Calling The True Israel Peoples

Editorial

Dear Reader,

The Truth is Out “No parent owns their child.”

about it.”

Tapnewswire reported that during a recent discussion on BBC-R4 regarding the controversial withdrawal of life support from eight-month-old Charlie Gard, Sir Mark Hedley, (left) declared, “The reality is that no parent owns their child, in that they can make unfettered decisions

However, many New Ensign readers are well aware that when one registers something, one is handing over ownership, whether it be a new born child, house, a marriage or anything else for that matter.

The statement is not totally correct, as there have been cases where families have had children returned to them, solely because they didn't register them at birth. These cases, however are rare!

It is to be wondered, what will be the repercussions falling on Sir Mark Hedley, after revealing this state secret and uttering a bit of true news?

This is all symptomatic of the Edomite controllers of the UK government, as indeed of all other western governments, who are now revealing their true face of evil, they are now ever more confident, as virtually all levers of control are in their hands, including large commercial corporations and of course the media with its fake news.

This is why the government is pressing ahead in vaccinating babies hardly out of the womb and older children while at school, often without their parents consent. So too are they encouraging abortion, particularly of white pregnancies.

All our people have been conditioned to look for an external enemy, while all the time the real enemy has been “within the gates”. We can now see the importance of Christ's words as recorded in Matthew; 24:22:-

“And except those days should be shortened, there should no flesh be saved: but for the elect's sake those days shall be shortened”

Daniel's Seventy Weeks Fulfilled in Yahshua Messiah

Part 5 - Pastor Eli James

He Shall Cause the Sacrifice and the Oblation to Cease. Let's look at verses 24-27 in their entirety, to get the whole picture:

because of “the overspreading of abominations”? Satan does not destroy his own handiwork!!! Obviously, the Pharisaic rabbis continued to use the Temple as a currency exchange; and they continued to sell doves, other sacrificial animals and ritualistic paraphernalia! Since most of Satan’s deceptions require centuries to establish, he does not lightly set aside such institutions, especially if the enterprise is cash cow like the Jewish temple! Did not Jesus say, “If Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself; how then shall his kingdom stand?” Satan – and the Jews – wanted to PRESERVE animal sacrifice; but the Roman army put the Pharisees out of business. The Jewish priesthood has been without a Temple in Jerusalem since that time. This is Yahweh’s doing!!!

SEVENTY WEEKS ARE DETERMINED upon thy people and upon thy holy city, to finish the transgression, and to make an end of sins, and to make reconciliation for iniquity, and to bring in everlasting righteousness, and to seal up the vision and prophecy, and to anoint the most Holy.

Know therefore and understand that from the going forth of the commandment to restore and to build Jerusalem unto the Messiah the Prince shall be seven weeks: the street shall be built again, and the wall, even in troublous times. And after threescore and two weeks shall Messiah be cut off, but not for himself: and the people of the prince that shall come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary; and the end thereof shall be with a flood, and unto the end of the war desolations are determined.

And he shall confirm the covenant with many for one week: and in the midst of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, and for the overspreading of abominations he shall make it desolate, even until the consummation, and that determined shall be poured upon the desolate.” – Vs. 24-27.

First of all, there is absolutely no possibility that the anti-Christ confirms the covenant. It was Messiah who confirmed the Covenant with His People, Israel and Judah. Secondly, we must understand that it is Yahweh Himself who will cause the destruction of Jerusalem. This is because of the overspreading of abominations amongst the people there, most of whom were Edomite Jews – not Judahites or Benjamites of the House of Judah. Come, let us reason together: Would the anti-Christ destroy a place

Paul clearly declares that Yahshua’s sacrifice was once and for all! There will be no more animal sacrifice for the remission of sins, and any priesthood that tries to reestablish this practice will be spitting in the face of Yahweh!!! As I have stated elsewhere, if the Jews try to reestablish this practice again in Jerusalem, Yahshua’s wrath will come upon them in a most furious way! This will be, quite literally, blasphemy against the Holy Spirit!

He Shall Confirm the Covenant With Many for One Week.

The words, “He shall confirm the covenant with many for one week,” have baffled many interpreters, because the fact is that Yahshua Messiah’s ministry did not last one “week” of years. His ministry only lasted 3&1/2 years. This statement is the only one in Daniel 9 that I have found to be confusing, because it creates a conflict regarding the actual start time of the final week and the actual duration of His ministry.

This contradiction in timing must be resolved. I have struggled with this problem for literally two decades, until it finally occurred to me that the “one week” of Daniel 9:27 is not one of the prophetic 70 weeks of years. It is rather, and more importantly, a reference to the final week of His life, the fabled Holy Week, beginning with the anointing by Mary Magdalene. With this observation, the contradiction is logically eliminated.

Thus, the statement, “He shall confirm the covenant with many for one week,” is a reference to His fellowshiping with His disciples in Bethany and Jerusalem during Holy Week. It would not, therefore, be a reference to the beginning of the 70th “week” of Daniel’s 70.

In the very next clause, however, we are told, “...in the midst of the week He shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease...” And this would be a reference to the baptism of John in the Jordan River, which, although occurring in the middle of the final “week,” was the beginning of His ministry. Having just reached the age of thirty, Jesus was now qualified to be a priest!

Yahweh’s Law says a man must be thirty years of age before he can be a priest, and He would not expect His Son to break that Law!!! The highlight of this baptism by John was the point at which the Holy Spirit, in the form of a dove, descended upon Jesus and Yahweh spoke the immortal words, “This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.” (Matt. 3:17, fulfilling Ps. 2:7 and Isa. 42:1)

This is a highly symbolic event, because it anticipated the return of the Holy Spirit (Shekinah Glory) into the Adamic race. This Spirit was breathed into Adam and Eve by Yahweh, but it was lost by those two of our ancestors when they committed fornication in the Garden. Jesus told us, “I will send you the comforter” (Holy Spirit); but this Comforter could not be bestowed until He paid the price of Israel’s sins, under the Old Covenant, and we were washed clean by His sacrifice on the Cross. (John 14:16, 26; 15:26.)

If I am correct in my analysis, then the “one week” is a reference to Holy Week, and the “midst of the week” is a reference to Yahshua’s baptism, the beginning of His earthly ministry. The contradiction is thus resolved!

Dispensationalist Confusion

It is also true that this confusion of timing in Daniel 9 has caused the futurists to make another huge mistake. Referring back to the chart above, points 3 & 4, which are in shaded bars, they assert that the “cutting off” will occur mid-week. But that is not what Daniel says!! Daniel says merely that Messiah shall be cut off after the 69th week.

There is no suggestion that the Crucifixion will occur in the middle of this final “week.” The sloppy “scholarship” involved in this interpretation is glaringly obvious. It simply does not say that Messiah will be cut off in the middle of the week. It says, “He shall confirm the Covenant with many for one week.” Both the confirming of the Covenant and the cutting off will occur after the 69th week. That’s all it is saying!

The futurists have performed another switcheroo, a bait and switch, a gambit which works very well on those who do not read the Scriptures for themselves! Having confused the two concepts (the “confirming of the Covenant” with the “cutting off”), the futurists are hopelessly lost in a maze of futile speculations! Here, again, the futurists have deliberately rearranged the words to suit themselves!!!

Before expounding further on this point, it is important to note that the verse says “many,” not “all.” Earlier, I documented how even His closest Disciples did not understand. It was only during the final week of His ministry that He was acknowledged as the Priest-King, Kinsman Redeemer of Israel, the Promised One, the Messiah.

This had always been a matter of dispute during His entire ministry. Even the Apostles doubted and wavered. During His 3½ year ministry, the evidence was being presented by Jesus in His miracles and foreknowledge, but few actually believed that the promised Messiah was walking in their midst!!!!

For us, hindsight is 20/20. For those who lived in Judah and Galilee in those days, the full meaning of the First Advent could hardly have been a matter of ready understanding. Only those fully familiar with the prophecies could have understood what was happening; and even they had doubts!!! that He was the Messiah.

The day on which He was anointed by Mary Magdalene was the day which began the final week. His ride into Jerusalem on an ass occurred the next day. Later that week, He established the New Covenant at the Last Supper. Soon after, He was arrested and tried for claiming to be what He was: the Messiah, the Son of God. On the last day of the week, He was crucified (sacrificed). Little did the Judahites of Judea realize that their Kinsman Redeemer had come to sacrifice Himself for their sins!!!

The Rationale for the Literal Week Hypothesis

After years of trying to resolve this issue of the “one week” conundrum, which is commonly assumed to mean the last prophetic “week” of seven years, I realized that I had stumbled onto a logical solution. This realization has come upon me only in the last few weeks. During my radio discussions with Bill Finck about 2-Seedline on our Christogenos shows on Friday nights, we had talked about examples of Scriptural words which were used both literally and figuratively in the same Chapter, and sometimes even in the same sentence.

This was clearly the case in Genesis 2:16-17, where, in verse 16, the literal fruit of trees is meant, but, in verse 17, the “tree” of knowledge can only be a metaphorical “tree.” The “forbidden fruit” is race-mixing, not a literal apple!!! Besides, if apples could make us “wise,” none of us would be stupid!

Pastor Jay Faber, on another show, had pointed out that the words “in the midst of the Garden” in Gen. 3:3 can also be translated as “throughout the Garden,” meaning that the people of this particular family tree could be found inhabiting the Garden, just about anywhere.

These two considerations forced me to look up the words ‘midst’ and ‘week,’ as they occur in Daniel 9:27, to see if there is something I might have been missing in the translation! It turns out that the Hebrew word for ‘midst’ in Dan. 9:27 (#2677, chetsiy) is not the same as the Hebrew word for ‘midst’ in Gen. 3:3 (#8432, tavek), which can have the connotation of “throughout.” Chetsiy simply means “half” or “the middle of two parts.” Thus, Dan. 9:27 could only mean the center point of the 70th “week.” But it is clear that Yahshua’s ministry began with the baptism by John and ended with His crucifixion at the very end of the 490 weeks, on April 3, 33 AD! So, the word ‘midst’ can only be a reference to the middle of the final prophetic week; and the consensus is that it is a reference to the baptism by John.

The Hebrew word for “week” is shabua (Strong’s # 7620), and it simply means “sevens,” or a literal week. Recalling our radio discussion of the alternating literal and figurative usages of the word “tree” in Genesis 1 & 2, I concluded that this is what must be going on in Daniel 9:27. In other words, I concluded that, in Dan. 9:27, we have both a figurative and a literal instance of the word ‘week.’

Thus, the shabua of Daniel 9:24-27 are prophetic “weeks,” consisting of seven years each, but the “one week” of Daniel 9:27 could only be a literal week. Therefore, the “one week” mentioned in Daniel 9:27 is a reference to His final week on earth, for He did not actually confirm the New Covenant until this very last week, a literal week of seven days. At the same time, all of the important events, such as the baptism of Jesus, the miracles and prophecies, the sealing of the New Covenant and the Crucifixion, still take place within the last prophetic “week” of seven years. Having thus eliminated the contradiction in my own mind, let us review the events of the confirming of the covenant with many for one week.

In The Name of Yahweh Part 19

By Andrew Carrington Hitchcock

1 KINGS 9:20 – [And] all the people [that were] left of the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites, which [were] not of the children of Israel,

1 Kings 9:21 – Their children that were left after them in the land, whom the children of Israel also were not able utterly to destroy, upon those did Solomon levy a tribute of bond service unto this day.

1 Kings 9:22 – But of the children of Israel did Solomon make no bondmen: but they [were] men of war, and his servants, and his princes, and his captains, and rulers of his chariots, and his horsemen.

Here we see how those not of Israel but living in the lands of Israel, had to undertake forced labour for the privilege of living in their land.

This is the polar opposite of what happens in the nations of Israel today, when a significant number of those not of Israel, are provided with free income and housing paid for by the Israel taxpayers, and yet they have to undertake no labour to receive this.

Ecclesiastes 5:4 – When thou vowest a vow unto Yahweh (God), defer not to pay it; for [he hath] no pleasure in fools: pay that which thou hast vowed.

Ecclesiastes 5:5 – Better [is it] that thou shouldest not vow, than that thou shouldest vow and not pay.

This seems clear, do not lie to Yahweh.

However the Jews who claim to be the Israel of the Bible have a very interesting prayer called the, “Kol Nidre,” that they recite on their Yom Kippur, which reads as follows:

“All personal vows we are likely to make, all personal oaths and pledges we are likely to take between this Yom Kippur and the next Yom Kippur, we publicly renounce. Let them all be relinquished and abandoned, null and void, neither firm nor established. Let our personal vows, pledges and oaths be considered neither vows nor pledges nor oaths.”

