children gazed upon white George in wonder. Most of the young men were out on a hunt the older men stayed behind. George was led to the hut of the tribal witch doctor and spiritual leader. There he saw a wild-looking man, covered in smelly animal skins.

"What the hell is that?" George asked

"Meet witch doctor Matuno Luta Kinga" Clarence said. "He never became Dr. Martin Luther King because there were no universities or seminaries built to educate him. Europeans weren't there to create such opportunities. But he did become the tribe's spiritual leader. He specializes in casting spells. Perhaps he can help You?"

The "doctor" gazed in wonder at George. Then he motioned to his henchmen to seize young George. The tribesmen grabbed George and tied him to a tree. "Stop it! Let me go! What are they going to do to me?" cried George hysterically "They're going to cut your balls off George. The good doctor King—I mean Kinga -- believes that by castrating you while you are still alive, it will bring good fortune and fertility to his tribe.

"Ah the benefits of modern medicine." laughed Clarence.

"Clarence! Clarence! Help me, Clarence! Help me!" "But George, you told me that you wanted to go to Africa and to meet your hero, Reverend King.

"Terrified, George replied: "This part of Africa has not developed yet. I can see that now. Take me to North Africa where Egypt and Carthage established great civilizations. Just get me out of here! Please Clarence please! Clarence!"

Just as the witch doctor's blade was about to carve out George's testicles, George vanished into thin air. He then found himself on the banks of the river in Egypt.

"Thank you Clarence. Thank you," George said. "I don't understand it Clarence. Why does so much of the world remain so brutal and primitive? I learned during Black History Month about many talented black inventors and scientists. Garrett Morgan, George Washington Carver, Benjamin Banneker, Granville Woods.

Then there's Dr. Carson, the top brain surgeon in all of America. "Where are these men?"

Clarence replied: "Don't you understand yet? America, and Africa, exist exactly as they did before the Europeans discovered them. Civilization as you had known it had only been introduced to these people just a few centuries ago by the Europeans.

There are no universities, no hospitals, no means of transportation other than animals, no science, no medicine, no machines. In fact, the wheel hasn't even been discovered in Sub-Saharan Africa!

Those black scientists, inventors, doctors, athletes, and entertainers you speak of were never given the opportunity to realize their full human potential because Europeans weren't around to introduce higher civilization and learning to them. There are no George Washington Carvers in this non European world, no Dr. Carsons, no Booker T. Washingtons, no Benjamin Bannekers, no Michael Jordans, no Granville T Woods, no Oprah Winfreys, no Bill Cosbys, no Barack Obamas--."

"No cars! Damn! I'll just take a train to the pyramids then."

"Clarence shook his head in wonder at George's Stupidity:" "There are no trains in this world either, George. Evil White Europeans weren't here to build"

"Stop it! That's a racist lie!" cried George. "Let's drive over to the great pyramids of Egypt right now and I'll show you one of the great wonders of the world —built by non-Whites!

"OK Clarence. But we go, I need to use the bathroom. Is there a pay toilet around here?"

Get me a car Clarence!"

"Toilets?" replied the angel. "There are no toilets or urinals in this world. Plumbing was by evil white Europeans. The people in this non-White world still relieve themselves in open fields."

"A car? asked Clarence. "There are no cars here. Daimler and Benz, the evil German inventors of the internal combustion engine, were never born nor was Henry Ford. There are no paved roads either. This is a world without evil White Europeans, remember?"

"No plumbing?!" cried George.

"Nope. Makes you appreciate your father, who is 'just a plumber' doesn't it George? Tell me George. Was it your precious Dr. Silverstein who taught you to have such contempt for honest hard labour? George did not respond. He just looked down in shame. Clarence turned around so George could do his business alongside the river.

The Invisible Rainbow

The Transformation of Diabetes

By
Arthur Firstenburg

THAT DIET ALONE IS NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR THE MODERN PANDEMIC OF DIABETES is clearly shown by the histories of three communities at opposite ends of the world from one another.

One has the highest rates of diabetes in the world today. The second is the largest consumer of sugar in the world. And the third, which I will examine in some detail, is the most recently electrified country in the world.

American Indians

The poster child for the diabetes story is supposed to be the American Indian. Supposedly—according to the American Diabetes Association—people today are just eating too much food and not getting enough exercise to burn off all the calories.

This causes obesity, which, it is believed, is the real cause of most diabetes. Indians, so the story goes, are genetically predisposed to diabetes, and this predisposition has been triggered by the sedentary lifestyle imposed on them when they were confined to reservations, as well as by an unhealthy diet containing large amounts of white flour, fat, and sugar that have replaced traditional foods.

And indeed, today, Indians on most reservations in the United States and Canada have rates of diabetes that are the highest in the world. Yet this does not explain why, since all Indian reservations were created by the end of the nineteenth century, and Indian fry bread, consisting of white flour deep fried in lard and eaten with sugar, became a staple food on most reservations at that time, diabetes nevertheless did not exist among Indians until the latter half of the twentieth century.

Before 1940 the Indian Health Service had never listed diabetes as a cause of death for a single Indian.

And as late as 1987, surveys done by the Indian Health Service in the United States and the Department of National Health and Welfare in Canada revealed differences in diabetes rates between different populations of Indians that were extreme:-

7 cases of diabetes per 1,000 population in the Northwest Territories, 9 in the Yukon, 17 in Alaska, 28 among the Cree/Ojibwa of Ontario and Manitoba, 40 on the Lummi Reservation in Washington, 53 among the Micmac of Nova Scotia and the Makah of Washington, 70 on the Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota, 85 on the Crow Reservation in Montana, 125 on the Standing Rock Sioux Reservation in the Dakotas, 148 on the Chippewa Reservation in Minnesota and North Dakota, 218 on the Winnebago/Omaha Reservation in Nebraska, and 380 on the Gila River Reservation in Arizona.

In 1987, neither diet nor lifestyle in the various communities was different enough to account for a fifty-fold difference in diabetes rates. But one environmental factor could account for the disparities. Electrification (left) came to most Indian reservations later than it came to most American farms. Even in the late twentieth century some reservations were still not electrified.

This included most Indian reserves in the Canadian Territories and most native villages in Alaska. When the first electric service came to the Standing Rock Reservation in the Dakotas in the 1950's, diabetes came to that reservation at the same time. The Gila River Reservation is located on the outskirts of Phoenix.

Not only is it traversed by high voltage power lines serving a metropolis of four million, but the Gila River Indian Community operates its own electric utility and its own telecommunications company. The Pima and Maricopa on this small reservation are exposed to a greater concentration of electromagnetic fields than any other Indian tribes in North America.

Brazil

Brazil, which has grown sugar cane since 1516, has been the largest producer and consumer of that commodity since the seventeenth century. Yet in the 1870's, when diabetes was beginning to be noticed as a disease of civilization in the United States, that disease was completely unknown in the sugar capital of the world, Rio de Janeiro.

Brazil today produces over 30 million metric tons of sugar per year and consumes over 130 pounds of white sugar per person, more than the United States. Analyses of the diets of the two countries—Brazil in 2002–2003, and the United States from 1996–2006—revealed that the average Brazilian obtained 16.7 percent of his or her calories from table sugar or sugar added to processed foods, while Americans consumed only 15.7 percent of their calories from refined sugars. Yet the United States had more than two and a half times the rate of diabetes as Brazil.

Bhutan

Sandwiched between the mountainous borders of India and China, the isolated Himalayan kingdom of Bhutan may be the last country in the world to be electrified. Until the 1960's, Bhutan had no banking system, no national currency, and no roads. In the late 1980's, I learned something about this Buddhist country, thought by some to be the model for James Hilton's Shangri-La, when I made the acquaintance of a Canadian woman who worked for CUSO International, the Canadian version of the United States Peace Corps.

She had just returned from a four-year stint in a small Bhutanese village, where she taught English to the local children. Bhutan is somewhat larger, in area, than the Netherlands, and has a population just over 750,000. The road system at the time was still extremely limited, and most travel outside the immediate vicinity of the small capital, Thimphu, including travel to my friend's village, was by foot or horseback.

She felt privileged to be able to live in that country at all, because outside visitors to Bhutan were limited to 1,000 per year. The woven baskets and other handcrafts that she brought back were intricate and beautiful. Technology was unknown, as there was no electricity at all in most of the country.

Diabetes was extremely rare, and completely unknown outside the capital. As recently as 2002, fuel wood provided virtually one hundred percent of all non-commercial energy consumption. Fuel wood consumption, at 1.22 tons per capita, was one of the highest, if not the highest, in the world. Bhutan was an ideal laboratory in which to monitor the effects of electricity, because that country was about to be transformed from near zero percent electrification to one hundred percent electrification in a little over a decade.

In 1998, King Jigme Singye Wangchuk ceded some of his powers to a democratic assembly, which wanted to modernize the country. The Department of Energy and the Bhutan Electricity Authority were created on July 1, 2002. That same day the Bhutan Power Corporation was launched. With 1,193 employees, it immediately became the largest corporation in the kingdom. Its mandate was to generate and distribute electricity throughout the kingdom, with a target of full electrification of the country within ten years. By 2012 the proportion of rural households actually reached by electricity was about 84 percent.

In 2004, 634 new cases of diabetes were reported in Bhutan. The next year, 944. The year after that, 1,470. The following year, 1,732. The next year, 2,541, with 15 deaths. In 2010, there were 91 deaths and diabetes mellitus was already the eighth most common cause of mortality in the kingdom. Coronary heart disease was number one. Only 66.5 percent of the population had normal blood sugar.

This sudden change in the health of the population, especially the rural population, was being blamed, incredibly, on the traditional Bhutanese diet which, however, had not changed. "Bhutanese have a penchant for fat-rich foods," reported Jigme Wangchuk in the Bhutan Observer. "All Bhutanese delicacies are fat-rich. Salty and fatty foods cause hypertension.

Today, one of the main causes of ill-health in Bhutan is hypertension caused by oil-rich and salty traditional Bhutanese diet." Rice, the article continued, which is the staple food of the Bhutanese, is rich in carbohydrates, which turns into fat unless there is physical activity; perhaps the Bhutanese are not getting enough exercise.

Two-thirds of the population, the author complained, are not eating enough fruits and vegetables. But the Bhutanese diet has not altered. The Bhutanese people are poor. Their country is mountainous with few roads. They have not all gone out and suddenly bought automobiles, refrigerators, washing machines, televisions, and computers, and become a lazy, inactive people.

Yet rates of diabetes quadruple in four years. Bhutan now ranks eighteenth in the world in its mortality rate from heart disease.

Only one other thing has changed so dramatically in Bhutan in the last decade: electrification, and the resulting exposure of the population to electromagnetic fields.

We recall from the last chapter that exposure to electromagnetic fields interferes with basic metabolism. The power plants of our cells, the mitochondria, become less active, slowing the rate at which our cells can burn glucose, fats, and protein. Instead of being taken up by our cells, excess fats accumulate in our blood and are deposited on the walls of our arteries along with the cholesterol that transports them, forming plaques and causing coronary heart disease. This can be prevented by eating a low-fat diet.