On that basis it would seem that they are not prepared to stand by any promises they make, therefore they are in violation of this passage in Ecclesiastes, and furthermore unable to be trusted in entering into any arrangement with, as the foundation of their faith is their stated desire to be thoroughly dishonest.

Could this be the reason why historically Christian courts considered the word of a Jew to be worthless?

2 Chronicles 7:14 – If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land.

Once again Yahweh offers his blessings in exchange for Israel obeying his laws.

930 B.C. – 586 B.C.:

Amos 5:15 – Hate the evil, and love the good, and establish judgment in the gate: it may be that Yahweh (the LORD God of hosts) will be gracious unto the remnant of Joseph.

In other words, hate the children of Satan, and love the children of Yahweh.

Once again Israel, if you would only follow the laws of Yahweh, then you will receive His blessings.

Isaiah 5:8 – Woe unto them that join house to house, [that] lay field to field, till [there be] no place, that they may be placed alone in the midst of the earth!

Here Yahweh condemns those few with large land holdings, whose greed has deprived His people Israel of their land heritage.

2 Kings 18:9 – And it came to pass in the fourth year of king Hezekiah, which [was] the seventh year of Hoshea son of Elah king of Israel, [that] Shalmaneser king of Assyria came up against Samaria, and besieged it.

2 Kings 18:10 – And at the end of three years they took it: [even] in the sixth year of Hezekiah, that [is] the ninth year of Hoshea king of Israel, Samaria was taken.

2 Kings 18:11 – And the king of Assyria did carry away Israel unto Assyria, and put them in Halah and in Habor [by] the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes:

2 Kings 18:12 – Because they obeyed not the voice of Yahweh (the LORD) their God, but transgressed his covenant, [and] all that Moses the servant of Yahweh (the LORD) commanded, and would not hear [them], nor do [them].

The most important part of this passage is in what it doesn't say. This is the last historical mention of the kingdom of Israel which comprised the ten tribes of: Reuben; Simeon; Dan; Naphtali; Gad, Asher; Issachar; Zebulun; Ephraim and Manasseh (descended from Joseph).

The disappearance of these tribes of Israel is dated at 721 B.C., and it is from that point that they crossed from the east to the west of the Caucasus Mountains (which is why the white race are also known as Caucasian today), and began their migration into Europe.

See also the words of Jesus Christ in:

Matthew 12:30 – He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad.

Jesus knew his people, law-abiding Israel were with Him, and if not physically gathered with Him, that was because many had already scattered westwards to Europe in order to escape persecution by the children of Cain, hundreds of years prior to His physical presence on earth.

Isaiah 32:5 – The vile person shall be no more called liberal, nor the churl said [to be] bountiful.

Isaiah 32:6 – For the vile person will speak villany, and his heart will work iniquity, to practise hypocrisy, and to utter error against Yahweh (the LORD), to make empty the soul of the hungry, and he will cause the drink of the thirsty to fail.

Isaiah 32:7 – The instruments also of the churl [are] evil: he deviseth wicked devices to destroy the poor with lying words, even when the needy speaketh right.

Isaiah 32:8 – But the liberal deviseth liberal things; and by liberal things shall he stand.

A churl is a stingy person, who is of course not bountiful or generous, and liberals are those who promote homosexuality, race-mixing, multiple sexual partners etc.

Who are these vile liberals today?

Well the promoters of their liberalism are without doubt the western media who are predominantly under the ownership or editorial influence of Jews.

With this clarification in mind let's look at these four verses from Isaiah again.

The Jews will no longer be called liberals, nor said to be generous, because they will commit crimes against others through their control of information with which they will practice injustice, contrary to the laws of Yahweh.

Their lies will cause Yahweh's Israel children to hunger and thirst for the truth.

When they are told this truth is liberalism, the Jews, through their wicked infiltration of western media, will cause Yahweh's Israel children to turn to drink or drugs in an effort to cope with this, as it is contrary to the law that (we will find out in Jeremiah 31:33) their Father Yahweh has written in their hearts.

On this basis Yahweh's Israel children will subsequently destroy themselves. Does this clarify why there is such a drive towards political-correctness and liberalism today?

Interestingly, the New King James Version translation in Isaiah 32:5 translates the word liberal as generous, in my opinion to pander to the heresy of political-correctness instead of replicating what it is clearly shown to be in the King James Version, which is someone not bound by authority or tradition.

These translators may wish to have a look at:

Mark 8:38 – Whosoever therefore shall be ashamed of me and of my words in this adulterous and sinful generation; of him also shall the Son of man be ashamed, when he cometh in the glory of his Father with the holy angels.

Ezekiel 2:1 – And he said unto me, Son of man, stand upon thy feet, and I will speak unto thee.

Ezekiel 2:2 – And the spirit entered into me when he spake unto me, and set me upon my feet, that I heard him that spake unto me.

Ezekiel 2:3 – And he said unto me, Son of man, I send thee to the children of Israel, to a rebellious nation that hath rebelled against me: they and their fathers have transgressed against me, [even] unto this very day.

Ezekiel 2:4 – For [they are] impudent children and stiffhearted. I do send thee unto them; and thou shalt say unto them, Thus saith Yahweh (the Lord GOD).

Ezekiel 2:5 – And they, whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear, (for they [are] a rebellious house,) yet shall know that there hath been a prophet among them.

Yahweh makes a prophet of Ezekiel and sends him to Israel.

As we can see even after Yahweh's granting them a king, they are still an impudent and stiff hearted people who appear unprepared to follow Yahweh's laws.

Jeremiah 31:31 – Behold, the days come, saith Yahweh (the LORD), that I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Judah:

Jeremiah 31:32 – Not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers in the day [that] I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt; which my covenant they brake, although I was an husband unto them, saith Yahweh (the LORD):

Jeremiah 31:33 – But this [shall be] the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel; After those days, saith Yahweh (the LORD), I will put my law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts; and will be their God, and they shall be my people.

Jeremiah 31:34 – And they shall teach no more every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, saying, Know Yahweh (the LORD): for they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, saith Yahweh (the LORD): for I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more.

32. And was Noach five hundred years old: and begat Noach Shem 8035, Cham 2526, and Yepheth 3315.

Chapter 5 Notes

Verse 1. This is the seedline of the Adam. He is a particular adam, and was singled out to become the forefather of what would eventually become the tribes of Yisrael. There were other adamic people in existence at the time, and Adams descendents would take females from them as wives. The father carries the seedline, not the mother. It is a patriarchal descent, quite the opposite from what the Talmudists say. All of Yisrael were adamic racially, but all adamics were not Yisrael. These adamics were the ones Qayin feared, as he was a half-breed, and of different appearance.

Verse 2 - Matt.19:4; Mark 10:6

Verse 3 - Yashar (Jasher) 2:1

Verse 9 - Yashar 2:10

Verse 12 - Yashar 2:16

Verse 24 - This has the story of Chanoch (Enoch). It is in much greater detail in the Book of Yashar (Book of the Upright), and also the Book of Chanoch (Enoch). Both are available from Artisan Sales Publishers. Yashar Chapter 3; Hebrews 11:5; Jude 14; Sirach 44:16;49:14

Verse 25 - 3929 is a different Lemech than Qayin's descendant.

Verse 29 - Yashar 4:14; Note- 5162 and 5146 are linked.

1. And it was when the adams 121 began 2490 to increase 7231 upon the face of the soil 127, that daughters were born to them,

2. that saw 7200 the fallen sons of the Elohiym that the daughters of the adams were pleasing 2896; and they took of them women from any that they chose 977.

3. And said Yahweh, "Will not abide 5769 My Spirit 7307 in the adams always 5769, for also 7945/1571 they are flesh 1320: and shall be their days one hundred twenty years."

4. The N'philiym 5303 were in the land in those days, and also afterward, so that went in 935 the fallen sons of the Elohiym to the daughters of the adams, and they bare children by them, and these were the mighty men 1368 that were of old 5769, men 376 of fame 8034.

5. And saw Yahweh that was abundant 7227 the evil 7451 of the adams in the land, and all forms 3336 of the contrivances 4284 of their minds 3820 were only 7535 evil all the day long.

6. And sorry 5162 was Yahweh that He had made the adams on the land, and it pained 6087 Him in His heart 3820.

7. And said Yahweh, "I will destroy 4229 the adams that I have created 1254 from upon the face of the soil; both adams and beasts 929, and the creeping things, and the birds of the sky; for sorry am I that I made them."

8. But Noah found 4672 grace 2580 in the sight 5869 of Yahweh.

The Ark

9. This is the family lineage 8435 of Noah: Noah was a man 376 of righteousness 6662, undefiled 8549 in his generations 1755, and the Elohiym walked 1980 with Noah.

10. And begat Noah three sons; Shem 8035, Cham 2526, and Yepheth 3315.

11. Was corrupted 7843 the land before the Elohiym, and filled 4390 was the land with violence 2555.

12. And looked Elohiym at the land, and behold 2009, had corrupted all flesh 1320 His Way 1870 upon the land.

13. And said Elohiym to Noah, "The ending 7093 of all flesh is come before Me; for filled is the land with violence before Me, and behold, I will destroy 7843 them and the land.

14. Make you an ark 8392 of wood 6086 of gopher 1613; chambers 7064 you shall make in the ark, and coat it 3724 inside 1004 and outside 2351 with pitch 3724.

15. And this 2088 is how you shall make it: three hundred cubits 520 shall be the length 753 of the ark, fifty cubits the width 7341, and thirty cubits the height 6967.

16. A window 6672 you shall make in the ark, and in a cubit you will finish 3615 it above 4605, and the door 6607 of the ark in the side 6654 you will put 7760, and lower 8478, second 8145, and third 7992 decks, you shall make.

17. And , behold, shall bring a deluge 3999 of waters upon the land 776, to destroy 7843 all flesh that has the breath 7307 of life 2416 from under 8478 the sky; and all that is in the land 776 shall die 1478.

18. I will establish 6965 My covenant 1285 with you; and you shall come into the ark, you, and your sons, and your wife, and the wives of your sons with you.

19. And all living of all flesh, two 8147 of all you shall bring to the ark, to keep alive 2421 with you; male 2145 and female 5347 they shall be.

20. Of birds after their species 4327, and of beasts 929 after their species, and of all that creeps on the soil after their species; two of all shall come to you, to keep alive.

21. And you shall take of all food 3978 that is eaten, and gather 622 it to you; and it shall be to you and to them food 400."

22. And did Noah as all that commanded him Elohiym, so he did.

Chapter 6 Notes

This chapter is one of the most misunderstood in B'reshiyth, due to the terrible mistranslation of 776 erets (land, ground, country) as "earth (the whole planet). Tebel 8398 means "earth", as the known inhabited world, or the planet itself. "The flood", which should be deluge, did not cover the entire planet, but the specific area where the adams and the Nephiliym were "mixing it up" with genetic experimentations, species mixing, and all sorts of other devilish stuff. The next Chapter completes this story.

Verse 1 -Iyob (Job) 1:6; 2:1; Book of Chanoch (Enoch) 7:1,2. Enoch is also available from Artisan Publishers.

Verse 2 -Yashar 4:18 - 5303 Nephiliym, comes from 5307 naphal, to fall. Therefore the fallen "sons of Elohiym" were the Nephiliym, or "fallen angels" that had been cast down from "heaven". These had physical bodies, and bred with the daughters of the adams, creating more hybrid "men". They were evil, as their fathers were rebellious "angels". Now these devils could not create, but they merrily set about corrupting that which Yahweh had created. This they could, and did, do.

Verse 3 - A shorter life-span for the adams of 120 years.

Verse 4 - Here are the "fallen ones", the Nephiliym. They bred a whole bunch of half-breed children, which terrorized the land. The first law of "each according to its species" was violated. We have genetic mixing going on today, so "as it was in the days of Noach" applies now. 6:4 Num.13:33; 6:4-7 3 Macc.2:4

Verse 5 - 6:5-8 Matt.24:37; Lk.17:26; 1 Pet.3:20- 3336 and 4284 mean "contrivances of the mind". These could be machinery, genetic manipulation of crops and animals, cloning, and whatever else they came up with. Sort of like today, isn't it?

Verse 9 - Noach was of pure seedline, and that is why he and his family were preserved. 2 Pet.2:5

Verse 11 - 7843 corrupted, also means ruined or destroyed.