A Voice in the Wilderness

Event Number Six Transitioning from Event Number Five to Event Number Six

In our last article we discussed the reality of being well ensconced in the fifth great event of the visions of Revelation. They are specifically the martyrdom of Christians, economic collapse and insanity on the seat of the beast and the invasion of the locust.

Event number six is war. Before we enter into the scriptures revealing this, let's look at the scriptures which move us from event number five into event number six. More specifically Revelation 9 beginning in verse 12. Here we have the sixth trumpet blast; WAR.

Where Will These Prophecies Be Fulfilled?

The beginning verses of Revelation 9 are the ones previously mentioned about the invasion of aliens into the place Ezekiel refers to as a land "...gathered out of many people, against the mountains of Israel, which have been always waste but it is brought fourth out of the nations and they shall dwell safety all of them."

Ezekiel also calls it a land of un-walled villages where the people are at rest and dwell safely without walls and having neither bars nor gates. He also describes it as a land with an abundance of gold and cattle.

The prophet Zechariah (chapter 14) speaking of the re-gathering of Israel to this continent said "And ye shall flee to the valley of the mountains; for the valley of the mountains shall reach unto Azal...and it shall be in that day, that living waters shall go out from Jerusalem (meaning the place where God resides or the peace of God) half of them toward the former (literally Eastern) sea and half of them toward the hinder (literally Western) sea; in summer and winter shall it be.

So, we can see the primary fulfillment of these prophecies will be in the land of un-walled villages, the North American continent. Still, we should understand it is the people who are the true Israelites, wherever they may be, who will suffer these woes.

The invasion of the locust is called the first woe. In the passage it speaks of a five-month period of time where these locusts are permitted to afflict the residents of the land. Those marked with the mark of God are to be protected. This will undoubtedly be during a phase of lawlessness when our police forces are at their own homes protecting their families. Once this period is complete, the passage says the first woe is passed and the sixth angel sounds.

The Sixth Event in Each Individual Vision – War

The sixth part of each vision be it the seals, the vials, the trumps or the last major vision of the beasts, all proclaim war.

THE SIXTH SEAL is an accurate description of war. It uses the same language used by the prophets, particularly Joel in chapters 1 and 2. It is commingled with the very events Jesus gives in Matthew 24 as the final events of the ages; darkened skies, earthquakes, the moon like blood and what appeared to the prophet as stars falling from the skies. War.

THE SIXTH VIAL detailed in the vision of the vials; mentions the great river Euphrates being dried up. (This is literally happening. Even now we are witnessing the water level in this river at the lowest point ever recorded.) The paucity of water in the river may indeed complement this vision but the allusion is undoubtedly greater. Looking at the vision of the trumps we see amplification of this vision. This vision also alludes to the kings of the East. Historically, we know the family of Japheth went East, Ham went South, and Shem went North and West.

Finally, in the vision of the vials we see three evil spirits gathering all to battle. War. The evil spirits likened to frogs are:

City of London Boundary Statue

- The dragon which is the corporate assembly of multiple beasts (nations). This can easily be recognized as NATO or the UN clamouring for war.
- The beast (Beast is always government in scripture) undoubtedly represents the primer beast nation on the earth. Undoubtedly this is the United States leading the charge by instigating for war any way they can get it.
- The false prophet which is none other than false and blind Christianity. Oh, yes, it is. The Bible does not concern itself with the teachings of any nation other than Israel. It repeatedly scolds and condemns teachers who are supposedly teaching God's word while they ignore righteousness and truth.

Today we see multiple preachers and churches supporting war in general, and more specifically clamouring for war against Russia. It should be noted that the nation Russia is presently at war with is arguably the second or third most corrupt government (beast) upon the earth. It is amazing to see people like the double-minded man (see James 1:5-8) Sean Hannity constantly rail against the Biden administration and then argue vehemently in support of a government that is that administration's spitting image.

The very war we see in the nightly news is succeeding in nothing more than the genocide of the Ukrainians and the conquest of their land by the very enemies listed in scripture as the enemies of true Biblical Israel now known as Christians.

THE SIXTH TRUMP brings us full circle back to the sixth event listed in chapter 9 as the second great woe. Here again we find mention of the great river Euphrates which has four angels chained in its depths. This is, of course, allegorical language painting a picture of something we should recognize as a message from our Father.

Again, angels are God's messengers. They can be any being or entity which brings the message God wishes to bring to our minds. The angels could be four nations encamped about this great river such as Turkey, Israel, Syria and Iraq. If that is the case, their message would be one that fits with the other passage about the river Euphrates being dried up. What does that mean to us?

It could very well imply the drying up of resources to continue the charade, or it could simply mean the game, no longer believable, is losing its choke hold on the nations of this age.

Diminishing influence of both Israel and the United States, along with the growing disdain the world feels for both of them, is part and parcel of the growing influence of China on the world stage. China IS the king of the East; doubt it not. They are the only nation (with the possible exception of India) who could possibly field an army of the size mentioned in this passage.

PLAGUES & SORCERY are other very real possibilities for the angels triggered by verses 20 and 21 of this same passage of scripture. Verse 20 talks about men being killed by plagues and verse 21 mentions sorcery as one of the great sins causing our great woes.

Rev 9:20 – “And the rest of the men which were not killed by these plagues (The obvious effect of bad medicine. In the Greek, a stroke; by implication, a wound; ...a calamity) “—yet Repented Not (repent: to change what you are doing! To turn around!) vs 21—Nether repented they of their murders nor of their sorceries— (The word ‘sorceries’ is from the exact same word we use for pharmaceuticals; GK: pharmakeus)

Any person living today and not totally lost in the pseudo-media or NETFLIX who has eyes to see, cannot help but understand a real plague has been intentionally released upon our world in the form of vaccines (the sorcery). The plague is the deleterious effect of the vaccine; not COVID. The cause is the vaccine itself which is of course the sorcery. Literally, hundreds of articles, essays, videos by doctors, law suits by universities, scientist and even countries have responded to the corruption and harmful effects of the COVID vaccines.