Verse 12 - 1870 as The Way of Yahweh, His order of arrangement for the world.

Verse 14 - 3724 pitch is "tar", and is flammable, especially when heated. Remember this when we get to the chapter on Sedom (Sodom) and Amorrhah (Gomorrhah). 1613 is an unknown wood.

Verse 15- 450' long, 75' wide,45' high. This would not carry the species of the "world", just those locally.

Verse 17 - 776 erets is translated "earth" in the KJV and others. This is incorrect. It means the known inhabited area, ground, and country; not the entire planet. Mount Everest is six MILES high, and that much water would have no place to drain off to. The depth of the water is given in Chapter 7.

Verse 18 - The Noahide Covenant is established. The first covenant was with Adam, and this is the second.

Verse 19 -Noach was going to have to restock the area after the deluge to come, so he gathered all types from that area into the ark. Clean and unclean animals alike, as the unclean were "garbage disposal" animals that cleaned up the land, and are needed for any eco-system to function properly. Two of each means mated pairs for reproduction.

Verse 20 - Again we see "after their species". This is a law of Yahweh. This law was broken by the Nephilyim and the stupid adamites that followed their ways. This was the reason for the deluge to come. 929 here means livestock, not two legged beasts.

The Misuse Of The Words, "All", "Every", "Whosoever", etc. (Part 2)

By Arnold Kennedy

"ALL", "EVERY ONE", "WHO-SO-EVER", ETC.

CONSIDER AGAIN THESE TWO VERSES:

John 3:16 God so loved the world ...

Mark 16:15 Go ye into all the world ...

Such verses are the basis of the thought that the go and preach the gospel to every creature of Mark 16:15 refers to going to every person of every race on earth. Let us consider some of the words in these verses.

Preach or kerusso means to proclaim, or to announce good news like a town crier. It does not mean "to make disciples" or "to evangelise", as many teach. But where were they to make their proclamations? Was it to everyone of every race? Let us look at every creature. The Greek word ktisis is given by:

Strong G2936-7 as “original formation, building, creature, and ordinance”.

Vine’s Dictionary of New Testament Words: “Ktizo is used among the Greeks to mean the foundation of a place, a city, or a colony ... It is a significant confirmation of Rom

1:20,21 that in all non-Christian Greek literature these words (ktizo and its derivatives) are never used by Greeks to convey the idea of a Creator or of a creative act by any of their gods. The words are confined by them to the acts of human beings.

This is the creature [or rather, creation] of Mark 16:15. The word ktisis in the Greek is used to indicate the product of human building or formation. In this context it refers to a village, or place where people live. A ktisis is built by man, not God. The disciples were to go specifically to the places or the villages or places where the Israelites lived.

Matt 10:23 Ye shall not have gone over the cities of Israel, till the Son of Man be come. We cannot make “the cities of Israel” mean the cities of every race. Note here that Jesus is speaking of the time of the end.

What is the area of proclamation? Is it not all the world of Israel?

What were they proclaiming? Was it not the Gospel of the Kingdom?

The Kingdom is what Jesus and John the Baptist came proclaiming: repent: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand. Who proclaims either of these today? It is impossible to believe and teach both the modern universal gospel to all races and the exclusive Kingdom of Heaven at the same time. Jesus confines all the world to the cities of Israel! In other words, this is what is to be proclaimed in the dwellings or places where the Israelites live right up to the end of the age.

ARE “ALL” and “EVERY” LIMITED EXPRESSIONS?

Does “all” usually mean “all of everything” or “all of that part being spoken about”? Does all the world mean all the planet, or just all of that part of the planet being spoken about. A look through Young’s Analytical Concordance will show how these words are used. This will give an indication without having to go into the Greek. Being certain on this topic is well worth the time involved researching lexicons to determine the correct meanings of the words used.

To grasp the use of all in Greek and Hebrew, consider Deut 28:10, “and all the people of the earth shall see that thou art called by the name of the Lord, and they shall be afraid of thee”. Here, all the peoples of the earth does NOT include Israel. In the same way, go ye into all the world is NOT inclusive of every race. Failure to understand this is the source of error in the modern popular teaching. Jesus says that it is not given for everyone to hear or to understand. Immediately we have just one exception, then “every” and “all” cannot include that exception, or the other exceptions. If an exception is made about the Edomites who cannot find repentance, or of those Jesus said, leave them alone, then these cannot be part of the “all” being addressed. Jesus did not proclaim to certain peoples, as we have seen. Jesus said He was sent to Israel to save His people from their sins. Are we to be wiser than Jesus?

“ALL THE ENDS OF THE Earth”

Isaiah 45:22 “Look unto me and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth”.

At first glance, this appears to have a universal meaning. The word translated as the earth is the Hebrew word “erets” which is mostly translated as “country” or “earth” in the sense of a localised area or that earth belonging to a people [for example, the land, or earth, of Israel]. In context, this whole chapter is about Israel and no other. It certainly is not used in the generalised sense as the universalists who try to prove the expression the ends of the earth means every race or place on Earth.

“IN THEE SHALL ALL NATIONS BE BLESSED”

Gal 3:7-9 Know ye therefore that they which are of faith, the same are the children of Abraham.

And the scripture foreseeing that God would justify the heathen through faith, preached (proclaimed) before the gospel unto Abraham, saying, in thee shall all nations be blessed. So then they which be of faith are blessed with faithful Abraham.

This verse together with and the verses below, are favoured by universalists because they seem to present a universal gospel for all races. "Nations" is sometimes translated emotively as "Heathen" to try to add weight to the universal argument. To understand any passage of Scripture it is necessary to look at it as a whole by going back to the prophecy behind it to see what it is fulfilling.

To Abraham:

Gen 12:2,3 And I will make of thee a great nation, and I will bless thee, and make thy name great; and thou shalt be a blessing: and I will bless them that bless thee, and will curse him that curseth thee, and in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed.

Gen 18:18 Seeing that Abraham shall surely become a great and a mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth shall be blessed in him?

Gen 22:18 And in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed; because thou hast obeyed my voice.

To Isaac:

Gen 26:3 Sojourn in this land, and I will be with thee, and will bless thee; for unto thee, and unto thy seed, I will give all these countries, and I will perform the oath that I sware unto Abraham thy father.

To Jacob:

Gen 28:14 And thy seed shall be as the dust of the earth, and thou shalt spread abroad to the west, and to the east, and to the north, and to the south: and in thee and in thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed.

To Jabob/Israel in the Psalms:

Psalm 22:27 All the ends of the world shall remember and turn unto the Lord: and all the kindreds of the nations shall worship before thee.

Here are six important verses that are used to support the doctrine of universal racial salvation. Indeed, they do appear to give valid support on the surface. But do they actually say what the religious translators make them say? Is this the problem here? Let us look further.

THE "FAMILIES OF THE EARTH" BEING BLESSED IN ABRAHAM

The major source of error in these blessing passages is what we mean by certain words. We have different words translated as earth and the ground, countries and the land, as also occurs with the words translated nations, families and kindreds. Although an extensive technical Hebrew language exposition is beyond the scope of this paper, there are things that need to be pointed out.

Originally Abraham was told to go from his father's house unto an eretz that God would show him. If eretz here is the whole Earth, then Abraham must have gone to another planet! Abraham was told all The 'Earth' which thou seeth, I will give thee. He was told to arise and walk through the earth. Did he walk across the whole globe? So we have to ask if this 'earth' is the whole earth or the Promised Land. It is not all the 'eretz' of all the races on earth. Abraham was told to get himself out of his present earth and to go to THE earth. There are many references that give confirmation of the meaning. THE earth does not mean the whole globe, but rather that portion belonging to the particular area or person under consideration.

Contrary to popular presentation, we must note that in Genesis 12:3, the 'them' in "I will bless them" is plural, whereas the 'him' in I will curse him is singular. The Hebrew allows for two possible translations of be blessed, namely:

"May be blessed in, or by, association with thee", and

"May bless themselves" [as the RV footnote says].

Some awkward questions could be posed here if it was to be taken that all nations had the meaning of “every race on earth”:

If those who curse Abraham are cursed, how could those so cursed be part of all nations which were to be blessed?

Were the Egyptians blessed or cursed through Israel’s presence during their captivity and also in the Exodus?

When the Children of Israel went into the Promised Land, they were told to exterminate all the Canaanite nations. Was not that an unusual way of blessing the Canaanites? After all, they were supposed to be part of all nations. Likewise Amalek was to be exterminated.

In Deut 23:6, God commanded Israel that they should not seek the peace or the prosperity of the Ammonites and the Moabites right up to the end of the age. Ezra 9:12 indicates similar treatment of the non-Israelites in the land. This is hardly a blessing on those nations, is it?

When The House of Judah was in captivity in Babylon, is there any evidence of Israel being a blessing to Babylon?

When the House of Israel was in captivity in Assyria, did this make the Assyrians blossom?

In prophecy why are all the forecasts concerning non-Israel nations always detailing them as being servants to Israel and for them to perish if they refuse this destiny? This is so right up to the end of the age.

The promise to Abraham was to “ALL” nations without any exceptions. “All” cannot include those who are cursed and those God says that He hates. Hence “all” means all the nations of Israel.

Throughout Scripture, Israel was to dwell alone and shall not be reckoned among the nations [Num 23:9]. Prophecy sustains this to the end.

Daniel 7:27 And the kingdom and dominion, and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven, shall be given to the people of the saints of the most High, whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and all dominions shall serve him.

Isaiah 60:12 For the nation and kingdom that will not serve thee shall perish; yea, those nations shall be utterly wasted.

Zech 14:16,17 And it shall come to pass, that every one that is left of all the nations which came up against Jerusalem shall even go up from year to year to worship the King, the Lord of hosts, and to keep the feast of tabernacles. And it shall be that whoso will not come up of all the families of the earth unto Jerusalem to worship the King, the Lord of hosts, even upon them shall be no rain.

Israel and Judah were scattered among all nations, but are these other nations to be blessed? Jeremiah does not agree.

Jer 30:11—though I make a full end of all nations whither I have scattered thee, yet I will not make a full end of thee ...

Jeremiah repeats this in Jer 46:28, addressing this to Jacob. In all these Scriptures we can see the unique place of Israel among the other nations. This continues after Jesus returns and Israel reigns with God over the other nations. Finally there will be no more death. What a blessing! The blessing is either given by this seed, or by the Act of God. To be Continued OS17741

How Venice Rigged the First, and Worst, Global Financial Crash In 1340 - Part Four

Venice, the World's Mint

VENICE, WROTE BRAUDEL: was the greatest commercial success of the Middle Ages -- a city without industry, except for naval-military construction, which came to bestride the Mediterranean world and to control an empire through mere trading enterprise. In the fourteenth century she was in the ascendant to her greatest periods of success and power. And most importantly, Frederick Lane writes:

Venice's rulers were less concerned with profits from industries than with profits from trade between regions that valued gold and silver differently.

Between 1250 and 1350, Venetian financiers built up a worldwide financial speculation in currencies and gold and silver bullion, similar to the huge speculative cancer of "derivatives contracts" today. This ultimately dwarfed and controlled the speculation in debt, commodities, and trade of the Bardi, Peruzzi, et al. It took all control of coinage and currency from the monarchs of the time.

The banks of Venice were deceptively smaller and less conspicuous than the Florentine banks, but in fact had much greater resources for speculation at their disposal. The Venetian financial oligarchy as a whole, which ruled a maritime empire through small executive committees under the guise of a republic, centralized and supported its own speculative activities as a whole. The "Republic" built the ships and auctioned them to the merchants; escorted them with large, well-armed naval convoys of their empire, with naval commanders responsible to the "Committee of 10" and the magistrates for the convoys' safety. This same oligarchy maintained several public mints and did everything possible to foster the centralization of gold and silver trading and coinage in Venice.

As Frederick Lane demonstrates, this was the dominant trade of Venice by no later than 1310. Like today's "mega-speculators" in currencies and derivatives, such as the Morgan and Rothschild-backed George Soros and Marc Rich, the Venetian banks and bullion-dealers were backed by large pools of capital and protection.

The size of the Venetian bullion trade was huge: twice a year a "bullion fleet" of up to 20-30 ships under heavy naval convoy, sailed from Venice to the eastern Mediterranean coast or to Egypt, bearing primarily silver; and sailed back to Venice bearing mainly gold, including all kinds of coinage, bars, leaf, etc.

The profits of this trade put usury in the shade, though the merchants of Venice were also unbridled in that practice. Surviving instructions of Venetian financiers to their trading agents in these fleets, specify that they expected a minimum rate of profit of 8 percent on each six-month voyage from the exchange of gold and silver alone: 1620 percent annual profit.

One astonishing speech to the Council of 10 by Doge Thomasso Mocenigo, from a time after the 1340's financial crash, goes further. Compare the magnitude of these figures to those discussed earlier for the Papacy, for England, for Florence (keeping in mind that the Venetian standard coin, the gold ducat, was roughly comparable to the Florentine gold florin):

“In peacetime this city puts a capital of 10 million ducats into trade throughout the world with ships and galleys, so that the profit of export is two million, the profit of import is two million, export and import together four million [from the two annual voyages, 40 percent profit -- PG].... You have seen our city mint every year 1,200,000 in gold, 800,000 in silver, of which 5,000 marks (20,000 ducats) go annually to Egypt and Syria, 100,000 to your places on the mainland of Italy, to your places beyond the sea 50,000 ducats, to England and France each 100,000 ducats—”

How was this possible? Not by private enterprise, but by imperial Venetian state usury.' The gold from the East was being looted out of China (until then the world's richest economy) and India by the murderous Mongol empires, or being mined in Sudan and Mali in Africa and sold to Venetian merchants, in exchange for greatly overvalued European silver. The silver from the West was being mined in Germany, Bohemia, and Hungary, and sold more and more exclusively to Venetians with bottomless supplies of gold at their disposal. Coinages not of Venetian origin were disappearing, first in the Byzantine empire in the twelfth century, then in the Mongol domains, then in Europe in the fourteenth century.

The Great Pyramid, Khafre & Menkaure Pyramid Geometry Encoded Into The New Zealand Landscape (4) By Martin Doutré

FIGURE 7: (above) The red triangle is a replica of half the Great Pyramid X 20. It's not quite a 3,4,5 triangle as the Great Pyramid has a slope angle of 51.84-degrees (1.290-degrees less than Khafre).

The line running up the coast proceeds for 9620.86 feet from the Benchmark cleft, at 339.98-degrees azimuth, to the eastern end of a flat cut shadow cleft terrace 63 feet beyond the summit, on the northern slope of the steep coastal hill. From there the line turns 90-degrees and runs for 7560 feet, brushing an important large boulder marker within the Kerr Rd Observatory complex. Although the corner end marker position has not as yet been recorded, the return line back to the Benchmark Cleft exactly dissects the stand of large obelisks that constitute the site's most important position.

The lack of the corner marker is due to the position of Kerr Road itself, as the marker would reside up on the ridge line where the road is situated and seems to have been eradicated during road construction. The fact that Kerr Road Observatory's most important markers are dissected by incoming and outgoing lines lends credence to the corner marker having resided at the theorised position.

The length of the hypotenuse line to the Benchmark Cleft is 12235.79 feet, consistent with 20 X 611.7894615 feet (the calculable length up the side of the Great Pyramid if it had a capstone (which it never did). The azimuth angle of this return line was 198.144-degrees. This means the azimuth angle from the Benchmark Cleft to the pyramid corner at Kerr Road was designed to be 18.144-degrees. The length of the Great Pyramid's base was 756 feet or 9072 inches and $2 \times 9072 = 18144$. Again, it's the hypotenuse angle that codes the orientation of this giant overland triangle. The distance of 18144 feet would be 1/7200th of the circumference of the Earth under the ancient Egyptian sexagesimal geodetic system. A distance of 18.144 inches would be 1/500th of the base length of the Great Pyramid.

The green triangle is a two-dimensional representation of the Great Pyramid X 10 in scale. Again the apex of the pyramid is tied to the northern Waitapu Valley ridge pillar. The line to the steep coastal hill runs for 6117.9 feet at an azimuth angle of 301.82-degrees and resolves nicely upon the small centre summit plateau. From there the line turns and runs for 7560 feet to the Kerr Road Observatory. The corner marker has not been recorded, as it was undoubtedly eradicated when Kerr Road was built. The return line from the corner runs back through an impressive boulder cairn marker and brushes another sighting pit with a boulder marker on its western edge.

THE MENKAURE PYRAMID GEOMETRY

The Menkaure Pyramid, with a base length of 356.4 feet, is less than half the size of the Great Pyramid and marginally more than half the size of Khafre. Like the Great Pyramid it was designed to have a face angle of 51.84-degrees. In order to fix its codes into the New Zealand landscape, the ancient surveyors had to scale it to 40 X its actual size. This is how it looks in the Waitapu Valley region.

to be 341.04 degrees. The line (yellow) reaches the southern face of a tor mound on the ridge. The coastal line is 9072 feet or $4536 \text{ feet} \times 2$. The Great Pyramid was 9072 inches long and 453.6 feet high to the top of its flat altar floor. In this very important height are the codes for remembering the equatorial size of the Earth under a sexagesimal geodetic system. The line turns 90-degrees and runs for 7128 feet to resolve in the near vicinity of several recorded markers. It appears we'll have to return to the Kerr Road site to record more of the markers there, as a definite corner position for this geometry has not yet been verified. This orientation seems to be the likeliest as the azimuth angle from the Benchmark Cleft is 19.2-degrees...a much used ancient number. The distance to the Benchmark Cleft, under this theorised coding, was 11536.60 feet at 199.2-degrees azimuth.

The above orientation of the giant triangle appears to be the likeliest, although there were several other subtle possibilities.

As far as the smaller version Menkaure representation is concerned (purple) it's a perfect fit on all points. From the ridge pillar of the northern Waitapu Valley the line extends for 5768.3 feet to fall on a boulder cairn north of the coastal hill's tor mound. The azimuth angle of this line is very positively coded at 301.5-degrees to provide a return angle of 121.5-degrees. This number is a major lunar code that was much used for tracking the progress of the moon during the 6804-day lunar nutation cycle.

The distance of 12150 feet also extends, in another coded instance, from the Benchmark Cleft to the crown boulder cairn on the summit of a hill at the intersection of Hood and Kerr Roads.

From the coastal hill the Menkaure line runs for 7128 feet and resolves exactly upon the main obelisk position of the Kerr Road site. It then turns and runs back to the pillar on the ridge at an azimuth angle of 197.82-degrees.

The absolute validity of this pyramid's coding into the landscape is attested to in the return angle from the ridge pillar to the Kerr Road, central obelisk position. That return angle is 17.82-degrees...half the base length of the Menkaure Pyramid is 178.2 feet and this was also the "whole/ non-PHI" code carried within the "Y" Holes circle diameter at Stonehenge.

There can be no question about the inclusion of this particular, two-dimensional, Menkaure representation, as at all points the triangle is positively marked to produce the pyramid configuration at 20 X true scale.

It's obviously no coincidence that 4 isolated sites, complete with their own compact array of purpose built structures and separated by a considerable distance (over 2-miles between hypotenuse markers), happen to be situated so conveniently in relation to each other. The increased scale, two-dimensional pyramid geometry for the 3 Giza pyramids could most certainly be demonstrated by using all 4 sites combined. If the ancient people weren't using the sites in this manner, THEN THEY BLOODY-WELL SHOULD HAVE BEEN...because that's what the sites are perfectly set up to do.

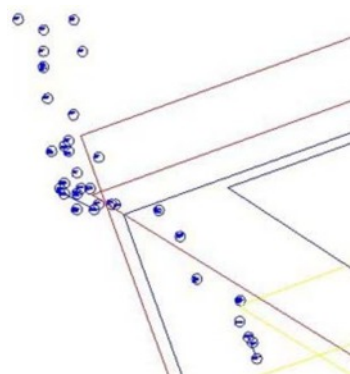

Figure 9: (above) This is how the seaward cliff line geometry for the 3-pyramids works out, as it resolves upon the much modified hill about 1.8 miles north of the Benchmark Cleft. The red lines relate to Great Pyramid geometry and these resolve to positions just beyond the summit or right onto the small summit itself. The blue lines relate to Khafre Pyramid geometry and they resolve to the southern side of the summit position or east of it on an assembly plateau. The yellow lines relate to Menkaure geometry and they resolve to a marker just north of a double hump, ridge tor mound or onto the southern inclined face of the tor mound itself. The distance between the most northerly resolving position (Great Pyramid) and the most southerly (Menkaure) is 578 feet. Each small blue circle shown represents the centre of a purpose built structure. These relationships are far too good to have happened by chance!

To determine the resolving corner positions of the pyramid geometry, angle and distance calculations would have been carried out from the central ridge pillar some 6100 feet SE of the sea cliff hill's summit. There are many varied type markers on the sea cliff hill, each one relating to coded distance or angles when used in conjunction with other associated, distant overland markers. Very good relative accuracy in the placement of markers could have been achieved by use of manual surveying instruments.

Figure 10: (above) This is the way the corner positions of the pyramid geometry would relate to structures on the Kerr Road Observatory site. The red lines are Great Pyramid geometry and these corner positions would have been eradicated in the construction of Kerr Road. The blue lines relate to the Khafre Pyramid geometry, giving good relationships to positions surveyed. The yellow lines relate to Menkaure Pyramid geometry, providing a solid hit onto the Kerr Road central obelisk position and another yet to be verified, which is close to surveyed structures.

So, let the reader be the judge. These sites have lain in ruination for a very long time and haven't been in use for centuries, but are still more or less intact. Remember, this geometry is in an exact scale to each of the 3 Giza Plateau Pyramids of Egypt. Anyone who chooses to do so can go to the Waitapu Valley region and view the structures, take GPS fixes on their positions and duplicate the analysis written about herein.

Our American Identity (Part 3)

By

Dr. J. Stanley Barnes

Another Jew, Sigmund Freud, invented psychoanalysis. Though the whole system of thought is purely Freud's own creation and is totally non-medical and non-scientific it has been amazingly seductive, being accepted today throughout Western medicine. Freud's system has no more scientific credibility than does voodoo, yet his pseudoscience has become the effective religion of thousands of Jews and Anglo-Saxons, the two groups who comprise most practitioners and "patients" today. Psychoanalysis, a Jewish invention, totally discredits the Biblical teaching of man as sinner in need of Jesus Christ as Savior.

Freudianism and Communism certainly qualify as antichrists. As such, they represent Satanic attacks upon the integrity of the true Israel.

In the gospel of John we see a clear distinction being drawn between the false Israel and the true Israel. Seeing Nathanael, Jesus defined his type as "...an Israelite indeed (in truth), in whom is no guile!" (John 1:47). Significantly, Nathanael was a Galilean, not a Judean. In fact, Judas Iscariot was the only Judean among the twelve disciples. Of the false Israel, John writes, "He came unto his own, and his own received him not." (John 1:11).

{Actually, this statement applies to the true Judahites and Israelites of Judea, who WERE "His own." Yahshua did not come to save the Jews, because the Jews were and are aliens to true Israel. The fact is that many true Israelites rejected Yahshua. This is still true today. Also,

Judas came from the town of Kerioth, which was an Edomite town bordering southern Judah. The erstwhile surname, Ishkerioth, means "man of Kerioth." – Eli.}

Nothing could be clearer than the test of authenticity set forth by Jesus Himself in John 8:39: "If ye were Abraham's children, ye would do the work of Abraham." Then Jesus added, "If God were your Father, ye would love me." (John 8:42). Here is the test of who is true Israel and who is not. True Israelites, like Nathanael, will accept and love Jesus as Messiah. False Israelites will reject and despise the name of Jesus.

Jeremiah 31:21 states that as the people of Israel migrated into other distant lands, they would leave "waymarks" to indicate their passing. Genesis 49:17 pictures the tribe of Dan as leaving a trail like a serpent; that is, twisting and turning but always moving forward.

We will cite evidence of those "waymarks" or road signs shortly, but first, let us think upon the eventual goal of the centuries of migration that lay ahead for Israel. The true Israel was promised the divine gift of a new homeland, a place set aside by God especially for His own nation. In II Samuel 7:10, a prophecy repeated in I Chronicles 17:9, the Eternal One Promised: "Moreover I will appoint a place for my people Israel, and plant them, that they may dwell in a place of their own, and move no more..."

This promise could not have referred to the land of Palestine, for the context makes clear that the prophecy was given from Nathan to King David "in his house" in the city of David which is Jerusalem. Therefore, the divine purpose spoke of another land, a new country rich in resources and awaiting for development into an abundance which would be the model for, and envy of the world.

History reveals the place: America

The prophet Amos spoke also of this as recorded in Chapter 9, verse 15:

“And I will plant them upon their land, and they shall no more be pulled up out of their land which I have given them, saith the Lord thy God.”