Following this line of reason, we can see how the four angels bringing about the second great woe could be the four companies producing the sorcery, or perhaps the vaccines themselves.

Like chanting witches huddled around a boiling cauldron and spewing their conspiratorial spells, Moderna, Pfizer/BioNTech, Johnson & Johnson, and AstraZeneca produced the pharmaceuticals (sorcery) designed to depopulate mankind. This was done only after they had coerced the beast

(the USA) by blackmail and bribery, to protect them from harm (law-suits, etc....) At least half of them willingly complied.

Thousands upon thousands have been harmed and/or killed as a result of the vaccines and even the government web site to track adverse events of vaccines has been accused of purging adverse reactions and deaths from COVID vaccines. A plethora of information produced by honest men in numerous medical fields has shown the very real possibility of one-third of the world’s population has died, or is in danger of death by this act of witchcraft. (See vs. 18)

Many have called the vaccination program an intentional culling or humanity; even intentional murder or genocide. Yet, we still have people taking the boosters, falling ill, dying and even getting the inoculations for their small children.

Why then is this attack so successful? Why can’t our people just realize what is happening and stop the insanity? Because they love their lives more than they love God.

They have been blinded by their love of the beast. Reading the rest of Rev 9:20 we find: “And the rest of the men which were not killed by these plagues yet Repented Not of the works of their hands, that they should not worship devils, and idols of gold, and silver, and brass, and stone, and of wood: which neither can see, nor hear, nor walk.”

Continuing into chapter ten, John covers three intriguing points:

- The Mighty Angel in verse one is a description of Jesus.
- The seven thunders

- The little book
- The unique phrase “the voice of the seventh angel, when he shall begin to sound...”

All of these need to be understood. We begin with the angel.

The Mighty Angel

The mighty angel revealed by John in this passage can be no other than Jesus. In Rev 10:1,2, there are so many things in the description of this Mighty Angel which identify Him as Jesus the Son of God.

1. He came down from heaven clothed with a cloud. This cannot help but provoke remembrance of Acts 1 when Jesus departed and two men spoke to the men of Galilee saying “...this same Jesus which is taken up from you into heaven shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven.”
2. God revealed himself to Moses and Israel in a cloud.
3. A rainbow upon his head.
4. His face like the sun.
5. Feet as pillars of fire.

The Seven Thunders

The seven thunders will be addressed before the little book due to the volume of things which can be written about the book. The thunders, for the most part, are still a mystery cloaked in silence to this very day.

We do know that the Scriptures use terms like ‘he thundered from heaven’, great thunder, mighty thunderings, roaring thunder and others as metaphors for the voice of God.

The seventh thunder represents exactly what the seventh trump, vial and seal represent. The very end. It speaks of the day when the mystery of God is finished. It is the day when the angel (Jesus) declares ‘time shall be no more!’

While the account of the seven thunders seems to stand alone, John (or perhaps the style designers of the Bible as we know it) has inserted them into the continuing description of events of the sixth trump.

The Little Book

Turn your attention now to chapter 10 verse 2. Here John writes of a little book in the angel’s hand. The sixth angel has already sounded, the second woe and the next to the very last event in the series of visions of the great Revelation is being unfolded. The war phase has begun and now John writes of things which one can but help seeing as part and parcel of this phase of the great unveiling.

At the risk of being redundant, we must find the significance of this book in the scriptures, not in some library or modern-day object. The third mention of book or scroll in the entirety of scripture is and absolutely one in the same as the book held in Jesus’ hand is the book of the covenant.

The children of Israel, only recently delivered from the bondage of Egypt, had just entered into a covenant with their God, Elohiym YHWH. This was an eternal covenant and the origin of the law (codified) in writing on stone by the finger of God. The significance of the stone is that it is unchangeable and forever enduring.

The day that our fathers, the true Israelites, entered into the covenant of the law, they became God’s wife. While this is a huge metaphor, the body of Israelites corporately being God's wife, nothing could be more real and sure than the relationship between God and his people.

The people immediately became beneficiaries of his protection, his provisions, his care, love and mercy. In turn they were expected to return the love and honour to their heavenly husband. The scriptures tell us repeatedly there were benefits to be gleaned from proper spousal behaviour and dire consequences for improper behaviour.

This wedding (entering into a covenant) contract was recorded in writing by Moses in a book. Again, mentioning the book of the covenant, God said "Whosoever hath sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book." We have always been taught this is the book of life.

Was it? Really? Was God saying if we sinned, we would lose our life; or eternal life? What he was saying was this. If we do not keep our spousal vows, we will be cut off, divorced, blotted out of the book and no longer recognized as being married under the provisions of the covenant. Remember, the book of life is not even mentioned until the auspices of the New Covenant. It is a spiritual equivalent of what was intended to be enjoyed under the Old Covenant.

The book of the law is mentioned repeatedly in the book of Deuteronomy. Both Deuteronomy 28 and Leviticus give the consequences of violating the law covenant. We are told not to let the book of the law to depart from our mouth. We are instructed to meditate in it day and night.

King David said "Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. But his delight is in the law of the Lord; and in his law doth he meditate day and night." David repeatedly lauded the wonder and perfection of God's law. The words 'book of the law' is in the scripture (KJV) no less than 19 times. The book of the law was also read aloud during the feast of booths. Oh, my people please contemplate the reality of this concept! It is violation of the law that brings evil upon us! The seven plagues are nothing more than the reality of the curses written in both Leviticus and Deuteronomy!

We have already shown the close relationship between Revelation and Leviticus 26. Leviticus mentions affliction by beasts and says I will punish you seven times for your sins. It mentions famine and says again I will punish you seven times for your sins.

It mentions plague and repeats I will punish you seven times for your sins. Lastly, it mentions war and once again says I will punish you seven times for your sins. How can we not but see the repetition of sevens in the book of Revelation not being from the same source as Leviticus 26?

When we begin to hone in on the book of the law as it is reiterated by the prophets; we find the exact same scenario presented to us by John in the book of Revelation.

How amazing it is to see our churches teach the law has been done away with. All the while the very people who presented this insidiously evil doctrine into our seminaries, do everything in their power to get us to violate God's laws.

They teach it in our seminaries! They teach it in our schools continually introducing more and more evil scenarios on our people, convincing our youth that wickedness is right and even passing laws to protect the evil. They know they cannot destroy us militarily (even though that is looking more possible daily) so they persuade us to destroy ourselves by doing the very things the scriptures tell us will destroy us.

The Prophets

Let's zoom in. As we begin to look through the major prophets for amplification on the theme given here; we find repeated references to the book of the law. While they may and are applicable to specific real time events of which the prophets wrote; they are obviously repetitive principles which occur over and over any time the law is being ignored. This is most definitely the case in our present day.

Isaiah 29

WOE to Ariel the prophet begins. Here Isaiah is talking about those things that besiege the city of David when they have turned away from God and had begun to believe their successes were due to their own prowess and skills.

This repetitive principle is exactly what has befallen this nation. The timing is exact and has taken place exactly within the parameters of Ezekiel 4. In the very first verse reading 'let them kill sacrifices', according to Holman's Teachers Bible literally translated, is '—let them cut off the heads.'! This is interesting because Revelation 20:4 speaks of those beheaded for the witness of Jesus!

Among other things Isaiah mentions he says:

- Israel will be brought down low and shall whisper out of the dust.
- The multitude of strangers (aliens) shall be like the dust! (See it on FOX nightly.)
- We will be visited with thunder, earthquake, storms and flames of devouring fire.

- Multitudes of nations will fight against us and distress us. (More turning against us daily.)

- God hath poured upon us deep sleep. (That is why we keep crying wake up!)

- The vision is as the words of a book that is sealed. (This is the book of seven seals no one is worthy to open except Jesus). It is the same book called the little book Jesus gave to John.

- John is told to eat the book and found it sweet in his mouth, but bitter in the belly. (This is the same feeling a believer has about the book of the law. Reading it cannot help but give us feelings of hope and truth and yet the reality of our physical power to keep it—without the spirit of God is bitterness to our inner man.)

- The people draw near with their mouths but their hearts are far removed. (Here we should note a very important principle. When we see our politicians enacting laws that are antithetical to the principles of the book of the law; every righteous Christian, let alone preachers, should be yelling much louder than ANTIFA or BLM—and all we hear is crickets.)

- Things are turned upside down! (OH! how true this is. Everything is upside down and backwards in our day of judgment! This too is a cause of great WOE! "Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil, that put darkness for light, and light for darkness, that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter! Woe unto them that are wise in their own eyes, and prudent in their own sight! Woe unto them that are mighty to drink wine, and men of strength to mingle strong drink which justify the wicked for reward (bribed) and take away righteousness of the righteous from him!

Are the three woes we see in this passage not an accurate description of our day?) Can you see the meaning of the last phrase? "...take righteousness of the righteous from him." This is exactly what our own government is doing when they try to force us to lie and say a man is a woman.

It is exactly what the government is doing when it says we have to let men go into women's locker rooms! It is exactly what they are doing when they protect perversion by law and call it a choice or an accident of birth! It is exactly what it is talking about when our politicians approve a person for the Supreme Court who cannot define a woman! Help us God!

• Finally, Isaiah says "Woe to the rebellious children, saith the Lord, that take counsel but not of me; and that cover with a covering, but not of my spirit, that they may add sin to sin,,,"

This Isaiah passage alone should be sufficient to convince any Christian believer that it is in perfect harmony, one in the same, as the message being presented by John. Oh! how far we have fallen! How completely, blind, deaf and lost we are! We have proven once again how sheep cannot survive without the Shepherd!

Tick-tock; tick-tock.

Hospitals and Doctor's Offices Are Temples of the Occult

Sir___, Like Eustace Mullins stated clearly, hospitals and doctor's offices are temples of the occult. All of us who know and understand that our chances of survival should we be abducted and taken to a hospital are slim, must make sure that our closest friends and family know to stand strong and not allow our bodies (unconscious) to be taken to these facilities.

We must educate and encourage local people who believe that they have the higher calling to help others to step away from that system and be willing to help and possibly save lives away from that system.

Most Nurses and Medical Assistants are capable of saving lives in a trauma situation as long as they have access to oxygen and some other basic materials. Of course, with 70% of people having taken the Clot Shots, it will be far more difficult to save lives of those people should they become seriously injured or suffer some sort of a "system failure" (heart attack, stroke, organ rupture or failure of some sort). Yours truly, Laura, USA.

Truly, What Is 'Disease'

Sir___, The last three years have felt like an intense masters degree on human biology! I have learned about viruses, parasites, toxicity, vaccines, drugs, genetics, nutrition, nano technology, EMF toxicity, you name it! And then some more...