Jeremiah 3:18 looked toward that time, which is now fulfilled.

“In those days the house of Judah shall walk with the house of Israel and they shall come together out of the land of the north to the land that I have given...”

In our time ("in those days") the "house of Judah" (Germanic and related peoples) and "the house of Israel" (Anglo-Saxon and related nations) are now "come together" out of "the land of the north" (northern Europe) to the new promised land under the new covenant (New Testament).

America, the new promised land, is a dominion "from sea to sea" (Psalms 72:8; Zechariah 9:10). An eastern sea and a western sea are spoken of in Zechariah 14:8 as "the former sea" and "the hinder sea." The word translated "former" in the King James Version means "eastern" and the "hinder sea" would be the opposite of that, or the "western sea". Old Palestine does not border an eastern sea, but the United States does border the Atlantic Ocean and the Pacific Ocean, the eastern and western seas.

Genesis 49:22. Joseph, through Ephraim (Great Britain) and Manasseh (United States of America), "...is a fruitful bough, even a fruitful bough by a well; whose branches run over the wall." The word translated "branches" means literally "daughters" so the verse is speaking of people, a race which would explore and migrate to the corners of the earth. This was fulfilled when our forefathers established Great Britain, Newfoundland, Canada, the United States, Australia, New Zealand, and other places.

"I will take you one of a city, and two of a family, and I bring you to Zion:
and I will give you pastors according to my heart, which shall feed you with knowledge and understanding."
(Jeremiah 8:14- 15)

Immigrants came to America "one of a city, two of a family" and left behind others of their race in the old country. Studies have shown that those who migrate tend to be healthier and more adaptable than those who do not. So, the cream of the crop came to America (Zion). God has kept His promise, giving His people pastors according to His heart who feed the chosen people with the Bread of life from the Word of God.

Isaiah 6:13 indicates only a fraction, a tenth, of those who began the trek from Palestine will go all the way to America. Isaiah 10:22 tells us that though all Israel will be a large population ("as the sand of the sea") yet only a "remnant" - a small representative portion - would migrate all the way to the new promised land.

We have seen that the tribe of Dan would be especially notable in leaving "way-marks" along the path of its migration into Europe (see also Deuteronomy 33:22; Joshua 19:47; Judges 18:12, 29). Here is a list of some of those way-marks left tell us the path followed as Israel migrated into Europe:

The Waymarks of Dan

Denmark

In Palestine:

Jordan River —
(literally 'Dan's Mark')

Sweden

In Russia:

Don River;

City Dan-Zig,
City Donetsk—now known as Gadansk,
Donets Basin—the site of activities of Poland's City of Dnepropetrovsk* (solidarity movement)
Dnieper River
Dniester River

In Europe:

Dardanelles
Macedonia
Danube River

Danric Alps

* Note In the original Hebrew there were no vowels per se, so that subsequent language development caused vowel spellings to vary, or even to be eliminated, e.g., the vowel between 'd' and 'n.'

New settlers in Ireland at the time of the Assyrian conquest of Israel (ca. 721 B.C.) were called "Tuatha de Dananns" meaning "Tribe of Dan." Early inhabitants of Ireland were called Dan-onians.

Ptolemy was a scholar who lived in the second century A.D. in Alexandria, which was a centre of learning in ancient times. In Ptolemy's map of Ireland we find Dan-slough, Dan-sower, Dan-sobairse, Dan's resting place, Dan's habitation, and Dan-gan castle (birthplace Duke of Wellington).

Ireland includes places named Dun-dalke, Dun-drum, Dun-glow, Din-gle, Dunsmore (literally "more Dans"), the city of Londonderry, and Don-egal Bay (site of the murder in 1979 of Lord Mountbatten of the British royal family; his German name had been Battenberg until World War I).

The name "Dunn" in the Irish language means the same as "Dan" in Hebrew: "Judge" (see Genesis 49:16).

In England there is a Don River and, of course, Lon-don itself.

In Scotland we find the Don River, the Doon River, and places called Dun-dee, Dun-raven, E-din-burgh, and Dun-oon (scene of the world championship hammer-throwing contest).

Early inhabitants of Norway were the Don-sk people.

Ancient Greece was populated, in part, by the Dan-oi.

But it was not only the tribe of Dan which left a trail across Europe. A map of Italy at the time of Julius Caesar will show an area near Rome inhabited by Umbrians (from the Latin for "Hebrews") and an adjacent section of Sesones (from the Latin "Simeon"--one of the tribes of Israel.)

The term Saxon is derived from Isaacson or "son of Isaac" and is still used when we speak of Anglo-Saxons or Saxony, a part of Germany today.

In Spain there is a city called Cadiz. The original spelling was Gades, named for the tribe of Gad, another tribe of Israel.

Spain and Portugal occupy the Iberian Peninsula, from the Gaelic (Irish) word 'Iberia,' meaning "Hebrew". Obviously, the people of Ireland had migrated through what is now Spain and Portugal.

We do not see that in the complexions of most Spaniards today because the much later Moorish Arab darkened the natives by the infusion of much Arab and North African blood. The early Celt-Iberians who occupied Spain were a fair-skinned race who are almost bred out of existence and remain only in the complexion and features of some of the Spanish aristocracy.

On a visit to the Dominican Republic, this writer observed that the wealthy ruling class had much lighter skin than the lower classes, though all claim the Spanish culture. Experience shows that the mighty cultures and empires built by the white race do not last if the white culture-creators mix with the dark-skinned races. Though the Israelite remnant in Spain is small indeed, the way-marks remain to tell their passing through.

Earlier, we spoke of the exile of some two hundred thousand people from the tribe of Judah about 700 B.C. They migrated to northern Europe. The peninsula housing Denmark is called Jutland, from Judah-land. One of the tribes invading England and Scotland about the time of King Arthur was called the Jutes, derived from Judah. The Jutes were also called Jutons, Teutons, or Gutons (Goths).

So the Germans, Scandinavians, English, and Scotsmen of today are partly of the tribe of Judah. W.A. Carto, writing in the introduction to Imperium, by Francis Parker Yockey, notes “Genghis Khan, a Mongol, came from a tribe called ‘they grey-eyed men,’ according to biographer Harold Lamb, and he had red hair and green eyes.” Will Durant, in his book, Caesar and Christ, p. 187, says “Cleopatra was a Macedonian Greek by origin, and more probably blonde than brunette. Not only do these historical facts reveal the misinformation we have been given by the humanist, but the racial truth about the Macedonians adds new insight into the vision given to the Apostle Paul as reported in Acts 16:9-10:

"And a vision appeared to Paul in the night; There stood a man of Macedonia, and prayed him, saying, Come over into Macedonia, and help us. And after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavoured to go into Macedonia, assuredly, gathering that the Lord had called us for to teach the gospel unto Them."

Clearly, God purposed that Paul was to cross over into Europe and preach the gospel of the Kingdom to the race which today is known as Nordic or European! This plainly confirms our thesis of a racial destiny in the Divine Plan.

History of Trusts From Our Dublin Correspondent

The 1st Trust of the world

UNAM SANCTAM is one of the most frightening documents of history and the one most quoted as the primary document of the popes claiming their global power. It is an express trust deed. The last line reads: “Furthermore, we declare, we proclaim, we define that it is absolutely necessary for salvation that every human creature be subject to the Roman Pontiff.” It is not only the first trust deed in history but also the largest trust ever conceived, as it claims the whole planet and everything on it, conveyed in trust.

Triple Crown of Ba'al, aka the Papal Tiara and Triregnum

In 1302 Pope Boniface (left) issued his infamous Papal Bull Unam Sanctam—the first Express Trust. He claimed control over the whole planet which made him “King of the world”. In celebration, he commissioned a gold-plated headdress in the shape of a pinecone, with an elaborate crown at its base. The pinecone is an ancient symbol of fertility and one traditionally associated with Ba'al as well as the Cult of Cybele. It also represents the pineal gland in the centre of our brains—crystalline in nature—which allows us access to Source, hence, the 13-foot tall pinecone in Vatican Square. Think about why the Pontiffs would idolize a pinecone.

The 1st Crown of Crown Land

Pope Boniface VIII was the first leader in history to create the concept of a Trust, but the first Testamentary Trust, through a deed and will creating a Deceased Estate, was created by Pope Nicholas V in 1455, through the Papal Bull Romanus Pontifex. This is only one of three (3) papal bulls to include the line with the incipit “For a perpetual remembrance.” This Bull had the effect of conveying the right of use of the land as Real Property, from the Express Trust Unam Sanctam, to the control of the Pontiff and his successors in perpetuity. Hence, all land is claimed as “crown land”. This 1st Crown is represented by the 1st Cestui Que Vie Trust, created when a child is born. It deprives us of all beneficial entitlements and rights on the land.

The 2nd Crown of the Commonwealth

The second Crown was created in 1481 with the papal bull Aeterni Regis, meaning “Eternal Crown”, by Sixtus IV, being only the 2nd of three papal bulls as deeds of testamentary trusts. This Papal Bull created the “Crown of Aragon”, later known as the Crown of Spain, and is the highest sovereign and highest steward of all Roman Slaves subject to the rule of the Roman Pontiff.

Spain lost the crown in 1604 when it was granted to King James I of England by Pope Paul V after the successful passage of the “Union of Crowns”, or Commonwealth, in 1605 after the false flag operation of the Gunpowder Plot.

The Crown was finally lost by England in 1975, when it was returned to Spain and King Carlos I, where it remains to this day. This 2nd Crown is represented by the 2nd cestui Que Vie Trust, created when a child is born and, by the sale of the birth certificate as a Bond to the private central bank of the nation, depriving us of ownership of our flesh and condemning us to perpetual servitude, as a Roman person, or slave.

The 3rd Crown of the Ecclesiastical See

The third Crown was created in 1537 by Paul III, through the papal bull Convocation, also meant to open the Council of Trent. It is the third and final testamentary deed and will of a testamentary trust, set up for the claiming of all “lost souls”, lost to the See.

The Venetians assisted in the creation of the 1st Cestui Que Vie Act of 1540, to use this papal bull as the basis of Ecclesiastical authority of Henry VIII. This Crown was secretly granted to England in the collection and “reaping” of lost souls. The Crown was lost in 1816, due to the deliberate bankruptcy of England, and granted to the Temple Bar which became known as the Crown Bar, or simply the Crown. The Bar Associations have since been responsible for administering the “reaping” of the souls of the lost and damned, including the registration and collection of Baptismal certificates representing the souls collected by the Vatican and stored in its vaults.

This 3rd Crown is represented by the 3rd Cestui Que Vie Trust

It is created when a child is baptized. It is the parents’ grant of the Baptismal certificate—title to the soul—to the church or Registrar. Thus, without legal title over one’s own soul, we will be denied legal standing and will be treated as things—cargo without souls—upon which the BAR is now legally able to enforce Maritime law.

The Cestui Que Vie Trust

A Cestui Que Vie Trust is a fictional concept. It is a Temporary Testamentary Trust, first created during the reign of Henry VIII of England through the Cestui Que Vie Act of 1540 and updated by Charles II, through the CQV Act of 1666, wherein an Estate may be effected for the Benefit of a Person presumed lost or abandoned at “sea” and therefore assumed “dead” after seven (7) years.

Additional presumptions, by which such a Trust may be formed, were added in later statutes to include bankrupts, minors, incompetents, mortgages, and private companies.

The original purpose of a CQV Trust was to form a temporary Estate for the benefit of another because some event, state of affairs, or condition prevented them from claiming their status as living, competent, and present, before a competent authority. Therefore, any claims, history, statutes, or arguments that deviate in terms of the origin and function of a CQV Trust, as pronounced by these canons, is false and automatically null and void.

A Beneficiary under Estate may be either a Beneficiary or a CQV Trust. When a Beneficiary loses direct benefit of any Property of the higher Estate placed in a CQV Trust on his behalf, he do not “own” the CQV Trust; he is only the beneficiary of what the Trustees of the CQV Trust choose to provide. As all CQV Trusts are created on presumption, based upon original purpose and function, such a Trust cannot be created if these presumptions can be proven not to exist.

Since 1933, when a child is borne in a State (Estate) under inferior Roman law, three (3) Cestui Que (Vie) Trusts are created upon certain presumptions specifically designed to deny, forever, the child any rights of Real Property, any Rights to be free, and any Rights to be known as man or woman, rather than a creature or animal, by claiming and possessing their Soul or Spirit.

The Executors or Administrators of the higher Estate willingly and knowingly:

LIVE BIRTH RECORD TITLE CREATED BY "LIFE" >	BIRTH CERTIFICATE TITLE CREATED BY STATE
Baby Born, Endowed	Cargo Berthed, Delivered
Your Mother autographs to establish that you are "holder of your Estate in due course"	Informant autographs as indictment that you have no paternal holder of your Estate
Mother gives maiden name which indicates a bastard, later "still-born" on the Register	Registrar signs your Estate into Probate and you become a "Ward of the State"
Given a Lawful Name A lawful Given Name is privately recorded, traditionally in a Family name Bible	Name is Corporatised A legal Tradename is publicly registered, combining your Given and Family names
TITLE (Your Given Name)	CORPORATION (Tradename)
Rightful Beneficiary of the tradename	Unwitting Trustee of the tradename
Format is hand-written in proper grammatical English. Later usage shows your title as unique - John: (of family name)	Format is either hand-written or typed, and not necessarily all-capsitals, which is often later used to indicate the legal name
"Capitis diminutio minima. The lowest or least comprehensive degree of loss of status. Rights of liberty and citizenship unaltered." (Pittaker's I see 2 nd Edition)	"Capitis diminutio maxima. The highest or most comprehensive loss of status. Changed from one of freedom to one of bondage." (Pittaker's I see 2 nd Edition)

1. convey the beneficial entitlements of the child, as Beneficiary, into the 1st Cestui Que (Vie) Trust in the form of a Registry Number by registering the Name, thereby also creating the Corporate Person and denying the child any rights to Real Property; and,

2. claim the baby as chattel to the Estate. The slave baby contract is then created by honoring the ancient tradition of either having the ink impression of the baby’s feet onto the live birth record, or a drop of its blood, as well as tricking the parents to signing the baby away through the deceitful legal meanings on the live birth record which is a promissory note, converted into a slave bond, sold to the private reserve bank of the estate, and then conveyed into a 2nd and separate CQV Trust, per child, owned by the bank. When the promissory note reaches maturity and the bank is unable to “seize” the slave child, a maritime lien is lawfully issued to “salvage” the lost property and is monetized as currency issued in series against the CQV Trust.

3. claim the child’s soul via the Baptismal Certificate. Since 1540 and the creation of the 1st CQV Act, deriving its power from the Papal Bull of Roman Cult leader Pope Paul III, 1540, when a child is baptized and a Baptismal Certificate is issued, the parents have gifted, granted, and conveyed the soul of the baby to a “3rd” CQV Trust owned by Roman Cult, which has held this valuable property in its vaults ever since. Since 1815, this 3rd Crown of the Roman Cult and 3rd CQV Trust representing Ecclesiastical Property has been managed by the BAR as the reconstituted “Galla” responsible, as Grim Reapers, for reaping the souls.

Each Cestui Que Vie Trust, created since 1933, represents one of the 3 Crowns representing the three claims of property of the Roman Cult: Real Property (on Earth), Personal Property (body), and Ecclesiastical Property (soul). Each corresponds exactly to the three forms of law available to the Galla of the BAR Courts: corporate commercial law (judge is the ‘landlord’), maritime and canon law (judge is the banker), and Talmudic law (judge is the priest). What is the real power of a court ‘judge’?

Given what has been revealed about the foundations of Roman Law, what is the real hidden power of a judge when we face court? Is it their superior knowledge of process and procedure or of magic? Or is it something simpler and far more obvious?

It is unfortunate that much of the excitement about Estates and Executors has deliberately not revealed that an Estate, by definition, has to belong to a Trust—to be specific, a Testamentary Trust or CQV Trust.

When we receive legal paper or have to appear in court, it is these same CQV Trusts which have our rights converted into the property contained within them. Instead of being the Trustee, or the Executor, or Administrator, we are merely the Beneficiary of each CQV Trust, granted only beneficial and equitable use of certain property, never legal title. So if the Roman Legal System assumes we are merely the beneficiary of these CQV Trusts, when we go to court, who represents the Trustee and Office of Executor?

We all know that all cases are based upon the judge's discretion which often defies procedures, statutes, and maxims of law. Well, they are doing what any Trustee or Executor, administering a trust in the presence of the beneficiary, can do under Roman Law and all the statutes, maxims, and procedures are really for show because under the principles of Trust Law, as first formed by the Roman Cult, a Trustee has a wide latitude, including the ability to correct any procedural mistakes, by obtaining the implied or tacit consent of the beneficiary, to obviate any mistakes. The judge is the real and legal Name. The judge is the trust, itself. We are the mirror image to them—the ghost—the dead. It is high sorcery, trickery, and subterfuge that has remained “legal” for far too long. Spread the word.

Letters and Views

A letter Sent To The Lord Chief Justice Thomas, Lord Justice Sir Terrance Etherton
The Royal Courts of Justice
London WC2A 2LL

03-11-2016

Ref Britain's exit from the EU

My Lords—, I despair I really do, you are what passes for our most senior judges yet your knowledge of the English Common and Constitutional Law appears to be woefully inadequate to the high offices you hold. I do not wish to teach you to suck eggs. But it appears I must.

Parliament which contrary to common thinking today does not reign supreme that honour falls to Her Most Britannic Majesty Queen Elizabeth the II, CONTRARY to the view expressed by the House of Commons the 1689 Bill of Rights did not transfer Sovereignty from the lawfully anointed King to the House of Commons. And on the 8th March 1784 95 years after the Declaration and Bill of Rights King George III forced a vote in Parliament as to where ultimate Sovereignty lay with him as the lawfully anointed King or with the House of Commons as the elected house. By Parliamentary vote full total and absolute Sovereignty lay with the lawfully anointed King. So today by the Common Law of Kingship and Parliamentary vote not to mention the will of the indigenous people of this island Kingdom Queen Elizabeth II is the supreme governor of this ancient Kingdom. A Queen you are duty bound to support up to and including giving your life in her service.

Our first King to tell a foreigner to get lost was King Alfred who rejected an archbishop sent from Rome. The second was Henry III who repudiated his father's surrender of England to the Pope in 1213. Next came Edward III who according to the greatest jurist of all time Sir Mathew Hale wrote to the Pope roundly in 1366. The most famous was of Course Henry VIII whose row with the Pope is well documented.

Now let us jump backwards to Edward III who in 1351 gave us three pieces of legislation the 1351 Treason Act which by the by you gentleman have broken. The 1351 Act of Proviso's which prevented the disposal of any English assets such as farms to a foreign owner and the 1351 Act of Praemunire which forbad the imposition in his Kingdom of foreign law's, it also forbad his Bishops from excommunicating any of his subjects on the orders of the Pope. And it forbad the extraction from his Kingdom of any of his subjects to be tried in a foreign court.

These things he considered an affront to his honour and dignity as an English King. The Act of Proviso's was repealed in the 1948 Criminal Law Revision Act. The Act of Praemunire was repealed in the 1967 Criminal Law Act. The question we must ask is, is the honour and dignity of Queen Elizabeth II any less than the honour and dignity of Edward III? Well it can't be can it they both held the office of the Crown and the Crown cannot change.

That being the case the selling of our assets and utilities to foreign owners and the imposition of foreign law in this Kingdom are affronts to the honour and dignity of Queen Elizabeth II. Edward III considered and indeed ruled that an affront to his honour and dignity were a person- nel Treason against him as England's King.

Edward Heath set up a conspiracy to subvert our constitution and common law the major crime of sedition and at this level of sedition an act of treason and to hand this Kingdom over to foreign power an act of treason.

The Maastricht Treaty which made the Queen a citizen of Europe a constitutional impossibility was also a contravention of the 1351 Treason Act. The peoples vote to leave the EU was the people returning this Kingdom to the rule of English law and a total repudiation of the treasons committed by Parliament over the last 50 years.

Your ruling goes against the wishes of the people and I have no doubt her Majesty and your action constitutes treasons against her Majesty by continuing the affront to her honour and dignity as Queen of England from which all her other titles supremacies and superiorities flow. I would most respectfully suggest you should without wasting time reconvene your court and reconsider your decision before it is too late.

You should consider the oath from the 1689 Bill of Rights which is still the higher law of England. And I do declare that no foreign prince, person, prelate, state or potentate hath or ought to have any jurisdiction. power, superiority, pre-eminence, or authority ecclesiastical or spiritual within this realm so help me God. This is the ancient law far older than 1689 which has kept this Kingdom free since King Alfred told the Pope to get lost. You breach this at your peril. Respectfully submitted Albert Burgess

Re Brexit

Sir—, Until England and Britain is cleansed of the pestiferous Kazarian verminous filth and the kazarian filth construct, the CROWN, (a foreign military power occupying and governing Britain via Admiralty Constabulary federal police force officers—the CROWN's private army publicly masquerading as Common Law constables—all police force officers are the enemies of the people of England and Britain—all police force officers are waging an unnamed, undeclared war on the people of England and Britain—all police force officers operating in England are war criminals who are committing high treason—and most police force officers are far too stupid to comprehend they are committing high treason every time they enforce on someone, a statute contrary to and violating the Law of the Land) there is no hope for our country—the Kazarian filth have been planning for centuries to make Britain their new 'promised land', the new jewruleshalom—the average Britain is far too dense to divine the cryptic message of the freemason's favourite hymn 'Jerusalem', which masons sing with great enthusiasm at the closing of major Masonic shindigs—and the stupid British believe is a patriotic nationalist British battle hymn—sadly—tragically. Yours Truly, Peter G.

The Vatican And The Rothschilds

Sir—, The Rothschild Family has the Official Title : " Guardians of the Vatican Treasury " , its even in the Encyclopaedia Judeica. Dynasty Founder Mayer Amschel Rothschild was a member of the Knights of Malta, and Today for example Evelyn Rothschild is a VATICAN Knight Grand Cross. So while Powerful they SERVE the 1500 year old Vatican System. Just like David and Nelson Rockefeller who are members of SMOM too. Bill Clinton, Tony Blair George Bush etc. ALL Vatican Knights. Yours Truly, KH.

Dear Teresa—, Please do this Kingdom a great favour and sack all your current advisors on foreign policy before they get us all killed.

Why on earth have you sent warships to watch the Russian fleet sailing down our coast when you can quite easily track them by radar or for the most part standing on a high building on the coast with a good pair of binoculars. The Russians are not our enemy it is not in their interests to start a war no one can win. Particularly as the Chinese have announced they will fight with Russia two major nuclear powers.

What you should have done was sent a ship with an officer of equivalent rank to the Russian Admiral aboard his flagship to invite the Russian fleet into Portsmouth so that you could lay on a civic reception for them to which you were inviting 60 of their officers to meet a corresponding number of our officers for a slap up meal and so that you could meet them, to discuss working with them to destroy ISIS.

Assad is the only ruler in the Middle East who allows Christian Churches, Jewish Synagogue's or Sikh Temples and where members of those faiths are free to worship under the protection of his police. Assad is not the villain your advisors make him out to be.

Obama is a fully paid up Muslim he wants a nuclear world war to knock out the superpowers to allow the Islamic Caliphate to take over the world. The boy David was too stupid to see that or like Gideon to coked up to care so slavishly set us on the road to destruction.

Now I do not know whether you were or are pro EU BUT and it is a big But no one told the electorate the referendum was advisory and could be over turned by Parliament on the grounds they are supreme. Think again the politicians are elected to look after the day to day running of this Kingdom they are not supreme they are subject to the will of her Majesty's subjects who very clearly instructed the boy David to take us out of the EU, being a stupid boy he was not big enough to say sorry to the electorate and take us out so he has taken his pension and cut and run. You replaced him so let me tell you this. This has nothing to do with Parliament or the Queen the people gave a resounding get us out of the EU so do just that. The easiest way is to void the 1972 EEC Act on whose back every other EU treaty has been signed. You void this 72 act on the grounds it was brought about by the lies and deception of the Heath government. Article 50 is an irrelevance so forget it.

Tell the European leaders if they do not want to trade with us that's fine we will buy Australian wines and not French German or Italian wines, we can make or buy our cheeses and our farmers can grow enough food to sustain us our fishermen in our recovered fishing grounds can catch our fish. And we will buy American, Korean or Japanese cars so the only ones they are hurting by putting unreasonable demands on us to trade with them are themselves.

We can rebuild our steel and ship building and aircraft industries so won't need them anyway. The evidence of the Heath lies is in the enclosed CD Rom please read the papers it contains they are all recovered from the public record office government papers from the Heath era.