A lot of what I have come to discover completely shatters the established notions of health and medicine as we knew it. This masters degree has been as much about unlearning as it has been about learning.

The most important thing that I have come to understand, is that there are three causes of disease:

1. Deficiency - of nutrients, water, sun, sleep, exercise, love, etc.
2. Toxicity - from processed food, chemicals, poisons, alcohol, drugs, etc.
3. Trauma - either physical or emotional, or both at the same time.

STRESS RESPONSE SYSTEM

There aren't thousands of different diseases, there's only one: it's called 'allostasis'.

Allostasis is the process of being in an active state of returning to 'homeostasis', which is defined as: A state of balance among all the body systems needed for the body to survive and function correctly.

The symptoms are Not the problem, they are the answer to the problem. We call the symptoms the 'disease', but they are not, they are the body's healing response. They are the body's self-detoxing process.

The human body is a self healing wonder machine, it has an incredible capacity to heal itself, but we must give it what it needs and remove what it doesn't need.

The truth is nature doesn't do disease, it's a consequence of a toxic, modern, digital lifestyle.

Good health doesn't need to be over-complicated but we must return to how things were meant to be. We must go back to the basics: to eating fresh, organic foods and cooking them for ourselves, to being in touch with nature, to having a more balanced lifestyle, to freeing ourselves from fear, from stress, from anxiety, to having more time for those we love— in brief, we must start living life as it was intended.

God gave us everything we need to be happy, to be healthy, to be free. It's time to return to the organic, spiritual, loving lifestyle He had in mind when He created this physical experience. Yours truly, Laura Aboli. USA. PS. The above information was stated many times during my studies to be an C.N.H.P. Funny how much of what they taught us matched the warnings in the Scriptures about eating the unclean foods. dj

Rabbi Ben Zion Bokser wrote, "This is not an uncommon impression and one finds it sometimes among Jews as well as Christians — that Judaism is the religion of the Hebrew Bible. The Iron Crown of Lombardy

Sir___, The Iron Crown of Lombardy may be the oldest Christian crown in history, thought to have been created between the 4th and 5th century. The legend concerning it says that it was commissioned by St. Helena, mother of Constantine the Great and made around a nail from the true cross. I wonder where this fantastic treasure is today—

According to tradition, St. Helena, mother of Constantine the Great, had the crown forged for her son around a beaten nail from the True Cross, which she had discovered. Pope Gregory passed this crown to Theodelinda, princess of the Lombards, as a diplomatic gift, although he made no mention of it among his recorded donations. Theodelinda donated the crown to the church at Monza in 628. Yours truly. Eifion Wyn Williams, UK.

The Death and Secret Burial of King Arthur II Uthyr Pendragon

By
Ady Maratty

IN 574 AD KING ARTHUR II AND HIS CHIEF BARD TALIESIN - Merlin sailed to America with a fleet of seven hundred ships, just two years after Prince Madoc Morfran - the sea crow (mor = sea - fran = crow) returned from America in 572 AD. The Gwarchan Maelderw; attributed to Taliesin describes Arthur's voyage, of his search for new lands, of native peoples attempting to steal the standing corn crops, of battles and defences, and of the assassination of Arthur by a naked savage.

After Arthur was assassinated by native Indians in Kentucky his body was embalmed, his mummified corpse was then dressed in his golden armour and wrapped in American deer skins.

His body was then sailed back to Britain and received by Arthur's cousin St. Illtyd at his cave in 'Coed-y-Mwstyr' the 'Woods of Mystery', as recorded in the 'Life of Illtyd' and by Nennius 822 AD. Arthur was then buried at 'Maes i Mevetauc' = the field of drunken helplessness (location of the treachery of the long knives led by Hengist) on Mynydd y Gaer.

Arthur was succeeded by his son Morgan, Morgan means = sea born/born across the sea!

Section 22 of the 'Life of Illtyd' - on a certain day as he sat in the mouth of the cave, he saw a small ship proceeding and approaching the shore, that it might come to the seaside, and he beheld two very respectable persons rowing in the ship. and so Illtyd went out to meet it, and with gladness uttered words of salutation - and they after a short conversation gave to Illtyd the perfumed body of a certain very holy man, mentioning his name and after mentioning it, forbade him ever to publish it, and I having consigned the body to the blessed St. Illtyd they returned. these things having taken place he brought the body with the altar which was on the face of the very holy man, and honourably buried it in the cave - with the altar placed over the body as it had been supported by divine power, through which many miracles were performed on account of its holiness.

Nennius 822 AD - there is another wonder in Guyr (ogwr), the altar in the place, which is called loyngarth, which is held up by the will of god. The story of that altar it seems to me better to tell than be silent. it happened when St. Illtyd was praying in a cave that is by the sea, which washes the land above the said place, the mouth of the cave is toward the sea - that behold a ship sailed toward him from the sea and two men sailing in it.

And the body of a holy man was with them in the ship and an altar above his face, which was held up by the will of god. And the man of god (Illtyd) went forth to meet them and the body of the holy man and the altar was continuing inseparably above the face of the holy body.

And they said to St. Illtyd, 'this man of god entrusted it to us that we should conduct him to thee, and that we should bury him with thee and that thou shouldst not reveal his name to any man, so that men should not swear by him.'

And they buried him and after the burial the two men returned to the ship and set sail but that St. Illtyd founded a church about the body of the holy man and about the altar, and the altar held up by the will of god remains to this day.

Analysis of Moon Photographs

By Our Man in Cambridge

GARY FONG IS A PROFESSIONAL world famous photographer who has been using Hasselblad cameras for over 20 years and was once sponsored by them and was a lecturer at the Hasselblad University. He is also a graduate of UC Santa Barbara with a degree in Pharmacology, and was a UCLA Physics major prior to this.