Birthing Stools

Sir—, In medieval times birthing stools were sat upon by ladies about to give birth/ When the time came they would stand upright, while the midwife was ready to hold her little treasure. This is grab — gravity assisted birth, when mother earth is helping her tiny daughter to give birth in the easiest possible way. Men were not allowed in the birthing chambers. One doctor tried disguised as a woman and paid with his life for his impudence!

All changed when the “Sun King” Louis XIV” wished to see the birth process. The doctor made his mistress lie flat on her bed. This then became common.

Bring back the birthing stools I say - is the world mad? Yours truly, An Ancient Mariner.

Brexit

Sir—, The facts about the legal challenge to Brexit are as follows:

- The legal bid appears to have been initiated by Alex Chesterman, a Jewish businessman.
- The bid was delegated to the law firm Mischon de Reya, founded by a Jewish lawyer, and that has retained a strong synthesis between its work and that of Jewish interests.

- The legal bid has been led by a Jewish lawyer, David Pannick, QC.
- In an effort to obscure the staffing and clientele behind the bid, David Pannick approached the Royal Courts of Justice to obtain masking measures for the bid. This measure was granted by Lord Justice Sir Brian Leveson, also Jewish.
- Finally, the legal bid was accepted by three judges at the High Court, two of whom, Terence Etherton and Philip Sales, are Jewish.

Jews are thought to comprise around 0.5% of the British population, and in light of this statistic the demonstrable prominence of Jews in the legal challenge against Brexit must be seen as nothing less than remarkable. Yours Truly, KH, West Midlands

The Dangers of Vaccination Have Been Long Known From Our Norwich Correspondent

I once believed in Jenner

I once believed in Pasteur

I once believed in Vaccinations

I once believed in Vivisection

But I changed my views as a result of hard thinking.

Dr. Hadwen MD

Anti-Vaccinators have been putting up a brave fight since the smallpox vaccine.

WITH THE DEVELOPMENT of the very first vaccination of smallpox, brave anti-vaccinators fought against the dangerous, ill-advised practice of vaccinations. Those fighting against vaccines included the most intelligent and respected physicians of their time.

This fight has been steadfast and continuous, as anti-vaccinators fought against an unjust, dangerous medical procedure. Vaccinations have always only profited the vaccine makers, not the people targeted for vaccines. Today's anti-vaccination movement, while still in the minority, is most likely the largest we have had in history.

First Anti-Vaccinators

The smallpox vaccine was first developed in 1775, credited to Edward Jenner, who first experimented with an eight year-old boy named James Phipps. Jenner claimed that the procedure of injecting cowpox pus prevented smallpox and he convinced King George that his vaccine would eliminate smallpox. King George awarded Jenner the equivalent of half a million dollars to inoculate the public against smallpox.

After widespread vaccinations, the Smallpox Hospital in London reported a steady, disturbing increase in smallpox cases, rising from 5% to 96% by 1885. Mortality rates from smallpox also rose. The smallpox vaccine caused many diseases including syphilis, tuberculosis and leprosy.

A group of anti-vaccinators fought against the new practice of vaccines, witnessing its devastating effects. Leading medical authorities, including M. Depaul, Chief of the Vaccination Service of the French Academy of Medicine, Dr. A Wilder, Professor of Pathology and former editor of New York Medical Times, and Dr. Maclean, all spoke out against the dangers of the smallpox vaccinations.

These first brave anti-vaccinators knew they were fighting an uphill, impossible battle because money and profits were to be made by this new experimental medical procedure.

Little has changed in the basic fight against vaccines, except today vaccinations are even more entrenched into our medical health care system and psyche. The medical myth of vaccine safety and effectiveness is one of the strongest and most dangerous accepted medical procedures of our time, with huge government investments being made to expand vaccine programs.

Polio Vaccine Continued the Vaccine Myth

The polio vaccine continued the vaccine myth. Individuals receiving the polio vaccination continued to develop polio. Statistical manipulation, after the vaccine creation, changed the diagnosis requirements of polio to show a reduction of disease outbreaks. Improvements in treatment also reduced the number of polio cases reported.

Vaccine graphs show that polio and several other disease outbreaks were reduced in countries prior to the introduction of vaccines. Improvements in sanitation are, in reality, responsible for disease reduction in several countries.

Anti-Vaccinator Charles M. Higgins

In his passionate anti-vaccination petition to the President of the United States, anti-vaccinator Charles M. Higgins requested an end to the practice of compulsory vaccinations for those in the Army and Navy. Higgin's petition was published in 1920. He quoted, "Every law not based on wisdom is a menace to the state."

Higgins argued wisely that compulsory vaccinations were unconstitutional. He shared several quotes from fellow anti-vaccinators of his time:

"This amazing act is the homicidal insanity of a whole profession. This is blood assassination."
– Dr. James J. Garth Wilkinson, 1876

"It is unwise for the physician to force the operation upon those who are unwilling, or to give assurances of absolute harmlessness." – Dr. Osler

"Vaccination is not always a harmless procedure; it must be looked upon as the production of an acute infectious disease." – Dr. Milton J. Rosenau, 1914

"Against the body of a healthy man Parliament has no right of assault whatever, under pretence of the public health.” – Professor F. W. Newman of Oxford

“Vaccination is a delusion, its penal enforcement a crime.” – Professor Alfred Russel Wallace, 1899

In painstaking and extensive detail, Higgins describes multiple cases of soldiers, as well as children, who were perfectly healthy prior to vaccinations, but then suffered severe negative health consequences, including death, following vaccination.

Higgins argued that compulsory vaccinations were not mandated for soldiers serving in England. He discussed how deaths from vaccinations were greater than those from smallpox disease. Higgins argued against the unfair punitive consequence of imprisonment for soldiers who refused vaccinations. He reported that current epidemics of disease were largely caused by vaccinations.

Today’s Growing Anti-Vaccine Movement

The Internet has raised awareness of vaccine dangers and has provided easier access to vaccination facts. This access to important health information is essential, given that most vaccination news presented by mainstream media is one-sided and pro-vaccination in nature. Pharmaceutical companies are major sponsors of advertising, so they exert strong control over news reported.

With the growing numbers of vaccine-damaged people, resulting from an increase in vaccinations, it is probable that the anti-vaccine movement is larger than ever before, although still a minority view.

Physicians are noticing the change in parental views on vaccines. In 2013, 87% of paediatricians reported parents refusing to vaccinate their children in their belief that vaccines were unnecessary, in a report made by a survey of paediatricians, conducted by the American Academy of Paediatricians. This percentage was an increase from a previous survey completed in 2006.

In the growing integrative medicine movement, many truth-seeking physicians and scientists have spoken out against vaccines. These include Andrew Wakefield, MD; Boyd Haley, PhD; Frank Engley, MD; Mayer Eisenstein, MD; Richard Haverson, MD; Bob Sears, MD; Julie Buckley, MD; Chris Shaw, PhD; David Berger, MD; Toni Bark, MD; Ken Stoller, MD; Michael Schachter, MD; Mitchell Fleisher, MD; and Kelly Brogan, MD.

Quotes from Anti-Vaccinators

Many individuals have been anti-vaccine, including some revered and famous independent thinkers. The following inspirational quotes can rally those in our movement.

“Vaccination is a barbarous practice and one of the most fatal of all the delusions current in our time. Conscientious objectors to vaccination should stand alone, if need be, against the whole world, in defence of their conviction.” – Mahatma Gandhi

“I am no longer ‘trying to dig up evidence to prove’ vaccines cause autism. There is already abundant evidence—

This debate is not scientific but is political.” – David Ayoub, MD

“Nothing but the natural ignorance of the public, countenanced by the inoculated erroneousness of the ordinary general medical practitioners, makes such a barbarism as vaccination possible— Recent developments have shown that an inoculation made in the usual general practitioner’s light-hearted way, without previous highly skilled examination of the state of the patient’s blood, is just as likely to be a simple manslaughter as a cure or preventive. But vaccination is nothing short of attempted murder. A skilled bacteriologist would just as soon think of cutting his child’s arm and rubbing the contents of the dustpan into the wound, as vaccinating it in the same.” – George Bernard Shaw

“The fact is that sooner or later, Andrew Wakefield will be exonerated, his theory will be accepted, and a vaccine-autism connection will be proven.” – FE Yazbak, MD, FAAP

How You Can Join the Anti-Vaccine Cause

It is important to continue to read and share stories on alternative health news sites which tell the truth about vaccinations. If you have been damaged by vaccines, it is important to share your own personal story about vaccine damage to those willing to listen with an open mind. Education is power, so continue to learn the truths about vaccine dangers. Educate congressional representatives if you have contacts with those in elected positions. We must all together continue fighting this insidious injustice which is quickly becoming a national health disaster.

Skara Brae And Its Many Mysteries Scotland: The Orkney Islands by Alexis Brett

NESTLED ON A SMALL ISLAND JUST NORTH OF THE SCOTLAND mainland lies an ancient site that is just begging to be explored.

Skara Brae, (a prehistoric village that was built before the Egyptian pyramids), has been listed as one of the “Heart of Neolithic Orkney” World Heritage Sites, and it illustrates a perfect example as to why the Orkney Islands have often been referred to as “The Egypt of the North.”

Because of the many mysteries surrounding both the abandonment and the discovery of Skara Brae, researchers have coined the site as “one of the most remarkable discoveries in modern archaeology” as it contains one of the best preserved Neolithic villages known to mankind. “Skerrabra”

Skara Brae is approximately 5,000 years old and is located about eight miles away from the small town of Stromness on the southern shore of the Bay O’ Skail. Although it was originally thought that the site was a Pictish village, researchers now believe that the settlement was actually an Orcadian village that was inhabited between the years of 3200 and 2200 BC.

Even though it was deserted thousands of years ago, the village still remains in mint condition and to this day researchers still can’t pinpoint exactly why the last inhabitants left; which only adds to the mystery surrounding Skara Brae.

Skara Brae was discovered in 1850 after a severe windstorm “ravaged” the Orkney mainland and uncovered the land that was sheltering the abandoned settlement for thousands of years.

The first person to discover the site was William Watt of Skail, who at the time resided at the Skail House which is located no more than 200 metres away from Skara Brae. (Ironically enough the Skail House is also said to be haunted as there have been reports of people seeing a ghostly figure of a woman wearing a shawl in one of the windows).

The Skail House was built in 1620, and even though the Skail family owned the house for two hundred years before the discovery of the village, none of its former residents had realized just what was sitting in their backyard underneath the piles of sand and dirt.

But it wasn’t until 1925 when another storm revealed even more of the village, and it was at that time when researchers truly realized the treasure that had been literally under their noses the whole time. A sea-wall was then built to protect the newly discovered settlement, and soon after scientists uncovered a village with eight different houses, each of which were linked together by underground passages.

A day in the life of Skara Brae

It is believed that Skara Brae was big enough to hold about 50 to 100 villagers at any given time, and that it was inhabited for approximately 600 years.

Because the village was built into mounds of “pre-existing rubbish” the village sunk underground and protected the village from any unwanted visitors and/or predators. Not only that, because the mounds of hills provided a much needed insulation for the homes, the people were also protected from the infamous Orkney windstorms which could last for days or even weeks at a time.

The walls of the village were built with sandstone slabs and the houses were covered with thatched roofs and possibly whalebones. Each of the houses were also designed identically with a fireplace in the centre as well as two beds, dressers and storage units, and even a small fish-filled bait box made of stone that was built into the floor. The fireplace was used for cooking and heating and the stone beds were filled with bracken and heather for comfort, and they were also covered with animal skins for warmth as well.

The only building that differs from the rest is said to be the “Village Workshop” after numerous tools and stone-made weapons were uncovered when researchers were digging throughout the room. There is also another separate area which is believed to have been used as a modern-day compost as the inhabitants seem to have used it to store garden and waste materials.

Researchers also believe that the original occupants were very skilled in working with bone and stone because they found different items, tools and artefacts that were left behind in the settlement, (like elaborately-decorated pottery, needles, shovels, picks and weapons).

The villagers also used volcanic pumice that could have been washed up on the shore from Iceland to help shape the bone tools and stone balls, and over 2,400 inscribed beads and hundreds of bone necklaces were found in one of the stone cupboards as well. It is believed that many of these objects resembled one’s symbol of status or may even have been used for ritualistic purposes. It is also thought that the dressers which were sitting directly across from the doorway were used to “show off” any prized possessions and/or hunting trophies whenever a visitor entered the home.