He also held an actual NASA de-commissioned Hasselblad lunar camera in his hands, and played with it. That is where he saw a lot of things that didn't make sense.

The video explores the possibility that the photographs that were shown to the public as photos from the moon could not have possibly be authentic, given the vast amount of information given to him.

This is not to say that man never landed on the moon, or that there is a "conspiracy", because he wasn't there, and he doesn't personally know any of the astronauts. But as a photographer who took millions of images on Hasselblad Cameras, and as an operator of a leading photo lab, he found it impossibly hard to believe that the moon photographs could have been taken on the moon. HERE is the link to the video.

The following is a negative reply listed under Gary Fong's video by someone who was critical of many of his findings.

“Dark slide”- The addition of a reseau plate at the focal plane of the cameras used on the lunar surface dictated modifications so that the dark slide could be removed before the magazine was mounted on the cameras. Removing the dark slide only exposes the first photo on the film. After installing the cartridge, you simple forward to the next, and start taking pictures.

‘Aperture and Shutter speed locked together’- The shutter speed and aperture are not fixed together, They have just attached a larger knob to make it easier to use it with gloves. Pushing the knob towards the camera body decouples the aperture and shutter speed rings, and you can turn them separately. That works exactly the same way on similar Hasselblad cameras.

As a photographer with experience with Hasselblad cameras you should know this, so you are just being dishonest here.

‘Temperature’ - The quoted 120 degrees Celsius is the maximum temperature of the surface of the moon at its equator after it has been exposed to the Sun for 13.5 Earth days in a row.

As there is no significant atmosphere on the Moon, that heat from the surface does not transfer through the air to the camera. Only if the camera would be exposed to the Sun for 13.5 Earth days in a row would it possibly reach the same temperature. If you keep it in the shade for most of the time, then it cools down, for the same reason the Moon surface on the dark side cools down: the heat is radiated away as infrared light.

Besides that, the astronauts were not on the equator, and they were at the beginning of the 13 day period, not the end. So the temperature was between -23°C and 7°C.

'X-Ray' - The camera is exposed to about 60 microsieverts of radiation per hour. That's only 5 to 10 times higher than the rate experienced on a trans-Atlantic passenger flight. Because of the metal body of the camera, that is no problem at all for the film. The article you quote is about infrequently from the Sun.

If such a burst had come during the astronauts stay on the Moon, it might have affected the film. Luckily there was no such burst.

'Mannequins' - The article make it clear that the purpose is to just measure possible negative effects on female bodies. Another purpose is to do a comparison test of the effects of an anti-radiation vest. You might be aware that females are built a bit different than men, so it is just a precaution to be thorough. I have absolutely no idea at all why you seem to believe that adding mannequins to a test flight makes it impossible to take pictures on the moon. It is almost as if you are suffering from confirmation bias."

The following is a Gary Fong's rebuttal to this and other critical replies.

"All of the rebuttals are the same in these comments. The most idiotic is the temperature in a vacuum quote. A vacuum has an absence of solid matter. Once the solid matter is in a vacuum space, the area around the object is still in a vacuum, but the camera is not.

The camera is subject to radiation heat. An example you may all agree on is that the sun is millions of miles away, omitting radiation through a vacuum, which when it hits a solid object, it increases kinetic energy, and heat from the friction of rubbing molecules together.

This friction causes heat. The camera is in a vacuum, but in itself does not behave like a vacuum just because it's surrounded by one. Additionally, Neil Armstrong himself said that the temperature exceeded 200 degrees in this interview with NPR: Here.

What comes across as so desperate from these comments are the ones saying that the moon camera had modifications. Yes, it did. I held and played with the official decommissioned camera in my hands, and noted that the shutter and aperture rings were locked together at an exposure that would have blown out any image at the rated ASA160. There were no neutral density filters attached.

The reseau plate is a horrible idea if the glass plate touches the emulsion surface, as the only thing that would seal out the powder-fine lunar dust is the open slot that accepts the dark slide. If the dark slide lock was problematic, surely it would have been prudent to seal it off. Then, you wouldn't need a dark slide warning--because hopefully there were no dark slides. One could simply advance the film lever safely into the receiving spool.

The reseau plate is helpful to show the full frame crop (as all hash marks would have to be present in a full frame crop). The highlighted images were all cropped perfectly, rule of thirds composition, from a chest-mounted camera with no viewfinder! That is highly unexpected.

New Ensign Comment: It looks impossible to operate the camera controls wearing such bulky gloves. This photo shows the camera position on the spacesuit and also the gloves (above).

How was it possible for an astronaut to bend over sufficiently to take a photo like the one on the previous page without falling over? Video footage shows how easily they can fall over when walking or skipping and how difficult it was to get back up again.

How were these photos taken with a camera fixed to the chest? Even if the camera could be removed and pointed down how was it possible to frame the images so well without using a viewfinder?

How was it possible to create such an isolated footprint without there being any others near it?

Why is there a light 'hot-spot' in this photo but not in the one below? This can only mean a close light source for the first one and a more distant one for the one below:

NASA's explanation: 'IN A NUTSHELL: It was blasted away. Dust moved by a rocket exhaust in an airless environment such as the Moon doesn't billow up around the spacecraft and then settle on it: it travels in straight lines away from the vehicle, unhindered by any air resistance, and therefore is unlikely to end up on the vehicle's footpads.'

This is nonsense!

Notice they say 'unlikely' meaning that it was possible! There are many photos that show lots of footprints around the LEM as well as Luna Rover tracks suggesting that there was a great deal of dust still on the surface of the moon.