Although it is assumed that those who lived within the walls were a part of a tight-knitted community, experts still can’t decide as to whether there was a hierarchy among the villagers or whether the villagers were equal. And even though there hasn’t been a lot of evidence revealing any sort of religion and/or tradition within Skara Brae, researchers have associated the Skara Brae way of life with the traditional Orcadian beliefs in that the worship or ancestors, gods and spirits was more than likely the norm for the community.

After spending a great deal of time studying the surroundings of the settlement, it is also believed that the original inhabitants were farmers who raised cattle and sheep and possibly grew barley and wheat on the fertile land nearby. Their diet consisted of deer, seabird eggs and various other types of seafood like mussels, shellfish, oysters, crab, cod and saithe.

Given the fact that the sky covering the Orkneys remains dark for over half of the year, it is also said that the villagers more than likely used to gather within the homes of Skara Brae around a bonfire and tell stories and sing songs. (And because the village was windowless, the interior of the village researchers also believe that most of the rooms and passageways must have been extremely dark and smoky due to the fact that only one bonfire was placed in the centre of each room.

An abandoned mystery

Because many belongings and artefacts were left behind in the village and stored carefully away in the cupboards, some believe that Skara Brae was abandoned because of an “apocalyptic” event and/or disaster which forced the villagers to flee their home.

However, it is now thought that Skara Brae was abandoned because of coastal erosion as well as changes of the weather, especially because the villagers would have had to have been locked up inside their homes for weeks or even months at a time because of strong winds and storms which now are associated with the Orkney way of life.

Not only that, because Skara Brae is located next to the ocean, it would have been extremely difficult to maintain the village with the salt water splashing across the land and destroying the homes, and scientists now believe that the ocean was once much further away from the village than it currently is today.

So what happened to the inhabitants after they deserted their homes?

The answer is still unclear; however it is known that after Skara Brae was abandoned around 2200 BC and records show that the Vikings didn’t actually settle in the Orkneys until about 787 AD. And because researchers are struggling to determine exactly what happened to Skara Brae’s original inhabitants, it only adds more fuel to the mysterious fire surrounding the ancient village. But thousands upon thousands of tourists are drawn to the Orkneys each year not only to check out the haunting site for themselves, but to also view several other ancient sites scattered around the Orkney mainland as well.

Believe it or not, Skara Brae is just one of many examples of the haunting and mysterious sites on the Orkney mainland. Just five miles away are two stone circles - the Standing Stones of Stenness and the Ring of Brodgar - both of which can be compared to the likes of Stonehenge. (It is believed that the Orcadians at that time used both of the stone to monitor the stars, worship the gods, or perhaps even to mark the gravesites of authoritative figures in the village, but their purpose still remains debatable).

And not just seven miles away from Skara Brae also lies Maeshowe, the ancient tomb which was believed to have been built around 2700 BC. To add mystique to the site, researchers also discovered that sometime in the mid-12th century a group of Vikings entered the tomb and started to tag the walls with graffiti. (Some of the many tags include “Thorni bedded Helgi” and “Ofram the son of Sigurd carved these runes”).

These are just some of the many examples as to why anyone who has a passion for archaeology and history should not only visit Skara Brae, but the other several ancient sites scattered around the Orkney mainland as well.

A Megalith At The Centre Of Brighton From Our Sussex Correspondent

SOME YEARS AGO, WHEN SPENDING A WEEK IN BRIGHTON and taking a short cut to the station through a small alleyway called Zion Gardens, near the Clock Tower, I suddenly came across a megalith standing firmly on the edge of the pavement. It took me completely by surprise, but from my experience in tracking down these stones one gets accustomed to recognising wherever they are.

They belong to the class of what are known as Sarsen Stones, i.e. stones that do not belong or are not indigenous to any particular area. I have never heard of any circles or avenue of stones in the Brighton area, but later when I came to live in Brighton I began to read up the history of the place and discovered that the mound on which stands the Church of St. Nicholas was originally a megalithic centre, crowned with a Bronze Age tumulus (burial ground) and that avenues of stone led up - at any rate - from the south and east; and that what is now Church Street leading directly from the Old Steine marked one of the routes leading to the mound.

Originally Old Steine was the point of confluence of two rivers which flowed from the high ground up by Hollingbury and terminated by way of what is now the London road and Lewes road until reaching the port or entrance to Brightlingstone at the site of the Pool or harbour where Pool Valley now is.

The mound of St. Nicholas, in common with many others of its kind, was the sacred gathering-place for the community. In those days (as I have often stated) the People Who erected this site were well aware of the purpose for which it was brought into being and in their ritual would co-ordinate with the dual forces of nature, the centripetal and centrifugal, the feminine and masculine movements. There is more than an outward reason for styling St. Nicholas Church as the mother church of Brighton, for not only has it always been so but it is the parish church of the town and not St. Peter's, which has been wrongly so called and really belongs to Preston. So now we take up the story where it comes into line with my partner's psychometric interpretation as given on the spot on a later visit.

It must be borne in mind that Miss Campbell knew nothing whatsoever about the site or my findings before going there. I had, of course, told her nothing about the place prior to visiting it and we entered the churchyard just as we might if visiting any other place. This is the interpretation which she gave me:

"This was formerly a sun-worship site, but I do not so far pick up any great ritual. I feel that this was a magnetic centre to which people were drawn, and as they performed their simple act of worship to the sun as solar deity and felt the warmth of His Being within themselves, so they came to feel one with the Solar Being and to recognise His Absoluteness.

Nevertheless, the ritual was very simple and through their understanding of the earth and the sun being dependant, the one on the other, they felt this unity within themselves, therefore the cosmic rays (from the sun) passed through them without obstruction and were earthed once more. In conjunction with the earth powers which had become cold and bereft of their heavenly inspiration the dormant powers within the Earth began once more to respond to the quickening rays of the Sun.

At this centre of St. Nicholas a great deal of thought was expended. The fact that there has always been a place of worship here shows that the Great Ones have never lost control of the planetary body and have always been able to earth at least some of the greatness through the ones who worshipped here.

A Retired Professor Thinks He's Found The Location Of King Arthur's Camelot

From Our German Correspondent

A RETIRED PROFESSOR FROM THE UK says he might have pinpointed the location of Camelot, the legendary castle where stories claim that King Arthur held court some 1,400 years ago - if he actually existed.

According to Arthurian literature expert Peter Field, Camelot used to stand at the site of an ancient Roman fort called Camulodunum in Slack, West Yorkshire in the UK, which would have been an ideal spot in 500 AD, when King Arthur is argued to have existed as a real-life military expert tasked with defending England from invaders.

"It was quite by chance. I was looking at some maps, and suddenly all the ducks lined up," Field, who taught at Bangor University in the UK from 1964 to 2004, told the BBC.

"I believe I may have solved a 1,400 year old mystery."

Field presented his findings during the official launch of Bangor University's Stephen Colclough centre for the history and culture of the book last week.

His hypothesis is yet to be peer-reviewed, so to be clear, a whole lot more research needs to be done before we can read too much into it.

It's also important to note that, despite more than 1,000 years of research, historians and archaeologists have been unable to confirm if King Arthur and Camelot existed outside of the legends at all.

As Bec Crew explained for us earlier this year:

"Despite the fact that the mythological figure has been wildly popular for centuries, no one's actually been able to prove he existed. But what makes Arthur so intriguing is the way we can tie certain historical places and events to him."

But if we take a big leap and assume Camelot did exist, where was it?

Previous research has suggested that it could have been in places like Caerleon in South Wales or Cadbury Castle in England. But so far, there's not been enough archaeological evidence to tie any physical place to the legend.

So Field did additional research based on the historical forts of the time and compared them to the legend of King Arthur. He says the site that best fits Camelot was the modern-day village of Slack.

Looking at Slack today, you'd be hard-pressed to find a reason why someone would want to build a stronghold in what looks to be a mere clearing, but Field says the location was once of great military importance.

Back in 500 AD, Celtic-speaking Britons held back Anglo-Saxon invaders who flooded into the country from the north and west coasts.

It turns out that Slack, which is seemingly in the middle of nowhere, could have been the ideal spot to set up camp to quickly funnel troops to either coast to defend the nation. Its middle-of-nowhere-ness, it turns out, was important.

Here's where it is on a map:

Google Maps

To add to Field's hypothesis, in Roman times, the fort at Slack was thought to be named Camulodunum, which researchers think might have changed linguistically over the years to become Camelot.

And that could explain why the first mention of Camelot only surfaced in literature many years after King Arthur's suspected rule.

"If there was a real King Arthur, he will have lived around [500 AD], although the first mention of him in Camelot is in a French poem from the Champagne region of France from 1180 [AD]," said Field.

"There is no mention of Camelot in the period between those dates, known as the Dark Ages, when the country was at war, and very little was recorded. In this gap, people passed on information, much got lost in transmission, and people may have made up facts or just messed up known information."

Without some type of physical proof in the form of archaeological remains, we won't be able to confirm if Field is onto something here. But he's not the only researcher seeking out the legendary artefacts.

Earlier this year, a team of British archaeologists uncovered a series of massive walls that appear to be from the Dark Ages at a location thought to be tied to the Arthurian legend.

The researchers suggested that these walls were once part of the palace where King Arthur was born, and they're currently excavating the site to uncover more details.

But while it's fun to think that the King Arthur of legend - who had a roundtable and hung out with a wizard named Merlin - did actually exist, some experts claim that the Arthurian legend might actually be a hodgepodge of different British rulers coming together into a single, unified story.

So far, Field - who's been researching Slack for the past 18 months - hasn't mentioned taking his idea further into a physical dig at the site.

But hopefully, his hypothesis will prompt further archaeological study at this site or others like it, so we can finally get some real clues into the enduring mystery of King Arthur, or the real-life kings who inspired the legend.

Manuka Honey Kills More Bacteria Than All Available Antibiotics - From The Tap Blog

NOT ALL HONEY IS CREATED EQUAL. While the benefits of raw, unprocessed honey have been well-documented over the centuries, Australian researchers have found one type of honey, called Manuka honey, to be better than all known antibiotics.

Manuka honey is produced by bees that forage on the nectar of Leptospermum Scoparium, or

New Zealand's Manuka bush, as well as tea trees, native to Australia and New Zealand only. This remarkable type of honey not only effectively kills bacteria, but none of the bugs killed by it have been able to build up immunity. In a world where many of the last resort antibiotics are failing against antibiotic-resistant super-bugs, Manuka honey may hold the key to fighting resistance issues, saving thousands of lives worldwide.

Manuka honey fights superbugs

Dr. Dee Carter from the University of Sydney's School of Molecular and Microbial Biosciences noted that antibiotics not only have short shelf lives, but the bacteria they attack quickly become resistant as well, making them useless over time. The report, published in the European Journal of Clinical Microbiology and Infectious Diseases, claimed that Manuka honey killed almost every bacteria and pathogen it was tested on. Unlike all antibiotics available on today's market, none of the bugs tested were able to survive the honey treatment.

According to Dr. Carter, there are particular compounds, like methylglyoxal, in the Manuka honey that cause multi-system failure in the bacteria, killing them before they are able to adapt and build up immunity.

What Manuka honey can do for you

Manuka's biological properties range from antioxidant, anti-inflammatory, antibacterial, antiviral, antibiotic and wound healing, to immune-stimulatory. However, what separates Manuka honey from the rest is that its antibacterial powers challenge even the toughest superbugs, such as the life threatening methicillin resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA).

Manuka honey is marketed for cancer treatment and prevention, high cholesterol, chronic inflammation, diabetes, the treatment of gastrointestinal problems, and eye, ear and sinus infections. However, it might be most useful in treating skin wounds and leg ulcers.

According to one study, published in the scientific journal Peer J, chronic wounds are becoming a major global health problem, due to antibiotic resistance issues. They are costly and difficult to treat, and bacterial bio-films are important contributors to the delay in healing. There is an urgent need for new, effective agents in topical wound care, and honey has shown some great potential in this regard.

For their study, researchers reviewed Manuka honey in particular as an alternative treatment for wounds because of its broad-spectrum antibacterial activity and the inability of bacteria to develop resistance to it. Their study indicated that honey might prevent bacterial bio-films and eliminate established bio-films. Furthermore, they reported that Manuka honey could successfully be used to kill all MSSA and MRSA bio-films in a chronic wound, supporting the use of this type of honey as an effective topical treatment for chronic wound infections.

In recent years, word of the biological benefits of Manuka honey has spread to every corner of the world, turning it into one of the most popular super-foods out there. Its fame and the over-demand, however, have caused shortages, resulting in fake, usually cheaper, products to enter the market. So, if you are going to spend your money on honey to reap its benefits, make sure you are buying the real thing.