NASA videos of the Lunar Rover driving around throwing up 'rooster tails' of dust and can be seen to settle quite quickly back on the surface.

If the moon landings were so set in stone why do they bother to continually have to defend it? It is the same with the holocaust and flat earth. I don't know of any other issue that evokes so much attention except perhaps COVID. As Shakespeare wrote in Hamlet, "Methinks the lady doth protest too much".

The End

The Jews And The British Empire (Part 2)

By
L. Fry

Disraeli Statue

Born Theobalds Road which at the time was 6 King's Road. Novelist, e.g. Coningsby, Sybil, and Tancred. Tory Prime Minister in 1868 and 1874 - 1880. 1st Earl of Beaconsfield. Clearly an interesting character: a book review in the Guardian 20 July 2013 said "He entered politics because he was fearful of being imprisoned in a debtors' prison, and therefore sought an MP's immunity from arrest. ... He enjoyed the company of racy older women, and had a famously happy marriage to a rich widow 15 years his senior." Died 19 Curzon Street.

Role of Disraeli.

UNDER DISRAELI, and inspired by him as revealed in his works, there begins loud agitation for the return of Palestine to the Jews. That gateway between the East and West must be secured and the Mediterranean become a British possession to ensure the security of Jewish trade. Gradually, Zionism becomes the pivot of British rule.

Egypt is an impediment; Egypt must be submitted. More British blood is shed at Tel-el-Kebir 1882; Hasti, Khartoum 1885, Handub 1888, Toski 1889, Afafit 1891; in the Indian Operations 1896 to 1900, at the Battle of Omdurman. British blood it is which must swamp the "Cairo to the Cape road," And what of the South African War to secure gold and diamond fields for the Jews and for them alone! Once more British and Dutch blood drench the battlefields.

In the wake of British advance everywhere, Jewish trade has found new fields and gained security, it has grasped production at its source and started the era of trusts and monopolies

A Zionist Empire.

At home, meanwhile, Jewish power gets steadily stronger, but drunk with the notion of the mighty British Empire, Britons see only the surface; they still believe that they are ruled by their own Monarch and elected men, and they fail to grasp the ghastly truth...

The Great World War even fails to open their eyes. On the battlefields of France, and afterwards in Ireland the best and most virile elements of Britain perish in order that for their British Empire which they die to defend there should be substituted the Zionist Empire.

Henceforth, the history of Great Britain becomes that of Zionism. The setting up of what Britons believed was the British Empire has cost much blood. The time has come to open up the National Ledger and reckon the actual costs of Zionism and the gains of Britain.

Price Britain Pays

For a period of over three hundred years, Britons set up a glorious record of bravery and determination and an unexcelled example of remarkable colonisation work.

Against this magnificent record comes the losses inflicted on British national honour evidenced by her Jew inspired policy in South Africa, in her dealings with the Arabs to whom the Balfour Declaration is a striking example of broken faith, the betrayal of Russia her loyal ally into the hands of Jews, her stifling of all British ideals at the Jewish Peace Conference and participation in the League of Nations, seat of the Zionist World Super Government. As a natural sequence has come the Government's shameful official recognition of Bolshevism in Russia and Spain.

Against a record of glorious prestige won and recognised by the whole world must be set up the fact of having been made the laughing stock of all nations when mighty Britain being now but one of the many pawns on the Zionist chess-board of the League of Nations, supinely endured the moral defeats which Italy imposed upon her during and since the Abyssinian campaign.

Material Losses

And what of the material gains which Manasseh ben Israel made glitter in his letter to Cromwell? Materially England has reaped no benefit; her millions of unemployed are there to proclaim this sad fact.

Economically her Zionist rulers have fettered the initiative of her people and through the Zionist P.E.P. (Political Economic Planning) programme of the Manchester School of Zionists (above), headed by the Rothschilds, Chaim Weizmann and Israel Moses Sieff and Co., Britons are being steadily deprived of liberty, property, freedom of initiative and are burdened with intolerable taxation.

British industries and agriculture have been and are being systematically destroyed by Socialism, Communism and Bolshevism, those off springs of Zionism. But meanwhile, Jewish trade and prosperity have suffered no setback; they are thriving on international loans and the control of huge monopolies.

Spiritual Losses

Spiritually, International Freemasonry, the main channel of Jewish influence and of which English Grand Lodge is as much a branch as the Continental Grand Orient and Scottish Rite Masonry, has laid low the Christian Church and given much scope to Cabalistic Theosophy, gradually destroying the spiritual Christian-Aryan heritage of Britons.

No asset appears in the National Ledger to offset this great loss. The picture is one of gloom. The rewards and gains which colonizing Britain might have expected to enjoy after her sacrifices and labours among peoples to whom she brought the benefits of her civilising influence, whose standard of living, moral and physical she raised, for whom she built hospitals, instituted educational and industrial centres, carried out costly schemes of irrigation and transportation, are all to be ruthlessly snatched from her.

She is not to be allowed to enjoy the fruits of her sacrifices any more than were Spain, Portugal and the Netherlands.

Italy Supplants Britain.

The secret Jewish powers that she unwittingly served have used their socialist and communistic propaganda to incite the peoples of Egypt and India to revolt against her and decreed that Italy is to supplant her in the Mediterranean.

Her Navy and her Man-power have been used to the limit by the international traders and exploiters of the world-other navies have grown powerful in this and the other hemisphere; they are coming into service and will gradually be pressed forward to occupy first place whilst Britain recedes and recedes....

In Europe power is to be partly diverted from London to Rome. To the British Empire must succeed the Roman or Italian Empire. The remaining part of the power goes to Moscow, Tokyo, New York.
